27 British Troops Killed, 33 Injured In Triple Blast

Stern Gang Admits Setting Several Mines Under Train

Jerusalem, March 1 (AP)—The Stern gang said today it set the triple blast which wrecked three railroad sleepers yesterday, killing 27 British troops and injuring 33.

"This is our answer for last Sunday's Ben Yehuda Street crime," the Jewish underground group declared. It referred to the Jerusalem bombing which killed 54 Jews Feb. 22.

The British mandate government told the Jews that continuation of "murder and condoned terrorism can only lead to forfeiture by the community of all rights in the eyes of the world to be numbered among civilized people."

The statement accused the Jewish agency of excusing itself of responsibility for terrorist acts such as yesterday's train bombing through "calculated innuendoes, falsehoods and propaganda."

The Jewish agency, the representative of the Jewish people in all matters pertaining to the building of a Jewish national home, has asserted earlier in a statement that it "abhors incidents such as yesterday's train bombing."

Hagana, Jewish militia, said it had "unconfirmed reports" that British troops had arrested 24 Jews at Mikve Israel, near Tel Aviv, last night and had "turned them over to an Arab mob as retaliation" for the train wreck.

A police source in Jerusalem said it had reports the 24 Jews were taken by soldiers from a spirits factory at Mikve Israel and released in all-Arab Jaffa.

Lt.-Gen. G. H. A. MacMillan, commander of British forces in Palestine, said three mines shattered the wooden troop cars near Rehovot, 15 miles southwest of Tel Aviv. They were jammed with soldiers returning from leave in Cairo. A fourth mine failed to go off. Had it exploded, MacMillan said, the toll might have been 50 or more.

Sappers who dismantled the dud said it contained 100 pounds of explosive and was connected by a 40-yard wire to an electric plunger.

Fourth Attack on Express

The three sleepers were 15 milets southeast of Tel Aviv when they were blown up. The blast ripped the tracks and hurled pieces of wreckage into nearby orange trees. It was the fourth attack on the Cairo express.

The explosion climaxed a day of scattered violence in the Holy Land.

Jewish informants in Tel Aviv said six Jews were killed when a Hagana reconnaissance patrol was ambushed in the town of Salama near Tel Aviv. British police recovered the bodies.

Eight Jews, reported to be Sternist, robbed the Jerusalem municipality office of £800 ($3,200).

In Haifa, 800 Jews were taken from the illegal ship, builders and fighters, which the Royal Navy intercepted Saturday night, and shipped to Cyprus aboard a British transport.

Most of the passengers were said to be from Romania, Bulgaria and Poland.

Two Jews were shot aboard a bus in a convoy attack by Arabs in the Judean hills. Two others were slain by snippers in Jerusalem, police said.

Sunday's communal fighting and sabotage throughout the Holy Land claimed 67 lives all told.

Two Arabs and two Jews were shot fatally during the night in various incidents.

A Jewish agency source said the agency was planning a protest to the Palestine government against the alleged disarming of the Jews at Mikve Israel yesterday and their reported surrender to the Arabs. Eleven Jews were reported slain by the Arabs. Police said, however, that the Jews' guns had been returned to them.

HYDRO AFFAIRS DOMINANT ISSUE OF NEW SESSION

Power Shortage Which Brought Cutoffs May Stir Discussion

Toronto, March 1 (CP) — The fourth session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature opens Wednesday with the prospect that the affairs of the province's vast publicly-owned Hydro-Electric System will be a dominant issue.

Premier Drew, whose Progressive Conservative Party has 66 members in the 90-seat House, already has announced that his government will recommend to the Legislature adoption of a frequency standardization program for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission which generates the power used in most Ontario municipalities.

At present the 42-year-old half-billion dollar utility delivers 25-cycle power to the busy industrial and farming areas of Central and Southwestern Ontario and 60-cycle power elsewhere. The government's recommendation is for standard 60-cycle frequency. Gross cost of conversion—which, among other things, would end flickering lights blamed on 25-cycle frequency — is estimated at $191,000,000.

So far there has been no indication from any of the opposing parties in the House as to their attitude toward standardization. The Liberals hold 11 seats in the House, the C.C.F. eight, Liberal-Labor (supporting the Liberals) two, Labor-Progressive two and Labor one.

Blamed on Govt.

The power shortage, which has brought cutoffs of supply in Toronto and other cities, may stir discussion. In pre-session speeches, Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader, has blamed the shortage on Drew government policies and the Premier, in turn, held the former Liberal administration responsible.

Labor Minister Daley has forecast legislation to apply the pending Dominion Labor code to all industry in Ontario. It is considered possible that the bill may not come before the Legislature until the Federal House acts on its bill.

A new member, Thomas Pryde, Progressive Conservative from Huron riding in Western Ontario, takes his seat for the first time at this session. He held the seat for the government in a by-election Feb. 16, called to fill the vacancy left by the death last December of Dr. R. Hobbs Taylor, first elected in 1943.

The by-election result served to dispel rumors that a general election might be called in the province this year. The government's five-year term in office does not expire until 1950 and observers now think it unlikely there will be any early appeal to the country—barring, of course, some unexpected development.

DIES OF HEART WOUNDS

Phoenixville, Pa., March 1 — (AP) — Walter Wood, 24, died in Phoenixville hospital yesterday, 8 days after doctors had put 150 stitches in his bullet - punctured heart, lung and stomach. Wood suffered an acute dilation of the heart shortly before he died.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—Synopsis: Clear crisp air covers most of Ontario this morning. Although March has come in like a lamb, Tuesday's weather over southern sections is expected to be more representative of the lion. Snow over most of the province changing to freezing rain and then rain throughout the southern sections is expected on Tuesday.

FOUR DROWNED, TWO MISSING, CAR PLUNGES IN CANAL

Passengers Returning From Gay Tavern Party

Port Colborne, March 1. (CP)—Two men and two women are dead and another man and woman are missing today after the automobile in which they were returning from a gay tavern party made a wrong turn late Saturday and plunged into the Welland ship canal.

All four dead were drowned. Their bodies were recovered Sunday when the car was hoisted from the bottom of a 15-foot deep canal weir at Humberstone, a mile north of here.

Dead are:

William D. Rogers, 45, of Welland, owner and driver of the car.

Arthur Morningstar, 38, Rogers' nephew, of nearby Crowland.

Frances Garner, 36, of Welland.

Mrs. Melvin Keeler, 38, Miss Garner's sister, of Crowland.

Missing are Mrs. Harry Rivett, about 38, mother of nine children of Crowland, and James Hart of Welland.

An eyewitness account of the tragedy was given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKay, residents of a dead-end street leading to the weir.

They saw the car turn into the street and speed toward the canal shortly after midnight. There was a blinding flash of light as the car hit a guy wire on the canal bank. The wire flew up and short-circuited a hydro connection. Then the car splashed into the water and sank.

For a time both firemen and police who were called by the McKays could see the car's lights still burning under the murky, frigid water. Its roof was torn off.

After the bodies were removed, police checked a report that Hart and Mrs. Rivett also were members of the party being driven home in the car.

Mrs. Rivett and Mr. Hart did not appear at their homes in Crowland and Welland, respectively, today, and police feared they were in the ill-fated automobile. It is believed their bodies might have escaped from the vehicle and floated away in a strong current.

Double funerals will be held in Welland for victims of the tragedy. Services for Mrs. Violet Keeler and Frances Garner will be held Wednesday. Joint services for Arthur Morningstar and William Rogers will be conducted Thursday.

Orderly Liquidation Of Ferry Fleet

Seattle, March 1 — (AP) —One of the world's largest ferry fleets closed down passenger operations today, leaving an estimated 100,000 persons with only emergency transportation.

Capt. Alex M. Peabody, president of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, said: "We're going to start the orderly liquidation of the company at once. The ferries will not run today."

The shutdown was ordered by Peabody after the State Department of Transportation cut a 30-per-cent temporary rate increase to 10 per cent above the rate charged Feb. 15, 1947. He said the company could not operate at a profit with the lower rate.

The 16 vessels halted operations shortly after midnight.

Improvement in Employment 'Marked' in Next Few Weeks Says Labor Minister Mitchell

Ottawa, March 1 (CP)—Nearly 200,000 Canadians were looking for jobs in mid-February but "marked improvement" in the employment picture may be expected within the next few weeks, Labor Minister Mitchell said today.

Issuing his monthly statement on manpower, the Minister said the peak in seasonal unemployment had been reached with 198,000 unplaced applicants registered with the National Employment Service at Feb. 12. The figure was 2,000 above the total at the same time last year, in contrast to the situation over the last 12 months when "applicants have consistently been below the previous year's level."

February's Usual Decline

Mr. Mitchell said February had seen the usual seasonal slump in employment aggravated by temporary factors, such as gas and power shortages and shortages of supply in several industries.

This combination of circumstances jumped the unplaced applicants from 166,000 in mid-January to 198,000 in mid-February. Of the new 32,000, some 24,000 were men and 8,000 women.

Unfilled vacancies went from 36,000 to 33,000 in the same period the latter figure including 17,000 for men and 16,000 for women.

In the Maritimes, there were 25,000 unplaced applicants and 2,000 unfilled vacancies Feb. 12. Although the total looking for work was 3,000 less than the same time last year, the situation "is not bright and there is little prospect of improvement until spring."

In Quebec there were 56,000 unplaced applicants and 10,000 unfilled vacancies.

In Ontario, there were 54,000 applicants and 15,000 vacancies. Cold weather and gas and power shortages caused many plant shutdowns. However, signs of increased production were evident particularly in iron and steel. Forecasts indicate even greater expansion than the record 1947 levels in many manufacturing industries. Labor demand was light in logging, agriculture and mining for seasonal reasons. A record building program was indicated for 1948.

Unplaced applicants and unfilled vacancies (in brackets) in National Employment Service offices at Feb. 12 were:

Halifax, 3,280, (491); Montreal 17,503, (5,345); Hamilton, 3,925 (1,152); London 1,523 (738); Oshawa 1,666, (152); Ottawa 3,918, (566); St. Catharines 1,698 (140); Toronto 12,331, (6,997); Windsor 5,041 (120).

AviationExpertsRequest Congress to Make U.S. 'Supreme in the Air'

Washington, March 1 — (AP)—Congress heard a call from its own aviation experts today to make the United States supreme in the air because the political and industrial phases of "the next war" have already begun.

"Civilization stands vulnerable to annihilation," the 10-member Congressional Aviation Policy Board declared.

The six Republicans and four Democrats who reported on a seven-month study said the United States needs 35,000 fighting planes and must be ready to spend nearly $10,000,000,000 a year to make air power the "dominating factor in mainting world peace."

"To defend ourselves in the age of atomic bombs, of radioactive dust, of bacteriological contamination and guided missiles — to mention some of the new and terrible weapons — we must have air power that is supreme," they said.

"It is folly to pretend that the world does not live under a sense if impending tragedy. Deliberately and continuously we are faced with the possibility of aggressive attack . . .

"The political phase of the next war has been actively engaged in since VE-Day — and the industrial phase is clearly recognizable."

The best answer would be a "Magna Carta of world defence" written in the United Nations, to whose inspectors modern weapons could be surrendered. However, because it is "tragic but true" that no such answer is in prospect, the policy board said these first steps must be taken:

1. Immediate action to resolve the conflict that is delaying unified military plan.

2. Build toward a 70-group air force with 20, 541 planes and a naval air arm with 14,500 planes — about double the present total.

3. Give top research priority to applying atomic power to aircraft.

4. Develop a federal airways system with ultra-modern equipment for all-weather, large-volume flying to serve both civil and military needs.

Those are the main proposals among 92 recommendations in the 54-page report. Some of the steps may be put before Congress soon in the form of legislation.

Senator Owen Brewster (Rep.-Me.) was chairman of the board and Representative Carl Hinshaw (Rep.-Calif.) was vice-chairman. Their report generally agrees with a similar study completed seven weeks ago by President Truman's air policy commission.

Twisting of British Lion's Tail Causes Debate on Problems of Defence

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 1. (CP)—Members of the House of Commons, concerned over European political developments and irritated by South American claims to British possessions, will debate problems of defence today with the knowledge that most of Britain's swords have become plowshares.

Total strength of the armed forces in wartime rose to nearly 5,000,000. But by March 31, the Royal Navy strength will be down 145,000, the Army to 534,000 and the Air Force to 261,000—a total of 940,000.

Under further reductions planned by the government, the total on March 31, 1949 will be 716,000.

The current economy campaign leaves the once-mighty navy at the moment without an operational battleship, fleet carrier or escort carrier. An operational ship is one prepared to serve at any time as an active unit.

The far flung duties of the fleet are at present conducted by two light fleet carriers, 10 cruisers, 18 destroyers, 26 frigates and 26 submarines and smaller vessels.

Research and development receive the highest priority in programs for the three services and navy ships now in reserve are being modernized and re-equipped.

The Conservative opposition will move an amendment to the defence budget expressing concern "at the apparent absence of comprehensive measures fon a co-ordinated and up-to-date system of national and imperial defence."

In reply, the government is expected to argue that the current forces are sufficient to protect the United Kingdom and all lines of communication. The government, however, will face suggestions that relations of Britain's reduced strength help little when Argentina and Chile lay claim to Falkland Islands territory which has been considered British for a century, and the security of the British Honduras may be threatened by Guatemala.

Defence Minister Alexander Assails British Reds

London, March 1. (Reuters)—Defence Minister A. V. Alexander said today that British Communists want Britain and other freedom-loving countries to "deprive themselves of the means of defence against foes without and within while the Soviet Union maintains large forces with which to work its will throughout the world."

Opening a debate in the Commons on Britain's defence policy, he commented on a Communist amendment to a government motion asking for approval of its policy.

The amendment pressed for an immediate reduction of Britain's forces to 500,000 because of the serious economic crisis and the shortage of manpower.

Alexander described the argument as "specious".

MORNING PAPER IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, March 1 (CP)—Winnipeg's third daily newspaper, a morning publication, The Citizen, made its initial appearance in the city today, the masthead carrying the slogan, "owned and controlled by its readers."

The publisher and general manager is J. F. Sweeney formerly of the Regina Leader-Post, W. H. Metcalfe is managing editor, G. E. Leighton and H. W. Patterson associate editors and Paul Molloy news editor.

Today's inaugural edition, which was sold out shortly after news boys heralded its appearance on the street, contained 20 pages.

All Motorists Liable in Case Of Accidents

Victoria, March 1 (CP)—British Columbia's new motor vehicles insurance law becomes effective today, making all motorists liable in accidents causing death, injury or property damage.

It is estimated the law will mean the carrying of personal liability and property damage insurance by 90 to 92 per cent of the 190,000 drivers in B.C. as compared with 50 to 55 per cent in recent years.

The onus is on the motorist. He can carry insurance—a three-point plan giving protection up to $11,000 — or deposit bonds with the superintendent of motor vehicles here.

The "no-insurance-man" can take his chances. If he is in an accident, his car will be impounded until judgment is satisfied and proof of financial responsibility furnished. Impounding charges will be paid by the owner.

200 R. R. Passengers Escape Injury

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—About 200 passengers of a Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-Ottawa flyer escaped injury yesterday when the train held the track after plowing into a highway grader at Locust Hill, east of here. Sections of the grader were thrown through the air and tore down a telephone pole and switchstand several hundred feet away. Police said the grader stalled on the track when the blade of the plow caught on the track. The train was delayed more than two and a half hours while repairs were made to the engine.

LONDON PAPERS DEMAND END TO RUSS EXPANSION

Offer Suggestions On Methods to Use

London, March 1. (AP)—London's morning newspapers almost unanimously called today for action now to stop Russian expansion.

Strikingly similar editorials appeared in newspapers of both the Right and moderate Left.

The Conservative Daily Graphic said:

"The United States should tell Russia, explicitly and forcibly, that if she moves another mile forward in Europe, then atom bombs will rain on the Soviet Union."

The Daily Herald, Labor, headlined its leading editorial; "Peace or war?"

"The Soviet policy is sinister," it declared, "and the western peoples would be reckless if they ignored its implications. But we would add this: the western democracies should not be content with closing their ranks in the anticipation of conflict. They should simultaneously make a renewed effort to enlist Russian co-operation in the world-wide partnership which was planned in the San Francisco charter."

The Conservative Daily Mail urged speed in organizing the European recovery program and economic and military pacts with the United States.

Editor of Times In London Dies

Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika, March 1 (CP)—Robert McGowan Barrington-Ward, 57 year old editor of the Times of London, died Sunday while en route home from a vacation in Kenya. Barrington-Ward who died aboard the liner Llangibby Castle, was buried later in the day. He was a member of a talented Cornwall family. One brother was a King's Counsel, another a British railways executive and two were distinguished students.

The Times editor was graduated with honors from Oxford and studied law at Lincoln's Inn. During that period he served for a year as editorial secretary on the Times staff.

He worked eight years on the staff of the London Observer under the editorship of the late J. L. Garvin before rejoining the Times in 1927 as an assistant to editor Geoffrey Dawson.

He became deputy editor in 1934 and was credited with a large share in shaping the policy of the newspaper.

He succeeded Dawson in 1941 and was generally considered one of the worthiest men ever to occupy the senior editorial chair in Fleet Street.

In London, the Times reported his death: "We announce with the deepest regret . . ." A phrase reserved for the deaths of the most distinguished persons.

The Times added: "No editor in a long line has given to his work greater integrity and honesty of purpose." No mention was made of a successor.

BURGLARS GET TWO PIGGY BANKS

Detroit, March 1 (CP) —Burglars who thought Giles Kavanaugh, the man who collects millions of dollars in local income taxes, should be a soft touch, got nothing but two piggy banks containing about eight dollars, the collector of internal revenue said today.

Kavanaugh, whose homes has been robbed three times in as many years pointed out for the benefit of future thieves that income tax receipts go straight to the bank. He keeps nothing but small change at home.

Head of Nazi Women Arrested, Hitler's Associate Long Thought Dead

Frankfurt, March 1 (AP)—Arrest of Frau Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, 46, head of the women's branch of the Nazi party throughout the war, was announced today by agents of the United States Army. She was long thought to be dead.

She was apprehended near Tuegingen, in the French zone, yesterday on a secret tip. With her was a one-time aide of Heinrich Himmler/ S. S. (Elite Guard) Col. August Heissmeyer, to whom Frau Scholtz-Klink was married in 1940. He also was arrested.

The agents said Heissmeyer was carrying a poison vial but made no effort to use it.

Frau Scholtz-Klink who was reported to have taken her own life at Konstanz in April, 1945, was wanted by the United Nations War Crimes Commission.

She was known for her exhortations echoing those of Adolf Hitler to German women to bear many children, the agents said. In 1940, when she married Heissmeyer, she had four children. Heissmeyer at that time had six.

Officials said she was regarded as a close associate of Hitler and was director of women's party work, for 12 years, until the end of the war.

Finland's President Reported To Favor Signing Treaty

Discussions Begin Within Govt. on Stalin's Proposal

Helsinki, March 1 (AP)—President Juho Paasikivi opened discussions within the Finish government today on Prime Minister Stalin's proposal for a Finnish-Russian treaty of friendship and mutual aid.

Paasikivi conferred at the Presidential palace for 3½ hours with Premier Mauno Peekala, Foreign Minister Carl Enckell, Vice-Foreign Minister Reinhold Svento and Lt.-Gen. Aaene Sihvo, Commander in Chief of the Finnish army.

President Juho Paasikivi, it was learned, will be told Wednesday of the final decisions of major political parties on the deal which is expected to be submitted to parliament. The government's official statement on the subject is not expected before Wednesday night.

Well-informed sources said the President is in favor of signing such a treaty. During the weekend he received K. L. Kulo, head of the pro-Moscow Socialist Unity Party.

The executive committee of the Popular Democrats, a bloc of the Communists and the Socialist Unity Party, is to discuss the proposal later today. Premier Mauno Pekkala is to attend.

Press and radio here published yesterday the text of Stalin's letter to Paasikivi, dated eb. Feb. 22 and closing, "with deep respect.' The letter proposed negotiations in Moscow or Helsinki toward a "pact of friendship, co-operation and mutual assistance" against "possible German aggression."

Well-informed sources said that now the letter is published, getting the pact has become a point of prestige for the Soviet Union. They said they believe President Paasikivi feels this way:

More Favorable Conditions

To turn down the Soviet bid would aggravate Russian-Finnish relations to a dangerous degree. To accept it could mean Finland might get as favorable conditions as possible toward keeping National independence.

(K. A. Fagerholm, Social Democratic —speaker of the Finnish parliament, said in Stockholm last night, "we do not want to see. . . events of the kind now occurring in some other countries who have closed agreements with the Soviet Union."

("A change in the government is conceivable, however, as a consequence of what has happened."

(He and other Finnish leaders are visiting Sweden for a "Finland's week" celebration planned by Swedish welfare groups.")

Helsinki opinion generally is that negotiations with Russia are unavoidable and probably will take place here.

Political circles noted that Paasikivi, 78, and fluent in Russian, has Stalin's confidence because of peace talks in Moscow in 1941 and 1944.

OUTFIT FOR LAST LAP OF SURVEY

Ottawa, March 1 (CP)—A 10-man party at Churchill, Man., is assembling and outfitting for the last lap of a 360-mile survey begun —last year of the Seal River district, about 60 miles north of Churchill, army headquarters announced today.

The party, consisting of eight soldiers and two civilians, is under command of Maj. J. I. Thompson of Ottawa.

Although the area has been covered by air photographers, the engineers must cover every inch of a route surrounding this territory with transit and tape traverse in order to produce accurate maps. Since the country is virtually impassable in the summer, the work bust be carried out before the spring break-up early in May.

BROAD PROMISES MADE TO FARMERS BY NEW CABINET

Premier Gottwald Says 120 Acres Will be Given to Each Farmer

Prague, March 1 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's new Communist-backed cabinet, whose leaders already have made broad promises to farmers and workers, will hold its first meeting tomorrow.

Some foreign correspondents were invited to meet this afternoon with the new cabinet members.

Vlado Clementis, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told a Communist youth audience yesterday the foreign press "has started a campaign against us." He said it was the worst since that of Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's Propaganda Minister.

Communist Premier Klement Gottwald, addressing a farmers' rally, promised up to 120 acres for each of those working the land. He urged the output of more food to help workers fulfill an industrial two-year plan.

Julius Duris, Minister of Agriculture, laid down a broad farm aid program of land, loans and subsidies to be accomplished by Independence Day, Oct. 28.

The Communist-controlled government radio had predicted Saturday that 130,000 farmers would take part in the rally. Less than a quarter of that number did.

Rude Pravo, Prague Communist newspaper, printed Gottwald's statement that the Communist Party, in a drive for more members, had raised its goal from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000.

Most officials were pledging legislation for farmers and workers before the election. They did not say when the election would be.

45 Narrowly Escape in Crash Into Milk Plant

Hawkesbury, Ont., March 1 — (CP)—About 45 persons aboard an Ottawa bound Colonial Coach Lines bus narrowly escaped serious injury last night when the vehicle careened off the highway and crashed into the town's pasteurization plant.

The bus smashed through a cinder block wall of the dairy operated by Olivier Charbonneau and finally halted three feet from the rear wall, beyond which was the Ottawa River, 50 feet below. The building, only pasteurization plant in this town 50 miles east of Ottawa, was destroyed.

Icy condition of the highway was believed responsible for the accident.

QUAKE RECORDED

Weston, Mass., March 1 —(AP) —A strong earthquake in the vicinity of Philippine Islands was recorded last night at the Boston College seismograph station here.

Rev. Daniel Linehan, S.J., said the 'quake started at 8:31 p.m., EST and lasted about three hours.

He placed its centre 8,760 miles from here — somewhere south of the Philippines.

The Rotary Club will hold its annual summer regatta on Wednesday, July 21st, this year, according to an announcement of the Regatta Committee of the club. The annual Picton Regatta is scheduled for Civic Holiday.

TRIP NEVER OVER UNTIL MOTOR CAR IS IN GARAGE

Sports contests are not over until the final whistle blows, or the last man is out—and by the same token a man is not at home until he has the car put away safely in the family garage.

At least so a prominent East Bridge Street resident found out over the weekend.

Battling heavy snowdrifts and blizzard-like weather over the weekend, he safely negotiated the trip from Toronto to his home. He breathed a sigh of relief as he drove slowly towards his home—and then it happened.

His car, as he turned into his driveway, plunged into a four-foot bank of snow, and stuck there. It was some hours later before a tired, but irate citizen finally made his way indoors. He has spent nearly as much time, driving from the sidewalk to his garage as he did from Toronto to Belleville.

OFFICE ENTERED DURING WEEKEND

The Front Street office of the U. E.-C. I. O. was broken into some time during the weekend, local police were informed this morning. The break-in was reported by Mr. Hamblin who found the premises broken into when he opened the office this morning. It was not stated if anything was taken.

ADDRESS CORRECTED

In the announcement of the winner in the Business Directory Contest on Saturday, Mr. G. L. Johnson's address incorrectly appeared as 298 Coleman Street. The address should have been 164 Front Street.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Customs returns at Belleville for the month of February were $888,922.70, it was announced today by customs collector Lt. Col. E. A. Geen. Returns for the same period in 1947 were $670,399.42.

March Makes Lamb-Like Entry

March made a lamb like entry today with clear, sunny weather, contrasting with the stormy ending of February.

Dame Nature rolled out an unwanted carpet of snow for the new —month during Saturday's 15 1-2-inch snowfall. Traffic was hampered by winds which piled the snow into deep drifts. The recent mild spell also ended with the temperature dropping to 11 degrees below zero over Sunday night.

A sure indication that spring was on the way, one resident of the city, 183 Dundas Street, reports that she had Irises sprouting up in her garden prior to Saturday's snowfall.

Canadian Business Voices Support Children's Fund

C. Bruce Hill, President of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, issued a statement today voicing support of business for the Canadian Appeal for Children Campaign, currently being conducted under the aegis of the Department of External Affairs.

"The children of Europe hold our every hope for future peace," Mr. Hill declared. "I think I may say on behalf of Canadian business men that we support wholeheartedly the campaign to bring aid to these unfortunate children. We must be sure that the human life and treasure which was expended in the war in the defence of democracy is not lost. The future peace of the world demands that these people be given an education in the democratic tradition, and we must see that they get it."

Cannot Stand Idle

Mr. Hill warned of the danger in approaching this problem in a purely political sense. "While we know the international political effect of timely aid to Europe's children, it must never be forgotten that we help one another out of the great Christian principle of charity," he said. "I know that the members of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in almost 500 communities across Canada, will approach the plight of these children in this way—no father of a family can stand idly by and watch the suffering of these little ones!"

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the drive for funds here under the chairmanship of Director Arthur Bateman. Those who are desirous of contributing to this humanitarian cause should leave their donations at branches of chartered banks here, or send them direct to Mr. Bateman, at Bateman Motors.

Three Dangerous Intersections Charted by Police

Dundas Street West, Pinnacle Street and Station Street, are the three most dangerous thoroughfares in the city from the standpoint of motor accidents it is revealed by a special chart being kept at the local police station.

The map, a large scale drawing containing all city streets and intersections, has colored pins inserted to show the approximate spot where each accident occurs. Green pins are for accidents with property damage of less than $50; blue pins are for accidents with property damage amounting to more than $50 and yellow pins are for accidents in which there was personal injury. So far this year there have been only two accidents in which there was personal injury.

Red pins placed on the map will designate fatal accidents, but to date this year there have been no accidents in the city in which there was loss of life.

Scout Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The 8th Belleville Scout Auxiliary held their February meeting recently in Queen Mary School, with sixteen mothers present.

The president, Mrs. M. Button, opened the meeting in the usual manner by all repeating the Mother's Promise.

The secretary's report was read and adopted. Mrs. Poste, treasurer, gave a very detailed report of the "Father and Son Supper".

Mrs. Grills was appointed sewing convener and asked the ladies to her home for the purpose of making scarfs and bean bags. A quilting was discussed and planned to be held at a later date at the home of Mrs. Enright.

After the usual business discussions, the meeting closed with the benediction.

Refreshments were served by the Social Committee.

FLAMING DEATH

The practice of suttee, abolished by the British in 1829, required a Hindu widow to burn herself on her husband's funeral pyre.

CZECH UNION MEMBERS VOTE TO STRIKE — IF

Trade unionists in Prague are shown voting for a program of nationalized industry and a potential strike, if their demands were not met by the government. Shortly after the meeting, Red forces took over, forcing the coalitionist government of President Benes out of power. President Benes formally installed the new Czechoslovak cabinet with its top-heavy Communist membership. "The decision to accept you is difficult for me personally," he told the cabinet.

Edward Johns, Asphyxiated When Car Doors Jam After Vehicle Settles into Ice

Point Traverse — (Special) — Believed to have been asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes from the motor of his car which had partially dropped through the ice on the Bay of Quinte near Glenora, the body of Edward Johns, Dorland, was discovered Monday morning.

It appeared that Johns had been driving across the ice on the bay between Adolphustown and Glenora when his car broke through, the vehicle settling sufficiently to jam the car doors making it impossible for the driver to get out of the car.

The car was discovered in the ice only a few yards off the Glenora shore by Albert Cooper, commercial fisherman. When the car was found the motor was still running and it is believed Johns had kept the engine turning to obtain warmth from the car heater.

Salvage Fishing Boat

Point Traverse — (Special) — Raymond and Melbourne MacIntosh, commercial fishermen of this village, are none the worse because of their harrowing experience of last Friday night when they were lost overnight on the frozen wastes of Lake Ontario. The two men were forced to abandon their fishing boat five miles off shore and staggered to land in the darkness.

Over the weekend commercial fishermen salvaged the brothers' fishing boat finding three large holes smashed in the hull by jagged ice. Fishing tools were also salvaged. The motor of the boat had been dropped overboard in an effort to keep it afloat when the hull was broken by ice.

Two Boy and Three Girl Babies Born at Hospital on February 29

Old Man Stork, probably storm - bound on Saturday night, and early Sunday morning, was forced to jettison part of his cargo, it seems, while flitting through the snow-laden atmosphere of the city and district.

And the long - billed distributor of bundles of joy — and tax-exemptions — was probably thinking of that poker game back in Storkville for he deposited, in the parlance of that game, a neat "full house" to five pairs of poppas and mammas hereabouts.

It all happened in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday February 29th. Three bouncing little "Jacks" gurgled their joy at seeing the first light of day, while two dainty "queens" smiled their happiness in nearby cribs.

But what the quintet didn't know was that they won't celebrate their next birthday until four years from now. For they're all Leap Year babies, and by the time they reach their twentieth birthday, all their future schoolmates, born on other dates will be hobbling around on crutches.

And the poor little tykes will be gypped out of birthday presents three years out of every four. Or will they?

The proud parents of this quintet of Leap Year cherubs are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dempsey, Consecon, a daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Farley Vermilyea, 4th concession of Thurlow, near the Sidney boundary, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Trice, 84 South Foster Avenue, Belleville, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Potter, 200 Station Street, Belleville, a daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Taylor, Brighton, a son.

$45,700 Building Permits Issued During February

A total of 12 building permits with a value of $45,700 were issued at the city hall during February, according to records kept by City Engineer Charles A. Mott.

Largest permit issued during the month was one to the Belleville Sargent and Co. Limited, Pinnacle Street, for the erection of a new reinforced concrete two-storey factory building at a cost of $18,000.

Other permits issued included the following: Cecil G. May, sun porch, 66 Benjamin, $200; Mrs Irene Leeman, new stairway and store at 247 Front, $900; Alan Sprague, interior alterations on second floor of building at the corner of Front and McAnnany Street, $400; Fred Ellis, new residence, Holden Street, $3,000, Hydro Electric Power Commission, new floors, Pinnacle Street, $1,000; Big "A" Corporation, one storey addition, 179 Pinnacle Street, $500; Chas. Hyde, residence, 84 Victoria Ave., $6,000; John Hinds, residence, 251 Bleecker, $4,500; George Stanton, residence and garage 70 —Geddes Street, $5,000; Harry Elmy, residence, 22 Holden Street, $5,000; Bill Wong, new store front, 191 Front Street, $1,200.

Yemen's Capital Said To be Under Siege

Cairo, March 1 (AP) —San'a capital of Yemen, was reported under siege today in a spreading civil war.

Sayed Ali Al Muayed, Cairo representative of the small Arabic kingdom on the Red Sea, said he had been informed that troops of Prince Ahmed have encircled the city.

Ahmed, eldest son of Yehia, the assassinated Imam (King), has proclaimed himself king and is challenging the authority of Imam Al Wazir, whose forces hold the capital.

$800,000 FIRE IN ST JOHN'S

St. John's, Nfld., March 1—(CP) — A fire of unknown origin which necessitated the full fire-fighting facilities of this Newfoundland capital gutted three buildings and heavily damaged a fourth waterfront establishment Saturday night. The blaze caused damage estimated at $800,000.

Throneless Carol May Have Sights On Canadian Home

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Estoril, Portugal, March 1 (CP) —Ex-King Carol of Romania may soon apply for an entry permit to enter Canada, say the gossips of this Portuguese seaside resort where three throneless monarchs while away their exile.

Members of Carol's household with whom I talked here were non-committal about the report, indicating he had not yet made up his mind to seek a change of residence. Whether Canada would welcome him is another matter.

Within easy visiting distance of Carol live Umberto of Italy and Don Juan, Count of Barcelona, Pretender to the Spanish throne. The latter is the only one who seems to have a ghost of a chance of ruling again, at least in the near future, and bettors would think twice before placing their money on him.

The spot these three have chosen lies within an hour's drive of Lisbon, where the low hills curve in a basin fronted by the sea. Big, expansive villas sit squarely among the palms and pine trees.

For entertainment they have year-round golf, tennis and riding, and swimming and sun-bathing most of the year. Spring comes early to Estoril; in mid-January, geraniums, flaming cactus plants and a multitude of wild flowers give a promise of the blaze of color that lights up the public gardens running from the seafront to the big casino.

Even in January sun-bathers stretch out in sheltered spots along the esplanade, hiding from the cool breeze that sweeps in with the Atlantic rollers.

Royal Status?

Carol is insistent that he and his fellow-exiles retain royal status. At a recent press conference concerning the abdication of his son, Michael, a reporter asked his aide, Marshall Urdarianu, which of the two now would be considered the "ex-king."

"There is no such thing as an ex-king," said Urdarianu tartly. "If one is born a king, one remains a king. There are only kings without thrones."

Sharing Carol's big white hillside villa is Magda Lupescu, his long-time mistress whom he married in South America recently before they moved to Estoril. He now likes her to be known as Princess Elena of Romania.

Umberto of Italy, whose father Victor Emanuel died recently in Alexandria, making him heir to the throne if it is ever restored, lives not far away.

Recently some Canadian film board pictures were given a private showing at his villa. Those who saw the show said that during one scene portraying a skiing action in the Laurentians, Umberto hurried moist-eyed from the room, overcome by the recollection of his skiing days in northern Italy.

23 Are Killed In Plane Crash

Rio De Janeiro, March 1 (AP) —Only three of 26 persons aboard survived the crash of a Brazilian Air Force transport near Belem, an Asapress news agency dispatch said today.

The plane carried six crew members and 20 passengers, including two women and six children. The Asapress dispatch said the survivors were a sergeant, a woman and a child.

The plane was en route from Rio De Janeiro to Cayenne, French Guiana, when it crashed in the jungle. It had been missing since Saturday night. The crew had asked for emergency landing instructions in a radio message heard at Belem.

JUMPER'S HOPE

IN MEMORIAM

LLOYD—In loving memory of dear son Harold Lloyd, who passed away 5 years ago today.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain.
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true.
There is not a day dear Harold,
That we do not think of you.

Always remembered by sister and brothers, and mother. M1

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 1 — (CP) — A handful of scattered narrow gains and losses emerged from one of the slowest trading sessions in months on the stock exchange today to bring industrials and base metals up mildly while golds eased and base metals were about unchanged. The ticker was quiet for relatively long periods of time as trading slowed down to a standstill.

Volume for the first three hours was 261,000 shares, about 191,000 less than Friday's similar period.

Among the industrials newsprints showed some firmness and utilities and foods were weaker. Leading stocks on the gain side were Algoma Steel, Aluminum, B. A. Oil Pfd., Bank of Commerce, Canadian Celanese, Ford Motors and Great Lakes Paper.

Mining stocks were very narrow with base metals firmer on gains for Hudson Bay, International Uranium, Labrador, New Calumet, Noranda, Normetal, Steep Rock and Sherritt. Golds were mixed with producing mine stocks relatively inactive.

ABOUT
JOHNS-MANVILLE

ASBESTOS TAMES SPARKS — FLAMES

Here's how another home was saved from fire by Asbestos — the magic mineral.

This house was situated just ten feet from a building which was completely destroyed by fire. A barrage of sparks and billowing flame roared across an alley separating the two buildings — yet the house remained undamaged! You see, it was protected by Johns-Manville Cedargrain Asbestos Siding Shingles.

In addition, J-M Cedargrains are strikingly attractive. They have all the charm and beauty of fine, weathered wood. Made of Asbestos and cement, they will not rot or deteriorate —never need paint to preserve them. Cedargrains can be applied right over old-fashioned sidewalls in remodelling — and they're ideal for new building too. Ask your nearest J-M dealer for free illustrated folder. Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has adopted the "new look" in a move which should be a boon to the eyesight of business men and financial writers.

The former "monthly review of statistics," an informative but otherwise colorless booklet packed with figures in seven-point type, has given way to the "Canadian statistical review," a volume enlarged both in size and number of pages, printed on book paper with all tables in 10-point.

The cover is attractive, in blue and white, inviting even the lay reader to look inside and see the "innards" of his country's affairs.

The whole is in line with current thought that business news is no longer only for the economist, but for the much discussed man-in-the-street and his wife, whose income is decided by the industrial health of the country.

Introducing the new form of publication, Herbert Marshall, Dominion statistician, comments:

"The larger page allows for the inclusion of longer tables, and advantage has been taken of this to show monthly figures for the past 24 months and monthly averages for the immediate past 10 years and for two or three important years before that. This gives a better historical perspective to the current figures.

"Tables have been considerably re-arranged to give unity to each section . . . the proportion of explanatory text will be somewhat increased . . . and a new feature will be an article which each month will discuss one particular series or field of statistics . . . in order still further to reduce the time lag between the preparation of the statistics and their publication, it is planned to issue a weekly supplement."

The current issue contains a summary of economic conditions in January.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, created in 118, has won an international reputation and the advice of its statisticians is sought by other countries. Its work is best known to business and newspapermen to whom its voluminous records on virtually any economic subject are invaluable.

In market dealings Saturday all grains gained in Chicago, and Winnipeg showed small change. In securities, New York recovered moderately; Toronto golds made modest advances with other departments down lightly; while in Montreal papers had a better tone with other groups unchanged to slightly easier.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 1 (CP) —Cattle trade was fairly active and prices were steady to strong on the livestock market up to mid-session today. Hog prices were unsettled for the first time in some weeks and calves advanced $1 in price. Receipts were: Cattle 2,000 calves 150, hogs 300, no sheep or lambs.

Weighty steers sold from $15-$16.75 with butcher steers at $12.50-$16. Heifers were $12-$15.25 with a few at $15.50. Fed yearlings were mostly $15.50-$17.50 and butcher cows $9.50-$12.50 with canners and cutters at $5.50-$9. Bull brought $10.50-$13 and a few stockers were $13-$14.

Calves were $22-$23 for choice with plain lights and heavies down to $12.

Prices were established for hogs, $29 asked for grade A, $28.60 for grade B1.

HOGS

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—Hog prices were unchanged at Brantford, $28.60 delivered to farmers; unchanged at Hull, off truck unquoted, $28.75 dressed, grade A, delivered, in markets reporting early this morning.

ENTIRE FAMILY FOUND DEAD

Birkenhead, Cheshire, England March 1 (Reuters)—Police today found an entire family dead in their home here—the father hanged behind the door and the mother and two children with their throats slit.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and their children Bobby, 5, and Gabriel Jean, 2.

Neighbours who heard no movement from the Smith's flat this morning first gave the alarm. They told reporters they heard nothing suspicious during the night.

Time for Move Past, Says Report From Honduras

By WILLIAM HARD ASTLE

Belize, British Honduras, March 1 — (Reuters) — Diplomatic advices from Quatemala last week referred to the strong probability of an airborne attempt to seize Belize and the rest of British Honduras by a bloodless coup, it was disclosed here today.

Five Dakota aircraft were known to be at an airfield near the border, and it was feared they might be used to ferry troops in to Belize airfield, where no force was immediately available to counter such a move.

Before the arrival three days ago of the British cruiser Sheffield, there were no guns or fully-equipped men to defend the airfield.

The cruiser Devonshire arrived here today from Kingston, Jamaica, and began disembarking men of the Gloucestershire Regiment, armed with anti-tank guns and mobile equipment. The troops took up defence positions.

Diplomatic reports from Guatemala suggested the attempt was planned to take place before today, when the Guatemalan congress opens.

The time for such a move, however, is past. Any move by the Guatemalans would immediately produce bloodshed and violence, which they are not expected to risk.

Any airborne attempt, would certainly be routed by British forces now patrolling there.

An official said he does not think a landing from the sea is a serious possibility.

16-Day Search Ends in Arrests

Hawkesbury, Ont., March 1 (CP)—A 16-day search for thieves who broke into a company pay office at Kilmar mine, 12 miles from Calumet, Que., and escaped with a $25,000 payroll ended here yesterday when police arrested Doris Demers, 35, of Hawkesbury, and another man, unidentified, of Grenville, Que.

Demers is a former employee of the mine.

The robbery occurred during the early hours of Feb. 13: Thieves smashed open a heavy safe and escaped with the payrooll meant for 400 mine employees.

FERRY BOAT BEATS SKUNK

Yonkers, N.Y., March 1 (AP) — The ferryboat John J. Walsh of the Yonkers-Alpine Line chugged off three minutes ahead of schedule yesterday because Skipper Russell Peterson scented trouble.

As his vessel lay at Alpine, N. J., Peterson saw a skunk on the dock making for the boat. Since no passengers or vehicles were approaching the boat Peterson signalled for a hurried takeoff, just beating the pole-cat by a nose.

Two Attendants Are Dismissed Because of Cruelty

Toronto, March 1 (CP)— Two attendants of Ontario hospitals have been discharged during the last two years because of cruelty to patients, Hon. Russell Kelley, Ontario Minister of Health, said today.

"Last year I brought in all superintendents of Ontario mental hospitals to a meeting where I asked particularly if there was any cruelty toward patients by attendants," Mr. Kelley said. "The superintendents all said there was no cruelty so far as they knew. They were then told that if any cruelty were found to exist the attendant responsible was to be discharged immediately. So far two attendants have been discharged because of their action toward patients."

Mr. Kelley was answering charges made here yesterday at a Bathurst Street United Church forum by D. M. LeBourdais, former member of the staff of the Canadian National Committee for mental hygiene, that attendants in Ontario hospitals had been guilty of cruelty to patients.

Mr. Kelley said there is a definite ruling applying to all Ontario hospitals that under no conditions must cruelty of an attendant be allowed or condoned.

"There is no excuse acceptable. We have 2,000 employees in mental hospitals in Ontario and it is humanly impossible to be responsible for all of them. All one can do is advise superintendents that if anyone is found being cruel, they must be discharged immediately."

Liberty Ship Afire Laden With Grain For Franco

Sydney, Australia, March 1. — (AP)—The United States Liberty Ship Cecil G. Sellers caught fire today in the Indian Ocean and radio silence tonight indicated her 38-man crew had taken to lifeboats.

Sydney agents for the Sellers said 16 hours had elapsed since the 7,216-ton vessel reported she was ablaze and her crew ready to abandon ship 200 miles off the Cocs Islands. She left Freemantle, Australia, Feb. 21.

Three ships were racing to the aid of the stricken vessel, loaded with grain for France. It was expected the British Liner Atlantic, bound from New Zealand to the United Kingdom, would be the first to reach her last reported position.

DISCUSSING PALESTINE PROBLEM

While President Eduard Benes gave Communist Premier Klement Gottwald permission to install a Communist dominated Czechoslovak government, the Russian and Czech representatives to the U.N. Security Council discuss the Palestine partition problems at Lake Success, N.Y. They are Andrei Gromyko, left, head of the Russian delegation, and Dr. Karel Lisicky, representing Czechoslovakia. Dr. Lisicky is chairman of the United Nations' Palestine commission.

Plan to Hear Consumers At Bread Price Probe

Ottawa, March 1 (CP)—Hughes Cleaver (L—Halton) member of the Commons Price Committee, said today a bread retailer had charged his supply would be cut off if he did not maintain retail prices set by bakers.

His claim followed denials in the committee evidence last week that bakers resorted to this practice to keep up the selling price of their products.

Mr. Cleaver said a retailer had told him over the weekend he had wanted to sell bread at 12 cents a loaf — two cents less than the baker's indicated selling price and he had been told that if he did, he would get no more supplies.

The committee member urged that witnesses be brought before the committee to give evidence on this alleged practice.

At today's opening, Health Minister Martin, committee chairman, announced an opportunity would be given to consumers' organizations to be heard. This would probably be around March 11 or 12.

He said several groups, including the Canadian Consumers' Association, were "pressing hard" for a hearing.

At today's outset commission counsel H. A. Dyde suggested that the committee in continuing its inquiry into bread prices, direct particular attention to a recent one-cent increase in the loaf price rather than to a three-cent boost undertaken last September.

He noted that K. J. Taylor, Prices Board chairman, had indicated in evidence the three-cent September increase was agreeable at that time to the board.

Mr. Dyde said he was not suggesting that the committee drop all reference to the September increase, but that it "spotlight" the later one and examine into the "justification" or otherwise for it.

Chairman Martin said the investigators should pursue the later increase "relentlessly" and see what could be done to bring the price of bread down. However, its work was going to be thorough, and it was not going to draw hasty conclusions.

First witness called today was James M. MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of General Bakeries, Ltd., who had been on the stand last week.

DOUGHTY BOY FRIEND

Southbell, Nottinghamshire, England — (CP) — Brandishing a rusty sword, Derek Fearn, 17, demanded from a police station sergeant the release of his 16-year-old girl friend, detained for a breach of recognizance. He was bound over for two years.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Date When War Pensioners, Widows Get Increases May be Decided Soon

(By The Ottawa Staff Of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, March 1—(CP)—The question of when disabled war pensioners and widows will get their increases in rates may be brought to a head in parliament this week.

The commons is expected to be confronted with the problem of whether or not it wants to send the enabling legislation to the special committee on veterans affairs. If the bill does go to the committee it will mean that the raises, retroactive to Oct. 1, will be held up just that much longer.

The motion for establishment of the committee was originally expected to come before the house before this. But when opposition parties manifested a desire to use it as the basis of a debate, Prime Minister Mackenzie King placed other items ahead of it because he considered them more urgent.

It was Mr. King who first announced the increases in December and then announced upward revisions recently after considerable protest from all parties, including his own.

Increases announced for student veterans are being put through by order-in-council, thus by-passing the house. But officials say it may be April before administrative machinery has the raises, retroactive to Jan. 1, on the way to recipients.

The new federal labor code will be introduced in parliament within 10 days, but the government has not much hope that it will be passed before the end of March. That will mean another extension of emergency industrial relations legislation, which runs out march 31, will have to be sought.

This will be included in a general bill of the government to extend its emergency powers.

The labor Department is particularly anxious to see the code adopted as soon as possible, particularly in view of urgings of the Ontario Government. Ontario has decided to take the code as its model for Labor Legislation, but it wants to see it passed by Parliament before the legislature moves on it.

However, though the code has been ready for months, two factors have delayed its introduction. First is the commons' preoccupation with Emergency Legislation. The second is the desire of the government to let labor organazations have their say on it first.

The unions will have their annual sessions with the cabinet shortly. Right after that, the code—known as the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation act—will be brought down by Labor Minister Mitchell.

14 Persons Killed In Accra Rioting

London, March 1 (AP)— The Colonial Office said today 14 persons were killed Saturday in rioting at Accra, capital of the British Gold Coast colony in Africa. It was estimated 140 were injured.

A mob of about 50,000 took part in the riot at one time. The disorders started when the Ex-Servicemen's Union, a minority group of veterans, converged on the Governor's residence to present a petition. The Colonial Office said it did not know the nature of the petition nor the reason for the riot.

(Accra dispatches said the ex-servicemen had grievances over unemployment and other imprisonment of Africans court-martialled in Burma.)

Quiet was restored last night.

NEW ZEALAND LOAN

Auckland, N.Z. — (CP) — The ministry of finance has announced the opening of an internal loan at 3 per cent to provide funds for development works and repayment of certain existing loans.

Arrested Men Pick up Passenger In This City

Windsor, March 1 (CP)—Provincial police believe a series of gasoline station break-ins across Ontario and Quebec will be cleared up with the arrests by Windsor police during the weekend of three men, Philip MacDonald and Gerald Paquette of Montreal, and James Reilly, address unknown.

The trio were arrested when a local filling station operator informed police the trio asked to trade some oil in their possession for radiotor alcohol.

Police believe the three were riding in a car, stolen in Quebec.

Provincial police said they believed MacDonald and Paquette, who both had worked in Montreal restaurants, stole the Quebec car and travelled throughout Ontario. Reilly told police he was picked up by the two Montreal men at Belleville.

a Drama of the Wilderness

by John Fisher

● The baby didn't whimper as the minister lifted up the tikinagum—the strange cradle in which our Northern Indians still carry their papooses. The minister's words had a familiar rhythm in the little church. I couldn't understand anything, though, save the name 'Robert George'.

I saw the mother's shawled head bow in prayer, her soft Ojibway face reverent. Beside her, the father stood bareheaded; his features sharper, more hawklike—a Cree. Neither spoke English, so the baptismal service flowed on alternately in two Indian tongues. It was an unexpected moment in my life. A few hours previously I had stepped off a modern train at this remote outpost. Now, I felt I was back in the days of Champlain's voyageurs.

18 miles through the wilderness

After the service I looked closer at tiny Robert George, just two weeks old. His brown eyes blinked, then his plump little cheeks creased, and he grinned. Healthy! That youngster would have taken prizes anywhere. The minister said the family had hiked into the tiny settlement a few weeks ago, eighteen miles through the never-ending spruce forests. Why? So the Indian mother could have her baby safely at the Red Cross Outpost Hospital. I had heard that these hospitals are dots of mercy and life-saving from McBride on Vancouver Island to the Magdalena in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. I had read dramatic newspaper stories of how blood plasma was parachuted by mercy plane to the Red Cross Outpost at Hudson Bay Junction in Saskatchewan.

But here, as a mother had her healthy baby christened, I realized that Red Cross Outpost Hospitals meant more than dots on the map and newspaper headlines.

A story as big as Canada

Sometimes, very rarely, these outpost stations get publicity for startling rescues. More often such drama goes unnoticed. More often still we all forget the everyday hospital round. Babies being born, routine operations, the sick cured, broken bodies mended.

To me this case was symbolic—parent walking 18 miles for help; receiving it (and more) at the Red Cross Hospital. I went to a christening in a little outpost and found a story as big as Canada.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion, Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

The Red Cross

The national appeal of the Red Cross for $3,000,000 this month is for funds which will support services of national importance. Canada's Prime Minister said today that these funds will support work "which cannot be neglected without loss to the health and welfare of the Canadian people." Mr. King pointed out the fact that the Society depends upon the voluntary support of the Canadian people who in contributing are performing a humanitarian service of national-wide importance.

Services which will be financed from the appeal include the extension of the free national blood transfusion service, which is already in operation in British Columbia and Alberta, disaster relief, the continuance and expansion of the outpost hospital and nursing station services which are now active in seventy-one frontier communities, free public instruction in swimming and water safety, first aid, home nursing and nutrition, and other work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the relief of suffering.

This society is the expression of the highest principle and is an organization which is the true expression of help to all who need it and as proof that human kindness will never fail. Its history shows how it has stood the test of all conditions in which nations and individuals may be found. It has carried help and solace for those in distress. Its aim is to carry still more and more in the saving of human life, and the improvement of the health of the nation and individuals.

It has served well as only such an agency can serve in the most trying and desperate times, those of war as well as in time of peace.

Its work of mercy goes on tirelessly for it is never ended.

Here are branches of the work of the Red Cross Society, national blood transfusion service, outpost hospitals and nursing stations, aid for sick and disabled veterans, Junior Red Cross, Assistance for crippled children, disaster relief, medical and dental supplies, swimming and water safety program, first aid instruction, home nursing courses, nutrition service, sick room supply loan cupboards, Canadian Red Cross Corps, emergency nursing reserve, homemakers' service and highway first aid posts.

The Red Cross has human welfare at heart and is continually serving.

Voluntary Agencies

Voluntary agencies make their greatest contribution in the health field by pioneering new movements and encouraging the public to apply themselves intelligently to the tasks that are theirs, it was stated by Dr. G. W. D. Cameron, federal deputy minister of health, at a civic "Health" luncheon in Toronto.

"They further the democratic process when they supplement and encourage sound government services and create demands by public information," Dr. Cameron said. "This type of collaboration from a responsible voluntary agency like the Health League of Canada deserves our warmest thanks."

He said the democratic way is in many important respects the hard way. It called for the acceptance of individual responsibility and depended for its strength on the united will of an informed people. It was during such an observation as the recent "Health Week" that the public should have its collective attention directed to the state of the public health, and should be told where they have failed to measure up to their obligations, and to have pointed out the steps which must be taken if desired goals were to be reached. It was in that regard that the voluntary agency had a vital role to play.

Dr. Cameron said the recent observance had also provided an opportunity for health departments to subject themselves to rigorous self-examination. This should include not only the facilities of the departments but also the direction of their policies.

The deputy minister took occasion to warn against complacency about the nation's relative freedom from diseases like smallpox and diphtheria.

"A moment's thought should correct that tendency," he said. "We know perfectly well that these diseases are only in check. The price of freedom is continual pressure against these diseases by immunization."

One Source of Wealth

Seaweed on the coasts of Scotland may help to make Britain richer. The Scottish Seaweed Research Association, which has already done much for the scientific and economic exploitation of seaweed has opened headquarters at Inversesk Gate, Musselburgh. Its object is to discover the food value and digestibility of seaweed as fodder for sheep, pigs and poultry and its importance as fertilizer.

It is believed that seaweed on the Scottish coasts may yield chemical worth no less than fifteen million pounds or sixty million dollars a year.

Saving Electric Power

Electric power is so cheap in Ontario that the sheer waste of it must have reached large proportions. When the supply was abundant that did not much matter so long as the user was willing to pay the bills. Now, in a serious shortage of power, the average household, the average store and office building and industrial plant is discovering that considerable economies can be effected without impairing comfort or efficiency.

The way to the saving of power is to use power when necessary but not more than is nceessary. Thus in this crisis the homes are learning to get along without an outside light, without ornamental lights in the living rooms, learning to turn off even essential lights when they are not being used, to conserve power in cooking and in heating water. — Ottawa Journal.

Record in Ship-Building

By launching sixteen vessels totalling 183,509 tons gross during 1947 Harland & Wolff Limited broke a thirty-three years old record and established a new output record for the British shipbuilding industry. The previous highest output by a single British shipbuilding firm in one year was achieved by Harland & Wolff in 1914, when the aggregate tonnage of vessels launched was 182,759 tons, Ulster Commentary says.

Of the 1947 output twelve ships totalling 148,882 tons gross were launched from the company's Belfast yard and four totalling 34,627 tons from their Govan yard. As usual the joint output covered a wide range of ship types, comprising three passenger and cargo liners, a whale factory ship, seven cargo liners, two cross-Channel passenger and cargo vessels, three tankers and a large naval vessel.

Far East's Teaming Millions

We are accustomed to hearing the expression "China's swarming millions," but few Canadians have any exact knowledge of what that actually means in numbers. The Chinese national census bureau of the Ministry of the Interior has computed the total population of the country for the second half of 1947 as 462,798,093. There is a predominance of females, 241,913,638, as against 220,884,455 males. The total number of families in China is estimated to be 86,637,312. Nanking, the national capital, has a population of 1,034,995, while among the large special municipalities, Shanghai ranks first with 4,300,630.

But India, too, has its "swarming millions," and the 1941 population of that country is given as 388,997,935, with 2,108,891 of them in Calcutta, the largest city. This total population included those of the dominions of India and Pakistan combined.

If the Western world is interested in the political and economic future of these two vast countries, it is largely because the combined populations of them is the stupendous total of 851,796,028, says Moose Jaw Times-Herald.

The rapid increase in the number of motor vehicles on the streets demands that something be done that will be effective in curbing recklessness, and at the same time protect the careful driver against the results of recklessness of pedestrians, and keep them from being mulcted in heavy damage suits, comments Guelph Mercury.

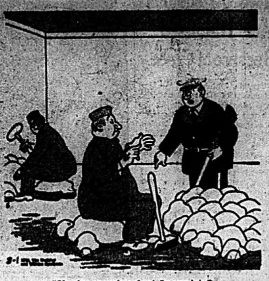
MARCH

Like a lion, like a lamb,
Roar or gently bleat,
March, impatiently I am
Waiting you to greet.

Whatsoe'er your temper be,
Furious or gay,
Closely following I'll see
April on the way.

March, come in with frown or smile,
Calm or blizzard bring,
Winter, in a little while,
Steps aside for spring.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed Reed



"Oh, stop worrying about fingerprints."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

March 1st., 1928

March came in like a lamb; look out for stormy weather later.

Mr. Joseph Shortt, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Harold Gaskell has left for Edmonton after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson in this city.

Mr. J. A. Fargey of La Riviere, Manitoba, is visiting his cousin, Mrs. Atkins, Everett Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Henderson, George Street, have returned home from Detroit, Mich., where they visited their son, Kenneth.

Rev. Dr. McTavish of this city is spending a few days in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

March 1st., 1918

Mr. Knight MacGregor sang a solo in splendid voice at the evening service in Christ Church on Sunday.

The large shed in the rear of the Anglican Church in Marmora was destroyed by fire recently.

There is now a glassy surface of ice on the bay and many skaters and owners of ice boats are having great sport.

Corp. Frank Rayfield has returned after a few days' leave.

Belleville Market Prices: — Butter 50 cents to 53 cents per pound; eggs 65 cents per dozen; chickens $2.50 to $3.00 per pair; ducks $2.50 to $3.00 per pair; geese $3.00 to $4.00; potatoes $1.90 to $2.00; apples 40 cents to 60 cents per peck; turnips 60 cents per bushel.

40 YEARS AGO

March 1st., 1908

Thirty one years ago tomorrow, March 2nd., Belleville became a city. There have been a few changes, but it still is the prettiest place to look at and the nicest place in Canada in which to live.

March came in like a lion, but it can never equal the record made by February. Let the Storm King do his worst; we would be lonesome now without snow to shovel.

The Maple Leafs of Winnipeg, winners of the Manitoba Hockey League series will come east after the Stanley Cup. It is interesting to note that in the Winnipeg team are two players, Jack Winchester and Harry Kennedy, who played with Belleville in the "good old days" when the Belleville hockey team was among the best of them all.

50 YEARS AGO

March 1st., 1898

Mr. Ed. Cooley had an exciting experience yesterday when the cutter in which he was riding upset at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Front Street. No serious damage resulted.

Mr. Fred Osborne of this city, has returned home from Vermont and will take charge of Mr. C. B. Scantlebury's branch wallpaper store in Kingston.

The provincial elections are being held today.

The Rev. Dr. Carman will leave for Japan the first week in April.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why do members of the Supreme Court wear robes?

The Chief Justice of the United States and the Associate Justices all wear black gowns while sitting on the bench. When the Court sat in the "Old Senate Chamber" in the Capitol, visitors were impressed by the sight of the nine robed men of justice filing across the main corridor from the "robing room" to the court-room.

The custom of wearing judicial robes goes back to the beginning of the Federal Government and was copied after the practice of British judges. In England the custom dates to the days when all clergymen, professional men and public officials wore distinctive gowns as badges of their position or office. In Shakespeare's "King Lear" the mad King says to Edgar: "Thou robed man of justice, take thy place." A judge on the bench without a distinctive cloak of office was unthinkable to the British. Judicial robes were believed to make the proceedings more impressive and dignified.

Judges in all the English Colonies wore judicial robes on the bench and after the Declaration of Independence the custom was continued in all of the States. The Supreme Court adopted the custom when it held its first meeting in New York in 1790.

Apparently the early members of the Court wore black gowns faced with red. William Allen Butler wrote that Chief Justice John Jay presided in an ample robe of black silk with salmon-colored facings. A Senator of the time referred to the "six venerable judges in parti-colored robes." James Madison was inaugurated President in the House of Representatives March 4, 1809, and John Quincy Adams noted in his diary that the Chief Justice administered the oath while the other Justices were "present and in their robes."

Later most Federal and State judges abandoned judicial robes, and a generation ago very few judges except the Justices of the Supreme Court wore such paraphernalia; but in recent years there has been a tendency to resume the practice of wearing them. Many bar associations went on record in favor of the custom.

Members of the Supreme Court did not adopt the English custom of wearing judicial wigs. During the early part of the 18th century wearing pariwigs for style rather than as a substitute for missing hair was common in the Northern Colonies, although it was not common in Virginia and the Colonies to the south, but by the time of the Revolution very few wigs were worn for style except by the judges. A few doctors, lawyers and other professional men continued to wear wigs for style after the adoption of the Constitution.

Thomas Jefferson objected to wigs as relics of monarchy and feared the members of the Supreme Court would wear them. "For heaven's sake," he wrote, "discard the monstrous wig which makes the English judges look like rats peeping through bunches of oakum." Alexander Hamilton favored wigs as well as judicial robes.

It is said that Associate Justice William Cushing of Massachusetts, one of the original six members of the Supreme Court, was the last American judge to wear a full judicial wig in the English fashion. He gave it up after a bunch of boys hooted at him when he arrived in New York to take his place as a member of the Supreme Court.

MACE GIFT OF WESTERN

London, March 1 — (CP) — A mace, gift from the University of London, England to the University of Western Ontario, will lead the Convocation procession Mar. 7 when Dr. G. Edward Hall is installed as president of Western. David Hughes Parry, who brought the mace, said that it was a token of goodwill on Western's 70th anniversary this year.

JAP FARMS BRING IN RICE

Tokyo, March 1 — (AP)—Japan's farmers, required by law to turn in rice for government distribution, brought in 99 per cent of their quota before the midnight deadline, government officials announced today. Last year's collections were only 75 per cent.

Wintry Weather Grips Canada After Weekend Storms

By The Canadian Press

Wintry weather gripped most of Canada today after weekend storms in several sections tangled highway travel and communications and were held responsible for at least seven deaths.

A new storm which spread into British Columbia coastal regions last night was expected to bring rain or drizzle to the area from Vancouver northward to the Alaskan Panhandle but no other major disturbances were predicted for inland portions of Canada.

Pressure was high over the Northwest Territories and Northern Ontario. Central and northern Canada experienced unusually low temperatures for this time of year. Today's temperatures were expected to hover around zero in Northern Ontario and in middle 20s elsewhere in Ontario.

A storm which brought snow and sleet to Ontario and Quebec Sunday missed the Maritimes as it swung through New England and headed out into the Atlantic.

Another storm with heavy snowfall was blamed for a train wreck which took four lives at Hanna, Alta., 150 miles southeast of Edmonton Saturday night. Two men were killed in Ontario during the storm when a freight train struck a railway "jigger". Another Ontario man was fatally injured in a truck-train smash.

About 100 fishermen were rescued Saturday from ice floes which strong winds drove out into Lake Erie.

With 26 below zero, Edmonton yesterday reported its coldest

Communists Predict India Will be Sovietized in 1950s

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Bombay, March 1(AP)— Native Communist Phrophets, who number their disciples today in paltry thousands, claim India's 400 millions will become Sovietized in the 1950s.

They boast of a "Federation of People's Democracies" that will cover all of the sub-continent and wipe out the British-approved partition of 1947 which created the 87-per-cent Hindu Dominion of India, and Moslem Pakistan.

This future Soviet India, they grandly say, will eagerly accept Moscow's guidance in the same spirit as Communist Regimes set up in Eastern Europe under the Red Army's protection.

Resemble Other Countries

Since there is no likelihood of Soviet troops occupying India, short of a third World War, native Communists insist the transition here will resemble Chinese developments instead of, for example, those in Romania.

"But what took 20 ears to achieve in China," commented G. Adikari, an editor of the Official Communist Nespaper for India, "can happen in India in five years, or at the most, 10. This is an age of quick changes."

Most Indian intellectuals say Communist predictions are nothing but pipe dreams. Organized in 1927, the Party's membership is still only 77,000, of which a bare 2,000 is in Parkistan, the remainder in the Indian Dominion.

The dull, repetitious propaganda written by hacks in Moscow and Belgrade is distributed here without changing a comma.

This propaganda is drab reading compared to the brilliant political utterances of men like the Dominion Prime Minister, Pandit Jawarharlal Nehru. It falls flat with the masses, who remember Mahatma Gandhi's words: "Communism of the Russian tpo, that is Communism which is imposed on a people, would be repugnant to India."

If any politicial idea has general popularity at the moment, it is that India is of, by and for the Indians.

Rigid Policy Delays

But native communists, apparently because of the rigidity of Moscow directives, have been unable to steer a course that would take full advantage of current political trends.

The Indian National Congress, basic Political force in the country, has beaten communists to the punch by sponsoring an ambitious program of long-overdue reforms. It will take time to make these reforms effective, but the congress promises to do it by rational planning and not communistic violence.

HERNIA CURED WHILE YOU WORK

Having followed your column for a long time I have wanted to write and thank you for advice you gave me 10 years ago (writes a man who is still young enough to try his hand at bowling on the green). I had a hernia, which was cured by the doctor you recommended—by the injection method. My family physician was very much against the idea at the time, but despite his predictions I have had no recurrence in all these years, so I now believe the treatment cured by hernia for life. (M. R.)

The mere mention of this cure here will probably touch off a good many bursts of intolerance in the profession. Notwithstanding the progress that the ambulant or injection method has made in the past twenty-five years—in the treatment of hernia (breach, rupture), internal hemorrhoids (piles) and enlarged (varicose veins — a shamefully large number of physicians who purport to be professionally competent and up to date still try to discourage patients from seeking such treatment on the ground that the new-fangled method is "dangerous" or "no good." Some of these myopic little nincom —, little men lay back their long ears and declare that the injection method has been "tried and found useless."

True enough—the method has been "tried" by many a self-sufficient little man and, thanks to his bungling, found even worse than useless. Trouble is that these ever-ready operators who acquire the eminent surgeon complex are so all-fired self-sufficient that they can't come down off their high horse to obtain the necessary clinical or technical instruction in the injection method from some colleague who may not be quite so high and mighty as they are and who is therefore hardly capable of teaching them anything—as they see it.

To physicians who are not purblind I recommend the classical textbook on Hernia, 3rd ed., by Leigh F. Watson, M.D., Mosby Company, St. Louis. But even with such a fine textbook to guide the physician, it is practically impossible to apply the modern method with satisfaction to patient and physician alike, unless the physician first studies the difficult technique under the instruction of one who has mastered the method.

For many years before the war the method was taught in the surgical clinic of a Class A medical school—by a professor of surgery in the medical school. Looking up his name, which is similar to mine, I was astonished to discover just now the name of the conductor of this column in Dr. Watson's index of authors—about 1500 of them having written something about hernia. Mine, believe it or not, was a piece in the public prints on The Modern Treatment of Hernia.

If I had nothing to do but work I'd welcome the prospect of having a nice clean major operation and lying around for a couple weeks in the hospital. But with no real work to do I'd rather have the injection treatment for hernia and keep right on with my lawn bowling, tiddlywinks, housework and other frivolous activities while under treatment.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Incubation

Please tell me the length of the incubation period of virus broncho-pneumonia and of influenza pneumonia. Would it be possible for either to develop within 29 hours after exposure to infection? Can one get pneumonia from conversational spray of a person with so-called "flu"?

Answer—Further than that the incubation period is often very short—little more than 24 to 36 hours—we do not know much about it. Not only can one catch pneumonia via the cnversational spray of a person purporting to have a touch of "flu" but in my opinion, just such infection is the usual cause of pneumonia.

Sweating

Does the use of cosmetics to stop underarm odor cause the poison to remain in the body or do any harm? (H. W. T.)

Answer—The salt and water, you —mean—not poison. No, it is not harmful to stop or control excessive sweating under the arms.

Stop Me If You've Heard This

Friend says it is necessary to remove the seeds before eating grapes as they may cause appendicitis if you swallow them. (T. C. E.)

Answer—Nonsense. They tend rather to prevent it.

STILL LOOKING FOR PLANE CRASH

San Francisco, March 1 (AP)—A country correspondent telephoned the Chronicle last night to report that a motorcycle cop had fallen off his machine in nearby Napa county.

"Where was he going?" asked editor Larry McManus.

"Oh," said the correspondent, "he was going to the cirplane crash."

(The Chronicle and The Associated Press are still trying to find the plane crash.)

BOTH TUB'S LEGS COLLAPSE

Needham, Mass., March 1 (AP)—How much is a bath worth? It cost police patrolman Sydney E. Barton $700 yesterday. Barton filled his tub and leaped into the nice warm water. Two of the tub's legs collapsed.

The tub overturned and soon the bathroom was flooded. Barton wrapped a towel around himself and dashed downstairs through a startled group of arriving dinner guests to shut off the water. The guests then were put to work mopping up. Barton estimated the water damage at $700.

Music Festival In Second Week

Toronto, March 1 —(CP)— The Kiwanis Music Festival, with 15,000 participants, today entered its second and final week.

So smoothly does its program run that adjudicators give detailed criticism to every entry. The comments later are distributed for future guidance to the leader of every band or choral group and to each contestant who competes individually.

The 68-piece Barrie Collegiate Band, competing for the fourth year, won top honors in two band classes Saturday and went home with two shields and $200 in cash prizes. Ed Hutchings' oboe playing earned Barrie another first.

Other winners included: Kenneth R. Moore, Niagara Falls, Ont., first in two cornet solo classes and, with Donald H. Ritson of Niagara Falls, first in top open cornet duet; Jean Kalblfeisch, Stratford, third in piano solo; and Freddie Mills, Guelph, first in cornet solo, 17 years and under class.

Awards also went to William Perry and Gordon Burke, Lindsay, first in male duet competition; and Joyce and Caroline Gundy, Kingston, first in class for piano duet for performers aged 17 and under.

Spring Fashion Show Will Be Presented Wed.

An event of unusual interest to the women of Belleville and vicinity will be presented in the annual Spring Fashion Show under the auspices of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Wednesday afternoon and evening, in the Capitol Theatre.

As in the case of previous displays by the same exhibitors, outstanding models of dresses, coats, ensembles and accessories will be worn by graceful mannekins. An added attractions will be the presentation of several handsome prizes to ladies whose tickets bear the lucky numbers.

Doors will be open at one-thirty o'clock for the afternoon display, and at six o'clock for the evening show.

WILL SERVE NOTICE OF APPEAL

Welland, March 1 — (CP) — Counsel for Edwin Farrington, 20 of Glendale, R. I., and Norman Kindy, 17. Stamford township youths sentenced to hang April 28 for the murder of 57-year-old James Bell, said today they would serve notice of appeal from the conviction.

During the week - long trial ending Feb. 3, statements made by the pair to American and Canadian police were ruled inadmissible as evidence. The jury recommended mercy for both.

Former King May Wed Princess In United States

Paris, March 1 — (AP)—Some sources close to former King Michael of Romania said today his impending marriage to Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma may take place in the United States.

Others said flatly, however, that the Princess would not even accompany the former monarch and his mother when they leave this week for the United States.

One informant said Michael and his mother will undertake a campaign to raise funds to help Romanian refugees escape communism. Michael and Anne arrived in Paris yesterday from Switzerland.

Once Clawed by Lion Loses Legs to Cold

Toronto, March 1 —(CP)—Reuben Dutcher, 42, who was clawed by a lion years ago and escaped with only a gash on his arm, has lost both his legs to Toronto's winter cold.

Dutcher, who has been making his living by working for carnivals in the summer and selling newspapers on street corners here in the winter, climbed into the back seat of a car on a parking lot for a nap a few nights ago. He had been put out of his room because he owed rent.

When he awoke 12 hours later, both legs were so badly frozen they had to be amputated above the knees.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ozland wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Beatrice Joy, to Harvey Eugene, younger son of Mrs. Putman, of Cannifton, and the late Mr. Medric Putman. The wedding will take place quietly at the home of the bride's parents, 62 Gordon Street, April 11th.

Mrs. F. Morbey, 42 Meyers Street, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Marguerite Blakeslee spent the weekend with friends in Niagara Falls.

WEDDINGS

HART—ROBLIN

Picton—Spring flowers and potted ferns banked the altar of Trinity United Church, Napanee, for the marriage, at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, of Ruth Marion Roblin and Dr. Samuel Wilson Donald Hart. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Read Mallory Roblin, of Adolphustown, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hart of Napanee. Rev. Noble Hatton, minister of Trinity Church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Gill Steers, and the wedding music was played by Miss Beatrice Baughan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Harold A. Hooper, of Grafton, as matron of honor, with Misses Isobel Rutherford and Margaret Ewing, both of Belleville, as bridesmaids. Dr. Vincent O. Hart, of Napanee, was his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Harvey J. McFarland Jr., of Picton, and Mr. William D. Roblin, of Adolphustown.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a floor length model of white moira taffeta, the fitted bodice fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and the bouffant skirt having shirred side panels. Her embroidered fingertip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white roses and hyacinth blooms.

The matron of honor, Mrs. H. A. Hooper, wore a gown of hyacinth blue taffeta made with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. A matching headdress and mitts completed the ensemble, and she carried a cascade of Briarcliffe roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Rutherford and Ewing, wore identical floor length gowns of aqua blue taffeta with three-tiered skirts, while the bodices featured sweetheart necklines and short sleeves. They wore matching mitts and large crownless hats and carried nosegays of pink carnations.

A reception was held at the Richelieu hotel, where Mrs. Roblin received the guests wearing a two-piece navy crepe ensemble with light blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who chose brown figured silk jersey with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was attractively appointed, the centrepiece being a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded with masses of pink and white tulle sprinkled with rosebuds, on either side of which were tall white candles. Guests' tables were centred with bouquets of Spring flowers.

For travelling to Montreal, Que., and to New York City, the bride donned a black Berger frock, with bolero, matching hat trimmed with white baby 'bums, and a muskrat topcoat. On their return Dr. and Mrs. Hart will reside in Picton.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were sterling silver lapel pins engraved with the wedding date.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. F. H. Minaker, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McFarland and Miss Jessie Buchanan, of Picton; Mr. Alec Sutton, Mrs. George Campbell and Miss Helen Davey of Toronto; Mrs. C. J. Fisher, Miss Elizabeth Pitney, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Giles, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McCullough, of Kingston.

WEIR—FURRY

At two-thirty o'clock p.m., Saturday, Feb. 28th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Adams, Hillier, Ont., was the setting for a very pretty wedding when Nina Elizabeth Jane Furry, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Ader of Vancouver, B.C., became the bride of Arthur Jay Weir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weir, of Consecon, with Rev. W. H. Bartlett officiating, and wedding music played by Miss Marilyn Adams, of Rednersville.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Harold Adams, made a charming picture in a street length dress of poudre blue viyella crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Harold Adams was the bride's only attendant, attractive in a navy blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Lorne Weir, of Kingston, was his brother's groomsman.

A delicious wedding supper was served by Misses Lorena Alexander, Marilyn Adams and Lois Thompson. The bride's table, decorated in a color scheme of pink and white, was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Best wishes to the bride arrived by telegram from friends in Saskatoon just prior to the cutting of the cake.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a piece of floral china; to the pianist and serviteurs, silver bracelets. The groomsman received a pen and pencil set, and the groom's gift to the bride was a dresser set.

For travelling to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a muskrat coat and wore brown accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Weir will reside on the groom's farm near Consecon.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weir, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett, of Consecon; Mrs. Lawrence Hicks, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weir, Hillier; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Weir, Roslin; Mrs. Wesley Adams and Mrs. Estella Wadsworth, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams and Marilyn, Mrs. Mary Adams, Rednersville.

Belleville Local O.E.C.T.A. Meets

The pre-Easter meeting of the Belleville Local Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association took the form of a lively discussion on Saturday.

The agenda comprised the various points to be voted on at the Easter convention in Toronto. Reverend Sister Mary Lenore, B.A. who will represent, as voting delegate, the Belleville District O.E.C.T.A. at this convention, ably conducted the discussion and thus acquired definite aye's, nay's and amendments expressing the opinion of the members. Matters bringing forth most comment were those dealing with salary, superannuation, inter-provincial certification and screening boards.

After the reading of the resolutions passed at the Board of Governers' meeting January 2, the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Truman Attends RCAF Officer's Marriage

Washington, March 1 (CP). — Royal Canadian Air Force uniforms added color to the brilliant wedding ceremony Saturday when Flying Officer Clarence George Mattusch of Elmira, Ont., was married to Anita Cajigas, daughter of the internationally known pathologist, Dr. Tomas Cajigas, a native of Puerto Rico.

Brilliant sunshine and a June-like atmosphere favored the strikingly handsome couple whose wedding at the Church of the Epiphany climaxed a romance which began last October when the bridegroom was here as a member of the Canadian Joint Staff Mission. The ceremony was followed by a reception for 1,000 guests.

President Truman is away in Florida, but Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, headed a guest list which included the most prominent people in Washington.

The 26-year-old bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mattusch of Elmira, his two sisters and a large group of Canadian friends were present.

Mrs. Hume Wrong, wife of the Canadian Ambassador was one of a group headed by Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the United States Chief Justice, assisting at the reception.

The bride, also 26, is a native of Washington where her father has practised since he graduated from George Washington University in 1918.

Mrs. Cajigas, born at Snow Rd., near Ottawa, but long a resident of the United States, met her husband when they were both students at George Washington University.

FO. Mattusch, now in the permanent RCAF as intelligence officer in Ottawa, had as best man Dr. Tomas Cajigas Jr., eldest brother of the bride.

After the wedding cake had been cut with the bridegroom's dress sword the couple left by automobile for a visit to Kentucky. They will live in Ottawa.

Opera Singer Refuses to See Amorous Fan

New York, March 1 (AP)—A young man who followed opera singer Dorothy Kirsten from Akron, Ohio, got an appointment Saturday—but with the police, not Miss Kirsten.

Miss Kirsten was not angry with the young man, Richard Scott, 27. She said she wouldn't press any charges against him, but his devotion was becoming a little wearing.

So Scott, still maintaining that the blonde singer had made an appointment with him, was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Miss Kirsten said she first heard about Scott on Feb. 10. She had returned from a four-week concert tour during which she sang in Akron.

She got a telegram, she said, reading: "Dear Dorothy: Arrive by bus 8 p.m. tonight. Love. Dick Scott."

That night, she said, her secretary answered the door and a young man asked to see the singer. He left when the secretary threatened to call police, and went home to Akron. But he called long distance frequently and at odd hours.

Early on Saturday, Scott appeared at the singer's apartment house here and said he wanted to see her. She and her husband, Edward Oates, were entertaining friends. Oates called the police.

Scott insisted that Miss Kirsten had made a date with him, had told him her father was in the trucking business and that she had an estate where he might work.

The singer told police her father was not in the trucking business, she had no estate, and as for Scott she had never seen him before.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W. I.

The regular meeting of the Melrose W.I., was recently held in the home of Mrs. A. English, when Mrs. Grant McLaren, president, opened the meeting and conducted the business.

It was decided to enter the contest "Better Farm Homes", the aim being a remodelling of old homes and planning new ones. A special collection was taken for the needy children of Europe, and F.W.I.O. fees were paid.

Mrs. Eugene Badgley, program convener, with the aid of her assistants, presented a program on "Book Reviews". She read an Edgar Guest poem and Mrs. Claude Clarke gave "Books and Authors". Miss Bailey summarized the current book "Brittenia Mews", and Mrs. Lorne Weese contributed a delightful piano solo. Quotations from great authors and poets were read by Mrs. J. C. Milligan.

The roll call answered with "My Best Bargain" completed an interesting program, and delicious refreshments were served by the social conveners.

Drama Players Sharply Criticized By Adjudicator

Robertson Davies, adjudicator of the first annual Secondary School Drama Festival sponsored by Queen's University, held in Kingston on Saturday, levelled sharp criticism at the performances of actors from six Eastern Ontario secondary schools.

"Trysting Place", presented Saturday night by the Belleville Collegiate Institute players was criticized generally for lack of attention to details of dress, slowness of pace and lack of assurance.

"Who Gets the Car Tonight?" Picton Collegiate production, Davies said, was "worse rubbish" than "High School Daze", staged on Friday night. The players, according to Davies, were in many cases "inaudible".

An Ottawa secondary school production, "Man in a Bowler Hat" was held a model for high school groups.

Mrs. Louisa Miller Celebrates 98th Birthday

Picton—On Saturday, Feb. 28th, Mrs. Louisa Miller, residing on the Cherry Valley road with her daughter Mrs. Emery Walker, quietly celebrated the 98th anniversary of her birthday. Though not physically strong, Mrs. Miller is able to be around the house each day and enjoys visiting her many friends. Born in England, she came to Canada when only seven years of age, making the trip in a sailing vessel, the voyage occupying three full weeks. Most of her life was spent in Waupoos district.

Mrs. Miller has two children, i.e., Mrs. Walker, and Mr. Wallace Miller of Cressy; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Tomorrow, (March 2nd) Mrs. Washington Marshall of Bloomfield will celebrate her 93rd birthday. Still in good health, she resides alone in her home doing her own cooking and attending to other necessary household duties. Mentally alert, although her eyesight is failing and does not permit her to do much reading, she enjoys listening to the radio and is conversant with happenings of the day.

Mrs. Marshall has spent all her life in the village of Bloomfield. She has one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Benson of Toronto; two sons, Mesrs Harry Marshall, of Vancouver, and Elmer Marshall, of Oshawa; four grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

To mark the auspicious occasion, a few friends will gather at Mrs. Marshall's home for a social afternoon.

Full Ceremonial Regalia Will Be Used For First Time Since 1913

London, March 1— (Reuters)—Full ceremonial regalia will be brought out for the first time since 1913 when Princers Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the Throne, and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, are installed April 23 as Knights of the Garter, one of the most ancient orders of chivalry in Europe.

The ritual of installation into the 600-year-old order was revived after a lapse of 106 years when the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales, took his place as a Knight in 1911. Garter charters were held in 1912 and 1913 in the Chapel of the Garter Knights, St. George's, Windsor, but there has been no similar ceremony since the outbreak of the First World War.

Princess Elizabeth was invested with the order shortly before the wedding last November. She becomes the fourth Lady of the Garter, the others being her Mother, Queen Elizabeth, her grandmother, Queen Mary, and Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands. With their formal installation, she and her husband will be allotted their own special stalls in St. George's Chapel, decorated with their arms and insignia.

The service will be a full dress occasion, with the King and Queen and other Knights of the order walking in procession from Windsor Castle to the Chapel along a route lined by Men of the Household Cavalry and Foot Guards.

The Order, with its motto "Honi Soit Mal Y Pense" (evil be to him who evil thinks), was founded by King Edward III in the 13th Century and is regarded as the highest order of chivalry in the world.

There are 26 Knight Companions of the Order, including the King. Many foreign royalties, among them the Kings of Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, have been made members of the Order by special statute.

In recent years investiture has taken place at Windsor or Buckingham Palace without formal installation.

Christian Youth Fellowship Group Hears Miss Shirley

A high inspirational note was sounded at the annual ladies' night meeting of the Christian Youth Fellowship, held in Alliance Tabernacle on Saturday evening, with Miss Betty Shirley, Reg.N., Christian worker, of London, Ont., as guest speaker.

Drawing a parallel between the time of Noah and the present day, Miss Shirley stated there was much wickedness in the world. Now, as then, God is quite aware of conditions that exist. People wonder why God allows wars and all sorts of evil to flourish. The answer is, that God comes on the scene in His own time. He is sounding warnings, giving mankind a chance to escape inevitable judgment. From pulpit and radio the Word of God goes forth.

"Noah believed God and prepared for the deluge," said the speaker. "Scoffers and skeptics laughed at him when they saw him building the ark on dry land. But when the flood came Noah and his family were safe and God had shut the door. It was too late then for those on the outside to escape judgment".

Provides Ark of Safety

The speaker pointed out that God has provided an ark of safety in these days, and that is through the redeeming blood of Jesus Christ. Many young people believe in God and they think that some day they will accept Christ as Saviour. But they put off that decision. They want to have a good time first, or they are afraid of what people might say.

"There is really no good time in the world without Jesus," Miss Shirley emphasized. "It does not really matter what people say or thing. Do not let scoffers and skeptics influence your good intentions."

The speaker thought that the second judgment of God on the world was near at hand, this time by fire. "I believe that today we stand in the place Noah stood," she stated. "We know from studying the Word of God that the Jew is God's timetable. We see the Jews returning to their homeland. The imminent upheaval in Palestine, and certain other signs, indicate the Lord's early return, and the end of the time of the Gentile. The door to salvation will then be shut against those who have rejected Christ."

Miss Margaret Sullivan very capably performed the duties of chairman, and music by the C.Y.F. chorus, conducted by Miss Marjorie Hales, was warmly received by the audience. The all girl choir contributed two numbers, "Some of These Days" and "Jesus and I". A vocal solo "Make Me a Blessing" by Miss Isobel Richardson, was thoroughly appreciated, as was a number by the trio composed of Misses Jean Cook, Eleanor Barragar, and Marian Allan. A tiny tot, Lenore Dixon, captivated the hearts of all as she sang "Jesus Bids Us Shine". Pianist of the evening was Miss Edna Johson.

The pastoral prayer was given by Miss Audrey Brown, the offertory prayer by Miss Joyce Harris, while Miss Margaret Hagerman read the Scripture Lesson. Miss Shirley, the guest speaker, pronounced the benediction.

Bad Eyesight? Don't Make It Worse For Lack of Proper Care

Because she gives them proper care and enough rest, Screen Star Evelyn Keyes has beautiful eyes

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN eyes have warmth, sparkle and pleasing expression they are—from the standpoint of beauty—the most attractive feature. They are also the most useful and the most abused. Nearsightedness and farsightedness may change the size and the shape of them.

If a woman refrains from wearing glasses because she vainly imagines they will make her look older or academic, she is doing herself an injustice. The most diligent beautifying endeavors will not compensate for what impaired eyesight may do to appearance.

Nervous System

It is estimated that 70 per cent of patients who consult eye specialists the first time suffer from headaches. The effect upon the nervous system may be deplorable. Give aid to tired eyes and you will look out upon a cheerier world.

Tension and strain cause the delicate muscles to contract; then the soul windows appear dull and lifeless. There are other by-products, frowns and squint lines. The tissues surrounding the eyes may become darkened or swollen. Be good to your eyes, and they will be good to you.

Weakening Effect

Emotional sprees have a weakening effect upon the eyes. Getting so mad one sees red means precisely and exactly that. The woman who indulges in bawling spells is being mean to herself; she creates all manner of pulchritude griefs that cannot be overcome or corrected.

Twice a day the eyes should be bathed with warm water, then with cold; in the morning to remove secretions that have accumulated during sleep and to give freshness of appearance; at bedtime to remove dust and grime that has collected on the lids and lashes during the day.

Fashion Flashes

MOST BEAUTIFUL snowdrift of the season is a full-length, wide cape of snowy white fox mounted on white chiffon, with the filmy fabric finely pleated between the skins.

ENCHANTING evening gowns seen at recent events include many filmy black and white models. Black net, tucked finely all over, is used for a pretty frock with a strapless bodice. The skirt is composed of three stiffened, flaring tiers, under each of which is tucked pale pink velvet roses. Similar roses under the ruffle at the decolletage.

BIGGEST SEASON ever for scarfs. A beauty is of chiffon printed in ovals and single figures, depicting events and characters from the various works of Charles Dickens. Off-white, brown and green with black lines.

IT'S NOT EASY to choose from this Spring's hat line-up. Nice for wear with a suit is an off-the-face sailor of moss-green Milan straw mounted on a front bandeau of massed white lilacs. The hat is misted with moss-green chenille-dotted veiling which ties under the chin at the side.

LONG AWAITED, and here at last, is the high-rising girdle, which extends some three inches above the waistline for real diaphragm control. Strategic placing of bent bones and tiny elastic inserts make this line possible. This type of girdle is being shown even in junior foundations.

THE RETURN ENGAGEMENT of the long, fitted coat had made its imprint even on little-girl fashions. For the 10-14 year bracket is a pretty coat, a fitted model, with a deep, shoulder capelet and slanting hip-pocket-flaps. Four button closing below notched revers, and button-trimmed, seemed detail for the capelet. Pretty in gray, navy, tan or soft pink woolen.

REMARKABLE how Alaska sealskin, without any real fanfare, has quickly come to the fore as an important fur, taking the place of sheared beaver or nutria. Black dyed Alaska seal is used for a handsome coat that is all of 47 inches long and is worn tightly wrapped around the figure to a tapering hemline. Easy sleeve, notched collar.

BEST WAY to avoid monotony in a restricted wardrobe is via basic frocks, skirts and blouses plus a big supply of colorful silk scarfs. Drape them into aprons, back bustles, petal collars and girdles for good effort.

Very Few long jackets, except for the really tailored suit mark the new Spring suit line-up. Gray sharkskin is used for a pretty bolero suit that is tied under its stitched pointed collar with a scarf of taffeta shaded from pale violet to rose. Two buttons accent deep, turnback cuffs or three-quarter length sleeves, and rows of stitching outline the jacket's curving lines. Flared skirt has arched waist-

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

To Brighten Drab Hair

For some unknown reason the woman with drab hair feels that nature has short-changed her. Often, however, her hair is the perfect complement for the tones of her complexion and the color of her eyes. But she considers it a terrific beauty trial. She complains that she is neither blonde nor brunette, but a betwixt-and-between. She would prefer to be definitely classified.

Usually she has the skin coloring of the blonde, or maybe a skin with a golden cast, which is attractive. If she coquettes with the idea of a color change, darker shades do not tempt her. She would be a golden girl. She wonders if she will find comfort in the peroxide bottle. If that notion is buzzing round inside her head, let her find out definitely what she will be in for if she takes the fatal bleaching step.

Drab hair can be bleached, of course. When the presto-change act is accomplished by an expert, who understands cosmetic magic, all is well and good. The results are satisfactory. When bleaching is done at home, there is sure to be trouble brewing. The experimenter will, in fact, be pouring troubles on her head.

In bleaching, as in dyeing, the first treatment is not the end of the project. Nature goes right on about her business of pushing a new growth of hair out from the scalp. This new growth varies in length from four to six inches a year. Close to the scalp will be the same old mousey shade while the rest of the hair will be golden. That means that there, must be a touch-up every six weeks or so.

This treatment must be given with great care. No new application of peroxide should overlap a previous one; to do that is to weaken the shafts so that they will become dry and jute-like, break at the touch of the comb. Only the new growth must have a peroxide bath To administer the touch-up oneself is, of course, impossible. So one must trot to the beauty shop, shell out money from the good-looks budget.

Let her find out what she will be in for before she bleaches

The peroxide rinse, as given by an experienced operator, is a better solution than the regular bleaching treatment. But even these rinses must not be given too frequently.

In France, the camomile rinse is popular. French women, being thrifty, do not crowd beautytoriums, as they do in Uncle Sam's domain. The drab-haired lady takes a heaping tablespoonful of camomile leaves, steeps them in a quart of water for five minutes, strains and cools, pours the liquid over her head immediately after the shampoo. The result is not a decided color change, just a pleasing brightening of the hair.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Man Would Make a Poor Husband

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 20, and very fond of a young man of 23 with whom I have been going steady for six months.

My mother is very much against this young man because she says he drinks too much and his family has a bad reputation. So she will not allow me to see him. I don't want to hurt my mother because I have always been taught to respect my parents, but this young man doesn't really drink as much as my mother says he does. He only drinks when I get him angry, or when he is downhearted. What should I do?

Helen.

Dear Helen:

It is a poor omen for the future when any man drinks because things have gone wrong for him. To start drinking in order to escape from unpleasantness is one of the surest ways to become a chronic alcoholic.

If this young man drinks now when you make him angry, he is certainly not going to stop doing so when you are his wife, and you are going to be a sorry girl if you take on a husband with a character so weak that he cannot stand it when things do not suit him.

He is going to be downhearted a great many times in his life, like all other human beings. If the only way he knows how to meet it is to start drinking, the outlook for him, and any girl he marries, is a tragic one.

Consider Your Daughter's Happiness "Puzzled"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a daughter 18 years old who is going to be married soon. I was divorced from her father a number of years ago and have remarried.

My daughter came to my house and asked me to come to her wedding reception. As I do not speak to any of her father's family, and don't know any of her friends, I don't feel as though I want to go. When I tell my husband about this, I don't think he will want to go either, because we would feel foolish. Please advise me what to do.

"Puzzled".

Dear "Puzzled":

It seems to me that when your daughter wants you at her wedding enough to come and ask you to be there, it would be rather selfish to put your feelings ahead of hers. What difference does it make if you would "feel a little foolish," when your presence would make your daughter happy on what should be the happiest day of her life? Moreover, why prolong the unpleasantness of a situation that was ended by your divorce by refusing to speak to any of your former husband's family? It would be far more dignified to speak to them casually and let it go at that.

There certainly is no reason why your present husband should go to this affair if he doesn't want to, and while it might not be pleasant for you to go alone, it wouldn't hurt you to do that and just stay a short time.

Bad Reputations Are Usually Deserved

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two fellows, soon to be 19 and 20. My buddy just got back from overseas and has been jilted three nights in a row by three different girls, and he felt so low that he was ready to enlist again.

With me, I know more girls than I can handle, and am always fixing my buddies up. But the girls we used to go with told all the other girls that we have bad reputations. I know we haven't done anything fiendish, but the girls expect us to be angels, and are ruining our chances.

What should we do? Can anything be done about our old girl friends?

"Whitey"

Dear "Whitey":

If you and your buddies gave these "old girl friends" of yours reason to feel as they did, you have nobody but yourselves to blame for the fact that they have given you bad reputations. It probably isn't "angels" that the girls expect you to be, but merely gentlemen.

Nobody gets a bad reputation undeservedly. Your letter makes me believe that you had better do some work on yourselves if you want to be accepted as friends by nice girls.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Always Add Name to Title ..."Dr. Bryant"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

Will you please settle this question which is "under discussion" in our family: When you speak to your doctor (or dentist) is it always necessary to add his name, for example "Doctor Bryant?" Isn't it all right to address him as "Doctor?"

C. F. A.

When you address your doctor or dentist always add his name to his title .. "Doctor Bryant." You wouldn't address a man without a title as "Mr."... would you?

Should Two Spoons or Fork and Spoon be Placed?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a disagreement in our bridge club, —we appeal to you. Recently we were served ice cream in various shapes, cup cakes, and coffee, with which we were provided a teaspoon and a salad fork. Some of the group thought that we should have been given two teaspoons instead of one teaspoon and the fork. Personally, I hate to eat ice cream with a fork, so I used my one teaspoon for both the ice cream and coffee, breaking off pieces of the cup cake and eating it with my fingers. Some of the members used the fork for both cup cake and ice cream. Please tell us which is correct.

B. L.

I, too, dislike eating ice cream with a fork... but under the circumstances I would have preferred this rather than eating the ice cream and sipping the coffee with the same spoon. I am quite sure that the hostess intended the procedure chosen by members who used the fork for both cup cake and ice cream, the spoon for the coffee only, and this is a practical service very often used when ice cream, cake, and coffee (or tea) are served at tea-time, or for evneing refreshments.

In This Circumstance Large Wedding and Reception in Questionable Taste

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning on being married in about two months, to a young man whose wife died about fourteen months ago. What kind of wedding and reception would be proper for us to have under the above circumstances? I have many friends and would like to have a large reception, but would not like to make this plan if it is not suitable.

F. N.

Since your fiance's wife died so short a time ago, it would show best taste on both your part and on the part of your fiance to have a very small and simple wedding and reception, inviting only the members of the families and perhaps a few close relatives and intimate friends. Under the circumstances, for you to have a large reception would be in questionable taste. I suggest that sometime after the wedding — perhaps as a housewarming or a tea—invite your friends to your home.

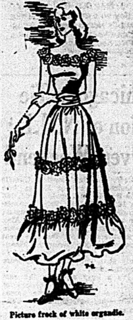
Youthful Dance Dress



Picture frock of white organdie.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

DEPICTED TODAY is a delightful dance dress designed for a young girl, a charming choice for that most important of events, her first real dance. It is a picture dress of white organdie with interesting detail. It has cut-out and appliqued flower motifs outlining the round neckline, forming two bands on the skirt. The bottom flange of the skirt is double puffed. The self sash is lined in pale blue and ties in back in a bow.

Montreal and Chicago in Tie For Cellar Position of N.H.L.; Leaders Win Over Weekend

With the league leaders matching strides over the weekend, the most decisive National Hockey League results were those which saw the fifth place Montreal Canadiens losing two games, and the tail end Chicago Black Hawks splitting even.

For the first time in many a moon, the lowly Black Hawks are no longer alone in the N.H.L. cellar. They're tied for fifth place with the Canadiens. But both are still seven points behind Boston Bruins, who hold the fourth and last qualifying position for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Canadiens now have just nine games left to overcome that seven point deficit if they are to enter the cup round. Chicago has only eight games left.

For the tail enders, it's just about hopeless. Canadiens still have two games against Toronto, one against Detroit, two against Boston, two against Rangers and two against Chicago. The Hawks have one game left against Toronto, two against Detroit, two against Rangers, one against Boston and two against Canadiens. The Montreal and Chicago clubs fought hard over this vital weekend but it was no go. Saturday the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs beat Chicago 4-3 while the second place Detroit Red Wings were easily trimming Canadiens 5-2. On Sunday, the New York Rangers topped Canadiens 5-3 in a bruising struggle at New York while the Hawks walloped Bruins 5-1 at Chicago.

Roll Up 2-0 Lead

At Toronto Saturday the Hawks actually rolled up a 2-0 lead before the Leafs got going. Gus Bodnar and Bill Gadsby scored the first two. Then Leafs got four in a row, extending over the second and third periods, with goals for Max Bentley, Nick Metz Syl Apps and Joe Klukay. Gadsby's goal was the only other score.

For Captain Sylvanus Apps of the Leafs it was the 194th goal in N.H.L. play. Apps later won the verdict over defenceman Ralph Nattrass of the Hawks in a wrestling match which accompanied a third period brawl started by bashing Bill Barilko of the Leafs and Red Hamill. All four were chased for roughing.

At Montreal Saturday the Canadiens outshot the Wings 21-17 but sloppy passing and great goaltending by Harry Lumley in the Detroit cage kept them off the score sheet most of the way. The Detroit goals were divided among Bill Quackenbush, Ted Lindsay, Jimmy McFadden, Pete Horeck and Gordon Howe. Maurice Richard and Howard Ripelle scored for Canadiens.

Rangers piled up a 3-0 lead at New York Sunday but Canadiens came right back to tie the score before the second frame was over. Then Rangers got the only two goals of the third period. Rene Trudell returned to the Ranger line-up to score the first goal, Ed Kullman scored twice and Tony Leswick and Buddy O'Connor got the others, Murph Chamberlain, Bill Reay and Elmer Lach scored for Canadiens, all within four minutes in the sceond period.

Phil Watson of New York drew a five minute penalty for high-sticking one of 11 penalties during the game which saw a fight between Roger Leger and rookie Don Raleigh of Rangers that brought his first penalty of the season, two minutes for roughing.

The victory for Chicago over Boston Sunday boosted Charlie Conacher's revived Hawks into the lead in total goals scored, 166 to 165 for Detroit. Roy Conacher scored two of them and earned an assist besides. Bud Poile, Alex Kaleta and Metro Prystal were the others to beat Boston's great goalie Frankie Brimsek. Meantime Pete Babando scored Bruin's only goal while the Hawks were shorthanded.

It's a busy schedule the rest of the week, with Toronto at Rangers tomorrow, three games Wednesday and Boston at Canadiens Thursday.

Citation Picked To Win Derby At Louisville

New York, March 1. (AP)—The Kentucky Derby is a couple of months away but many racegoers will provide you with the name of the winne rof the run for the roses today—Citation, Warren Wright's sensational three year old colt.

Citation enhanced his rapidly-growing reputation by streaking to a six-length victory in the $50,000 adde dFlamingo stakes at Hialeah Saturday.

The win was the magnificent colt's 12th in 13 starts and overshadowed Talon's winning of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap at Arcadia, Calif.

Citation, going to the post as a 1 to 5 favorite, shortest priced starter in the 19-year-history of the Flamingo, toured the mile and one-eighth in 1.48 4-5. Only Brevity's 1936 time of 1.48 1-5 bettered thies time in the Flamingo.

The victory added $43,500 to Citation's earnings.

At Arcadia, Talon really had to step to grab the $100,000 handicap the six-year-old Argentine galloper won by a nise from On Trust in one of the closest wind-ups of the 11 runnings of the event.

Eddie Arcaro was aboard Tallon who returned $6.90, $4.10 and $3.10.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Hockey railbirds who draped themselves over the boards, in the seats, the alleyways and sometimes in the way, during the training tenure of the Philadelphia Rockets here last October, will recall big burly Ed Bush, powerful defenceman, who took his training albeit seriously yet with a boyish exuberance that at times bordered on the clowning stage.

• • •

The sparsely-thatched blueline Goliath of the Rockets, who spent a few of his very early years in Picton where his father was the chief of police before transferring his interests and family to Collingwood, Ont., has hit the hockey headlines with an establishment of two new American Hockey League records.

• • •

In his first 58 games, Bush has amassed 58 points — one more than the former record—twenty-three markers establishes a scoring record for defencemen while his point aggregate smashes the A. H. L. mark of 57 points held by Roger Leger who set the record while a member of the Buffalo Bisons.

• • •

And the colorful bad man of the Rockets, has a few games yet in which he can better both marks.

• • •

Bush does not have a particularly wicked shot but he breaks fast, carries the puck cleverly and when he gets near the goal has what experts call "shooter's instinct"....he instinctively draws the goalkeeper out of position. He is one of the greatest offensive-defensive players in the league.

• • •

MONDAY MEANDERINGS

The OHA powers-that-be have ordered the Trenton Flyers-Trenton Hockey Club to settle their group Intermediate "A" finals in a two-of-three series instead of three-of-five.. Both teams will register a squawk..Games are scheduled for Tuesday, Saturday, this week, and Tuesday next week, so far, that is..Trenton Town and Merchants Midgets had strenuous workouts over the weekend..Talk about loyalty.. Kid supporters of the Midgets turn out in crowds to the practices..Petes Hockey Club nosed city pals, the Legion 4-3 in their first "B" finals playoff game in Omemee Friday.. Nice pleasant game, tis said, a regular Alphonse-Gaston affair with 21 penalties dished out..Stirling Midget "C" crew were stormbound on Saturday and couldn't make the trip to Ajax..They play the scheduled second game of the goals-to-count series tonight in Stirling..If you want to see a nifty team of Midget C's in action, hop in the family jalopy and trek out to Stirling this evening..Roc Hermiston's kids have yet to be defeated, and are flying high towards that provincial title.. Wally Stefaniw, Philly Rockets centre is only 7 assists away from an American League record. He got three on Sat. evening..Who holds the record?.. Has coach Wally Kilrea who amassed 68 assists while with Hershey in 1942-43..There goes the power.

• • •

But, Bush also has a penchant for getting tossed into the "cooler". Last season he set an all-time American League mark for minutes spent in the penalty box. He served 182 minutes behind the boards. Thus far this years he has spent 130 minutes in the cooler.

• • •

At the beginning of this season he said he was going to be a good boy—keep out of trouble and keep his temper calm. But Bush can't be a good boy. When someone starts booting the smaller Rockets around, he's the father protector. He sees red and goes out to give the opposition a lesson.

• • •

That is what happened in Buffalo a few weeks ago when he tangled with big Art Lessard and almost caused a riot. Lessard, who is no small pip squeak himself at 210 pounds, charged after little John Mahaffy of the Rockets as the latter had his back turned and was going toward the Rockets' bench.

Lessard hit Mahaffy in the small of the back with his stick. The full force of 210 lbs. travelling at a high rate of speed, crumpled Mahaffy under the attack like a paper bag folded in the middle.

• • •

The next time Bush goth the puck he started straight down the ice at Lessard. As he neared the Reds' defence, Bush dropped the puck and gave the big fellow all he had. Lessard went up in the air like a booted balloon and came down on his face.

• • •

When there is trouble on the ice you will always find Bush in the midst of it. Lefty Jordan, trainer of the Rockets has nicknamed him "Bush Fire" because he gets on fire when there is a fight.

• • •

Six years ago when he was playing defence for Detroit in the National League, the Red Wings went to Montreal to meet the Canadiens. Jimmy Orlando's father was in the stands. Jimmy was one of Bush's teammates. The game was rough. There was a big brawl on the ice and spectators started to fight among themselves. A gang picked on Orlando's father.

• • •

Bush saw what was going on, dropped his stick, climbed up in the stands and started swinging his fists to protect Orlando's Dad. Bush got a match penalty for this — but three spectators got black eyes.

• • •

He is seldom knocked off his feet and despite hundreds of bumps has been in the hospital for only two stitches.

• • •

Strangely enough this injury was not sustained during a fight. It came at the faceoff when the opposing stickhandler accidentally lifted his club when driving at the puck.

• • •

He is one of the fastest skaters on the team and has the shooting instinct of a wingman, invariably hitting the corners when he scores.

• • •

It was as a wingman that he graduated from the Guelph Juniors — his last amateur club — to the Detroit Red Wings in 1938. Then started a junket of cross country hopping from Detroit to Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Providence, Detroit, and St. Louis, that came to a stop at the Arena this year.

• • •

Bush's scoring record this year is not an accident. He set a new Stanley Cup mark in the 1941-42 playoffs when he scored 5 points on 2 goals and 3 assists in a game against Toronto. And last year while dividing his timie between St. Louis and Providence, he totalled 37 points. Ever since he entered the league he has been among the leading defence point makers.

Bush is married and has two children, Sandra Louis, 6, and Eddie Jr., 2. He lives in Collingwood, Ont., where he was born 29 years ago and now owns his own home. During the off season, he works as a ship builder at the Collingwood Ship Yards.

C.R.U. Appoints 5-Man Committee To Make Report

Toronto, March 1 — (CP) — Football moved towards reversing its short-sighted policy on developing homebrew talent by appointing a committee Saturday to study means of revising official east-west junior playoffs by next season.

Delegates of affiliated leagues at the Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting voted unanimously to appoint the five - man committee after statements on the floor made it evident age-limit violations were rampant, in Ontario at least, due to lack of supervision.

The issue was touched off by last season's unofficial junior final at Vancouver when the Blue Bombers defeated Hamilton Tigers, the east's Big Four representative. Eddie McLean, Ontario Rugby Football Union delegate, charged that his league was "sold down the river" in that affair.

Though the C. R. U. had decided not to sponsor an official junior final last season, it "stepped in at the last minute" and arbitrarily ruled against Hamilton Wildcats, O. R. F. U. representatives, making the trip because the team had five over-age players. He produced birth certificates purporting to show that two Tigers who played in Vancouver were over age.

Percy Robinson, C. R. U. secretary, confirmed that the union had ruled against Wildcats but said the final was not recognized by the C. R. U. because no official eastern champion was declared.

Vote to Bolt O.R.F.U.

Last season's scrambled Ontario playoff situation had a sequel in London, Ont., Friday night. Delegates representing some 17 Western Ontario junior teams voted to bolt the O.R.F.U. because of the union's refusal to uphold protests against Wildcats using over - age players in league playoffs.

It was reported the Big Four was prepared to sponsor entry of a new junior league in the C.R.U. Neither the Big Four nor the O. R. F. U. brought it up on the floor of the C. R. U. meeting but Robinson read a letter from a "new junior league" — without disclosing its identity — seeking admission to the C.R.U.

It was decided the new committee would undertake to untangle the entire junior situation. It will discuss means of policing age-limit regulations, financing and feasibility of reviving east-west junior playoffs, reporting its recommendations to the C. R. U. by June 15.

The last official east - west final was held in 1932 when University of Toronto defeated Moose Jaw 8-6, and the next year the C.R.U. sponsored its last official junior final when Toronto Argonauts defeated Montreal Westwards 14-6.

T. H. C. Allison, Toronto Argonaut president who was appointed committee chairman, said "if we concentrate on developing our Canadian talent, we may be ab to do without imports that mu sooner."

Other committee members i clude McLean, Insky, Dr. J. O'Connor of Toronto and Jess F ton of Toronto, acting secretary

SAVE ELECTRICITY!

YOU CAN SAVE ELECTRICITY

The tremendous post-war growth of Ontario's industries has resulted in unprecedented demands for hydro-electric power. To keep these industries producing, every one of us must cut down our use of electricity. You can save power by turning off all lights in rooms not in use . . . by switching off electric stoves and other appliances as soon as you are finished with them. Use electrically heated water sparingly . . . do not use electric heaters or grates. Save all the electricity you can . . . in your home, your office, your shop . . . and prove your "Good Citisenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citisenship.

Houston Huskies In First Place South Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Houston Huskies, scoring leaders in the United States Hockey League, took over first place in the southern division of the league with a 10-4 victory over Minneapolis Millers last night. Minneapolis leads the northern division.

Kansas City, meanwhile, hung on to second place in the northern division with a 6-4 decision over Omaha Knights. In the third Sunday night game St. Paul Saints downed Fort Worth Rangers also 6-4.

In the Houston tussle, George Agar, scored three for the Huskies as did Jack Gesbrecht. Frank Melong, Bob Blake, Hugh Currie and Ducky Skimmer got the others.

Minneapolis scorers were Bus Wycherly with two, Art Strobel and Walt Melnyk.

St. Paul scorers were Lin Bend, with two, Fred Shero, Mitch Pechet, Leo Levandoski and Hal Brown. Fred Weaber, Len Mutcheson, Alex Ritson and Billy Warwick were the Fort Worth marksmen.

Ray Powell and Larry Silvestri led the Kansas City squad with two goals each, with singles from Hank Blade and Dick Butler. Omaha scorers were Sam Lavitt, Max McNab, Nelson Boyce and Bernie strongman.

Omaha defeated Tulsa 4-2 and Dallas shot out St. Paul 6-0 in the League's Saturday night card. No games are scheduled for tonight.

Baseball Clubs Start Spring Training in South

New York March 1 —(AP) — Major league baseball clubs today knuckled down to the serious business of getting into shape for the 1948 season by beginning their sprin g. training programs.

Banned by a major league rule from starting spring training before March 1, the players will be forced to round into playing form quicker than usual.

All clubs were scheduled to hold workouts today and the athletes will have few breathing spells between now and the start the regular season.

Beginning Saturday when Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox meet at Los Angeles and Cleveland Indians and New York Giants battle at Tucson, Ariz., the clubs will play a total of 378 "grapefruit league" games.

With the exception of Brooklyn Dodgers, all of the club nines are doing their tarining in the United States. The Dodgers are getting ready for the National league campaign at Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic. Five American and foud National League teams are going through the paces in Florida while two from each circuit are conditioning in California and one from each league in Arizona.

Buddy O'Connor of New York retained his four-point lead over Toronto's Max Bentley as each earned a goal during the weekend, but a new threat for National League scoring honors came up in Norman (Bud) Poile of Chicago who added two points and now is only one behind Max. O'Connor has 53, Max 49, and Poile 48. Biggest gainer was Doug Bentley of the Hawks who collected three assists to move into a fourth-place tie with Montreal's Elmer Lach.

Never Intended Flyers Should Play For Allan Cup

By The Canadian Press

Defence Minister Claxton last night denied suggestions that the R.C.A.F. Flyers, Olympic hockey champions, are being "railroaded" into the Allan Cup playoffs.

"There never was any question of the Flyers playing in the Allan Cup," he said, commenting on a Paris dispatch that the Flyers "fear" an attempt to "railroad" them into the Allan Cup competition.

Mr. Claxton said at Ottawa that one of the R.C.A.F. stars, George Mara, already is home in Toronto and the main body of the team was expected "about March 20."

Directors of the Pacific Coast Hockey League will meet heads of the National, American and United States Hockey Leagues within two weeks to discuss plans for affiliation on the Coast League as a professional circuit, it was learned at Vancouver yesterday.

Queen's University Golden Gaels scored a 51-49 upset over McGill Redmen in the season's last senior intercollegiate basketball at Queen's gym Saturday.

Vancouver players rank as top contenders for title honors in the Canadian badminton championships opening at Toronto Wednesday. The Canadian Badminton Association, announcing its seeding last night, placed players from the west coast city in the No. 1 spot in four of five events.

University of Toronto Seniors whipped a 50-48 win over University of Western Ontario in the dying seconds of an overtime session at Toronto Saturday. Earlier, Western Colts edged Varsity's seconds 52-50, also in overtime. The victory placed the Colts in a tie with Varsity for the Intercollegiate Intermediate title.

The semi-annual meeting of the Inter-County Senior Baseball League to be held at Guelph, March 31, is expected to decide on the number of teams which will play in the 1948 league.

Last year the league operated as an eight-club circuit. Hamilton and Brantford have yet to make up their bind but Galt, Waterloo, Kitchener, Guelph, Stratford and London have indicated interest and it is expected Windsor will seek admission.

Queen's University girls basketball team captured the Bronze Baby—emblematic of Senior Intercollegiate championship— for the first time since 1935 when they gained a last-minute 16-14 victory over McGill in the final game of the two-day tournament at Kingston Saturday.

Cellus Skavaas, 53-year-old Norwegian, won the combined cross-country and jumping events at Huntsville's first invitation ski meet of the winter Saturday. Best distance on jumps was 107 feet by K. Bogan of Sudbury.

Squash racquet players of Hart Ontario championships at the House Club, Toronto, swept the Hamilton Thistle Club during the weekend. Jack Leibel successfully defended the singles title while a five man team defeated Toronto's B. and R. quintet 3-2.

Goalie Jack Donlevy of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association Montreal Royals, has been suspended for one year for striking a Verdun Leafs player. The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association ruling, which will keep him out of competitive hockey until Feb. 24, 1949, stemmed from an incident last Tuesday when Donlevy left his nets and clubbed Leafs' Kenny Biggs across the face with his stick. He claimed afterwards that Biggs had slashed him during an earlier goal-mouth scramble.

Preliminary post-morten examination into the death of Elroy De Catur, 20-year-old Negro boxer who died in the ring Friday night, showed that the fighter had been suffering from a heart condition. De Catur, making his first professional start, collapsed and died in the Hollywood Stadium ring 10 seconds before the end of the fourth and last round of a bout he was winning against Fred Herrera, 20, of Jerome, Ariz.

Lawson Little, 37-year-old veteran golfer, shot his best round of the tournament to win the $2,000 top prize in the St Petersburg, Fla. open yesterday. His 72 hole total was 272, just 16 under par. South African Bobby Locke was second with 275.

Jockey Chris Rogers of Hamilton, Ont., suffered minor injuries in the seventh race at Hialeah Race Course Saturday when his mount, Canadian-bred Kingarvie, spilled near the last turn. Owned by R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont., Kingarvie who is among the Dominion's leading Canadian-bred money winners, suffered no ill effects.

R.C.A.F. Flyers, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, overwhelmed Czechoslovakia 8-4 at Paris Saturday night in the opening game of an international tournament which ends March 6.

Montreal, March 1—(CP)— Most hockey teams with elimination staring them in the face would be content to have a few extra practice sessions in an attempt to make the playoffs. But such is not the case with Montreal Canadians.

The fifth-place habitants, who are given little chance of making the National Hockey League playoffs, went out Thursday night and tried the latest hockey "invention."

The new system, introduced by New York Rangers genial coach, Frank Boucher, eliminates the centre red line, moves the blue lines 10 ft. closer together and makes forward passes legal to the opponents' blue line.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson said that neither coach Dick Irwin nor manager Frank Selke, particularly Selke, were impressed by the new idea.

Said Selke: "there's too much long forward passing now. I can't imagine a crowd getting a thrill out of a 50-foot forward pass that any kid might make. But in a shorter pass, with stick-handling to back it up and follow it, there's really a thrill. We don't need any more rules to open up hockey. We need some to encourage and make essential better stick - handling and short passing."

While N.H.L. games are handled by one referee two referees each with equal authority, skate up and down the ice lanes in the Quebec Senior Loop. Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara commented: "It is evident that under the one referee system now in vogue that smart coaches are beating the rules all hollow. For a long time we held to the one referee idea, but now we think that two men would be beter.' '.

Thinking of the Detroit Red Wings much-publicized football play, O'Meara said two referees could keep a closer watch on the offenders. Two "ice cops" may err on the side of severity, said Baz but "at least they have the interference stuff well curbed."

Several Players On Black Hawks Know J. Tamer

Chicago, March 1. (AP)— Weston Adams, president of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, said last night that "several players" on the team had told him they knew convicted Gambler James Tamer.

"Several told me they knew him, but knew nothing of his background," Adams was quoted as saying: "They emphatically denied ever making any bets with him. They met him just as they met countless others who go to hockey games.

"While in Chicago I've been checking some things contained in recent stosies about betting. Anything I may have found out was entirely satisfactory and entirely in the favor of hockey."

Tamer, a gambler and bank robber parolee, is being held at the Jackson, Mich., prison as a parole violator. He was reported to have had telephone conversations concerning the placing of bets with a member of the Bruins and New York Rangers. The Detroit Times said a member of the Blackhawks also was included in the scandal.

Charges of an alleged gambler player tie up in the National Hockey League will be aired at Lansing, Mich., tomorrow in the office of State Governor Kim Sigler.

Adams and his coach, Dit Clapper said they would attend. Bill Tobin, president of the Blackhawks, said he did not plan to go to the hearing "unless I am called upon."

ROY CONACHER, CHICAGO who scored twice and helped on another counter as Hawks hammered Boston 5-1 Sunday.

Oshawa Generals Even Series With Windsor Spitfires

(By The Canadian Press)

The question of whether Oshawa Generals or Windsor Spitfires will go into the final round of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs still awaits settlement. The fourth game of their best-of-seven semi-final series served only to tie the round at two games each.

Generals handed Spitfires a 4-2 defeat in their encounter Saturday, with Eric Pogue scoring two goals and an assist for Oshawa. The teams clash again in Windsor tonight and will return to Oshawa for the sixth game.

Oshawa's other tallies were rifled in by LaFrance and Scott, while Haldy and Quackenbush clicked for Winddsor. Liveliest period was the scoreless third, which saw Scott and Bush tangled in a scrap and six penalties handed out.

Barrie Flyers and Galt Rockets launched theirbest- of-five semi-final series in Barrie Saturday night and the visitors went home with a 3-2 victory. Harry Pidherny scored the winning goal at 15:10 of the last period.

When the puck bounced off a Barrie defender in the first stanza a fluke counter was credited to Galt defenceman Robie Robertson. Gil St. Pierre tied the score in the second period and sent Flyers ahead with a second goal early in the third frame. Three minutes later Pidberny set up Wiggy Wylie for Galt's tying goal and paved the way for his own winning marker.

The teams go to Galt tonight for the return match.

In the Senior A semi-finals, the only game scheduled for tonight is the second game in the best-of-five series between Owen Sound Mercurys and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen at Owen Sound. The Flying Dutchmen took a one-game lead last Friday by trimming Mercurys 7-2.

Cleveland Barons Vault Into First Place in League

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons vaunted into first place in the American Hockey League's western circuit over the weekend, climaxing a drive that has carried the red-hot Barons from last place.

On Saturday they were held to a 3-3 draw by New Haven Ramblers but on Sunday Cleveland found the range and bumped St. Louis 5-2. The triumph gave them a one-point lead over Pittsburgh Hornets.

The second-place Wasps dropped a 5-2 verdict to Indianapolis Sunday after tying St. Louis 3-3 Saturday.

Meanwhile Providence Reds clinched first place in the eastern circuit by whipping Hershey 10-3 after the Bears had downed Indianapolis 5-2 on Saturday.

Buffalo Bisons romped off with two victories to remain in the running for first place in the west. Bisons now trail Cleveland by four points with five games to play. Bisons shut out Washington 4-0 last night after bouncing Philadelphia 7-4 the night before.

New Haven edged Springfield 4-3 last night after the Indians had tied Washington 5-5 on Saturday to round out the heavy weekend schedule.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Normal responding bids promise a set of precise minimums. An entirely different set of advices are given by special responding bids. This permits some answer for almost any type of hand.

Replying to an opening of one, partner one-jumps at once if he has enough tricks with two sure among them. Without two sure, he finds some bid other than an immediate one-jump.

Replying to an opening of one, suppose partner sees enough of tricks to help make a game. With his tricks are not two sure. Instead of a one-jump his immediate reply may be a double-jump.

South opened with a bid of one heart, North held this hand:

♥J 9 8 7 6
♦A
♣J 7 6 4 3 2

See the five tricks in the north hand. They are one for the ace (high card), two for the shorts in spades and two for the shorts in diamonds. Add them to the five promised by an opener.

With heart support these five tricks are enough help for game in that suit. There is a signal for showing tricks enough to make a game. The signal is a jump bid of some kind.

Lacking two high cards, north must not make a normal non-jump responding bid. Lacking two sure tri kc hmsuest two sure tricks he must not one-jump to a bid of three hearts. But he can double jump to four hearts.

Will partner read the type of holding? He should. It states: "With heart support and enough tricks for game I lack two sure for a one-jump. Count on me for ruffing values mostly."

When this deal was played, the one heart opening was doubled by west. Such a double requests his partner (east) to bid something. It should not prevent north from giving the information he intends.

Opponents are trying to defeat you. Your own partner is the one who is most likely to be telling you the truth. Most likely, that is.

Some partners reveal what others conceal.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 1—(CP)—Does television present a danger to the movies?

This question is being debated over tea cups and beer mugs in Hollywood these days. To get some divergent views on the subject, I have called another session of the A P Hollywood forum. The meeting will please come to order.

Humphrey Bogart: "Television presents no more danger to movies than did radio. They won't be able to present daily serials because actors can't memorize a new play each day. Television is good for sports but not everybody likes sports."

Director John Huston: "The only thing that will hurt movies is bad pictures."

Only an Infant

Lois Andrews (who has a television show on KTLA): "Television is only an infant now, but before long it will be a giant. I believe the film industry chiefs realize this and will protect themselves by entering the television field. If they don't—television will murder them."

Edward Arnold: "It presents the same danger that movies presented to the legitimate stage. But I think people will still want to go out of the home for entertainment. There's one thing to consider, though—what will happen when housewives no longer just listen to soap operas, but sit down and look at them, too. How will the housework get done?"

Paul Henreid: "It will undoubtedly take more customers away from the movies, since it provides another reason to stay home. And it will be a bad thing for entertainment, because the closer entertainment gets to the home, the cheaper it becomes. We can expect the same kind of thing we get on the radio—quiz shows, swing music and gun dramas."

No Cause for Worry

Wayne Morris: "I don't think there's any worry. Pictures could be done on television the way Alfred Hitchcock filmed 'Rope,' all in one take. But who is going to pay for such an expensive production?"

Red Skelton: "It might slow down pictures for a while, but it won't bring any disaster. People will still want to go to theatres, even if they can have a full-length feature in their homes. They like to dress up and step out, particularly those who don't drink, don't dance and don't go to night clubs."

Writer - director Claude Binyon: "Television is too technically imperfect to present any danger now. It has not found the secret of entertainment values."

Burr's

Burr's—for the second time Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Pringle, of the 3rd concession of Ameliasburg suffered the loss of home and contents by fire, which razed their dwelling on Friday evening last. The fire was caused by an exploding gasoline lantern, temporarily placed on the kitchen table. At the time children of the family were being readied for bed, but fortunately had not been taken upstairs, else they might not have been saved as the flames spread very rapidly. On Saturday evening friends and neighbors gathered to tender a household shower, but owing to the very unfavorable weather conditions, several were unable to attend, and it is hoped that these will not hesitate to send their contributions at their earliest convenience.

Croquinole Party

Owing to mild weather, what was planned as a sleighing party was converted into a croquinole party of nine tables, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burr, recently. Mrs. Burr was assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Wood. High score in croquinole was made by Mr. Elmer Osterhout. Mrs. Wood conducted games and a contest. Mrs. Charles Margetson was at piano for group singing of Easter hymns, as a choir practice in preparation for the Easter services at Bowerman's and Burr's appointments.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

The last Sunday evening service at Bowermans was cancelled due to the death of Rev. J. F. Lane's brother.

Mrs. Stanley Werden entertained for her father's birthday anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pooley and Mr. Clifford Pooley of Bloomfield, on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harns are keeping house at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, who are on an extended holiday in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Munro, Crofton, entertained at dinner Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Will Soble, Elsie and Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burr and Mr. and Mrs. Don Munro.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dick, Barbara and David, Gilead, were Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden. Mrs. Dick was among the delegates from Gilead's farm Forum to attend the zone rally held at Port Hope on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Pearsoll, Gilead, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harns and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Osterhout, Gordon and Keith, Rossmore, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Chase, Melville.

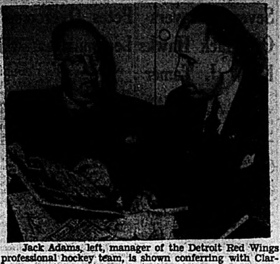
CONFER ON HOCKEY GAMBLING SCANDAL



Jack Adams, left, manager of the Detroit Red Wings professional hockey team, is shown conferring with Clarence Campbell, president of the National Professional Hockey League, who arrived in Detroit, Mich., from Montreal for gambling investigation. The two are discussing the stories of gambling involving hockey players. Campbell declared that any National Hockey League player found guilty of gambling through the offices of Detroit racketeers as alleged will be banned for life.

Father Will Not Allow Daughter To Return Home

Pittsburgh, March 1 (AP) — The father of Annabelle Irene Bucar, ex-university of Pittsburgh co-ed who announced her marriage to a Russian singer and quit her United States embassy job in Moscow, said today: "I won't let her come home."

"I cannot understan her leaving the best country in the world," declared Ivan Bucar, 51, a farmer. "I don't approve of her becoming Russian and I don't approve of Russia."

Miss Bucar said in Moscow that for 13 months she has been the wife of Konstantin Lapshin. Lapshin, about 35, sings with the Moscow Operetta theatre. The couple met about two years ago in Moscow when Miss Bucar came to the Soviet Union as a member of the United Information service.

She said she felt further work with the embassy "would be incompatible with my present views."

In her letter of resignation, Miss Bucar said she had acquired a real understanding of the Russians. She said the policy of the United States embassy "is directed against these people."

Five Are Killed When Snowplow CrashesintoEngine

Hanna, Alta, March 1 (CP) — Five men were killed and five injured here Saturday night when a Canadian National Railways snowplow crashed into the rear of a yard engine in the railway yards here.

The dead, all C.N.R. employees are: E. W. Lloyd, Hanna, engineer of the yard engine; A. Ochronowich, Kindersley, Sask., section man; S. Blazenko, Alsask, Sask., section foreman; N. A. Ravion, Manengo., Section foreman; J. Slobodnik, Arengo, Sask., section man.

The west-bound wedge-type plow was reported to have been pushing snow as it entered the yards with a number of the section men riding in the cupola. Some observers thought vision of the engineer may have been obscured by the flying snow.

As it rammed the rear of the yard engine, part of the locomotive tender rode up onto the blade of the plow and smashed into the cupola, killing four of the men.

Fireman Fred Scoka was trapped in the wreckage for more than two hours before being freed by C.N.R. workmen using acetylene torches to cut through the tangled wreckage.

ITALIAN STATESMEN MEET

Vittorio Emmanuele Orlando, left, is shown embracing his life-long friend, F. S. Nitti, at the funeral of the latter's wife. Orlando is the last of the "Big Four" of the Versailles treaty. The two men are, today, the most outstanding Italian personalities of the pre-Fascist era.

Three Wounded Over Juke Box Continual Playing

New York, March 1 (AP) — Continual playing of the tune "Civilization" on the juke box in a Manhattan bar early today led to the shooting of three persons.

The victims, police said, were red-haired Josephine Ostoloco, 20, who had fed nickels for the same song for an hour, a seaman who objected and the bartender, Nemesio Calasen, 47.

Police said Filipe Torres, 30, the sailor, shot the woman and then the bartender when the latter tried to pick her up from the floor. Torres was wounded and seized later in a gun duel with police on a subway platform.

Bullets flew when the woman changed a $1 bill at the bar and walked toward the juke box after she had played "Civilization" over and over again.

The victims were reported in serious condition.

Police said Torres seized a patron of the bar and forced him to accompany him as a "hostage" as he escaped.

The unidentified man, possibly also wounded in the subway gunfire, jumped over a turnstile and fled.

WANTED TO WORK TO 100

Desbarats, Ont., March 1—(CP) — Death has foiled the ambition of telephone operator Matilda Bretz to work to the age of 100. Miss Bretz, on the job here since 1914 and regarded as one of the world's oldest telephone operators, died last week in this Algoma district village 30 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie age 92.

Quake Awakens Residents In South California

Los Angeles, March 1 —(AP)— An earthquake of moderate intensity awakened residents throughout a pie-shaped belt of Southern California early today but apparently caused no damage.

It's greatest force was felt in the San Bernardino Valley, 40 to 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

The quake was felt at 12:12 a.m. PST with an aftershock a minute later.

The tremor, which shook homes and rattled windows, was the second in 12 days. A severe quake jolted the Los Angeles area Feb. 19.

The cities of San Bernardino, Riverside, Upland and Pomona all reported a fairly severe jarring tremor this morning.

The quake's centre apparently was somewhere along the San Andreas Fault, to the north of Upland and San Bernardino. The fault — a crack in the earth's crust along which most earthquakes occur — runs almost the length of California.

The San Francisco quake of 1906 and severe shocks in Santa Barbara, San Jacinto and the Imperial Valley all have occurred along this rift.

The finals series will be a two - game goals-to-count affair.

16-Day Search Ends With Arrest Of Two Men

Hawkesbury, Ont., March 1 — (CP) — A 16-day search for thieves who broke into a company pay office at Kilmar mine, 12 miles from Calumet, Que., and escaped with a $25,000 payroll ended here yesterday when police arrested Doris Demers, 35, Hawkesbury, and another man, unidentified, of Grenville, Que.

Demers is a former employee of the mine.

The robbery occurred during the early hours of Feb. 13. Thieves smashed open a heavy safe and escaped with the payroll meant for 400 mine employees.

Little Benny's Note Book

During fizzeology Miss Kitty was telling the class about eating being important for your health, especially eating too mutch instead of just enough, saying, If nobody ever over ate, you would hear mutch less talk about dieting. There is one general rule that you would all do well to remember, and that is, always get up from the table feeling you are quite sattisfied, or to use a more vulger werd, full. Well, Howerd? she said.

Meening Shorty Judge waving his hand, and Shorty said, Suppose you started your dinner with pie and kept on eating it just till you felt you could eat a little more, but not mutch? Would it be all rite to eat your vegetables anyways, on account of the vitamins and stuff, even if it made you feel too sattisfied and full? he said.

Nobody of any sense would dreem of eating a meal composed intirely of heavy startches, especially pastry, so I will desregard the ferst part of your question, Miss Kitty said. As for the 2nd part, I would say that it is almost impossible to eat too many good fresh vegetables, she said, and Raymin Levy waved his hand, saying, Is milk good food for people?

Indeed it is, it's the best food known, Miss Kitty said, and Raymin said, Well, creem is milk, and ice creem is made out of creem, so —would it be all rite to start with ice creem and eat till you felt almost sattisfied but not full and then eat a lot of fresh vegetables?

Dizzert in any form should come last, not ferst, and if you're already eaten enough it shouldn't come at all, now is that clear? Miss Kitty said, and I waved and she said, Has your question anything to do with eating fresh vegetables?

Yes mam, I said, and Miss Kitty said, Then keep it to yourself.

Which I did.

Adventure in Love

CHAPTER 22

Mrs Du Pays and Velma sat side by side on a red plush divan. A fire blazed in the wide stone fireplace before them, lighting the shadowed room, playing upon Velma's jaunty toque, the gold-threaded blouse she wore with her wine skirt.

Ruggles Capp stood with an arm resting on the white marble mantel, gazing soberly down at them.

"Velma," he said impressively, "if you were revengeful, you would gloat over the fact that Merry Dewey has gone to the wall."

She bounced upright, her eyes wide. "You mean—he's —he's lost his fortune?" she gasped unbelievingly.

"Exactly. Also, he's been indictated by the grand jury. He'll be put where he should have gone long ago."

"How—how terrible!" came from her in an awestruck whisper. "Poor Virginia!"

Immediately she thought of Flanders Smith's actions that night in the Club Bertrand. Did he have an inkling of what was about to happen to the Deweys?

"Perhaps you're too generous, my dear," put in Mrs. Du Pays. "Did the girl ever feel sorry for you?"

"That's different. She'd never had much luxury before she moved into our home—she didn't know the tragedy of losing everything. Now—she'll learn—and it can be painful!"

"I thought you'd ask if you could recover any of your father's holdings, Velma," went on Ruggles Capp mysteriously. "I see I'll be obliged to mention it first."

Velma jumped to her feet, laid her hands on his shoulder, her excited face peering up into his. "What —what are you trying to tell me?" she demanded tremulously.

He smiled broadly, clasped her hands tightly in his.

"Steady, now—steady," he cautioned. "You won't have the great fortune you should have, but I've managed to save an oil property from the wreck. It will bring you in a nice income—half a million or more a year. Thank heaven, I won't have to worry about your future any longer!"

"Oh, it's marvelous I can do so much—with all that money!"

Her thoughts flew to Tom. Here was the opportunity to fight his case, to clear him, to repay the jewelry firm for all he had taken she clutched her lower lip in her when their salesman was murdered —if he had taken it abruptly, she remembered how he had looked that night in the club bar. No—she'd better let him live his own life. He was beyond her reach now.

Her blue eyes filled with tears, fascinating little irregular teeth. SChe suddenly threw both arms around Ruggles Capp's neck, sobbing, "I'm so grateful to you!"

"Now you can resume your rightful position in society," said Mrs. Du Pays, from the background.

Velma whirled toward her, swift protest in her bright brown eyes. "No, no!" she burst out. "I—I hate society! I can't endure it!"

"But, my dear—you should occupy the social position to which you were born—the place your dear father made for you, "urged the astounded dowager.

"Oh, forgive me—please forgive me. I'm so excited I'm not myself. Anyway—I'd rather my friends didn't discover my change of fortune."

Ruggles Capp patted her arm understandingly. "We shall respect your wishes, my dear. Here —come sit down."

Velma sank beside Mrs. Du Pays again, feeling as if she were living a dream.

"I'll hope you'll decide to remain here with us, dear," said the older woman. "You've always been such a favorite. Even if you've lost interest in society, whatever other interest you assume will be charming, I'm sure. We all love you, Velma."

"Oh, I couldn't! You're very kind—but I've found a little town that— that I adore," she ended lamely.

Mrs Du Pays looked very wise. "It must be a young man. Nothing else could tear a girl with your social leadership away from old haunts."

Velma went hot, then cold, under the scrutiny of the august Mrs. Du Pays. She scarcely knew what to say, so she vaguely nodded.

"I was positive of it! Then why not bring him here? You'll never be completely happy anywhere else."

"All that can be arranged later at this astute young woman sees fit, Millicent," put in Ruggles Capp. "We mustn't forget she's made good as a business woman in Carryville. However, Velma, if you ever need help, my advice will be yours for the asking."

"Probably, I'll take too great advantage of that offer, Mr. Capp. You'll have to give me advice—you're my legal representative, you know."

Velma's glowing face beamed at the big man sitting near her in the high-backed walnut chair that seemed too small for him. His being here was almost like having her father with her again. As far as temperament, brains and knowledge of life were concerned, the two men always had been much alike. Perhaps this had cemented their friendship of long standing.

He cleared his throat. Velma knew he was filled with the solemn importance of this moment, and was as glad for her good fortune as he would have been for a daughter of his own.

High School Actors Butcher King's English

Kingston, March 1 (CP)— High school actors have a tendency to "butcher the King's English," Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, said here Saturday.

Mr. Davies was adjudicating at final performance of the first annual secondary school drama festival sponsored by Queen's University drama department.

"In many countries the theatre is considered the model of perfect pronunciation," he told actors and directors from six Eastern Ontario secondary schools.

"Let us endeavor to keep the stage language pure in Canada," urged Mr. Davies. He suggested that students study the dictionary, make use of recordings, undergo regular exercises in time and breath control and spend regular hours in declaiming.

Military Ceremony To Mark Opening Of Legislature

Toronto, March 1 (CP)— Full-dress military uniforms and a 15-gun salute are included in the ceremonies planned for next Wednesday's formal opening of the Ontario Legislature here.

Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, His Majesty's representative in the province, will be accorded full military honors by units of the Canadian army, active and reserve.

A five-jeep escort of Royal Canadian Dragoons will escort the vice-regal party to the parliament buildings where the Lieutenant-Governor will be received with a royal salute. Mr. Lawson will then inspect a guard of honor consisting of three officers and 50 other ranks of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Police Identify Man as Member Polka Dot Gang

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—Police today identified Hubert Hiscox, killed in an explosion while allegedly attempting to blow open a safe in a north-end building as a member of the notorious Polka Dot gang, responsible for numerous robberies in this city and district.

The gang was named for the bright polka dot handerchiefs worn over their faces during hold-ups. Police said they believed Hiscox, who has already served a four-year term in penitentiary, was machine-gunner for the mob.

Police Convinced Man Took Own Life

Toronto, March 1 — (CP)—Police said today that information gathered during the week - end from underworld acquaintances of Hubert Hiscox convinces them that he took his own life when trapped in the office of a north-end construction company early Saturday. Hiscox was killed in a nitroglycerine explosion while apparently attempting to open the office safe.

Hiscox was said to have told friends that if he were caught again he would kill himself rather than spend another term in Kingston penitentiary.

Detectives who investigated the blast said they believed he ran back from the safe about 25 feet and deliberately detonated a bottle of nitroglycerine.

The fatal blast did not result from the detonation of explosives placed in the safe hinges.

Hiscox is believed to have been a member of the notorious Polka Dot gang of which the four remaining members are serving prison terms.

NEW ISSUE MILITARY CURRENCY

Tokyo, March 1 — (AP)—British occupation forces in Japan exchanged their military currency for a new issue today. The British finance officer said a similar change was made earlier in Europe, where military script "found its way into the hands of the wrong people or was counterfeited." There has been no such incident in Japan, however, he said.

Withdraw U. S. Film

A Prague movie house named "Cinema Freedom" withdrew on Saturday an American film on underground resistance to German occupation. The movie, which had run only one day, starred Charles Laughton and was called "Crushed Country."

(Laughton said in Los Angeles the movie, shown in the United States as "This Land is Mine," was a "strong picture against occupation of any kind.")

President Eduard Benes, a non-party man, accepted the new cabinet last Wednesday at Gottwald's urging and swore it in Friday.

Jan Masaryk, another non-party man and son of the late President, Thomas G. Masaryk, stayed on as Foreign Minister.

Close friends confirmed today that Hubert Ripka, ousted Minister of Foreign Trade, has left Czechoslovakia with his wife and two sons.

The four were reported to have gone on legal passports stamped by the Ministry of the Interior. Their destination was not disclosed.

(The Czechoslovak Legation in Brussels confirmed today that George Klastersky, its commercial Attache, has resigned because of recent events in Prague. A Legation spokesman said he was unable to state whether Klastersky would go back to Prague or stay in Belgium.)

The Times and other British papers were on sale on news stands this morning. Among them were two on the Ministry of Information's list of 28 banned publications.

SAYS WAITRESS SERVES PIE LIKE TENNIS PLAYER

Chicago, March 1 (AP)—Anthony Stacy, 48, complained to police that Marie Bochantine, 35, a waitress, serves pie like a tennis professional. He sgined an assault charge against Mrs. Bochantine.

"I walked into the restaurant and ordered pineapple pie, but she threw it at me as though I were across the street," Stacy told police. "The plate broke on the counter and cut my face."

Mrs. Bochantine said: "I just got fed up with irritable customers."

13 Fatalities During Weekend CP Survey Shows

By The Canadian Press

A quadruple drowning at Port Colborne, Ont., topped the list of 13 fatalities reported in Eastern Canada during the weekend, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

Trains figured in five other deaths, one man was killed in a nitroglycerine explosion, a woman was fatally injured by a snowblower, one man was burned to death and a body recovered from the Detroit River was identified as that of a man missing since December.

Drowned when an automobile plunged into a Welland ship canal near Port Colborne were William D. Rogers, 45, and Frances Garner, 36, both of Welland, and Arthur Morningstar, 38, and Mrs. Melvin Keeler, 38, both of Crowland, Ont. Listed as missing were James Hart of Welland and Mrs. Harry Rivett, 38, of Crowland, believed to have been with the victims on a Saturday night outing.

Walter J. Henry and John W. Hambly, both of Cobourg, were killed near Cobourg when a railway jigger on which they were riding was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway freight.

Passenger Killed

A collision between a Canadian National Railways train and a truck driven by Walter Lane of Georgetown, Ont., resulted in injuries for Lane and death for Arthur Johnston of Norval, Ont., a passenger in the truck.

Shirley Christie, Ottawa school teacher, died Saturday of injuries suffered Friday night in a car-track car near Ottawa in which her 64-year-old father, Ivan Christie, was killed. At Senneterre, Que., Marc Yvon Dussault, 23-year-old brakeman from Levis, Que., was killed when run over by a train in the C.N.R. switching yards.

Mrs. Rosa Claude, 63, was killed in Montreal when struck by a snowblower. Joseph Joudrey, 77, was burned to death in his bedroom at Aylesford, N.S. A body recovered from the Detroit River was identified yesterday at Windsor as that of Forest Wesley Hicks, 38, of Leamington, Ont., missing since December.

Hubert Hiscox, 33, was blasted to death in Toronto by the explosion of a flask of nitroglycerin with which, police said, he was trying to blow open a safe.

Combined Staffs Are Retained By Britain, U.S.

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 1 (AP) — The United States and Britain are retaining in these days of uncertain peace the combined Military High Command that operated during most of the war.

Quartered in one of the most heavily-guarded sections of the Pentagon Building, with all but specially-approved visitors barred, is the headquarters of the "combined Chiefs of Staff."

The only official description of the day to day work is terse and not particularly illuminating: "The combined Chiefs of Staff consider and decide questions deriving from the wartime co-operation of Great Britain and the United States."

However, it is known that the agency provides a clearing house for a direct exchange of ideas on equipment, weapons and tactics of all military branches of the two powers.

The combined chiefs are neighbors of another highly-secret group of officers. Along an adjacent corridor are the offices of the "armed forces special weapons project" dealing with guided missiles, atomic weapons and other less-known instruments of destruction.

The combined Chiefs are seven men, four from the United States, three from Britain. The American members are Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to the President; Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff; and Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Force Chief of Staff. British members are Admiral Sir Harry Moore, Gen. Sir William Morgan and Air Chief Marshal Sir Guy Garrod.

The organization was created in February, 1942, as the result of an agreement between the late President Roosevelt and former Prime Minister Churchill.

DEATH OF BAKER 'PURELY ACCIDENTAL'

Kitchener, March 1 — (CP) — Murray Free, 38-year-old Kitchener baker, was found dead in a bath-tub at his boarding - house here Saturday, asphyxiated by gas fumes from a heater. Dr. C. C. Belyea, coroner, described the death as "purely accidental." He said no inquest would be held.

ONE OF FIRST 'PHONE OPERATORS DEAD

Brookline, Mass., March 1 — (AP) — Nathaniel W. Lillie, 91, one of New England's first telephone operators, died Saturday night. Lillie, an acquaintance of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, joined the company in October, 1877, and retired in 1914.

Lake Flares Seen After Fishermen Reported Adrift

Port Colborne, March 1. (CP) —A fresh search today is expected to reveal whether any fishermen were cast adrift during the the weekend when strong north winds opened great rifts in Lake Erie's offshore ice.

A hunt yesterday for 12 men said to have been trapped on the ice was abandoned as darkness fell and searchers decided fears that fishermen still were on the lake were groundless.

But reports that men were marooned on the icepans took on new credence late last night when flares were seen a mile out on the ice from Morgan's Point, about six miles from here. Flashlight signals from the shore appeared to be answered by winking flares for more than half an hour and then the flares flickered out.

Rescues of fishermen from the ice started Saturday afternoon when foghorns and flares signalled a break-up of the lake ice. Clarence Winger and Norman E. House of the Welland County lakefront community of Stevensville flung a hastily-assembled plank bridge across drifting floes and led upwards of 100 shivering fishermen ashore.

As no one knew how many men were on the lake or where scattered groups were fishing, it was virtually impossible to determine whether all the men had reached safety. However, no one was reported missing on either side of the lake, which is about 14 miles wide at this eastern end.

The main search yesterday was touched off by a report from a Port Colborne fishermen that a group of men had been carried away on a floe. A rowboat, two iceboats and an airplane scoured the area without seeing any trace of men on the ice.

Major Changes Made in Rules Of Rugby Union

Toronto, March 1 (CP)—Football will present a slightly altered face next season, with revived official interest in developing junior talent in prospect as the major change, but the way was paved today for a radical swing to the gridiron left in the ensuing year.

A hint of possible things to come was given in the lineup of voting strength at the Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting here Saturday. The Western Canada delegates, rebels from the C. R. U. in pre-war days over attempts to play an Americanized game, found a new supporter in the Quebec Rugby Football Union on several issues.

The new allies couldn't muster enough strength to override the more conservative Ontario forces but they accepted defeat on one issue only after the chair cast the deciding vote against them. And next year, a Western Canada representative will hold the chair.

As it was, the C.R.U.'s six affiliated leagues represented at the meeting made these concrete decisions:

1. The rule permitting any team to use five United States imports, adopted two years ago on a trial basis, was renewed for another two years.

2. The deadline for registering United States imports and their arrival in Canada was extended from Aug. 26 to Sept. 1; A U. S. player will not be classed as an import after four years continuous residence in Canada.

3. A five-man committee was appointed to make recommendations on junior football, including the possibility of holding the first official junior final this season since 1933. This followed complaints of numerous age-limit violations and arguments by Western Canada and Quebec delegates that they must continue to import U.S. players to compete with player-rich Ontario unless more junior talent pools are built.

Two Major Changes

The action on junior football was spurred by arguments surrounding last season's east-west final in Vancouver, which delegates were told was not recognized as official because the east had not declared a champion. Eddie McLean, Ontario Rugby Football Union delegate, charged that his Union was "sold down the river" when the C.R.U. delegated Hamilton Tigers of the Junior Big Four to make the trip after first indicating it would play no part in junior playoffs last season.

The C.R.U.'s rules committee, meeting in closed session, decided on two major changes in playing rules:

One will permit unlimited substitution of players, instead of allowing only two players on each team to re-enter the game in any one quarter.

The other concerned the much-amended blocked-kick rule. If the kicking side recovers its own blocked kick on third down, it will be awarded the down over again with a 25-yard penalty from the point of recovery. Last season, the penalty was 10 yards.

Major Test

The major test of voting strength came on a motion sponsored by the Western Interprovincial Union that the number of U.S. imports be increased from five to six.

It was supported by both the Western Intercollegiate and Inter-Provincial Unions and the Quebec O.R.F.U. The vote was deadlocked at 3-all when the Big Four, the O.R.F.U. and the Eastern Intercollegiate voted against it.

Frank Lennard, O.R.F.U. delegate, voted for the second time as chairman to defeat the proposal 4-3.

Under the C.R.U. executive setup, the executive rotates one notch annually. So E. K. Phillips of Saskatoon became President for next year, succeeding Lennard, now Honorary President.

There was no evidence of a bloc but the Q.R.F.U. sided often enough with the two western circuits to show they saw eye-to-eye at least.

Even if the three leagues join forces to push through changes in imports, residence, and similar legislation at the next annual meeting, they could bring about no immediate changes of the actual playing rules. The eight-man rules committee is independent of the C.R.U. executive.

Crop Improvement Association Will Maintain 5 Projects

Picton, March 1.—Prince Edward Crop Improvement Association at its annual meeting at the Agricultural Office on Saturday made plans for five projects this year. A pasture project on the farm of Grover Smith will be carried out. The Association will engage a bulldozer to eradicate barberry and buckthorn in Wellington district. There will be two weed spraying demonstrations. Hybrid corn for grain will be another project, designed to produce corn to help out the feed problem. There will also be drill width tests to determine best types of widths to use when seeding.

Prince Edward County will send five hogs to the Farmers' week in connection with Quinte Seed Fair and Eastern Ontario Threshermen's Association Convention.

These hogs, chosen from the farms of P. W. Chipswick, T. A. Crawford and Sons, Fred Kotchapaw, James Gough and Whytock Fox, will be killed and dressed and the carcasses exhibited in the Quinte District Export Bacon show at Peterborough. March 18 and 19.

The threshermen's annual meeting opens on March 17 and will be featured by an address by Francis Flood of the U.S. Embassy, Ottawa.

Speakers on March 18 include John D. MacLeod, director Crops, Seed and Weed Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and W. H. Porter, London. Reports on soil fertility tests, hybrid corn, seed drill surveys, bacon exports, will be given on the closing day, March 19, there will be an auction sale of all seed exhibited.

At the meeting of the Picton Association, Donald Thompson was re-elected president; Whytock Fox, vice president; Agricultural Representative F. J. Webster, secretary-treasurer.

FAIR DATES SET

Picton Fair will be held on September 28 and 29 this year, it was decided at a meeting of directors, Saturday. While the majority of members spoke in preference for an earlier date, it was decided that the later dates would be adopted as a midway could be secured for those days only. Reports of the delegates to the annual convention of Ontario Agricultural Societies were given by B. R. Baxter, Donald Baxter and Phil Dodds. It was decided to invite twelve members of the Junior Farmers' Association to become members of the fair board and take over part of the operation of the fair.

Oddfellows And Rebekahs Will Sponsor Fund

Picton.—One hundred and fifty Oddfellows and their wives and Rebekahs and their husbands attended a very enjoyable "At Home" in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Friday evening. Dinner was served at attractively arranged long tables at seven o'clock.

Following the bountiful repast, Deputy Grand Master Bro. Norman Rickett, of District No. 47, of Trenton, addressed the gathering, in regard to the cancer, polio, and tuberculosis fund being sponsored by the Oddfellow and Rebekah Lodges. He explained that the committee would not limit its aid to sufferers from these three afflictions. The fund would be available for burned out families for instance. He cited a case in St. Thomas, where a family lost everything in a fire. In a few weeks the Oddfellows, through this fund, had them established in a cottage, and the Rebekahs had supplied them with furniture, dishes and other necessities. In Trenton, a sister Rebekah has cancer. She has no available funds for treatment and the lodge in Trenton is taking her case over through this fund. Help can also be given to anyone not an Oddfellow or a Rebekah who needs help.

The speaker felt that by co-operation and team work the Oddfellows and Rebekahs of Picton, could put the fund over, and that some time when catastrophe struck, they would find the fund a Godsend.

Bro. Rickett felt that up to this time the lodge has kept the scope of its operation too much between their own four walls—that it was time to go out and demonstrate to their fellow men that they are real brothers and sisters. The Rotary Club, The Lions Club, and similar organizations are doing a wonderful work. "If we had had something like this fund a few years ago, we would have been taking our place along with them in this humanitarian work," said Bro. Rickett.

Sister Audrey Storms assured the speaker that the Rebekahs were behind the Oddfellows in their efforts to cure polio, cancer and tuberculosis.

Later in the evening, card tables were set up, and euchre was enjoyed.

The favors for high score went to Mrs. Chas. Hotson and Mr. Harry Whattam, and for low score to Mrs. Rex Hicks and Mr. Chester Storms.

Bro. Fred Potts made a genial auctioneer, who nevertheless drove a hard bargain, and disposed of surplus food, realizing a good sum to start off the C.P.T. Fund.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the very pleasant evening of inspiration and good fellowship were Convener Milton Dulmage, assisted by Harry Palen, Ralph Hubbs, and Fred Potts, and Mrs. A. O. McGinnis, convener, assisted by Mrs. Morris Jenkins, Mrs. Robt. Hill, Mrs. Earl Hicks, Mrs. Milton Dulmage, Misses Dorothy Keep, Lillian Whattam, Betty Keep.

The Oddfellows and Rebekahs expressed thanks to the A.Y.P.A. of the Anglican Church for relinquishing their regular meeting on April 12th in order that this organization may have the Parish Hall to hold a dance in aid of the C.P.T. Campaign. This is the first complete district organized in Ontario for the C.P.T. campaign among Rebekahs.

SEEK HUGE HOARD OF JAPANESE WAR GOODS

Tokyo, March 1 — (AP)—The newspaper Mainichi reported today the Nagasaki public procurator is looking for an estimated 60,000,000,000 yen ($1,200,000,000) worth of hidden or hoarded war goods. The material is believed to have been taken from the former Japanese Navy station at Sasebo.

CARRIER AT PORTSMOUTH

Portsmouth, England, March 1 — (Reuters) — The aircraft carrier Warrior, being returned to the British fleet after service with the Royal Canadian Navy, reached Portsmouth today. The crew will commission for Canada her sister ship, the Magnificent, now at Belfast. The Warrior was loaned to the R. C. N. to start a naval flying service.

U.N. Responsible for Palestine Rule as British Mandate Ends May 15

This mother shows the stark horror of the situation as she and her family flee from square block of Jewish occupied buildings in the Jewish district of Jerusalem which were blasted recently to rubble. Fifty two persons were killed in the blast and 88 were injured. Haganah guards said they had accepted a British police driver's okay and had passed the lethal trucks, and much of the onus for the blast has fallen to the British. The United Nations' commission on Palestine will become legal government of the Holy Land when British mandate ends May 15. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, has set machinery in motion for British withdrawal from Palestine.

RED ATOMIC BOSS?

It is the belief of British physicists that Dr. Peter Kapitza, above, 54-year-old Russian scientist who was "kidnapped" by the Soviets when he visited Moscow in 1934, is in complete charge of Russian atomic bomb experimentation. Kapitza fled to England in 1921 and became one of Britain's most respected scientists. He went to Moscow to attend a conference in 1934 and was kept there. The British scientific colleagues of Kapitza have such high regard for him that they believe the Soviet claim to have discovered the secret of the atomic bomb may be correct.

CELEBRATE RED VICTORY IN PRAGUE

NOVÁ FRONTA

A Russian and a Yugoslav observer, top, watch a crowd in the streets of Prague; bottom, celebrate the Communist party coup in Czechoslovakia. This and other celebrations followed Premier Klement Gottwald's declaration of a two day holiday to mark the occasion. In the meantime, the U. S., Great Britain and France, in a joint statement, condemned the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia as "the establishment of a disguised dictatorship." Premier Gottwald commented on the three-power statement, saying, "We will never take any lessons in democracy from those with Munich on their conscience, who dealt with Hitler to divide us up."

Sudbury Mayor's Car Demolished After Being Stolen

Sudbury, March 1. (CP)—Things happened fast Saturday to Ced Price, mayor of this Northern Ontario town.

Almost before his eyes, his automobile was stolen. Within half an hour he was informed the car was demolished on the Sturgeon highway.

Albert Charleboise, 24, found beside the wrecked car, was arraigned in North Bay police court today on a charge of car theft and was remanded in custody for trial tomorrow. Police said he was the driver and that he was found on the highway dazed and bleeding, after the car rolled over three times.

"I plead guilty to joy-riding," Charlebois said when the charge was read to him.

"This is not a charge of joy-riding," replied the magistrate. "This is a case of theft of a motor vehicle".

MOSTLY CONIFEROUS

Of 125 species or distinct varieties of trees in Canada, only 33 are conifers, but they comprise more than 70 per cent of the standing timber.

THEATRE DESTROYED

Flin Flon, Man., March 1—(CP) — Damage estimated unofficially at $100,000 was caused here last night by a fire — worst in the history of this Northern Manitoba mining town — that destroyed the Rex Theatre and threatened to spread to adjoining buildings before it was brought under control.

"ANNEX" ANTARCTIC AREA FOR CHILE

Warmly clad against the frigid weather, President Gabriel Gonzales Videla, and his daughter, Silvia, are pictured at Port Soberania, Antarctica, where they claimed for Chile sectors of the vast Antarctic continent. Chile, along with Argentina and Great Britain, has been currently fighting for possession of the territory.

Calls Finnish Leaders

President Juho Passikivi, above, has called in party parliamentary leaders as well as cabinet members in Finland to discuss a request from the Soviet Union that Finland sign a pact of mutual military assistance. The Russian request was received in a note handed to the Finnish government and included the suggestion that the Finns as quickly as possible "take all measures necessary for the conclusion of a mutual military assistance pact." Disclosure of the note struck Helsinki, capital of Finland, like a bombshell.

Worst Epidemic Year For Measles Deaths In Toronto History

Toronto, March 1. (CP)—Measles have taken the lives of seven children—four boys and three girls—in this area in the last 30 days, the City Health Department said today.

"As far as death are concerned, this is by far the worst epidemic year in the history of the city," a Health Department official said.

Thirty-eight new measles' cases were reported in the last 24 hours, bringing this year's total to 4,005. In 1935, for the same number of days 4,129 cases were reported. No deaths resulted from 59 cases last year.

NEW GARAGE BURNS

Smiths Falls, Ont., March 1—(CP) — This fire-scarred town was hit again yesterday when flames enveloped the newly-constructed garage building on Russell Street, burning nine motor vehicles and causing more than $20,000 damage. The latest blaze jacked up Smiths Falls' fire losses to more than $1,000,000 in the last 14 months.

Benes Resigns Says London Story, Denied By Prague

President Under Physician's Care, Says Czech Ministry

Prague, March 2 (AP)—President Eduard Benes remains under the care of his personal physician, and his scheduled return to Prague Thursday still is uncertain, the Information Ministry said today.

A ministry spokesman termed "stuff and nonsense" a London Evening News story that Benes had resigned and that the Communists now in control of the government were keeping the resignation secret.

Benes is at the presidential country home at Seizicovo Usti, the Ministry said.

London, March 2 (AP)— The London Evening News said today in a dispatch telephoned from Prague that President Eduard Benes of Czechoslavakia has resigned.

"Last week he put his signature to a formal declaration relinquishing his title as President of the Czechoslovak Republic," the Evening News said.

"Communists have not yet allowed the resignation to be made public for fear of a violent reaction among the people."

Benes, at 64, is in frail health. He agreed last week to Communist demands complete control of the government under Premier Gottwald.

He was reported in Prague to have feared civil war would have broken out had he not acceded to the Communist demands. A friend said he had told Gottwald "you talk to me like Hitler" in one of the conferences over the crisis. Benes first became President of Czechoslovakia in 1935 when Thomas G. Masaryk died, but four years later he saw his republic dissolved by the Germans. The six war years of exile were spent mostly in England, where he headed a refugee government.

He was restored to rule in Czechoslovakia in 1945, two years after he had signed in Russia a 20-year mutual assistance pact—the same type Russia now is offering Finland.

BAKERY INDUSTRY DUE FOR SCRUTINY IN PRICE PROBE

Question of Combines Will be Investigated Before Closing Subject

Ottawa, March 2 — (CP)—The question of combines in the bakery industry was due for scrutiny today by the Commons Prime Committee — at the suggestion of a spokesman for the industry itself.

R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, executive secretary of the industry's National Council, told the committee yesterday he was "most anxious" to give them information on the matter, and the members tacitly consented to hear him.

Earlier, the investigators seeking light on higher commodity prices had been told by Mr. Sparks that the same situation as regards bakers' combines existed now as in 1930, when a combines Act investigation gave them a clean bill.

Mr. Sparks went on to say that today consumers are "obtaining even better value than ever for their expenditures on bakery products."

Further, he expressed belief that bakers generally were not making profits on bread but actually were taking "a substantial loss." He indicated sales of cakes and other products were carrying bread.

If present trends continue, he said, most bakers will be worse off than they were before they increased bread prices at the time of simultaneous price decontrol and removal of flour subsidies.

He explained that bread profits depended on high volume of sales and higher prices already had driven down volume to some extent. For this reason, bakers "were very reluctant to see the price of bread increase further."

Mr. Sparks was preceded to the witness stand by James M. MacDonald of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of General Bakeries, Ltd., who said his company had been losing money on the over - all sale of all its products in Montreal and Toronto before it jumped the price of bread by one cent early in February.

Since then, he calculated, it was showing a net profit of between one-third and one-half of one per cent on sales, without allowing for corporate expenses, interest and taxes.

Hughes Cleaver (L — Halton) challenged these figures, and he sought such general bakeries expenses as executive salaries to clarify the company's claims.

An agreement over procedure on this point ensued, with the committee finally voting 6 to 2 to have "all" information produced for its counsel and the members. But it left until later the question of whether such information should be placed on the public record.

Mr. Cleaver also precipitated another flurry when he said a retailer had informed him a bakery threatened to cut off his supplies because he was selling below the retail price indicated by the baker.

Two Progressive Conservative members — Karl Homuth, Waterloo South, and Donald Fleming, Toronto Eglinton, questioned the propriety of a member making such a statement before proof was offered. Mr. Cleaver demanded the calling of witnesses on the point.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 2—(CP)—Synopsis: Snow is falling over the southern and northwestern sections of the province this morning. Over the rest of the regions it is generally clear and cold. A storm centre in Missouri is moving northeastward and should skip along the Lower Lakes by noon tomorrow. Snow occasionally heavy, is exepected over the southern sections of the province today being mixed with freezing rain along the Lower Lakes until this evening. Snowflurries and somewhat lower temperatures are expected over most of the province on Wednesday.

2 Elderly Women Suffer Injuries When Bus Crashes

Stratford, March 2 (CP) —Two elderly women suffered injuries last night when a London bound Gray Coach Line bus crashed into the ditch on Highway 8, two miles east of New Hamburg.

Fifteen passengers were aboard the coach when it left the highway, smashed off a telephone pole and came to rest in the bottom of the highway ditch.

Both women were taken to hospital here for treatment and and it was reported their injuries are not serious. They are Mrs. A. E. Stembler, 50, R.R. 4, Stratford and Mrs. Alex Harts, 65, of Toronto.

Mrs. Stembler is said suffering a knee injury and Mrs. Harts injuries to the chest, both women were badly shaken up.

Police said the accident happened when a car, driven by Christian Z. Steinman, of R. R. 2 Newburg, pulled across the highway in the path of the oncoming coach. The bus driver, Harold Laurence, swerved to miss the automobile and went off the road.

Two Vancouver Women Take First Cancer Treatments by Braund Method

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

Sydney, Australia, March 2 — (CP)—John Braund, 78-year-old Sydney layman who claims to have discovered a cancer cure, expects to make his first examination of two Canadian women cancer sufferers within the next few days, it was learned today.

Mrs. Ruth McIntyre, 33, and Mrs. Anne Northam, 36, both of Vancouver, flew the Pacific to take the treatment last week. They have visited Braund three times for treatment which has consisted so far of bathing their feet in hot water and massaging their toes. This process is part of the Braund method and the projected examination is to determine what effect it has had.

Despite the fact that medical men in Canada have declared both women are incurable, Braund, without examining them, has told reporters he can give them "many more years of life, if not a complete cure."

Braund is co-operating to a degree with a medical board set up by the New South Wales government to investigate his methods but a spokesman for the Medical Board said today the Board is finding it difficult to get Braund's patients to submit to examination by Board physicians.

With co-operation from Braund and his patients the committee expects to announce its findings within a few weeks.

Mrs. Northam and Mrs. McIntyre told The Canadian Press that the hot Australian climate is agreeing with them, making them feel much better.

Mrs. McIntyre this afternoon had a trans-Pacific telephone call from her husband in Vancouver who was worried by a report that a large lump had formed on Mrs. McIntyre's leg. The report is entirely without foundation, she said.

PRETTY WAITRESS SHOT AND SUSPECT HELD BY POLICE

Shooting Takes Place Before Horrified Diners

Toronto, March 2 (CP)—A trail of broken homes and shattered romances was revealed by police today as Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, pretty 25 - year - old former army show songstress, lay near death. Her brain was pierced by a bullet which police charge was fired by her former lover, a part-time piano player who doubled in coal heaving.

The Montreal-born pianist, Leslie Davidson, who police said lived with Mrs. Meredith after becoming separated from his wife, was arrested last night, an hour and 40 minutes after horrified diners in a downtown restaurant witnessed the point-blank shooting of the waitress, estranged from her husband and daughter of divorced parents.

Police arrested Davidson in a West-End Club where he was banging out a melody and charged him with attempted murder. Shortly after the New Year, police said Davidson and Mrs. Meredith quarrelled and last week they were told he beat her up after she refused to go back to him.

In magistrate's court today he was remanded to March 10 and a mental examination was ordered.

Police said the man who shot the girl loitered around the restaurant for an hour before the shooting, repeatedly asking her to go out with him again.

Finally, as she answered a telephone call, he strode over to her. She hung up the receiver and he demanded: "Who were you talking to?"

"None of your business," the waitress replied.

"Okay, this is it!"

He tossed his right arm around her neck and whipped out a large black revolver from his coat with his left hand. Its muzzle held firmly to her head as he pressed the trigger.

Menaces Staff With Gun

With a scream she fell, face up and bleeding. For some seconds he stood over her. Then he fired two more shots into the floor, bolted into the kitchen, menacing the staff with the gun, and out a rear door.

The score of customers in the restaurant scrambled for the door as the gun sounded. Police Constable Gordon Sayers, who heard the shooting, rushed into the restaurant and through to the kitchen, but the assailant had gone, scaling a 10-foot iron gate to get to the street.

Police said they found a big, black revolver in a garbage can in an alley near the club where they arrested Davidson. They said Mrs. Meredith had become estranged from her husband more than a year ago and the couple's four-year-old son was believed living with the father in Vancouver.

Mrs. Meredith joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps as an entertainer in 1942, police said, and had often sang at dance halls in Toronto.

HARD WINTER FOR N. Y.

New York, March 2 — (AP) — A light snow which powdered the streets of New York with more than 1½ inches before 9 a.m. today raised the total snowfall for the winter to 58.4 inches. It was the second highest total on record in the city.

The Weather Bureau, in its 64 years of record taking, recorded more snow only during the winter of 1892-93, when a total of 77.6 inches was reached. The mark set today eclipsed the snowfall of 58.3 inches of 1898-99.

Britain, France and Low Countries to Open Talks On Formation 'Western Union'

London, March 2 (AP)—Spurred by the Finland and Czechoslovakia developments, Britain, France and the low countries will open conversations in Brussels Thursday on formation of a "western union" in Europe.

Prime Minister Attlee, in a surprise announcement in the Commons last night, said the discussions will cover all aspects — economis, social, political and defence problems.

"There is this dangerous and chaotic state of affairs in Europe and there is fear in Europe — widespread fear—and that is due mainly to a spread of dictatorships being intensified by events of the last few days," the Prime Minister declared.

His announcement, which came only a few hours after a Foreign Office spokesman said it would be a matter of weeks before anything concrete would be done to implement Foreign Secretary Bevin's union proposal of Jan. 22, apparently reflected a new feeling of urgency.

The feeling seemed to be sparked by a desire both for speeding economic recovery under the Marshall plan and for political unity in western Europe, especially in the light of the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia and the pressure on Finland.

Bevin's proposal called for a close economic, political and military alliance of Britain, France and the Benelux countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—to form the nucleus for a larger, later grouping of western European powers. He termed it a means of combatting "ruthless" efforts by Russia to dominate the continent.

The Brussels talks presumably would be concluded before a meeting in Paris in mid-March of the 16 Marshall plan countries.

Attlee's announcement of the Brussels conference was made during debate on a defence white paper which proposed reducing Britain's armed forces to 716,000 members in all services by March 31, 1949—a cut of 224,000. The House approved it.

Estimate Big Power Savings by Change-Over

Toronto, March 2 —(CP)— Frequency standardization of the power system of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario will produce savings of $187,253,600 in the 33 years from 1948 to 1981. This estimate was given today in a summary of expert reports to be submitted later in the day to the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

The convention program, gross cost of which is estimated at $191,000,000, would be completed in the next 15 years.

Gross cost of the changeover — which would convert the 25-cycle area of Southern Ontario to 60-cycle power—was estimated at $20,586,200 to the Municipal Hydro Commissions, which distribute power to consumers, and $170,-418,300 to the Ontario Commission, which generates it.

Summary of Reports

The delegates received a summary of three expert reports — by Stone and Webster of the United States on technical matters, including costs and savings; by Clarkson, Gordon and Company of Toronto on financial matters; and by H. Hobson, former chairman of the Central Electricity Board of Great Britain, in capacity of consultant.

The Stone and Webster report placed the next expenditure for conversion at $119,007,000 deducting from the gross figure of $191,-004,500 an amount of $71,997,500 made up of $17,065,200 for expenditures which might be capitalized, and $54,932,300 as the estimated value of extended life of equipment due to rebuilding.

It gave the following breakdown for the $187,252 savings to commission, municipalities and consumers to 1981: $32,466,300 for reduced capital expenditures to supply the growth of load from 1948 to 1963, the period of conversion; additional revenue from sale of secondary or surplus energy during conversion, $14,240,000; savings in the 18-year period after conversion were estimated at $108,147,300 for reduced capital expenditure and $32,400,000 for sale of surplus.

46 Czech Refugees Takeninto Custody

Frankfurt, March 2 — (Reuters) — German police at Furth-Am-Wald, near the Czech border, today said they had taken into custody 46 Czech refugees who fled across the border into the American zone during the crisis of the last few days.

They were described by one police official as "generally members of the inteligentsia."

German police refused newspaper men permission to interview the fugitives on the grounds that the United States Army had issued an order against it. United States Army headquarters at Frankfurt stated today that they wanted to safeguard the lives of the fugitives, but denied that such an order had been given.

Definite Plans Not Concluded

London, March 2 — (Reuters) —Speed King Sir Malcolm Campbell; commenting on reports that he might make an attempt in July on his own world speedboat record on Lake Gallatly, Kelowna, B. C., in his jet-propelled "Bluebird," stated today that he had not made any definite plans.

Asked if an inquiry he had made to Kelowna meant that he had abandoned any idea of making an attempt on Lake Coniston, Lancashire, Sir Malcolm said:

"It is an inquiry to test the position."

Last year Sir Malcolm took the Bluebird out on Lake Coniston several times, but withdrew the craft for modifications without making any record attempt.

THRONE SPEECH DEBATE EXPECTED TO END THIS WEEK

Housing Policies And Defence Criticized

Ottawa, March 2 — (CP)—The government's housing policies came in for criticism and defence as the Throne Speech debate, touching on a half-dozen themes, was resumed yesterday in the Commons.

The debate, expected to be concluded this week, also produced protests against the government's embargo on beef cattle shipments to the United States and a suggestion that the Dominion undertake the building of a paved trans-Canada highway.

Speakers included Rupert Aylesworth (PC — Frontenac-Addington), John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge), R. W. Gladstone (L — Wellington South), Leopold Langlois (L — Gaspe), Joseph Burton (CCF — Humboldt), W. Chester S. McLure(PC — Queens), Alistair Stewart (CCF — Winnipeg North), Hon. George Black (PC—Yukon) and Marcel Boivin (L — Shefford).

The House opened with an announcement by Trade Minister Howe that the government will continue until July 31, 1949, its present support prices of 61 ½ cents a bushel for No. 1 feed oats and 90 cents a bushel for No. 1 feed barley, both in store at Fort William and Port Arthur.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the United Kingdom again has declined to agree to the tabling of all evidence taken by the Royal Commission which inquired into the Hong Kong defence.

He also announced that the approaching Easter recess will extend from March 24 to March 30.

Defence Minister Claxton said he hopes to be able to make an announcement within a few weeks on the Industrial Defence Board being established to advise the government on industrial organization.

Mr. Langlois and Mr. Stewart injected housing into the Throne Speech debate.

The Quebec member defended the government's policies and took issue with a statement by Premier Duplessis of Quebec that the Federal government was responsible for the housing shortage because it was allowing essential materials to be exported.

Rigidly Controlled

Official figures showed, he said, that imports of essential materials were greater than exports while the shipment of lumber out of the country still was being rigidly controlled.

Learns 10-Year 'Marriage' Illegal

Toronto, March 2 —(CP)— Mary Fortuk said she lived with Peter Dumbala for 10 years before she discovered the paper she signed in 1937 wasn't a legal marriage licence and now she's claiming damages from Peter Dumbala for money she placed in the home and for services as a "housewife." In Supreme Court here yesterday, she said "it was not until after he told me to get out and said I wasn't his wife that I found out I wasn't really married all this time."

Canadian Hailed For Hypnotizing Mother into Painless Childbirth

London, March 2 (CP)—Dr. A. P. Magonet, youthful graduate of Dalhousie Medical School, Halifax, was credited by a London newspaper today with having made British medical history when he hypnotized a 25-year-old mother and brought about the painless birth of a seven-pound baby.

The report, in the Daily Mail, identified him only as a young Canadian."

The Daily Mail reported that the baby was born last weekend to Mrs. Joyce Carter, wife of a civil servant, in a southeast London nursing home. The mother was quoted as saying: "I felt no pain at all."

The doctor, who was said to have developed hynotic power to relieve patients of strain, sat at Mrs. Carter's bedside Saturday night, talking in a low voice until she began to doze off. He assured her that she was losing consciousness and that when she awoke the baby would be born.

Sunday morning the baby was born and the mother said: "It was wonderful. I remember the doctor talking about Olsen and Johnson (American comedy team now performing in London) while he was putting me to sleep....the next thing I remember is opening my eyes and being told I had a daughter.

"It could only have happened because I had such confidence in the doctor. He told me how he had treated other kinds of patients by hypnotism....I'm out of my trance now—but my husband is still in a daze."

The Daily Mail, which said the Canadian doctor had been in Britain since 1939, recalled that "one of his most famous cases" was the treatment of boxer Eric Boon before his fight in London last December against champion Ernie Roderick for the British welterweight title.

The doctor gave Boon a course of six hypnotic sleeps in preparation for a bout after his handlers decided the fighter had an "inferior complex." The doctor told the fighter repeatedly: "you will win"—but this one "case" he lost.

Boon found hypnotism couldn't keep Ernie's educated left fist out of his face and the champion retained the title with a 15-round victory on points.

Large-Scale Battle Developing In The Judean Hills

Jews Try to Dislodge Arabs Throttling Traffic

Jerusalem, March 2 (AP)— British troops battled beside Jews today against Arab snipers dug in on hillsides commanding the Jerusalem-Jaffa road, a Jewish agency source said.

The British authorities vowed last night to use their weapons henceforth "impartially against whichever side is firing."

The informant said both British police and soldiers moved into the area, about 12 miles outside Jerusalem.

A large-scale battle appeared to be under way. Heavy automatic weapons and grenades were heard, and the Jews were believed to be bringing up mortars.

The British authorities have threatened to use weapons more powerful than those available either to Jews or Arabs to stem the bloody fighting which has raged in Palestine ever since the United Nations decision to partition the Holy Land was announced in November.

The new battle is near a point where the Jerusalem-Jaffa road leaves the Judean hills and enters the plains. A three-mile stretch of road has been impassable for weeks because of sniping.

No casualty reports were immediately available.

The British crack-down order on Jerusalem came from Brig. C. P. Jones, commander of the British garrison, who told his troops that force must be used impartially against both Arabs and Jews.

"Prolonged firing for its inhabitants," his directive said. "Such disturbances will not continue. Force will be used in incidents of this kind. The army will, if necessary, use weapons more powerful than those available to Arabs and Jews."

Jones said it is impossible to determine who is the aggressor, so "the army will therefore use its weapons impartially against whichever side is firing."

His statement followed one by the British Mandate government which charged the Jewish agency with condoning terrorism.

The government's charge all but severed relations with the agency, political representative of Palestine's 700,000 Jews.

Orderly Liquidation Of Ferry Fleet

Seattle, March 1 — (AP) —One of the world's largest ferry fleets closed down passenger operations today, leaving an estimated 100,-000 persons with only emergency transportation.

Capt. Alex M. Peabody, president of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, said: "We're going to start the orderly liquidation of the company at once. The ferries will not run today."

The shutdown was ordered by Peabody after the State Department of Transportation cut a 30-per-cent temporary rate increase to 10 per cent above the rate charged Feb. 15, 1947. He said the company could not operate at a profit with the lower rate.

The 16 vessels halted operations shortly after midnight.

COMMIES START ORGANIZING FOR PACT WITH RUSSIA

Factory and Trade Unions Approached and Organizers Well Received

Helsinki, March 2 (AP) —Finland's Communists today began organizing factory and trade union meetings to support a military pact with Russia.

The Communist organ Tyokansas Sanomat said workers favor a friendship and assistance treaty with the Soviet Union because it is the best way to guarantee the interests of Finland and the cause of peace.

The first of the factory meetings being organized by the Communists were held yesterday at Turku and Tampere, two of Finland's most important industrial centres.

The Turku metal workers adopted a resolution recommending acceptance of the pact. The resolution said "we must take a friend's hand if it is offered."

Political leaders held closed sessions to discuss whether Finland should negotiate with the Russians and what the consequences would be, particularly in the west. They hope to have their answers ready for President Juho Paasikivi tomorrow.

The attitude of two important parties — the agrarians and Social Democrats — is expected to be made clear today.

The 28 Conservatives in Parliament already have voiced tentative opposition to the proposal.

Their spokesman, Arvo Salminen said the Conservatives feel the peace treaty with Russia is sufficient. He added that the party is not opposed to a friendship or cultural agreement, but does not like a military pact.

Vote to Accept Pact

It was reported that the Communist party voted Saturday to advocate acceptance of the pact.

It is known that the small Liberal party has decided to oppose the treaty. It has seven seats in parliament.

Some observers predicted rightist elements in the Conservative Agrarian, Social Democratic and Progressive parties might vote against the Russian pact to save face, provided there is no danger of the proposal being rejected.

MACK. ROBERTSON ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mr. Mack. Robertson is in Quebec City where he is attending a convention of the National Dairy Council at the Chateau Frontenac.

Delegates of the dairy industry from every province in the Dominion are in attendance. Hon. L. S. St. Laurent addressed the gathering yesterday at the opening session.

HEATER STOLEN FROM PARKED CAR

Car auto heaters are not safe even when the car is parked in the driveway near the owner's house. This is the story of a Bleecker Ave. resident who yesterday complained to police that his new auto heater had been stolen from his car while it was parked just outside his own door. The heater was taken some time Sunday night.

A transient pan-handler who was rapping on doors in the Gordon Street area asking for a hand-out of meals was reported to police yesterday. When police officers scouted the area in the cruiser car the transient had disappeared.

POLICE COURT

Suspended sentence for six months with orders to pay restitution amounting to $208 was the penalty given by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today in city police court to Russell Hill, former employee of Citizens Dairy, who appeared in court on a theft charge.

Hill was charged with the theft of a quantity of butter from the Citizens Dairy late last autumn.

Benjamin Papke, city, was also given six months suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty to a theft charge. Police charged that Papke had stolen window and door frames to place in a house he had been constructing.

Ross Richards, formerly of Toronto, appeared on four charges of false pretences involving the passing of worthless cheques and had his case enlarged for two weeks. Richard Caverley pleaded guilty to assaulting a police officer and was assessed $10 and costs. Over the weekend Caverley assaulted Police Constable Thompson. The officer's cap was knocked to the street and tramped on by bystanders, it was stated.

Crosstown Bus Opens New Unserved Areas

With the recent inauguration of the new crosstown bus service by Rawson Bus Lines Ltd., residents of the city who happen to live on the new route have little to complain about in the way of bus service downtown.

And if these residents happen to live close to routes already served by buses travelling other West Hill or East Hill routes, then there lot is just so much better. In fact it works out that these people will have something better than 15-minute service.

But the new crosstown route does more than provide additional service for residents who already were provided with transportation to the downtown section of the city every 15 minutes —it provides a service for sections of the city in which previously buses did not operate.

Terminal for the new crosstown bus is at the Bank of Montreal building from where buses leave ten minutes after and twenty minutes to the hour. The route is up Front Street to Victoria directly up Victoria to Bleecker, then to Station Street and back downtown by way of Station St. This part of the route provides a direct service from the north station to the downtown part of the city.

On the hour and half-hour from the Dominion Bank building the same bus leaves on its West Hill route which provides a service west on Bridge and Highland Ave. to Parker, then north on Parker to Wellington and Yeomans Streets and east on Catharine to Cedar and back to the Bank of Montreal terminal by way of Bridge Street.

Representative Of Concert Assoc. Speaks to Rotary

Members of the Rotary Club went "cultural" at their weekly luncheon on Monday, hearing a brief talk on the progress of the Community Concert Association in its continent-wide activities, and seeing and hearing one of America's top-flight piano duos, Appleton and Field in a sparkling if brief program through the medium of the motion picture screen.

The piano team composed of an attractive young lady pianist and an equally personable young gentleman, gave melodic evidence of their high position in the ranks of America's outstanding concert artists.

Close-ups showed their splendid mastery over their instruments, perfect co-operation and a technique that bespoke true artistry. They offered Chopin's Waltz in A Major; "Sicíliene" by Bach, and "General Variations" by Liszt.

Supplies Need

Prior to the showing of the film, Miss Mary Jane Pollock, New York City representative of the Community Concert Association, briefly addressed the clubmen, pointing out that service clubs generally have felt the lack of good music in their various communities, and have been mainly responsible for its introduction to centres which otherwise would not have enjoyed it.

The Canadian Community Concert Association has acted as a liaison between different cities in Canada, Miss Pollock said. It carries the experience of one town to another and has been extremely efficient in bringing to the various communities the type of artists best suited to its collective taste.

The Columbia Artists, of New York is composed of five organizations of artists, which have an aggregate of 335 years in the field of artists management. So it naturally follows they know where the better artists are.

Makes Good Selections

The Belleville Community Concert Association, she said, has the privilege of picking out those who will be world famous in the future, also those who are already world-famous in their selected musical field. She complimented the local organization on its taste, adding that it has been very successful in choosing artists which its members approve of, and enjoy.

Miss Pollock was introduced by Rotarian Russell Hachborn, with club appreciation of the address and the film expressed by Rotarian John Deacon. Mrs. Russell Hachborn was a special guest at the luncheon.

New Loader Given Plenty of Work By Recent Storms

Since Saturday's snowstorm the city snowloader is being put to good service in cleaning local streets of the tons of snow which served to impede the normal flow of vehicular traffic. The loader is doing double duty and in addition to the regular day shift is being pressed into service after midnight to clean the downtown district.

City Engineer Charles Mott today stated that with vehicular traffic using the streets it had proven very inconvenient in using the snowloader in the downtown district during the daytime. Therefore streets other than in the downtown business section of the city were being cleaned during the day and after midnight when cars are off the streets, Front Street was being cleaned.

Parked cars and other traffic hamper efficient operation of the snowloader, while merchants object if streets are blocked off until snow is removed. In the after-midnight shift only two loader operators and truckers are employed.

160 PASSENGERS, CREW REPORTED DROWNED

Shanghai, March 2 (Reuters)—One hundred and sixty passengers and crew were reported Monday to have been drowned when a Chinese passenger ship sailing between Amoy and Chingchiang in Southern Fukien Province sank yesterday.

Chinese newspapers reporting the sinking said the ship capsized after "pirates" disguised as passengers, firing pistols wildly, tried to gain control of the ship and caused panic among the 280 persons on board.

B.C.I. Home and School Club Will Request of City Council Community Recreational Plan

City council will be asked in the near future to give approval for the organization of a community recreational program in Belleville, members of the Collegiate Home and School Club were told at their meeting in the Collegiate Auditorium Monday evening. All members of the organization were urged to attend council next Monday evening when an outline of the community program would be placed before council.

Guest speaker at the Home and School Club meeting last evening was Mr. Earle Webster, district organizer for Eastern Ontario for the setting up of community recreational programs. Mr. Webster works in connection with the Ontario Department of Education in organizing community programs.

The importance of having a planned recreational program through which workers could profitably spend their leisure time was stressed by the speaker who noted that the amount of leisure time was gradually increasing with but little organized effort to spend it profitably.

Mr. Webster regretted the passing of the church as the social centre for rural and other communities. In the old days the social life of a community revolved around the church but with the coming of good roads and automobiles this had all but disappeared. "In this we are missing much that our forefathers enjoyed," he said.

Today a different problem existed and one which could be solved only through the adoption of new methods. The average factory workers today worked but from 40 to 45 hours per week; slept possibly 50 hours and had from 70 to 75 hours spare time, much of which he knew not what to do with.

To Co-ordinate Efforts

Through establishment of community recreational programs the speaker stated his department was trying to find some way to co-ordinate the efforts of people and organizations who were willing to provide leadership in social and recreational work.

There was no thought of dispensing with the services of any organizations which already were associated in such work but the idea was to prevent duplication. To make this possible the appointment of a recreational director or counsellor was necessary. The job of this man was to bring harmony among the various organizations already interested in recreational work.

Procedure was for the preparation of a by-law protecting service clubs and other organizations and appointment of an advisory committee to which representatives from the various organizations were appointed. From this advisory board appointments would be made to a board or commission for the carrying out of specific work. Development of playgrounds and swimming facilities and the institution of a program of adult education were but a few of the endeavors of such a program.

Some Centres Operating

District centres such as Picton, Trenton, Grafton, and Stirling already had community programs in operation, according to the speaker, certain of these centres employing a part time recreational director or counsellor.

In a question and answer period it was brought out that all recreational facilities in a centre are used under a community program. Only in a very few instances have recreational centres yet been established.

President of the Home and School Association Mrs. G. G. Wright presided over the meeting. Business transacted included the granting of $50 to the Students' Council to their Memorial fund. Fifty dollars was also granted to the fund for the Educational Aid to Europe. The speaker of the evening was introduced by James Musgrove, guidance director, with thanks being expressed by Mrs. Wright.

High Tribute Paid to Life Work Of the Late Rev. Andrew McLauchlin

Representative of the large area of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, a large number of the clergy headed by the Conference President, the Rev. C. D. McLelland, B.A., B.D., Napanee, paid final tribute yesterday to a fellow minister, the late Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, who passed away in Belleville General Hospital on Friday last.

The funeral, held from the Martin Funeral Home chapel, was attended by a large number of sorrowing friends of the deceased minister and many of them accompanied the funeral cortege to Riverview Cemetery, Napanee, where interment was made.

Eulogistic tributes were paid to the late Mr. McLauchlin who for the past few years had been official statistician, and a valued member of the editorial staff of the "Observer" official publication of the United Church, by Mr. McLelland, conference head. Dr. A. J. Wilson, Toronto, editor of the "Observer" and the Rev. Don Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church who conducted the funeral service.

Big Loss to Church

"We have lost a true and valued servant," Mr. McLelland said, "one who worked devotedly for the church and for what it represented. He spent practically all of his ministerial life in the Bay of Quinte Conference and we, as a whole, as well as individually, feel his loss keenly."

The late Mr. McLauchlin, was one of the best church reporters in Canada, and "one of my ablest assistants," Dr. Wilson, "Observer" editor said in tribute to his former colleague. "Everybody called him "Andy" for one felt, after speaking with him for a few minutes, that he had known him for a long while. The enthusiasm of the man was one of his outstanding characteristics. He was an eager champion of the Christian cause, and one spoke to him but briefly on any subject, and one knew where "Andy" stood. His knowledge on any subject was wide and varied. He could speak with equal ability and confidence on church matters or those of restaurants. His knowledge of current events was amazing."

Sympathy Expressed

Mr. Amos, who was assisted in the service by Mr. McLelland and Dr. Wilson said that "on behalf of the official board and congregation of Bridge Street United Church of which the late Mr. McLauchlin was an elder, I wish to express our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family, and our appreciation of the interest taken by the departed, and them in the work of our church."

Beautiful floral tributes were colorful expressions of the deep regard and esteem in which the late Mr. McLauchlin was held by not only fellow members of the clergy, but by a large number of friends of the laity and other circles in which he moved.

The pallbearers were the Rev. Alfred Poulter, Madoc; Rev. George Pattenham, Trenton; Rev. Chas. McLelland, Napanee and Messrs. C. B. Morgan, C. L. Hyde, and C. W. Burr, of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Among the many out-of-town clergy in attendance was Dr. James Semple, Peterborough, former minister of Bridge Street United Church, and a close associate in conference matters of the late Mr. McLauchlin.

OPSA NOW EFFECTIVE

Toronto, March 2 (CP) —The Ontario Public Service Act yesterday became effective by Royal proclamation, instituting lower retiring age and pension boosts for government employees.. Passed by the legislature last fall the Act sets 65 years the retirement age, instead of 70, and raises from $2,000 to $3,000 the pension any employee may be paid in a year.

February Slightly Colder Than '47

Possibly it was merely that extra day in February which is heard so much about during Leap Year, but the fact remains that the preceding month was just a little bit colder than the corresponding month in 1947. Degree days during the past month, or the amount of heat required to bring dwellings up to 70 degrees of temperature, totalled 1,416 as compared with 1,363 during the same month last year.

High temperature recorded during the month was 48 degrees with a low of 24 degrees below zero. Mean temperature for the month was 16.1 degrees. This compares with a high temperature of 39 degrees for February 1947 and a low of 10 below. Mean temperature was 16.3 degrees. There were 11 zero days during February this year as compared with but nine zero days during February last year.

More rain was received this year with 1.16 inches falling during the month. There were 22.4 inches of snow making a total precipitation of 3.40 inches. During February last year there was but .05 inches of rain with snowfall of 38.1 inches and a total precipitation of 3.86 inches.

Lectures On Safety Given School Children

The importance of the observance of safety measures whether at school, in the home, or at play, are being stressed to school children in the city this week as well as to students of the Belleville Collegiate and St. Michael's.

Field Secretary for the Ontario Safety League, Russell W. Buyers, Toronto, is lecturing in all city schools for the first three days of the week. In his talk he places emphasis on proper observance of traffic regulations; safety measures to observe in bicycle riding and the proper care of bicycles that they may be kept in the best mechanical condition, as well as safety measures to observe while at play and also in the home.

At the Collegiate in addition to the lectures the safety program includes films on safe driving.

The visit to Belleville of the Ontario Safety League representative is part of this organization's provincial program which has been carried on among the school children for the past three or four years. Since last September the program has been extended to 70,000 school children in Ontario.

During the latter part of this week Mr. Buyers will visit Prince Edward County where he will lecture at schools in Picton and Wellington.

City and Country Will Be Advertised as Tourist Attraction at Toronto Show

The publicity committees of the City of Belleville and County of Hastings with Retail Merchants of Belleville held a meeting in council chambers on Monday afternoon and voted to equip a booth at the Canadian National Sportsman's Show in the Coliseum at the C.N.E. to be held between March 13th and 20th inclusive in order to advertise the advantages of the Highlands of Hastings and the "Friendly City" as a tourist attraction.

At the meeting Warden George West and Erle Denyes represented the county, William Brown, the Retail Merchants, Ald. Claude Tice, chairman of Tourist and Publicity for the city council and Miss Helen Fralick, the Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the combined Publicity Committees. Mr. L. B. Calnan of Picton, who is issuing the tourist booklet for the committee, was also present.

Information was received from Mr. Calnan that the booklet would not be ready for distribution at this show but the committee placed an order for 5,000 smaller booklets and the same number of inquiry cards, which will be distributed from the booth. A number of photos that will be used in and used for decorative purposes and used for decorative purfposes for the booth and over the booth will be placed a large sign bearing the inscription "The Highlands of Hastings and Belleville Bid You Welcome." The costs of operating the booth from Monday until the closing on Saturday will be borne equally by the County and City, while the Retail Merchants will assume one-third of the cost of the booth rental.

All members felt it was an excellent opportunity to place the advantages of this section of the Province before those who are seeking a holiday, when fishing, beautiful scenery and fine tourist lodges abound. Miss Fralick will be in charge of the booth the last three days of the show.

Pleadings of Slayer's Sweetheart End in Youth's Commutation

Nashville, Tenn., March 2—(AP)—Governor Jim McCord today communted to 99 years imprisonment the death sentence of Daniel Budzynski, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair Thursday.

The commutation was granted after a 20-year-old Methodist Sunday School teacher from Pittsburgh asked for clemency for her girlhood sweetheart.

Pretty Jeanne Clair Lucas came here from Pittsburgh to marry Budzynski in his death cell if the Governor would not commute his sentence.

The Governor said: "The reason for commutation is that I have a little doubt in my mind as to whether he (Budzynski) knew a robbery was to take place. It had nothing to do with his age.

"The State of Tennessee is not interested in seeing a marriage of this kind take place."

The Governor said his action did not affect Budzynski's companion, Richard Reilly, 2[illegible], scheduled to die in the electric chair at dawn Thursday.

Reilly was identified at the trial of the two youths as the triggerman in the hold-up slaying of a Memphis pawnbroker and clothes dealer.

Australia's Labor Unions Irked By Emergency Orders

Sydney, March 2 (Reuters) — Unions in Australia's eastern states today described as "Fascist-like tactics" the state of emergency proclamation by E. Hanlon, Queensland Labor Premier, as a means of settling the Queensland railway strike.

The Australian Trade Unions were in conflict with both the Labor Commonwealth government and the Queensland government.

Federal Prime Minister Chifley, was criticized because he would not give unemployment relief to the strikers or to trade unionists thrown out of work by the action of their own key workers. The strike was called to enforce wage increase demands.

About 19,000 of the 23,000 Queensland railwaymen on strike or "stood down" went back to work yesterday, when trains ran again in Brisbane for the first time in 28 days.

Queensland waterside workers decided to stay on strike until the State Government lifts its emergency orders proclaimed last Friday. The emergency measures make any person picketing liable to arrest without warrant and include powers under which the government on Saturday restricted press and radio references to the strike.

Railway workers in Victoria have decided to ban the transport of any goods declared "black" by railway workers in Queensland and were meeting today to consider further action.

HOUSE IS INFORMED POLYGAMY ILLEGAL

Irons, Mich., March 2 (CP)—A local housewife has written to the county clerk in Salt Lake City Utah, to find out if she can get married there without getting a divorce from her Michigan husband.

She asked for the forms to fill out, if it can be done. Clerk Alvin Keddington wrote back that it couldn't. Polygamy hasn't been practised in Utah since 1890, and was illegal for some time prior to that.

'Stomach Pummelings' And 'Kidney Beatings' Alleged Inflicted

Battle Creek, Mich., March 2—(CP)—Charges that "kidney beatings" and "stomach pummelings" were inflicted on mental patients in the Veterans Administration Hospital here brought suspension to four attendants today and the announcement that "others will be suspended within 48 hours."

The action was taken after a report was submitted to the hospital manager, Dr. Roger P. Hentz, by a regional investigating bureau.

Testimony disclosed in a week's inquiry that at least a dozen patients were mistreated and beaten. Dr. Hentz said a transcript of the testimony would be forwarded to the United States District Attorney at Detroit to determine whether there will be a prosecution for assault on a government reservation.

One of Last Seven War Brides Coming To Bancroft

Halifax, March 2 —(CP)— The last of 64,000 European girls who succumbed to the blandishments of Canada's servicemen during Second World War years arrived here today aboard the liner Aquitania en rout eto new homes across Canada.

With lifeboats and parts of her superstructure ice-covered from high winds and spray, the liner carried 1,271 passengers besides the last seven war brides.

When the British brides stepped down the gangplank with their five children, they brought to an end a giant immigration plan that reached its peak in 1946.

Just as the larger groups which preceded it flocked to all parts of the country, this last bevy will see its members scatter to homes in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Quebec.

Mrs. Theresa Authorson and child will go to Bancroft, Ont., and Mrs. Marjorie O'Brien, Zurich, Ont.

Wave of Anti-Red Sentiment Sweeps Scandinavia

Oslo, March 2 (AP) — A wave of anti-Soviet sentiment swept Scandinavia today as resentment mounted against the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia and Russian pressure in Finland.

In Norway, Denmark and Sweden the feeling manifested itself in mass demonstrations and press attacks against the spread of Communism over Europe.

In Oslo, thousands of students demonstrated last night outside the Czechoslovak legation. Later they marched to the "People's House" where a Communist Youth organization was celebrating the Czech coup.

"Down with Communism," the demonstrators shouted.

Political leaders said anti-Communist feeling was running higher in Norway than at any time since the end of the war.

In Denmark, pro-Russian after liberation from the Nazis, the Soviet demand on Finland was denounced in the press.

In traditionally neutral Sweden, the press came out strongly for more effective co-operation with the western states.

Barbara Is Not Expected to Turn Professional Soon

Ottawa, March 2 —(CP)— Canada's queen of the ice blades, Barbara Ann Scott, won't turn professional for another year at least.

She still has a feminine yearning for a domestic science course. "She wants to learn to cook and sew," confided Melville F. Rogers today.

Mr. Rogers was Canadian judge at the European championship competitions in which the Canadian girl won her triple crown, and spent seven weeks in Europe.

"She has her eye once more on the world figure skating championships, whcih probably will be held in North America next year," said Mr. Rogers, a former North American and Canadian figure-skating champion.

In Prague there were 15 pictures of Barbara Ann Scott to three of Rita Hayworth, he disclosed. She had created much good will for Canada.

But, added Mr. Rogers, there were "plenty of Stalin's pictures, too."

Earlier today Donald Cruikshank, president of the Minto Skating Club, confirmed the arrival date of the skating queen at Ottawa on March 9.

To Meet Reporters

Newspaper men will have 15 minutes of Barbara Ann's time when her plane lands at Dorval on Sunday, March 7. Then she'll rest 24 hours in a Montreal hotel, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Clyde Scott.

Mr. Cruikshank said writers from all parts of Canada and the United States will meet the world champion.

On March 13 she'll be guest of honor at Toronto where Miss Scott will be presented with the Lou E. Marsh memorial trophy for the second time as Canada's most outstanding athlete of the year.

Her fame has spread, said Mr. Cruikshank. He produced a letter from Lewis Clark, formerly with the United States Embassy here and now at Shanghai, China.

Enclosed with the letter was a clipping from the China News, Shanghai, dated Feb. 8, reporting Barbara Ann's Olympic triumph under a two-column head.

First Game Midget Finals Here Next Tues.

The Belleville Merchants Midgets will meet the winners of the Waterloo-Collingwood series for the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget "B" championship in a two-of-three game series, the first game to be played in Memorial Arena here on Tuesday, March 9th., club officials announced today. The second game of the series will be played on the home ice of the opposing team on Thursday, March 11th.

Waterloo and Collingwood clash in the first game of their two-game goals-to-count series tonight at Collingwood, with the second game scheduled for Waterloo on Thursday.

COMMIES START

The largest voting bloc in the 200-seat parliament is the popular Democratic Union composed of Communists and pro-Moscow Social Democrats. The union has 51 deputies.

Considerable power, however, lies in the hands of the Social Democrats, and Agrarians, who hold 52 and 46 seats respectively. Together the two parties hold six of the 12 cabinet posts.

Informed observers say Paasikivi himself favors signing the treaty. They contend the presidents feels Russian-Finish relations might be aggravated to a dangerous extent if Russia's proposal is rejected.

Weekend Weather

February in its dying days took the place of March by bringing a typical first of March storm just two days ahead, while March staged her entry not in a storm but in an atmosphere of winter and in a snowy landscape. But Probs has said that there was to be a mixture of weather on the second day of March of snow, then turning to freezing rain and afterwards rain.

Once again the weather has shown that there are the countless variables of conditions which go to make up weather so that no two seasons have ever been the same nor can be the same identically.

Those who have listened to the radio broadcasts on the weather gain an interesting body of information about the weatherman and his job, which deals with networks of facts and avoids guesswork.

Saturday's heavy storm with drifting before heavy winds was one of the heaviest of the year but it did not affect adversely traffic as have some other winter storms.

Vast Project

Two of Britain's problems, finding teachers for her expanding educational system and providing training for war veterans and others returned from national service, are being relieved by one vast project: the Emergency Training Scheme.

Britain's teacher shortage, serious during the war because many teachers went into other fields, was the more acute because the Education Act of 1944 called for raising the school-leaving age from fourteen to fifteen and reducing the number of students per teacher. A prompt and bold program was necessary, and the Ministry of Education formulated the Emergency Training Scheme.

Under this scheme no less than fifty-two emergency teacher training colleges have been opened in two and a half years in England and Wales. These are in addition to the 136 university training departments and permanent teacher training colleges in the area, which instruct even larger numbers of prospective teachers than before the war.

The newest emergency college was opened at Warton, Lancashire, by George Tomlinson, Minister of Education. It is a comfortable, well-equipped institution for 240 women students, located in the former living quarters of an American airfield, and administered by the Lancashire Education Authority.

Emergency colleges offer a year's intensive training to men and women wishing to take up teaching at an age older than the usual time for beginning such a career. They train for teaching primary and secondary school classes and technical or commercial courses in college.

Nearly 7,000 men and women have already completed emergency training, and 10,500 are enrolled in emergency training colleges. There are altogether 20,500 in emergency and regular teacher training colleges, compared with 7,000 trained each year before the war.

Mr. Tomlinson said at Warton that the increased birth rate in Britain, plus the rise in the school-leaving age from fourteen to fifteen, would result in an increase of about 860,000 children in schools by 1952.

Referring to the great success of the scheme, he continued, "I do not think, when the scheme was first launched by the Ministry, anyone foresaw that we should receive as many as 105,000 applications, including about 83,000 from men." Thirty-six thousand men have been accepted for training, and no further applications from men are being entertained.

Woman Nazi Leader Held

The story of the arrest of the head of the Nazi women's organization in Germany after having long since been believed dead brings to light one who was long said to have been a close associate of Hitler and exhorter of his doctrines to the women of Nazi Germany. With her was arrested her husband, Col. August Heissmeyer, who carried a vial of poison but made no effort to use it, agents said. Many Germans, associated with the Nazis, have ended or tried to end their lives to avoid the consequence of their deeds.

How difficult it is for persons once prominent in the Nazi reign of terror in Germany to avoid ultimate arrest has been shown in other cases and in Frau Gertrud's case. She avoided notice for more than two years but was at last arrested on a tip.

Solution to Shortage

A new method of treating herring — whereby they are broken down by chemical action into their natural constituents, the most important of which are edible oil and protein — has been evolved by nutritional scientists of Britain's Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. It is considered to be such as to make a significant contribution to the solution of the world problem of shortage of fats and proteins. It also has a great value for the industry itself. It allows widely varying quantities of fish to be absorbed day by day into the processing plants, thus providing an answer to the problem of how to deal with gluts without waste. A number of these new plants are to be constructed in time for dealing with the catch from this year's summer fishing season.

This Period of History

Yet can the world stick its head in the sands and ignore the stark fact that Russia's conquering commissars are not merely changing Europe's face politically, but militarily as well, says the New York Times:

> "Communist seizure of Czechoslovakia rounds out a new Russian Empire which has not only extended dominion over an additional 100,000,000 people and their armies but has also gained a tremendous additional war potential. It has gained the 'Little Ruhr' of Silesia, turned over to Russia's Polish puppet. Now it has also gained the Skoda armament works, the Krupps of the East. It has long been an axiom of European politics that whoever controls Bohemia has at least a good chance to control Europe."

Thus the sombre picture. The extraordinary thing is that while its outlines become darker and sharper most of us continue with out work and play, our hopes and plans, as if we were not living through one of the most fateful periods of history! But what else can the "plain man" do?—Ottawa Journal.

Fears

Can people actually be scared to death? Medical science says, "'Yes — in a multitude of ways." Perhaps the most deadly form of fear is that which holds a person back from seeking early professional attention for an ailment. One of the worst features of cancer, for instance, is the fear it instils into people. Cancer can be cured, in most cases, and this is true of the majority of troubles. But all have to be attacked early. The thing to dread, say the doctors, is not the disease itself but the fear which paralyses the initiative to do the obvious—that is, to get help to fight it, at once.

TOKEN OF STRUGGLE

When English shoes and jack-knives and other such products as British woollens, linens, cottons, cutlery, silverware and china are again on the shelves of Canadian stores in plenty — not to mention their being available again to her own people — we will have the measure of the United Kingdom's industrial recovery. Until then, the little that Britain can send us is a token of her great postwar struggle for existence, remarks Stratford Beacon-Herald.

IN AN UNHEATED CHURCH

By coming to church we at least help to keep the place warm, and if we join heartily in singing as well as lift up our souls to God in praise and thanksgiving, we will be able to keep ourselves warm on the coldest day.

If needs be, bring a rug for use during the sermon, says Church Magazine of Codrington, England.

Damaged dishes can spread disease. One Province recently advised restaurant patrons to reject chipped or cracked crockery placed before them. Care is needed, too, with cutlery. Forks, particularly, can harbor germs at the base of their prongs. Whether at family table or when dining out, ensure that utensils are as clean as the food you eat, for health safety.

THE BODY

The body is the thing that breaks,
Suffers disease and feels the cold,
Wearies till every muscle aches
And with the passing years grows old.

It is the spirit lights the eye,
Enriches life with charm and grace,
And when the body has to die,
Leaves memories to take its place.

Fair as the body seems to be,
It is the spirit that we love
And wait and long again to see
In that far happier realm above.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Ten States touch the Mississippi River, but four of them—Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Indiana — were admitted into the Union before one of them preempted the name of the river as its own.

At the close of the Revolution Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia claimed the Mississippi as their western boundary. Kentucky was carved from Virginia territory and Tennessee from North Carolina territory.

By the treaty of Paris in 1783 Great Britain returned the Floridas to Spain but recognized the claims of the United States to the territory extending from South Carolina and Georgia to the Mississippi with the 31st parallel as the southern boundary. South Carolina ceded her claims to this territory to the central government in 1787 and Georgia hers in 1802.

Spain at first claimed and occupied territory farther north than the 31st parallel, but in 1796, by the Treaty of San Lorenzo de Real, she recognized that line as the southern boundary of the United States and withdrew her troops from the disputed areas.

On April 7, 1798, the United States took possession of the "Natches District" and created "Mississippi Territory," which included what are now Alabama and Mississippi. This was the first Federal Territory actually named by Congress.

The area now comprising the short panhandles of Alabama and Mississippi, which lies between the 31st parallel and the Gulf of Mexico, was added to Mississippi Territory after the United States occupied West Florida in 1810.

In 1817 Congress granted the western part of the Territory the right to organize a State and created Alabama Territory in the eastern part. The convention that drafted the constitution voted 23 to 17 in favor of calling the new State "Mississippi" and against calling it "Washington." Mississippi was admitted into the Union as a State December 10, 1817.

Formerly, when humorous State nicknames were more common than now, Mississippians were known as "Mud-cats" and the State as the "Mud State," from the large cat-fish known as mud-cats that abounded in the swamps and streams. Later it was called the "Bayou State," from the numerous bayous in the region, but Mississippi adopted the magnolia as the State flower and now "Magnolia State" is the preferred nickname.

Condon Blasted As Weakest Link In A-Security

Washington, March 2 (AP)— A report charging that the head of the United States government's Bureau of Standards is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" spurred two congressional committees into action today.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, 45-year-old scientist so accused by a House of Representatives Un-American Activities sub-committee, retorted:

"This is gratifying information because I'm absolutely reliable and therefore we have nothing to worry about. The country can relax."

To an accompanying charge that he "knowingly or unknowingly entertained and associated" with alleged Russian spies, Condon commented:

"That's just too vague to talk about. I certainly didn't do it knowingly."

The House group contended that the Bureau of Standards, as the testing ground for some of the country's top secrets, "has become the target of espionage agents of numerous foreign powers."

In its formal report made public last night, the committee noted that Condon had been appointed head of the Bureau Nov. 5, 1945, on the recommendation of Henry Wallace, then Secretary of Commerce.

Discussing Communists, the report said:

"In this country they haven't gotten as far as they did in Czechoslovakia, but they got pretty far, because they got a man as Vice-President of the United States, and he is now their candidate for President, and he is the same man who recommended Dr. Condon as Director of the Bureau of Standards....

"The situation as regards Dr. Condon is not an isolated one.

Ring Operating is Claim

"There are other government officials in strategic positions who are playing Stalin's game.... the evidence before our sub-committee.... indicates very strongly that there is in operation at the present time in the United States an extensive Soviet espionage ring.

"To permit this ring to continue, in view of the high atomic prizes which they are seeking is folly, and can only lead to ultimate disaster."

Meanwhile, from hospital where he is under treatment for a stomach ailment, Representative J. Parnell Thomas (Rep.-N.J.) indicated he may call a bedside meeting of the full Un-American Activities Committee.

Thomas heads the full group which has been investigating the three - man sub - committee government's atomic energy program for more than a year.

The purpose of the meeting would be to send the sub-committee report formally to President Truman and to the Commerce Department, under which the Bureau of Standards operates.

At the same time Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep.-Iowa) called a meeting of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee to study the House group's report.

The Un-American activities group recommended that Condon either be "removed or a statement should be forthcoming from the Secretary of Commerce setting forth the reasons why he has retained Dr. Condon in view of the derogatory information which he has had before him."

He Puts It Plainly

(Ottawa Journal Editorial)

"Anyone who alleges," says Premier George Drew, "that I or those associated with me (in the Government of Ontario) are controlled, financed or influenced by the liquor interests is a contemptible and unprincipled liar."

Premier Drew's frankness reminds older citizens of the plain-speaking Sir James Whitney, also premier of Ontario in his day, and the bluntness of Hon. Frank Oliver, who came from the West to the Laurier cabinet. They, too, could call a spade a spade without referring to it as a broad-bladed digging-tool held with both hands and pressed into the ground by a foot on the shoulder of the blade.

George Drew never has learned what is to so many public men the first lesson of politics, that language is given for the concealment of thought, and we hope he never does learn it. His frankness is refreshing, as his political courage is something to admire. Those qualities go far, we think, to explain Premier Drew's great prestige and the confidence the people have in him.

THEN WHY DRINK AT ALL?

Recently a dozen drinkers — social, occasional, periodic or habitual — contributed their answers to the query: Why do you drink?—confidentially.

I have a smug notion that a good many readers of this column may be as much interested in the reason or reasons why I am a total abstainer as they would be in the details of my operation or yours. Further I have been led to believe that some readers of this column may be influenced one way or the other by what they read here.

Why don't I drink?

Well, why should I drink?

If I were your friend, your guest, your boss, your poor relation, your superior officer or your best customer would you feel offended or insult me if I chose milk, water or fruit juice when you prefer to drink liquor? Or if I propose a toast in pure wood alcohol would it be improper or discourteous if you chose to drink the toast in some milder solvent?

In my youth I never did apply hot and rebellious liquors in my blood, mainly, I think, because, as a child I had promised my mother I would not use alcohol or tobacco before twenty-one. Only that pledge kept me from taking my first drink in my 'teens, particularly when I was in medical school and most of my classmates, at least in the freshman and sophomore stage, considered it smart, funny or a mark of sophistication or manliness to join a drinking party or to get drunk occasionally. Each young smart aleck just had to show that he could handle the stuff, lest some halfwit regard him as a sissy.

If one can cut one's wisdom teeth as a teetotal abstainer the likelihood that one will acquire a taste, desire or need for alcohol after that becomes remote indeed.

Most of us cut all the wisdom teeth (third molars) we are going to cut at the age of 18 to 25 years. Nearly half of all adults never do cut from one to all four wisdom teeth. The presence of these teeth in the mouth is probably the best gauge of an individual's physical growth and development—one is not yet grown up, adult, until one has cut one's last wisdom tooth. And generally character development proceeds on parallel lines. Although some persons unquestionably are adults in every respect at the age of 18 or 19, just as many are not fully developed physically and morally or ethically until they have reached the age of 22 to 25 years.

If a man is sufficiently developed for military service he is fairly entitled to the right to vote, to marry, to exercise all the rights of citizenship. In my opinion no sound minded, able-bodied person past 18 years of age who depends wholly or partly on parents or others for support should have the right to vote. Not just chronological age, but growth and development should determine whether an individual is a child or an adult.

Alarming race degeneracy is manifested in many ways but especially by the tremendous increase in drinking among girls and young women the past ten years.

Call me crank, crackpot, hypocrite, spoil sport or sourpuss if you wish, but from what they tell me in more and more of the letters I receive day by day I am convinced of the need for a national guild, society or movement of some kind, actively supported by all religious and other philanthrophic bodies, with the primary purpose of pledging all, or as many as possible, of our children to abstain from the use of alcohol before they come of age.

A weak, sickly, abnormal young person may have inferiority feelings, worries, fears or anxieties which a narcotic, such as alcohol, makes him or her forget for an hour. A healthy, normal young person enjoys life as it is, and doesn't want to miss anything, so he or she naturally prefers not to dull or benumb higher consciousness with alcohol or other narcotic.

750 Engineers, Radio Officers Stage Walkout

Vancouver, March 2 — (CP)— A strike of about 750 engineers and radio officers on 150 Canadian deep-sea ships on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts began at midnight, Jack Holmes, president of the Canadian Communications Association, announced early today.

He said the strike would tie up practically every deep-sea Canadian ship operating from both coasts. Vessels at sea would tie up when they returned to port.

Officials of the C. C. A., representing the radio officers, and the National Association of Marine Engineers met last night to set the time when the strike would begin.

Mr. Holmes said no officers would "sign or clear except through their associations." The officers had voted overwhelmingly for strike action following a breakdown in final negotiations with shipowners for a new agreement.

The Canadian Merchant Service Guild, representing deck officers, has made no announcement on whether they also will join in the walkout.

The Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.), whose membership comprises the non-officer members on the ships involved, signed a new agreement with shipowners last year but C. C. A. officials said they did not expect the seamen would cross officers' picket lines.

Mr. Holmes said shipowners, represented by the Shipping Federation of Canada and the Shipping Association (deep-sea) of B C. gave the C. C. A. a "take-it-or-leave-it" final offer for a new agreement.

This offer, which the officers flatly rejected, included about an 11-per-cent wage boost, plus other terms found unsuitable by the men. The C. C. A. president said the wage boost amounted to about $25 monthly while officers were asking a basic monthly wage increase of $35.

Shipowners' representatives were not available for comment immediately.

The action follows rejection of a report by Mr. Justice J. D. McNiven, submitted Nov. 27, which recommended a wage increase ranging up to $35 monthly for the officer groups.

Radio's Battle To Take Sides Being Opposed

Washington, March 2 — (AP)— Radio's battle for the right to broadcast its own editorial opinions, now being waged before the Federal Communications Commission, ran into opposition today.

The C. I. O. ranged itself beside James Lawrence Fly, former F.C.C. chairman, in support of the 'no-editorial' rule which now binds the industry.

A union spokesman said the C. I. O. is ready to tell the F. C. C. hearing that radio is "big business, dependent on advertising." If broadcasters were allowed to take sides, he contended, they would reflect a commercial point of view.

As the hearing opened yesterday the heads of three United States networks — NBC, ABC and CBS — asked a reversal of the ban. Radio should enjoy the same freedom as the press, they argued, with no regulatory strings attached.

The hearing on whether to change the F. C. C.'s "Mayflower decision" may last a week or more. That disputed ruling forbade the Mayflower Broadcasting Corporation of Boston — and by implication, all other radio stations and networks — to "advocate the causes" of its owner in politics or controversial matters.

Niles Trammell, president of the National Broadcasting Company, testified yesterday that the Mayflower rule is "censorship." As such, he said, it violates not only the constitutional right of free speech but the Communications Act which created F.C.C.

NON-VETERANS DISMISSED

Philadelphia, March 2 — (AP) — Dismissal of hundreds of United States civil service employees was reported today by the Philadelphia Inquirer. The paper said "All of the affected employees are non-veterans who have been or will be displaced soon by eligible veterans of World War Two in accordance with provisions of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944."

Govt. Prepares Bill to Reduce Milk Prices

Toronto, March 2 (CP) —Milk prices in Ontario and how to reduce them — a question close to the hearts of every budget-conscious housewife — are expected to provide a subject of legislation scheduled for introduction at the fourth session of Ontario's 22nd legislature which opens tomorrow.

The legislation is being drafted with a view of reducing retail milk prices through cuts in distribution costs without affecting prices paid to the producer.

Agriculture Minister Thomas L. Kennedy will introduce the measures designed to cut costs by such means as staggering delivery on an every-second-day basis and by establishing zones for distribution.

The province's proposed labor bill is expected to spark a debate from among 24 opposition members in the 90-seat House Some opposition quarters object to the bill because its enactment would not have any effect until the Dominion Labor Code is adopted in Ottawa.

Labor Minister Daley has forecast legislation to apply pending Federal Labor Legislation to all Ontario industry.

The opposition will come from among the 11 Liberals, eight C. C.F., two Liberal Labor members two Labor Progressive Party representatives and one Labor member.

Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government, with 66 members, is expected to present other legislation dealing with financing the change of hydro from 25 to 60 cycles, if approved by the House, and with civil service salaries.

There is also speculation that the government will introduce some form of housing legislation.

Legislature opening will be marked by the formality of military honors to be accorded Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson who will be escorted to Queen's Park by the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Thomas Pryde, Progressive Conservative victor in the Huron by-election two weeks ago, will move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. It will be seconded by William E. Hamilton, Wellington South Progressive Conservative.

The prospect of an early spring suggests that the session may adjourn till fall when it rises for the Easter recess, allowing farmer members to get back to their planting.

Hurlingham Club May Have to Yield To Housing Program

London, March 2 (CP)—Whether Hurlingham Club, polo ground and rendezvous for Britain's upper crust, will have to make way for a large-scale housing development will be decided shortly by Lewis Silkin, Minister of Town and Country Planning.

Already part of the club's South London grounds has been taken over for building purposes by Fulham council, and work on the first of seven blocks of apartments will start there shortly. The council claims the remaining space is vitally needed.

At a recent public inquiry club members fought for retention of the 60 remaining acres, which include the club house, tennis courts, croquet lawns, a swimming pool, a lake and landscaped paths.

Witnesses described it as a "mecca" for polo players, much as Lord's is for cricket and Wimbledon for tennis.

Says Landlord Adopts Own Plan To Save Electricity

Toronto, March 2. (CP)—Frank Turner told suburban Scarborough Council last night that his landlord had adopted his own electricity conservation campaign which forced the tenant to live under primitive conditions in a three-room flat for which he was paying $55 a month.

Turner said the hydro was cut off for periods of from 1 1-2 hours to half a day; that the furnace went out during the night and there was no chimney for the furnace. He said he warmed food for his three-year-old son by holding it to his body.

Council asked the Health Department to take immediate action.

Carrier Has Own Food, Won't Dig into U.K.'s

Ottawa, March 2. (CP)— There'll be no digging into the United Kingdom's restricted food supplies when Canada's new aircraft carrier, H.M.C.S. Magnificent, is commissioned in Belfast this Spring, the navy said today.

The R.C.N.'s first carrier, H.M.C.S. Warrior, which put into Belfast Feb. 20, carried as freight in her unoccupied hangars enough stores to maintain 1,000 men at sea in Magnificent for three months.

Her 18,000 cubic feet of cargo now have been transferred to the new carrier and will meet the crew's needs until Magnificent reaches Canadian waters after her working-up exercises.

TO CONSIDER ACTION

London, March 2 (CP)—City Council dedcided last night to arrange a meeting Thursday to consider a $6 weekly salary increase for city employees.

Blast-Torn U.S. Navy Destroyer Limps into Port

Long Beach, Calif., March 2 — (AP)—The blast-torn United States navy destroyer Duncan reached port today with one man dead, 14 injured and a story of valiant crew work to save their ship after an explosion 200 miles at sea.

The 390-foot ship got home under her own power. A navy tug guided her to dock. The starboard side near the stern was rent along the water line, the jagged opening being more than 30 feet long and three or four feet wide. Steel deck plates were buckled.

Upon arrival the injured were taken off, some by stretcher, and transferred to hospital. The name of the man killed will be announced later. Six sailors were injured, mostly by burns, but the navy said none was in critical condition.

Cmdr. Paul Van Leunen, skipper of the Duncan which was based at San Diego, told reporters the explosion was believed to have been caused by acetylene gas from a leaking container in the shipfitter's shop. There was only one man in the shop at the time, he was killed.

The single explosion did not set off any ammunition, although there was a magazine about 50 feet away.

Several compartments were flooded, followed by general flooding aft, but "through the valiant efforts of the crew the water was confined to the damaged area," Van Leunen said.

Crewmen worked hip-deep in the damaged area, shoring up the openings with mattresses and other material to block out the water.

The 2,425-ton Duncan carried 10 officers and 247 men. She sailed from Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor Sunday for Pearl Harbor.

WILL TAKE ACTION

Sarnia, March 2 (CP)—Charles Houston, spokesman for a delegation of merchants told city council last night, "there are places on the east side of East Street where a 10 or 12-year-old child could drop out of sight in mud and water." The delegation was assured that all possible action would be taken immediately to ease the situation.

Point Traverse

Local Fishermen Setting Nets For Whitefish

Point Traverse, March 2. —With the setting of nets in local waters last week, commercial fishing operations at this colony have commenced, which is one of the earliest dates on record.

Basil Collier and son, Verdun, placed whitefish nets in South Bay waters on Friday, followed by other fishermen setting their nets on Saturday.

Within a few days, if weather and ice conditions permit, out these intrepid fishermen will go to lift their nets and harvest their catch.

Missing Men

The early Saturday morning alarm flashed here, anent the disappearance of Raymond and Melbourn McIntosh, commercial fishermen, whose whereabouts were unknown throughout Friday night until 7 o'clock, Saturday morning, placed this vicinity into an atmosphere of anxiety and suspense, which had not been seen since April 13, 1926, when Claude Dulmage and Stinson Hyatt went adrift on Lake Ontario and were marooned for five days on the Galloo Island, 22 miles from where they started from.

About the time the McIntosh Brothers walked into the farm home of Colin Hudgin at South Bay, all residents along this waterfront were alerted to be on the lookout for the missing men, but a driving hail storm placed visibility at a minimum. Residents at South Bay, Black Creek and along the Cressy shoreline were also asked to look for the fishermen.

A phone call to the R.C.A.F. air station at Trenton, asking for the services of a plane to locate the brothers, was cancelled when word was received of their safety.

U.K. Government Will Not Alter Previous Decision

Ottawa, March 2 (CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons that the United Kingdom Government has declined to alter its decision with respect to the tabling here of certain documents in the evidence compiled by the Royal Commission on Canadian participation in the defence of Hong Kong.

Mr. King announced last week the British government had consented to have most of the evidence tabled, providing code messages were paraphrased and providing certain other telegrams were shown only to leaders of the opposition parties.

Hon. C. G. Power, former Air Minister and Defence Minister when the Canadian expedition was sent to Hong Kong, asked that Mr. King urge the British government to review its decision and to permit tabling of all evidence. Mr. King agreed to the request, but the reply from the U. K. government was that it could not alter its previous decision.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Brantford, March 2 (CP)—Albert Van Order, alias Charles Shannon, 47, of Toronto, Monday was remanded for sentence until Wednesday on two charges of theft and one of breaking and entering.

Magistrate R. J. Gillen had sentenced him to one year definite and three months indeterminate in reformatory for the breaking and entering charge plus six months concurrent on the other charges. He allowed the remand following Van Order's request for a two year sentence at Kingston Penitentiary.

BECOMES SOVIET WIFE

Annabelle Bucar, 33, (above), of Clairton, Pa., has written Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith that she is resigning her post in the U. S. embassy in Moscow "because her work is "incompatible with my present views," and that she intends to stay in the Soviet Union. Miss Bucar, who phoned her family that she had married a Russian, declared in her letter of resignation that reactionary individuals are "doing their utmost to create dissension and misunderstanding between the American and Soviet peoples." She was employed in the U. S. information service section, serving as an assistant information officer on the magazine America, the News Bulletin and other operations of the information service.

FATHER ASHAMED

Ivan Bucar, of Clairton, Pa., father of Annabelle Bucar who quit her job in the U. S. embassy in Moscow because she preferred the Russian way of life, is shown at work in the mine where he is employed. He said he is "ashamed" of his daughter.

SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Denver, March 2 — (AP) — Charles E. Geiser, 24, who shot his bride to death while uttering the "till death us do part" portion from the marriage ceremony, was sentenced yesterday to 45 years to life imprisonment. He was convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of his bride of three weeks last Sept. 10.

SUFFOCATED BY CAVE-IN

Devils Lake, N. D., March 2 — (AP) — Janet Lee Bakke, 7, helped several playmates build a snow cave. Later she disappeared. Her father, Russell, searching for her, noticed the cave had collapsed. He found Janet under the snowpile, face down. She had suffocated.

Expect Refuelling Of Planes in Air Regular Routine

London, March 2 (Reuters) — Four weeks of tests over the Atlantic have led some British air experts to expect the refuelling of planes in the air to become regular routine.

Aviation ministry officials are cautiously optimistic. Much depends on the final results of the trials, which will continue at least through April, when weather conditions are usually at their worst.

The refuelling service is being operated by the government-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation and a firm named Flight Refuelling Limited. It It provides tanker aircraft which meet at rendezvous with freight-carrying Liberator planes and pass to them the 1,000 gallons or more of fuel needed to complete the long non-stop crossing between London and Montreal.

It is argued that refuelling in flight has these advantages:

It enables an aircraft to take off from a shorter runway, because it need not carry its full load of fuel. It increases the possible payload and increases the range of an aircraft.

The increase payload is the main commercial argument. It is calculated that a passenger aircraft could save the weight and space needed to carry 2,000 gallons of fuel and so add to its passenger-carrying capacity by 16,000 pounds, or 50 persons.

MAYORS CHANGE SHOES

Toronto, March 2 (CP)—Mayor H. E. McCallum literally stepped into ex-Mayor Robert H. Saunders' shoes yesterday. Unprepared to attend a banquet, Mayor McCallum sent home for his dinner jacket but forgot the necessary black shoes. Former-Mayor Saunders was at City Hall at the time wearing black shoes and in quick agreement, they exchanged footwear, the ex-mayor stepping into his successor's brown shoes.

TWO MEN RELEASED

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Osland wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Beatrice Joy, to Harvey Eugene, younger son of Mrs. Putman of Cannifton, and the late Mr. Frederick Putman. The wedding will take place quietly at the home of the bride's parents, 62 Gordon Street, April 1st.

Constable George A. Scott, of Rosthern, Sask., is in the city visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott, 302 Dufferin Ave.

Minerva Chapter O.E.S. celebrated a birthday recently with a party in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Front Street. Visitors were present from Trenton, Tweed and Belleville O.E.S. 55. The usual lodge birthday cake ceremony having been completed, the three-tiered, artistically decorated cake was cut by Mrs. Harriet McIntosh, a charter member of the lodge. Generous slices of the cake, accompanied by other delicious refreshments, were served informally, and dancing concluded an enjoyable party.

WEDDINGS

HARMER—WHITFIELD

At three o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Feb. 28, a marriage of considerable local interest was solemnized in the parsonage of Cannifton United Church, when Margaret Keitha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Whitfield, became the bride of William John Harmer, son of Mrs. Anne Harmer, of Hamilton, Ont., with Rev. J. R. Trumpour officiating.

The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of cornflower blue wool, the jacket featuring a bustle back, with black accessories. Her corsage was of Sweetheart roses and baby breath.

Miss Mary Whitfield was her sister's only attendant, wearing a pin stripe suit of skipper grey wool, with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Don Andrews of Belleville, was the groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Harmer left for a wedding trip to Hamilton and other Western Ontario cities.

Upon their return they will reside in Trenton.

Rev. Geo. Kilpatrick To Speak On "The Grenfell Mission"

The Woman's Canadian Club of Belleville is sponsoring Rev. George G. D. Kilpatrick, D.D., president of the United Theological College, Montreal, Que., who will speak on "The Grenfell Mission", Friday evening, in the Assembly Hall of Bridge St. United Church.

This is an open meeting and it is expected that many folk will want to hear this outstanding speaker tell of his trip "In the Steps of Sir Wilfred Grenfell" of Labrador and Newfoundland.

There is a small group of women in this city organized as the Grenfell Mission Society, which maintains a cot in Mutton Bay Hospital, Labrador, in memory of the late Miss Madeline Fralick.

Dr. Kilpatrick will bring first hand information concerning the work still being continued in memory of one of the world's most outstanding missionaries, the late Dr. Grenfell, who with Livingstone, Stanley and Morrison should be listed among the 'Pioneers in Christian Missions'.

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER

Mrs. R. Boyce entertained the members of Ontario Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi on Monday evening. In the absence of the president, the meeting was in charge of Miss Marian Rafuse. Final arrangements were made for the rummage sale to be held in the Armouries on Saturday.

An interesting letter from Miss Marjorie Simpson, president of England's Alpha chapter in London, was read. In her letter, Miss Simpson told something of the members in her chapter. One sends very interesting post cards of her experiences as secretary to the captain and purser of an ocean liner. Two of the members of her chapter have come to Canada and settled in Windsor, Ont., and a third was leaving that day to settle with her English husband in Toronto. As a result they are very Canada conscious.

She stated that the elderly people in England, living on their own, are faring the worst and submitted the names of eight elderly people to whom the girls could send small parcels. She asked for items which seem very common to us but are extremely important to them (tea, sugar, and fats of any kind). She stated that the cosmetics they lack most are soap and nail varnish.

Miss Margaret Crozier was appointed convener of a committee to look after packing these boxes.

It was decided to hold a bridge party in April, the details of which will be arranged later. The proceeds will go to the cancer research under the auspices of Beta Sigma Phi.

A "Friendly Venture" project which would take Beta Sigma Phi to Trenton was discussed. It was decided to investigate the prospects of organizing a chapter and Mrs. Volkman was appointed as convener of the committee.

After the business meeting, Miss Irene Morgan gave a very informative talk on color. Using as the basis of her talk the primary and intermediate colors, she told the girls the colors which could be mixed and the ones most suitable to the different types of people.

The meeting closed and the hostess served delicious refreshments.

ST. JAMES' W.A.

Tweed — The regular meeting of St. James' Anglican W.A. was held Thursday evening last at the home of Mrs. Fred Mitchell.

The opening prayers were taken by the president, Mrs. Chas. Jeffrey, followed by the Scripture taken from the 6th chapter of Corinthians was read by Mrs. Jerry Luffman. Several items of business were discussed, more readings, were given by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Jeffrey. The concluding chapter of the study book "One Family" was ably presented by Mrs. Florence Fisher. Various Valentine contests were also enjoyed. Prayer by the rector Rev. W. J. Robinson brought the meeting to a close.

Miss M. J. Pollock Guest of Honor At Campaign Banquet

Mr. R. E. Hackborn, president of the local Community Concert Association, was master of ceremonies last evening at a Campaign banquet, when the executive and membership campaign workers enjoyed the hospitality of Bridge Street United W.A., in the Assembly Hall of the church. Mr. Hackborn said he considered the contributon made by the assocation to the musical education of the city's children one of its most important and effective accomplishments.

After welcoming the guests, the president asked Mr. W. Finkle to express the thanks of the guests to the ladies sponsoring the banquet, to which Mrs. R. B. Morden, W.A. president, responded. Appreciation to Mr. Enos David for the use of a fine Westinghouse phonograph and several records, providing suitable music for the evening, was voiced by Mr. Hackborn, who also announced that the Association's headquarters are now in the Y.M.C.A. building.

Mr. W. J. Morrison, speaking in tribute to the late Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, first president of the original concert association here, said the former principal had been particularly interested in expanding the musical education of Collegiate students, and asked the assembly to stand for a moment of silence in memory of Mr. MacLaurin.

Mrs. W. Finkle, campaign manager, welcomed Miss Mary J. Pollock, a representative from the Association headquarters in New York City. Mrs. Finkle said that already between 575 and 600 memberships have been registered. One of the main objectives in this campaign is to interest new people coming to the city and to add their names to the waiting list. Another important factor for success is to publicize the fact that the labor entailed in selling memberships is entirely voluntary, and that receptions are planned so that members may meet the artists personally, as well as other members; "All" are invited to attend these social functions.

Miss Leona Riggs introduced Miss Pollock, the speaker of the evening, who graciously responded expressing her thanks for the hospitable reception accorded her in Belleville. She said in part, —"The two things which make for successful Community Concert Associations anywhere are enthusiasm and co-operation, locally and internationally. This necessitates an interest in music for oneself and others; with every worker doing the job for which he or she is best suited and an experienced selection committee co-operating with a representative who has met the artists at a conference in New York.

"Interest in concerts has grown during the past two decades and now there is enthusiasm among young artists, and a fine selection from which to choose, tending toward good concerts. Artists are now willing and glad to go to even backwoods towns in order to bring pleasure to appreciative audiences. The artist who feels himself "dedicated" receives a thrill when these folk on the outskirts of civilization sit spell-bound as they listen; and a like reward comes to the local workers and to the representative who helped to bring so much pleasure to the members of the Association."

In closing Miss Pollock wished Mrs. Finkle and the campaign 'Good Luck'.

After thanking the speaker for her words of encouragement, Mr. Hackborn said in closing that 875 adults and 200 students is the maximum enrollment of members for the next season, and there can be no guarantee of transfer to membership made to anyone on the waiting list.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Surprise . . . Surprise . . . She Doesn't Want a Shower given For Her!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been making plans to give a baby shower for a dear friend of mine, who is quite soon to have her second child. She has found out about my plans, and has asked me not to have the shower. She says that having such a party for her would mean that the guests felt sorry for her, and she doesn't want pity. I've tried to explain to her that baby showers aren't given for any idea of "pity" but she just can't understand, and says that if any shower is to be given for her, she feels that some member of her family should be the one to give it. She, like myself, reads your column every day . . . so I wish you'd please set her straight about this.

Although the majority of people enthusiastically welcome any plans for a shower to be given for them, there are still many people who, like your friend, just don't relish the idea of having showers given for them, and who particularly don't like the idea of a baby shower. Your friend apparently is a sensitive, modest-spirited woman who is unwilling to even appear to co-operate with the plans of a party to which guests are invited for the purpose of bringing her gifts. And I'm pretty sure that she doesn't want her family to give her a baby shower either... she is, I believe, just saying this trying to make her point of view easier for you.

So, dear lady, although your intention is of the very essence of thoughtfulness and generous friendliness, my advice is that you give up all plans for the baby shower. After the baby's arrival, you and some of her intimate friends might, as they go to see her and the baby, take the baby a gift of something pretty and useful.

Only Bride's Friends Invited To Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle an argument for us? To a bridal shower is is proper for the hostess to invite some of her friends who don't know the bride?

Three Girls.

No. Since everyone who comes to a shower must bring a gift, only the friends of the bride-to-be should be invited. It's inappropriate to ask your friends to buy gifts for a guest of honor they don't even know.

Her Niece as Flower Girl, Nephew as Page

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister has a lovely 8-year-old daughter and an engaging 5-year-old little boy. . I love them dearly and I want very much to have them both in my wedding party. The little girl will make a beautiful flower girl, and I have planned to have her wear a long pastel Kate Greenaway dress, and carry an old-fashioned bouquet. But what about the little boy... can I plan to have him in the procession, and, if so, in what capacity? I loathe the idea of a ring-bearer, so that's out; and having him as a page to carry my train would terrify me. Have you any suggestion about this, Mrs. Beeckman? (If this makes any difference in your answer, my sister is to be my matron of honor, and there are to be eight ushers and eight bridesmaids.)

Claire T.

My suggestion is that you have this engaging little boy in your wedding party, and have him walk with his lovely little sister. I agree with your decisions not to have him as a ring-bearer and not to have him as a page to hold your train. But, for want of a better name, he might be called a "page." Since these children are so young, I suggest you have them walk in front of their mother, the matron of honor, in the processional (so she can, if necessary, keep a motherly eye on them!) and also in front of her in the recessional.

Manners – Resolutions in February
By Mrs. Beeckman

Now that you've stepped forth for more than a month in the new year, how about that check-up you promised yourself you'd give to your Manners? Are you still vaguely thinking that sometime you'll really do something about improving your manners, polishing them so that you will be mighty proud of their radiance?

Today is a good time to resolve to achieve pleasant, considerate manners..."to do and say the kindest thing in the kindest way."

American Sweetheart

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE DARK SATIN tailored suit is one of the city woman's best friends, and every Autumn brings it out in the fashion variation of the moment on the sure classic theme. Not an extravagance, on the other hand never pin-money priced, this style (in black, or navy, as above, and sometimes in tobacco brown as well) invariably has the look of a custom made job. For all more formal daytime occasions, for most of the less formal after-dark dates, the sombre satin suit with tasteful accessory brightening is a favorite perennial.

London Accents Mannish Touch In Sports Togs

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—New look coats, suits and dresses may emphasize lines that are full and flowing, but today's slacks, shorts and bathing suits go to the opposite extremes.

Slacks at Jaeger's spring shows had a masculine look with a slight feminine twist. Cut neatly to the figure with masculine brusqueness of line, the legs were notably narrower than they have been for some time, giving a feminine slimness to the leg. Checks, tartans and Bedford cords were favored.

One example was a scarlet Bedford cord with narrow legs and self-colored cummerbund knotted at the waist.

Brightly cheerful were the Buchanan tartan slacks in the same style with ¾-sleeved jerseys were not worn over the slacks cummerbunds were the order of the day, in self or contrasting colors.

Knee-length and calf-length trousers also were used in these and the slacks turn-ups were most popular. Bolero and box jackets were used to complete the ensemble.

A full, slope-shouldered, white box jacket with a vertical blue stripe and turn-up bottom was worn over a very brief, masculine cut, white shorts also having turn-up bottoms.

The normal width in leg was shown in black and white check that conveyed the impression of ease and comfort. With other designers the normal width was the popular one and linen was favored a great deal.

Tan And Mustard

A linen slack in a tan with normal leg width, narrow waistband, very slight stomach gathering and turn-ups was combined with a mustard blouse of the same linen by Lasta Ramage.

Formal bathing suits were designed to complement the built-in brassiere. Beach robes had full skirts, occasional stand-up collars and wide sleeves.

Striping was popular in the suits—horizontal, vertical, diagonal, herringbone, jazz, or seawave. Patterning was often created by panelling the stripes in various different ways. One elastic white satin suit had a vertical gold lame stripe and front skirt.

"Rage" was the suggestive name of a slimming, dark blue suit with white bobble trimming which had a large bobble-trimmed hat, beach robe and bag to match.

Reminiscent of a deck chair was the vertical striped pink and white suit with short self-colored frill on front skirt, back leg and brassiere. "Flirtation," a sky-blue suit with horizontal cut rib, from skirt and tie belt could be worn strapless.

Skirts were used in front only, belts were narrow, tied in front, materials plain or ribbed in wool, elastic in satin.

Stripes were occassionally created by stitching, and floral designs were used both in wool and satin.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Shoes That Are Right for You!

If shoe salesmen have a poor opinion of the frail sex, there is a reason. They say that women select shoes for style instead of comfort and, half the time, don't know what style is best for them, what model will make their feet appear smart and neat. All modes are right these days There is a wide range for selection. You can have sandals, pumps, oxfords, high heels or low, open or closed backs and toes, sling backs or ankle straps. And, believe it or not, you can find combinations embodying both chic and comfort. All sensible shoes are not ugly. Far from it. That's just a silly notion.

One rule for foot health: get a shoe that fits properly, that has wiggling space for your toes, has plenty of room in the uppers, and a leather sole to give your foot the flexible support and tonic effect it requires.

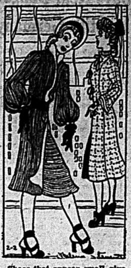
The women with the mature figure, inclined to be heavy, needs shoes to emphasize length and slenderness of line. A V-throat pump is good if legs are heavy. The heel should be medium high and broad enough at the base to provide a steady foothold. Elaborate detail is not for Plumpie. She should stick to simple designs. And let her avoid the model that pushes up the flesh on the top of the foot.

Shoe designers have this suggestion for the tall woman: concentrate on balance proportions (that's where your shoes come in.) A one-inch heel will cut height a bit, but it is more important to look for extra interest in the foot through multi-colored footwear, nubby textures, extension leather soles. Contrasting stitching on the soles often serves to lend a bit of glamor to the foot.

Short woman should avoid flat heels; they make them look infantile. Excessively high heels are all wrong for them, too. They emphasize lack of height. Platform shoes are a happy choice because they enable the heel height to be raised unobtrusively, and their leather soles give proper cushioning support.

If the ankles are a bit bulky, the best bet is a clean - lined shoe with a high-riding effect. Short-appearing shoes give accent to ankles that are not slender. High heels, frail and fragile, are anything but flattering to over-developed ankles or calves.

Foot comfort is necessary not only for health and a sunny disposition, but also for graceful movement. Uncomfortable shoes will make you grouchy. So, when next you fare forth on a shoe-buying spree, put your mind on the matter. Ponder. Think deeply. Take your time.



Shoes that appear small give accent to slender ankles.

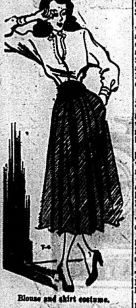
Two Piece Triumph



Blouse and skirt costume.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE SEPARATE blouse and skirt costume is scoring a success at resorts in the Southland and in the west. White crepe is used for the blouse of this two-piece resort costume. It has hand-stitched detail at the casual open neck which, like so many of the new necklines, takes a deep plunge. The skirt of gray crepe has unpressed pleats all around and slit pockets at the hips. The girdle that swathes the waist is of brilliant blue and bright red and hooks in back.

DEATH TOLL REACHES 100

Paris, March 2 — (Reuters) — The death toll reached 100 yesterday after torrential rain and flooding of the Wadi Cheria, Eastern Algeria, the newspaper Paris Presse reported. The floods had trapped some 400 Arab nomads who were camping near the Wadi.

Victoria

Victoria — There was no service on Sunday on account of the heavy snowfall on Saturday. Roads in some places were impassable. Service next Sunday in the morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday School at ten.

The Ladies' Aid social evening was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hubbs with a good attendance and a fine program. Proceeds $14.40. Next meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend on Wednesday evening, March 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman attended a birthday dinner on Tuesday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Thompson, Rednersville, in honor of Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. Elijah Brickman, it being her 83rd birthday.

Friends regret that Mr. Ray Fox has suffered two heart attacks this week, and all hope for his speedy recovery.

Mr. James Wilson left on Friday to spend the weekend with his son and daughter-in-law in Montreal.

Miss Muriel Carley, of Melville, has been spending a few days with Mrs. Malcolm Hubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott spent Sunday evening with their son Mr. Edwin Lott and Mrs. Lott of Hillier.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox and Mrs. D. B. Fox, Gore.

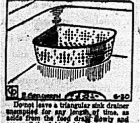
Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Eggleton of Belleville, spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Eggleton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bray Noyes.

Wife Preservers



Do not leave a triangular sink drainer unemptied for any length of time, as acids from the food drain slowly and can spoil the sink's finish.

Fashion Flashes

SAILING ALONG atop the smartest outfits will be oval or elliptical sailors, back posed and prettily trimmed with flower clusters and streamer bows.

IT'S NICE to have polka dots again, and in such dressy clothes, too. Pure silk crepe in soft yellow polka - dotted in black is used for a pretty afternoon dress. The little collar and the slit pockets on the skirt are studded with tiny round flowers of jet.

NEW BEAUTY for gloves, especially for late afternoon and evening wear. Black lace over pink taffeta is used for a pretty glove that has a flaring cuff with a deep side slit.

REALLY NEW costume suits and ensembles for Spring, such as a slim black wool crepe skirt worn with a black-and-white-plaided, wool, dolman - like sacque coat, a topper that flares jauntily away or that is worn hugged close to the figure.

LOOK OUT for new color schemes, such as the turban-type hat of yellow paillisson straw, its side swing marked by massed bows of deep wine - colored satin ribbon. Very different and very attractive.

EVERYTHING in the way of apparel, it would seem, has been given a new look and outlook, even rainwear. For now we have the ballerina - type raincoat, as interpreted in a coat that has a bodice of black moire, a cinched waist and a ballerina skirt of striped satin in shades of pale blue, with matching soft sash. The detachable hood, of moire, is lined with fabric to match the skirt.

TWO-FIREMEN INJURED

Boston, March 2 — (AP) — A spectacular fire swept the upper floors of a four-storey building housing a shoe plant and a paper firm last night. Damage was estimated unofficially at $100,000. Flames which shot high in the air during the height of the blaze could be seen 10 miles away. Two firemen were injured slightly.

EDMONTON EDITOR RETIRES

Edmonton, March 2 (CP)—Announcement of the retirement on pension of John Howey, editor of the Edmonton Bulletin, was made Monday by H. Straight, publisher. Harold Wei, associate editor of the Bulletin since 1940, succeeds Mr. Howey as editor.

Mr. Howey started his career with the newspaper as a bookkeeper in 1898 under the late Frank Oliver, who founded it in 1880. He became its editor in 1905.

OF GOOD TELEPHONE SERVICE

THE MILLIONS of dollars needed to install, extend and constantly improve your telephone system come from the savings of 34,439 shareholders.

They own this company. 33,013 live in Canada. Over half are women.

Their sustained faith in the policy of providing "the best telephone service at the lowest cost" has enabled us to double the scope and increase the value of your telephone.

This has been accomplished in the face of rising costs. Yet, up to now, there has been no increase in basic telephone rates for 21 years.

WANTS OUTSPOKEN RIGHT-WING PARTY

Frankfurt, March 2 (Reuters)—Pastor Martin Niemoeller, fighting U-boat commander of the war of 1914-18 and champion of the church against Hitler, has called for "an outspoken right-wing party" in Germany and spoke of the failure of what he called 'great' democracy."

In an interview, he declared that unrepresentative parties were preparing the ground for "a second, slightly different Hitler."

Czech Ambassador Says Real Danger Is Still Germany

Washington, March 2 — (AP)—At the moment that Communists were tightening their clutch on his country, the Czech Ambassador to the United States, Juraj Slavik, said that "our main danger and political danger is still Germany."

Finland's minister, Dr. K. T. Jutila, at the same time said "We have not a real iron curtain."

Both, in talking with representatives Charles Kersten (Rep.-Wis.) and Richard Nixon (Rep.-Calif.), said that democratic elements have been able to work with communists in their countries and get along with them.

But for the future the diplomats made no definite predictions.

The two United States Congressmen, with a reporter along, made the round of embassies of seven countries living under the red shadow.

They said they came away convinced:

1. That "co-operation with communists means capture by communists."

2. That "no amount of economic aid alone can keep Russia out," and hence the Marshall plan must be reinforced with military alliances.

They agreed that the satellites and their representatives here are in "deadly fear" of Russia and are "compelled as a practical matter to be friendly."

They saw De. Jutila just before Russia made her move for a non-aggression pact with Finland. They found him more outspoken than most of the other diplomats, but he gave no direct answer when Kersten asked:

"Is it possible that something similar to what is happening in Czechoslovakia might take place in Finland?"

A few minutes earlier, however, he had said:

"We have not a real iron curtain. We can speak freely and publish freely. I can't say how it will be in near future."

Salvik was more reserved and obviously disturbed.

"It is very difficult to talk in the light of developments, to say anything definite," he remarked.

But he did say his country still regards Germany as the chief danger and is fearful the Marshall plan might result in rebuilding Germany's war power.

Entertainer Urges Strong Support Of Red Cross

Fun and frivolity prevailed at the regular Kinsmen dinner meeting at the Hotel Quinte last evening as story-teller and entertainer deluxe, James Millman, London, of the public relations Department of John Labatt, Ltd., was the guest speaker for the occasion.

Various members of the local service club were on the focal point of good natured and laugh-provoking jokes as told by the maestro story teller, while to conclude his entertainment Mr. Millman gave his own piano rendition of several of the popular musical numbers. In doing so he proved his ability as a pianist in no uncertain measure.

Reference was made to the forthcoming Red Cross appeal for funds, the speaker urging club members to volunteer 100 per cent to raise funds for this humanitarian organization which serves so faithfully in peace or war. As an example of the Red Cross peacetime activity the speaker recalled the disastrous flood in London, Ont., back in 1937 when the Thames overflowed its banks to render hundreds of people homeless.

"I do not know what the people of London would have done if it had not been for the work of the Red Cross," stated Mr. Millman. "You never know when disaster will strike your own home town, so do all you can to help the Rer Cross."

Kin Bill Dennis reported on Friday evening's Kinsmen party at the Armouries which he stated had netted the club in the neighborhood of $800. The money would be used for the Food For Britain campaign, he said.

President Art Cruji was in the chair, while Kin Norm Garbutt introduced the speaker wit'i Harry Knott expressing club appreciation.

Delegates Ponder Over Question Of Standardization

Toronto, March 2. (CP)—The question of frequency standardization in the power system of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario today went before some 200 delegates attending the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

A. M. Durnford, of Sarnia, president of the Association, said in his opening address that he believed acceptance of the plan to make the 60-cycle frequency standard throughout Ontario "is strongly favored" by the Ontario Commission.

Details of the conversion proposal, announced last Thursday by Premier Drew, are expected to reach the convention at its afternoon session. The plan calls for conversion in the Central and South-Western Ontario areas, now served by 25-cycle power, at a gross cost of $191,000,000.

In a reference to the current power shortage which has brought cutoff of supply in Toronto and some other cities, Mr. Durnford said that the situation tended to make the public more power-conscious than ever before. It awakened interest in present hydro development projects and in possible projects as well. He mentioned, as a future source of power, the St. Lawrence Waterway development which would provide 1,100,000 horsepower for Ontario use.

Resolutions

As the meeting neared the lunch-hour adjournment, G. F. Hutcheson of Huntsville introduced the resolutions debate on which is expected to comprise the main business of the meeting.

Debate is scheduled tomorrow on the 20 motions, the first of which is "resolved that we ask the Hydro-Electric Power Commission that their engineers work out some scheme whereby the regulations in regard to power rationing to merchants be amended" so that increased wastage be used in the stores or in display windows as the merchants see fit.

The Electric Association was told that attendance at its meeting and that of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities, held in conjunction, was over 1,300, as compared with 1,040 last year.

The President referred to taxes and retail prices. He said "that with a dollar worth 66 cents or less as compared with the dollar of 1939" electrical appliances were being regarded as luxuries rather than the necessities they actually were. Heavy taxes added to the retailer's markup were making such items prohibitive to young married persons, including war veterans.

19,000 BOOKS DESTROYED

Moncton, N.B., March 2 (CP) — An early morning fire that swept through the Moncton Public Library today caused damage estimated between $75,000 and $100,000 before being brought under control.

Some 19,000 books were destroyed or damaged by water and smoke, library officials announced following the outbreak, which left the structure badly gutted.

Everything Is Forgiven--Well Almost When Pop and Mom Meet in Court

Windsor, March 2. (CP)— The police. course of true love ran about as smoothly as a mother-in-law's kiss in a Windsor home last weekend.

Pappy had been drinking beer all Saturday afternoon and when he returned to his family—what with the fog and the grog—he was taking a dim view of everything. Especially fancy clothes and young love.

First he tore his wife's new blouse off her back, then he kicked his daughter's boy friend out of the house. His wife decided this was a declaration of hostilities and hit him with a kitchen chair and then called the After hearing both sides of the story the two constables thumbed through their police manuals and asked who was ready to lay a charge against whom.

Faced with this ultimatum, papa looked at mama and allowed he would buy her a new dress if she would forget everything. With visions of a new look in her eye, mama said, "Why, yes, you old silly."

Daughter decided to stay home and listen to dance bandse on the radio—only daughter's boy friend was left out in the cold.

The constables reported mission completed.

ACCIDENTALLY FELL ON BABY

Rapid City, S. D., March 2 — (AP) — Walter Lindsey accidentally fell on his year-old child and injured the baby fatally, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Testimony was given that the baby fell from a bed Saturday. The father said he rushed to pick up the child. Instead, he slipped and fell on the child's abdomen with his knee.

Says Unlimited Power Always Leads To Brutality, Corruption

Quebec, March 2 (CP)— Unlimited power by a man or group of men "has always followed the same pattern," Walter D. Jones today told the National Dairy Council of Canada.

"When once entrenched it becomes intolerant, brutal, ruthless and corrupt," said the Toronto executive, who is chairman of the Canadian section of the International Chamber of Commerce, in an address prepared for delivery. He emphasized that balance was just as important in government as in nature and that Communism "which does not tolerate a balanced opinion in its political economy is fundamentally wrong. . ."

After reviewing the aims and principles of the international chamber, Mr. Jones told of the rise and aims of Communism, saying: "whether we like it or not we cannot ignore the fact that today Canada and world is menaced" by its spread.

"In Canada the defenders of our way of life are associations like your own, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Manufacturers Association and many other associations and business leaders, but not enough is done to educate the masses of our people as to the real truth about the aims and purposes of Communism."

Hopes Revived For Comeback In Manchuria

Peiping, March 2 (AP)—Military developments yesterday revived dying hopes of a Chinese government comeback in Communist-overrun Manchuria.

Pro-government dispatches reported one "notable success" in efforts to blast open a corridor to isolated Mukden. They said reinforcements streamed into Manchuria by sea and land.

Government mechanized forces were reported to have recaptured Tahushan on the Peiping-Mukden railway Sunday. The rail junction is 170 miles north of the great wall and 70 miles west of Mukden, the Nationals' headquarters city.

(A government spokesman in Nanking said the Manchurian defence base of Sinmin "firmly is in our hands." The city, 30 miles west of Mukden, previously was reported captured by Chinese Communists.)

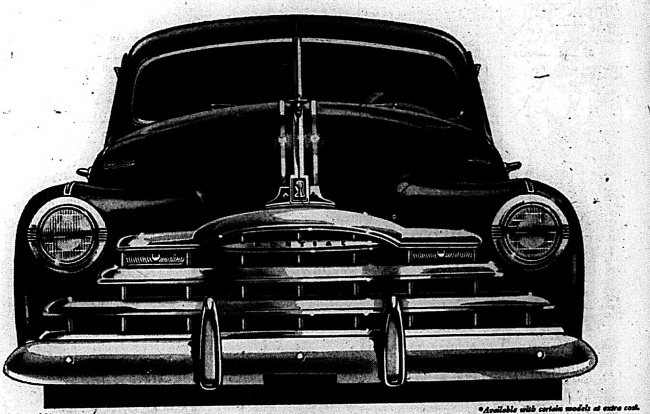
PONTIAC
THE FINEST CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD MADE EVEN FINER!



A Product of General Motors
*Available with certain models at extra cost.

Sixes and Eights with the Famous GM Hydra-Matic Drive*!

Today, Pontiac announces a series of notable advancements in the car that has already won the wholehearted endorsement of more than a million owners and friends.

Foremost among these advancements is the great General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive.* Pontiac is the lowest-priced car in the world to offer (as an option) this great mechanical masterpiece—which shifts gears automatically, and completely eliminates the clutch pedal.

Coupled with this great engineering triumph is a striking improvement in beauty and luxury. New exterior smartness extends from the new radiator grille to the streamlined rear bumper.

Interiors, too, are remarkably improved. Upholsteries are more beautiful and provide new attractiveness and charm. Instrument panels are finished in a smart design, and an adroit use of chrome moulding adds a deft touch of modernity.

Engine and chassis retain, basically, the same engineering masterpieces which have become synonymous in the automotive industry with goodness and dependability.

A wide range of Pontiacs is produced in many body types and striking colours, with six and eight cylinder engines, and with wheelbases of 116" and 119". This triumph of engineering stands alone in its field for beauty — for performance — for comfort — and for dependability. Again for 1948 — IT IS TRULY THE FINEST CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Get the jumps and you will no longer have the fidgets. Realize that each type of jump has its own particular meaning. Believe that each admits certain values and denies certain qualities.

Any jump response admits tricks enough to help make a game. If it is an immediate one-jump, two sure tricks are also promised. If it is an immediate double-jump, it denies two sure tricks.

An opening of one heart was started with this hand:

♠ 10 4
♥ A K Q 10 5 3
♦ Q J 10 9 3
♣ None

West doubled to ask his east partner to bid something. North, who is partner of the hand you see, double-jumped to four hearts. It promised heart support with five tricks and less than two sure.

Eight tricks are in this south hand. With the five shown by his north partner, a count of 13 tricks show up in their pair. This will usually produce a slam. Should south now go to a slam in hearts?

To make a slam it is usually advisable to have enough aces and kings. Without such toppers, the counted tricks may not come in fast enough. Opponents may first get enough defeating tricks.

Therefore, unless pushed into it, slam goers first find enough aces and kings. To do this, a player should be able to signal some request for such information. The signal we use is four no-trump.

To use the four no-trump signal, a player is expected to admit three virtues. One is that he has discovered 12 or more tricks in the pair. A second is that he knows what will be trump.

These two discoveries are not enough. Before bidding the four no-trump signal he should have a third item. In his own hand he must hold two aces and a king, or better.

South does not have the two aces and king promised by a bid of four no-trump. He should pass the four heart bid.

Safety first is also a good bridge policy.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 2 — (AP)— Richard Whorf got the acting bug again during his recent repertory appearances in New York. He has told his studio, M. G. M., that he wants an acting role. Whorf gave up film performing a couple of years ago and has directed several films, including — "Till the Clouds Roll By," Metro's biggest 1947 grosser . . .

Humphrey Bogart tells me his first picture with his new independent outfit at Columbia will be "Knock on Any Door." He feels the film will be timely, since it deals with juvenile delinquency. He will play a defence counsel and the company is seeking a baby-faced delinquent of 19. Bogie will spend the rest of the year at Columbia, since he has only one film yearly at Warners, and "Key Largo" is it . . .

Road from Morocco

George Raft arrives in New York March 12, having finished African locations of "Outpost in Morocco." He'll return here to finish interior scenes from the picture . . .

Anna Sten's return to the screen in "Let's Live a Little" will be a far cry from her dramatic efforts for Sam Goldwyn. One of her first scenes was a cold cream - tossing duel with Robert Cummings . . .

Frank Morgan will have to forego his hope of joining his wife in Jamaica. He has been assigned to a lead role in "The Story of Monte Stratton" . . . William Saroyan's new play, "Jim Dandy, or Fat Man in a Famine," will hit Broadway in October with Canada Lee as star. It will be Saroyan's first show with music and ballet.

First Return

Al Jolson takes his air show to New York in May. It will be his first return since his latter - day triumphs . . . Robert Ryan and wife are expecting their second child in a few days . . .

Maureen O'Hara is unofficial press agent for John Agar. After seeing him in "Fort Apache," she predicts he'll reach even greater fame than his wife, Shirley Temple . . . The Jack Carson show is one of the airlanes' funniest . . . Alan Hale, Jr's role in 'One Sunday Afternoon' is the same his father performed in "Strawberry Blonde." . . . Glen Tryon, the former comedy star, is acting as gag writer on "Let's Live a Little."

Double Victories Scored by Four Rinks in Spiel

Calgary, March 2 (CP)— Four rinks today will carry unblemished records into the third round of the Canadian curling championship by virtue of double victories in play yesterday.

Stacking themselves up as favorites for the Dominion throne occupied last year by Jimmy Guy of Kenora; British Columbia's Thoe (French) D'Amour of Trail, runner up last year to Welsh; New Brunswick's Henry Hollis of Saint John and Manitoba's George Sangster of Winnipeg Granite.

Still in the running for premier honors are Jack Patrick and his Galt quartet and Gerry Glinz of Sydney, N.S., both with an even split in their two opening matches.

At longer odds, but still holding an outside chance, are the first day's double losers—Gaston Amyot of Quebec's Jacques Cartier Club, Cliff Annable of Rosetown, Sask., Billy McLaws of Calgary, and Prince Edward Island's rink skipped by Gerry Hayes of Summerside.

In the morning draw, Manitoba is pitted against Alberta; Quebec meets Nova Scotia; Saskatchewan takes on New Brunswick; British Columbia plays Ontario and Northern Ontario goes up against Prince Edward Island.

Four of last night's five second-round matches wound up with top-heavy scores, while the fifth, that between Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan, seemed headed that way until Saskatchewan came back strongly to close the wide gap Guy's rink developed in early play. Despite the rally, Northern Ontario walked off with a 14-8 edge.

D'Amour's British Columbia rink had little difficulty in disposing of McLaws of Alberta 13-3.

After showing a good brand of curling in their opening match of the finals, Nova Scotia folded before the Patrick Ontario crew in the night fixture and took the short-end of a 14-3 count.

Quebec also displayed a fair brand of curling in their opening match when they pushed the strong Northern Ontario rink to the limit before bowing out, but their late game was complete reversal and they never were in the game against New Brunswick as the score wound up 15-2.

TWO OCCUPANTS KILLED

Livermore, Calif., March 2 — (AP) — A private plane crashed into a house near here early today killing its two occupants. A family of three escaped injury although the bedroom in which they were sleeping was demolished. The plane bounced on across a road, exploded and burned.

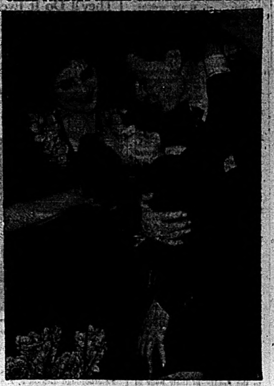
CHILD PRODIGY MAKES CARNEGIE HALL DEBUT



While his proud mother looks on, little 8-year-old Ferruccio Burco, Italian prodigy, embraces his father, Claudio, in the dressing room of Carnegie Hall, New York, where the boy made his U. S. debut by conducting an 80-piece symphony orchestra in Carnegie Hall. The famed child prodigy, who began his career as a symphonic conductor when he was four and has conducted both symphony and opera with the virtuosity of a master, made his debut in in a program featuring Beethoven's first symphony and Wagner's prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

RADIO PROBLEMS TO BE STUDIED AT QUEBEC MEET

By JACK McNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

How much advertising should there be on a radio program? What about loosening up the ban that prohibits mentioning prices of products advertised on Canadian airways?

These are just two of many questions, important to both broadcasters and listeners, which will come in for some lively discussion when representatives of 89 private stations put their heads together at the annual conference of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, scheduled for March 8-11 at Quebec City.

One of the thorniest topics slated is described in the agenda as "additional discounts to present rate structures." This entry needs a little explanation.

Time on the air, like many other commodities, sells in bulk cheaper than in single parcels. A station in one small Ontario city, for instance, sells one hour of time for $40; but if an advertiser buys 26 hours, the rate is $38 an hour; if he buys 52 hours, the rate is $36 an hour, and so on.

Stations, of course, set their own prices; but the C. A. B., has brought some uniformity into this picture by persuading most to fix rates for certain specified bundles of time (such as 26 hours, 52 hours, etc.) rather than for just any old quantity.

The C. A. B., being a free association of broadcasters, naturally doesn't suggest to any individual station what rates it should charge. But it does urge its members to get their rates on a uniform discount pattern — so many programs, so much discount.

52-Week Contracts

The "additional discounts" scheduled for study this month would be granted to encourage advertisers to make 52-week contracts which would tide stations through the financial doldrums of summer months. Generally, the longer contracts now run from September to May.

Another problem on the association's headache parade is what to do about existing contracts when climbing costs force stations to raise their rates. Contracts made under the old rates may extend for many months — and the station meanwhile, is digging down into its jeans for lucre to meet increased overhead. Ways and means of framing more flexible contracts will be studied.

Actually, there hasn't been any great rise in rates, said a C.A.B. official. But increases can be expected in the future.

Also bidding fair to be a live issue at the meeting is the "giveaway." This is the practice, followed by some Canadian stations, of awarding a prize — say $5—to listeners, phoned at random, if they are listening to the station ing tuned in to a station is a form of bribery and tends to falsify listener ratings.

And — last, but not least — there's always a chance the C. A. B. will again raise the controversial issue of who should control radio in Canada. Last June, the C. A. B. charged that control of radio was in the "hands of any Canadian government-of-the-day," and urged that power to license and regulate radio stations be removed from the CBC and entrusted to a body similar to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Hamilton Tigers Eliminate Marlies In Senior Race

By The Canadian Press

Toronto's final hopes for a senior amateur hockey title died last night when their Senior A Ontario Hockey Association entry—Marlboros—lost their fourth straight game to the veteran Hamilton Tigers 3-2. The defending champion Tigers won the best of seven semi-finals 4-1.

In the other senior tilt of the night Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen moved into a two-game lead in their best of five semi-finals by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 6-3. The winner of this series will meet Hamilton for the senior championship.

In the junior loop, Windsor Spitfires took a 3-2 lead in games by handing Oshawa Generals a 4-2 overtime setback. Barrie evened their best of five series at one game each by edging Galt Rockets 3-2.

The youthful Marlie crew gave a good account of themselves last night for the most part despite their loss and held the smooth Tiger team in check until seconds before the end of the middle session. Then the Conick brothers co-operated for a goal and that spelled the end of the Marlies.

Marlies failed to match the team play and strong defensive play of the Tigers who made sure of every move and put up a strong defence in front of goalie Art Childs.

No Score in First

The initial period went scoreless and at the end of the second the Tigers held a 2-1 lead. Tom Smelle and Ab Conick scored for Hamilton while Ray Hannigan connected for Marlboros.

The Tigers hit for another in the third to go two up on a goal by Johnny Conick before Marlies came back with their final counter by Bill Ford.

Both teams suffered injuries during the game with Clare Shillington of Hamilton getting a severe gash in the neck after he had tripped Ray Hannigan whose skate caught in his neck. Goalie Howe Harvey of the Dukes twisted his ankle early in the first period and could hardly hobble around the net. However, he continued in the game and was the outstanding player for the Toronto team.

Kitchener and Owen Sound were tied at 1-1 at the end of the first period, Kitchener was leading 3-1 at the end of the second and then the Dutchmen counted three times in the final frame to get their 6-3 win over the Mercurys. The teams battled hard and in rugged style from beginning to end.

Seven Majors Handed Out

Ted Grasser and Art Herchenratter led the Dutchmen with a brace apiece while Georgia Zuke and Don Bauer added one each. Grasser nicked his pair within 26 seconds of each other in the final frame. Pat McReavy, Tommy Burlington and Jim Boddy scored for the Mercurys.

The third game is at Waterloo Wednesday.

Windsor led the Generals 2-1 at the end of the first and the Generals knotted the count at 2-2 at the end of the second and third before Spitfires took two goals in overtime play to win 4-2.

Jim Hay and Gord Haidy scored while Gerry Scott sniped the Oshawa marker. Joe LaFrance then tied the game for Oshawa in the second frame. The score stayed at 2-2 until 2:26 of overtime when Bert Giesebrecht slapped home a 25-footer. A penalty shot gave Gord Haidy his second goal of the night a little later.

A battle royal broke out in that overtime period as seven majors were handed out for fighting. Windsor drew four majors while Oshawa had three and a penalty shot against Pete Piquette.

The teams move to Oshawa Wednesday for the sixth game of the series.

Barrie Flyers came from behind a 2-0 second period lead to edge Galt and even the series. With Galt leading 2-0 going into the third period, Rusty Aikin and Jerry Reid rapped in two goals within 13 seconds and then Reid added the winning marker with three minutes left to play.

Harry Marchand and Pete Tkachuk were the Galt marksmen. The tilt was fast with hard-checking by both sides as 21 penalties were called, 14 to the Flyers.

Buddy O'Connor Closely Pressed For High Scoring

Montreal, March 2 (CP)—Buddy O'Connor of New York goes into the final three weeks of the National Hockey League campaign with a four-point edge in the scoring race, but both Max Bentley of Toronto and Chicago's Norman (Bud) Poile are red hot threats for top honors as well.

Official league statistics released today show O'Connor with 53 points on 23 goals and 30 assists. Max Bentley is four off the pace with 49, while Poile, who has been moving steadily up the ladder since being traded to the Hawks by Toronto early this season, now has 48.

O'Connor, the playmaking wizard who is making his best bid for scoring honors in seven seasons under hockey's big top, appears an even-money bet at this stage to walk off with points crown and the $1,000 bonus that goes with it. Buddy has 10 more games to play, while Max Bentley and Poile each only have nine.

Poile, a favorite for the right-wing spot on the all-star team, was the biggest gainer during the week, collecting five points. Max Bentley earned three and O'Connor two.

The next four players on the list have to be rated a chance to take the jackpot as well. Montreal's Elmer Lach and Doug Bentley of Chicago are tied for fourth spot with 46 points apiece, while Gaye Stewart of Chicago and Jimmy McFadden of Detroit share sixth place with 45 points.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit still tops the goal-getters with 28 markers, while Max Bentley has 26. Doug Bentley of the Hawks and O'Connor head the assists column with 30 each.

Bill Barilko, aggressive Toronto defenceman and Canadiens' Kenny Reardon are running one-two for badman honors of the circuit, with 133 and 112 minutes spent in the cooler, respectively.

Young Harry Lumley of Detroit has the best goals-against average among the loop's netminders and also leads in the race for the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalie who has played the most games for the team having the fewest goals scored against it.

Lumley has allowed 120 goals in 51 games an average of 2.31 goals per game.

Police, Hockey Officials to Meet With Governor

Lansing, Mich., March 2 (AP)—Reports of a betting scandal in professional hockey and hints of new evidence in a long-unsolved slaying drew Michigan's top law enforcement officials and leading hockey men to a "tell-all" conference with Governor Kim Sigler today at 2 p.m. EST.

The conference resulted from published reports that Detroit Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy had obtained information of gambling by unidentified professional hockey players.

But the scope of the inquiry broadened to cover the 1945 slaying of the late State Senator Warren G. Hooper, as well as general hoodlum activity in the state.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruin coach, Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, were on hand.

"A lot of innocent boys are being kicked around for what one or two possibly did," Clapper said. "Everything I say is being twisted."

Earlier Clapper was quoted as saying several of his players told him they were acquainted with James Tamer, reported to have placed bets on league games for two N.H.L. players while on parole from Southern Michigan prison.

The Bruin coach insisted, however, that his club's personnel "empathically denied ever making bets with Tamer." Members of New York Rangers, another club mentioned by Toy, also have denied connection with the reported gambling.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Out Marmora way, so we are informed, there is a band of puckchasers who have been showing the hockey way to the teams in the Trent Valley League. The Marmorians, it appears, have swept aside all opposition with the exception of the Tweed - Norwood crew which are engaged in the loop semi - finals series, the winners of which will meet the Marmora squad in finals combat for the loop championship.

• • •

The centre Hastings village is more or less agog over the exploits of its classy band of puckists, and rightly so, for they have survived a long hockey grind which called for 3 games a week during the schedule season. And the Marmora squad had more travelling to do, than any other team in the league, due to the fact that the village is rinkless and the team's home games were played on the Madoc ice surface.

• • •

Now, with the loyal villagers' hockey spleens doing all kinds of calisthenics, they have been asking themselves, "Why shouldn't we have a rink like the rest of the towns, villages and hamlets in the loop?" And furthermore, it looks as though they are going to do something about it.

• • •

The village Chamber of Commerce, stout - hearted village business men, have taken the matter in hand, and have appointed a committee to delve into the matter thoroughly and try to arrive at some sort of plan so that next season will see a covered rink established in their favorite Hastings County village.

• • •

And you can't blame 'em. The good people of Marmora have as much right to watch their village hockey heroes cavort over the ice surface — knocking off the opposition, as they did this year, with more or less monotonous regularity, on home - town ice as residents of other communities.

• • •

No doubt the village diehards, and those who look on money spent on sport as a deliberate waste of the long green stuff that men sometimes die to get, will counter with the large expense involved and a possible effect on the local tax-rate.

• • •

That, after all, may be natural, but Marmora's equally natural desire to have a covered rink reminds us of a similar incident which occurred in the village of Wellington, Prince Edward County some eleven or twelve years ago.

• • •

In those days the lakeside puckists did their hockey work on the frozen expanses of West Lake in the wide open spaces, or else drove to Picton some eleven miles away. They cleared a space on the lake on which to practice, and spent a lot more time keeping the "rink" clear of snow, than they did skating.

• • •

Then, like Marmora, came the urge one day to have a covered rink of their own. And with the urge came the inevitable question, "Where's the money coming from." The village fathers were in no condition to finance the project, nor were there any local "sugar daddies" willing to part with enough mazuma to pay the bills.

• • •

But where there's a will there's a way. Came an evening when a dozen or so of the public-spirited men of the village went into solemn conclave. They discussed ways and means. Suggestions re finance came and as quickly departed. The committee went home to mull the matter over.

• • •

A week later they met again And came up with a plan that eventually worked with no cost to the community, and no jarring of the village tax rate. In fact the plan was so simple that it amazed the outstanding financial brains of communities three times as large as the little "town" of some 900 souls.

• • •

It was this. The committee decided that $10,000 was needed. (Material mind you, was cheaper, much cheaper than as of now). They asked for, and got, 100 residents of the village to sign notes of $100 each. The notes were discounted with the endorsement of four or five of the wealthiest men. Signers were required to pay at the rate of $10 per year over a period of ten years.

• • •

The actual cost of the rink (that was in 1932 or 1933) was $7,500. The balance was used for rink equipment, etc. Within a few months after that first meeting the fine metal rink with an ice surface of 180 by 80 that is now part of the community, was completed.

• • •

Shareholders enjoyed the profits These were taken from the yearly premiums, and it is doubtful if any one of the 100 persons who signed the notes had to pay the full value. Profits cut down the amounts. And the rink stands today as a mounument to what an aggressive, progressive community can do, if it puts its shoulder to the wheel with the co-operation of all.

TUESDAY TIDBITS

..If you like you hockey served hot off the griddle, don't miss the RCAF Flyers-Trenton Hockey Club tilt tonight in Memorial Arena. . . .Tis the first joust between the squads in their two -of-three game finals series in the Intermediate "A" grouping. . . . The first game is always a mighty important one to any team playing in the series, and you can bet the wife's New Look bustle, that both squads will be out to cop the nod in the initial tilt. . . . Game starts at 8.30. . . . When Chicago fans showered the ice with coins in a Chicago-Boston game recently, the entire battery of stadium sweepers and players of both teams took over the clearing duties. . . . While the exact amount of the "Pennies from Heaven" will never be known, Doug Bently of the Hawks, wangling a broken thumb to perfection, garned himself $6.30 in coins. . . . Said he didn't bother with the pennies, just the quarters and halves. . . . Its up to the weather man whether Belleville fans see the Petes hockey teams in action here . . . . If its frosty, they play on their adapted rinks in Omemee and Lindsay. . . . If the weather turns mild, there'll be a sudden call for Belleville ice. . . . Arena committee-men here would do well to look over the timing device in the Wellington rink. . . . Its connected with the handsome time clock, and is set up in the timekeepers box. . . . All the timekeeper has to do is throw his stop-watch away, and look at the dial in front of him. . . It gives him the seconds for the penalties, and is simple as ABC. . . . President Newt Wilbur of Merchants' Midgets got a shock other night. . . . During a "hot moment of the game he heard his name called. He looked up and an unknown sportsman heaved a one-dollar bill at him with "Thats for the boys" . . . Incidently the Mids have a "hunch" that their Ontario Midget "B" finals opponents will be the Waterloo crew. . . . First game of the series will likely be played away from home, with the payoff tilt here. . . . At least, that's the way the kids want it . . . A reverent dipping of the columnar colors to the memory of a grand fellow, the late Rev. "Andy" McLauchlin, of the United Church Observer who passed away on Saturday. . . . We covered several assignments with the late "Andy" including the General Council here several years ago. . . . Never met a more congenial, co-operative member of the Fourth Estate. . . . It was a pleasure to work with him. . . . Our sincere sympathy goes out to the family in their hour of sorrow. . .Peterborough Legion evened their Senior "B" final series last night defeating Petes Hockey Club 6-3.

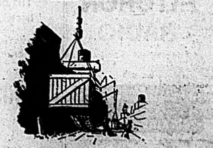
The World's 4th Maritime Nation

TODAY, Canada's merchant navy ranks fourth in the world—next to those of the United States, Britain and Norway. Our ocean-going tonnage is now four times as great as before the war. In 1939 we had only 35 regular ocean-going ships on our register. Now there are 153. The total of all our ships of over 1600 gross tons (including upper lakers, canal freighters and coastal passenger vessels) is now 386—representing over a million and a half gross registered tons of merchant shipping! That maritime achievement is typical of the tremendous industrial and commercial developments which have created new and greater opportunities for all Canadians right here at home in our own country today.

G. H. WOOD raised sufficient money in 1923 to buy a tiny Toronto soap plant employing two workers. Since then his energy, industry and consistent emphasis on salesmanship have built his company into the biggest sanitation products organization in Canada, manufacturing 176 separate items.
Mr. WOOD says: "I've always felt that business success comes from a combination of initiative salesmanship and harmony between labour and management; and nowhere is that combination more certain of achieving results than right here at home in our own country now".

Between the wars, Canada built no sea-going ships of any size. Today we have 17 major, fully equipped yards, with over 100,000 tons of shipping under construction, including vessels for European and South American countries.



Only one-eighth of the total cargo entered and cleared at Canadian ports was being carried by Canadian ships before the war. Last year our own ships were handling well over half of this tonnage.

Olympic Champs To Return Home On March 31st

Ottawa, March 2 (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was agreed to an arrangement whereby the R.C.A.F. Flyers, Olympic hockey champions, will return to Canada ahead of schedule, Defence Minister Claxton said last night.

An original plan for the Flyers to play exhibition games in Britain until April 10, has been shelved because "it is our desire to get them home while people still remember they are Olympic champions," Mr. Claxton said.

"Also, if they stayed longer, people would be saying they are playing just for expenses or that they are being exploited for commercial purposes," he added.

The team will leave Britain March 31 and before that date will be able to complete a series of games arranged with John Ahearne overseas representative of the C.A.H.A., Mr. Claxton said.

Earlier yesterday, C.A.H.A. Secretary George Dudley of Midland, Ont., said curtailment of the Flyers' exhibition tour would be "a black eye to Canada."

The Defence Minister said he later talked with Mr. Dudley by telephone and was informed the arrangements for the March 31 return are satisfactory to the C.A.H.A. secretary.

Durnan Will Be In Nets When Canadiens Play

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Durnan, 33-year-old Montreal Canadiens goalie, who was booed lustily by the crowd at Saturday's National Hockey League game at Montreal against Detroit and later threatened to quit hockey, will be in the net when the Habitants meet Leafs at Toronto, Wednesday, club officials said last night. Following the 5-2 loss to Detroit Saturday when Durnan was given a ride by the fans after fanning on a couple of soft shots, the four-time Vezina trophy winner was reluctant to accompany the team to New York for Sunday's game against Rangers.

Toronto Maple Leafs crashed the movies yesterday, as big lights and cameras were set on them at practice. It all had to go with the National Film Board's educational movie tracing the history of hockey in Canada. Leafs and Canadiens have the leading player roles and the "shooting" will continue during Wednesday night's game between them. Further scenes will be featured at Kingston, site of the game's Hall of Fame, and at Montreal Forum.

Mitchell Ronning, St. Paul, Minn., ski jumper, is in critical condition at Iron Mountain, Mich., as result of injuries suffered last Sunday in a fall at the Pine Mountain slide. Hospital authorities said he fractured three ribs and suffered a collapsed lung.

By scoring 10 points during two games last week, Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds boosted his total points to 101—an American League record. Liscombe's 101 points surpasses the mark of 99 rung up by Wally Kilrea for Hershey Bears in the 192-43 season. He has a 14-point lead over his nearest competitor Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis.

Curlers from many parts of Eastern Ontario and the United States will take part in the Seigniory Club's 12th annual Granite bonspiel which opens for four days, March 4. Thirty-two rinks representing clubs including Galt, Hamilton, London and Kingston will play.

Sugar Jim Henry, New York goalie, is in hospital for observation. He collapsed three-quarters of an hour after last Sunday's hockey game in which the Rangers defeated Montreal Canadiens 5-3. Henry finished out the game apparently in good shape but slumped over as he sat on the bench.

At least 26 players were still unsigned today as the 16 major league clubs began the second day of their 1948 Spring training program. Heading the list are Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals first baseman and Harry Walker of Philadelphia Phillies, National League batting champion.

Of the 26 recalcitrants, 16 are members of National League teams and 10 of American League Clubs.

Annexing seven more points last week, George Agar of Houston today stretched his scoring leadership to 12 points over his nearest competitor in the United States Hockey League. Ray Powell of Kansas City was in second place with 74.

Joe Louis received a cigaret case last night—but he doesn't smoke. "I much appreciate it just the same," said the world heavyweight champion, when told that 250 members of a London Boys' Club had contributed a penny each to buy the gift. Louis, appearing thrice daily in an exhibition at London, was giving too.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By DON HUNT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 2 — (CP) — The big question in boxing circles these days is how many more fighters must die before men vested with the control of the sport shake off their stuff-shirt irresponsibility and start protecting the fighters.

On Friday, Feb. 21, Sam Baroudi, youthful Negro pugilist, bit the dust for the last time in the ring and from all reports, the dusky fighter was not in the best condition. Then last Friday, a second Negro, Leroy Decatur, 24-year-old lightweight became the second victim in seven days.

Irked by these reports, Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara delved into the records books and found that there were nine deaths in boxing last year and 10 during 1946.

Baz came up with this suggestion: "The men who control boxing should buy apparatus and hire medical experts for the express purpose of examining the heads of fighters — to determine what, if any, damage has been caused by minor and major hemorrhages. A conscientious boxing commission could disenfranchise any fighter who continues to fight in the face of almost certain death."

Boxers today have too many fights and not enough rest between bouts, O'Meara said. Baroudi appeared in over 23 pro fights in little over a year while Decatur had 40 amateur bouts behind him, all closely bunched, before joining the tougher monied ranks."

Wuzit Fixed?

Clarence Campbell, president for the National Hockey League was in Montreal over the weekend and the hockey "betting scandal" again hit the headlines.

The N. H. L. prexy, who left for New York 24 hours after his arrival here, gave the impression that the names of the players involved — if any — would be released shortly.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 2 (AP)—It isn't the work, but the lack of it that makes relief pitching a tough chore—that's the theory advanced by Philadelphia Athletics' Russ Christopher, who was a "hold-out" for a regular starting assignment. The long, lean right-hander who became a "fireman" last season, signed up just in time at the start of training and then only with the understanding that he will be a starter. Connie Mack thinks Christopher may change his mind and Russ concedes: "If they give me more pay I'll go back on relief—it isn't going into the tough situations. A starting pitcher gets into them, too. But it's the condition and the legs—a regular pitcher has three or four days between games to do some running and get his legs into condition when they may use you every day, you don't get a chance to do your own running."

Lou Can't Lose

Talk of the Athletics camp on the first day was Leland Lou Brissie, the big youngster from Ware Shoals, S.C., who is pitching only because he was able to argue army doctors out of amputating his left leg. Lou was badly shot up in Italy and has to wear a big guard to protect his sensitive shins. Watching him warm up yesterday, scout Ira Thomas commented:

"If his leg holds up, Brissie can be another Lefty Grove." And more conservative Connie Mack added: "I look for him to be a great pitcher—but maybe not this year."

Sunshine State Stuff

Al Simmons, the A's coach, figures training will be tougher than usual under the new March 1 starting deadline since the pitchers don't get their usual head start on the hitters—Al was hard-pressed to round out enough throwers for a good batting practice yesterday.

Cleaning The Cuff

Palm Beach probably is the only place where they make the Duke of Windsor start a golf round from the 10th tee. That's where he's slated to start today, teamed with pro Bobby Locke and Stephen Sanford, in the Seminole Club pro-amateur tournament... AID FOR UNIVERSITY

Leeds, England — (CP)—The International Wool Secretariat has given Leeds University £10,000 ($40,000) to provide laboratory equipment for the textiles industry department.

Fernando Gagnon Featherweight Champ of Canada

Quebec, March 2 (CP)—Fernando Gagnon, sleek 23-year-old Quebec fighter, today needed but one more championship to match the record of veteran Dave Castilloux of Montreal who five years ago wore three Canadians crowns simultaneously — featherweight, lightweight and welterweight.

Bantamweight champion since July, 1946, Gagnon last night wrested the featherweight title from Hubert Gagnier of Montreal after scoring a clean-cut knockout at 1:54 of the second sound of a scheduled 12-round bout here. Gagnon weighed 118 3-4, Gagnier 124 3-4.

Gagnon, scored his 44th kayo in 61 fights with a vicious blow to the right side of Gagnier's face, opening the skin beneath his eye. The Montrealer sank to one knee, blood trickling from his face.

Gagnier previously had carried the fight while his smaller opponent contented himself with scoring hard lefts and then running away.

Gagnier kept boring in at the start of the second round until Gagnon softened him up for the kill with a right to the face Gagnier blocked a second blow, but the third hit home and he went down.

Windsor, March 2 (CP)—More than 300 Windsor householders warned by the Windsor Postal Department and police of the mounting thefts from inadequate mail boxes, last week put up new receptacles. The post office issued letters to citizens with faulty boxes following a city-wide check on facilities for receiving mail.

Champion Flyers Will Curtail Games--Claxton

By STANLEY HELLEUR

Paris, March 1 (Reuters) — Members of Canada's championship Olympic hockey team wondered today where the money would come from to finance their return to Canada on March 15 as requested by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton.

"To the best of our knowledge, our return was to be financed from proceeds of exhibition games in Britain," Sqdn. Ldr. Frank Watson, manager of the team, the R.C.A.F. Flyers, said. "But if we have to leave for home on March 15 we certainly won't have time for many money-making contests. Why, we won't be leaving Paris until March 6."

At Ottawa, Defence Minister Claxton declined to elaborate on his statement last night in which he said the Canadians would return home "about March," that they had done "a great job" for Canada, and denied there was any question of them playing in the Allan Cup competitions.

"They were to play a number of exhibition games, following the Olympics, before returning home," said the minister. "They have played these games. Now they're coming back."

Regarding the Paris dispatch that the team might lack financial means of getting home if the British exhibition games were curtailed, he said simply:

"My comment is that there's nothing in it."

Black Eye for Canada Says Dudley

Midland, Ont., March 1 (CP)—George Dudley, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association secretary said today the C.A.H.A. had nothing to do with ordering the R. C. A. F. Flyers to curtail their European exhibition tour and said it would be "a black eye to Canada" to bring the Olympic champions home early.

He was commenting on a statement by Defence Minister Claxton in Ottawa that the Flyers would return home "about March 20," curtailing the original schedule which called for them to play exhibition games in Britain until April 10.

"To bring the Flyers home now would not only mean a black eye to Canada but would leave John Ahearne of the British Ice Hockey Association in a financial mess," Dudley said.

"I have not discussed the matter of bringing the team home with Mr. Claxton but I feel the team should be left overseas to fulfil any commitments made by John Ahearne."

SLAVE LAKE FISHING BOOM

Edmonton (CP)—The first attempt at winter fishing in Great Slave Lake, N.W.T., is proving successful and is providing winter employment for many district natives, says H. V. Dempsey, chief supervisor of fisheries for the federal government. The new highway from Grimshaw to the lake has enabled the industry to carry on during the winter.

THRONE SPEECH

Mr. Stewart urged the government to embark on a program of subsidized dwellings to provide decent living quarters for those earning depressed wages and called for the establishment of a government department devoted to problems in the housing field.

Dr. Black charged that war veterans living in the Yukon Territory were receiving "shabby" treatment from the Veterans Department in the administration of the Veterans Land Act. Departmental officials had ruled that the Act did not apply to the territory.

Mr. Aylesworth called for the lifting of the embargo on beef shipments to the United States and said its removal would lower prices in the U. S. and assist the United Kingdom, which now had to pay world meat prices on the Chicago market.

Mr. Blackmore also urged the removal of the beef embargo, arguing that producers in Western Canada were getting 15 cents a pound for their beef when they needed 17 cents to make a profit. If beef prices were not increased, producers would be forced into bankruptcy.

Mr. Boivin stressed the need for higher income tax exemptions and said he thought immigration would lead to unemployment.

Mr. McLure urged that his province of Prince Edward Island be given representation in the Federal cabinet and bespoke the island's need for better communications with the mainland and a lower freight rate on farm products.

Mr. Burton proposed that the Federal government undertake the building of an all-weather paved highway from coast to coast which would serve as a defence measure while providing employment.

Mr. Gladstone struck out at communism and said one way to avert its growth in Canada would be to provide higher old age pensions and health and sickness insurance for the workers. Free enterprise should be fostered, but with adequate safeguards to prevent unfair trade practices which led to high prices.

NEW RIOTS BREAK OUT ON GOLD COAST

Accra, Gold Coast, March 2 — (Reuters)—New riots broke out Monday in the cocoa and trade centre of Nsawam, 22 miles north of Accra, when African ex-servicemen attacked and looted stores belonging to the United Africa Company.

Similar incidents were reported from Kumasi. The situation was said to be well in hand at both centres.

A small detachment of Nigerian troops has been flown here from Ibandan, Nigeria. A curfew has been imposed and police and troops have been patrolling the streets.

"Holy stone" is a soft sandstone block used by sailors to scour wooden decks.

LARGE-SCALE

The government's statement apparently stemmed from the blowing up of a British troop train Sunday in which 28 British soldiers were killed. The Stern gang, Jewish Extremist Underground group, claims it blew up the train.

The statement said continuance of "indiscriminate murder and condoned terrorism can only lead to forefeiture of all right in the eyes of the world to be numbered among civilized people."

Try to Confuse Issue

Hagana, the Jewish militia, charged in a broadcast that the primary purpose of the statement was to confuse the issue abroad, "particularly at Lake Success".

"This bit of righteous moralizing does not change the facts," said Hagana. "Most people in Jerusalem realize with sure knowledge that British dissident terrorists bombed Ben Yehuda Street."

Fifty-four Jews were killed when a bomb exploded in Ben Yehuda Street a week ago. The British authorities have denied responsibility. Arabs said they did it.

In London, Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, said last night that Britain is watching carefully for any improper diversion of British arms from Arab countries into Palestine. He told the Commons there is no evidence of any such diversion. Should there be, the British government would reconsider its treaty obligations for supplying some Arab countries with arms.

Big-Name Figures In Gambling World Dodging Police

Detroit, March 2 (CP)— Big-name in Detroit's underworld yesterday were still successfully dodging Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy's dragnet for every hoodlum who could not establish an honest means of livelihood.

The investigation of gambling by National Hockey League players which touched off Toy's war on crime is expected to come to a head tomorrow in a hearing before Michigan Governor Kim Sigler at Lansing.

Toy's roundup resulted in 86 small-fry arrests during the weekend. Police let their prize catch go when he insisted he had been through with the rackets for more than eight years.

He was Abe Bernstein, 55, reputed member of the old Purple Gang. He said he is operating a brokerage business here and in New York.

World Rice Deficit Forecast by Expert

Winnipeg (CP)—There will be an over-all world rice deficit of about 136,000,000 bushels this year, it is predicted by James McAnsh, head of the cereals section, economical and statistical branch of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

Mr. McAnsh, a former grain editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, made this statement in Winnipeg, en route to the Philippines where he will attend an F.A.O. conference on rice production and nutrition.

Though rice production has climbed to 90 per cent of pre-war output since the end of the war, he said, exports have failed to keep pace and amount to about 37 per cent of pre-war.

The reason for the gap between production and export is found in a rapid increase in the populations of rice-consuming countries, he said.

The rice-deficiency countries India, Malaya, Ceylon, Hong Kong and China want more rice and the rice-exporting countries of Burma, Siam and French Indo-China have smaller amounts of rice to spare after their domestic needs have been satisfied.

Adventure in Love

By Kathryn Bemis Wilson

CHAPTER 22

"I—I had hoped to represent you," he said, his voice thick with emotion.

"You could buy your old home," suggested Mrs. Du Pays sprightly.

Velma vigorously shook her head. Tiny curls made spun gold enchantment about her exquisite ears. Her face, which had been shining with happy determination, now was marred by a frown.

"I couldn't," she said slowly. "I never can go into that house again." She did not explain that she had recently refused several urgent invitations from Virginia Dewey to be entertained there.

"Possibly not now—but later. You could do it over. The Deweys made a hideous monstrosity of it. It was rather comical—pathetic, too. Poor Mrs. Dewey never knew how to take their sudden affluence. Now, she and Virginia can return to simplicity—and be in their natural environment."

"But Virginia is engaged to Flanders Smith," said Velma hastily. Then could have bitten her tongue.

Mrs. Du Pays smiled crookedly. "That man! He's utterly ruthless! No emotion in his soul. Handsome, yes. But he's out to marry a fortune. He'll not marry Virginia now."

How well Velma knew this! She turned quickly to her lawyer, asked, "What must we do next?"

"Sign several papers—but there's no rush."

"I'd like to get everything settled soon, if you don't mind. I'll be down to your office bright and early in the morning."

So it was settled that late afternoon in Madeline Brooks' library. Velma parted from her two staunch friends like a girl walking on air. Never again need she worry about her daily bread.

However, there was much for her to accomplish. So much that it made her head swim just to think about it. Somehow, she must rescue Tom Orville from the clutches of the law—and Louise Clark. She had already formulated a plan. If it succeeded, all would be well. If not, given enough money, she might evolve another way.

She had again flung aside her recent decision to allow Tom to go his own way. Somehow, she couldn't give him up.

Velma was now resolved to terminate her visit wih Millie as soon as possible. She had adorned the high spots of her old social world long enough, and there were far more important things for her to do for the present. She had become entangled in a battle which she must fight alone.

Even though Tom seemed to have a peculiar, uncouth strain in his personality, forcing him to be in strange spots with strange people, the Tom she knew best was far removed from all that. He was gentle, refined, yet purposeful. She had a firm conviction that if she could get at the bottom of his Jekell and Hyde existence, she could unravel all the troublesome knots.

She signed a great many legal papers for Ruggles Capp, promised not to take any more secret trips where he could not immediately locate her, went through a tearful argument with Millie over her leaving, and gave the white orchids sent by Flanders Smith to the elated Donna, who would wear them at the policemen's ball that evening.

In no time at all, she was hugging and kissing Millie in the airport station, then waving her good-bye from within the big graceful airplane as it taxied across the field for the take-off. She drew a long quivering breath of relief when it sailed into a cold blue midafternoon sky. She would arrive in Carryville for dinner.

Upon reaching her old room in the Y.W.C.A., she called Louise.

Louise was instantly on the defensive. She said cooly. "Oh yes—Velma. This is quite an honor—hearing from you."

"Louise! I must see you at once!"

"You mean—what about?" Louise's voice sounded strained.

"I can't explain over the phone. When and where can we meet?"

"I couldn't see you until tomorrow."

"In the morning?"

"No, I've a beauty parlor engagement, then a luncheon. I really have no time for—"

"Louise—you must see me. It's important."

"Oh," came faintly from Louise.

There was fear in her voice. How could she be afraid when up to now she had been winning, point by point, in her fight to take Tom from her?"

"Well—how about it?" Velma asked, trying to keep her voice even.

Louise replied sullenly? "Oh, all right—if I must." Again there was that impression of fear in her voice.

"I'll meet you at the Clayton grill at one-thirty for luncheon to-morrow," said Velma.

"It's a date," came grudgingly from Louise as she hung up the receiver without saying good-bye.

The utterly exhausted Velma went to bed early that night and slept late the following morning. She had considered taking a suite in a downtown hotel, but finally decided that remaining, here in more modest quarters best suited her purpose for the present.

It was nearly noon after she had bathed dressed, and had breakfast. She must see Mae Forland as soon as possible and tell her that she had lost a model. She would have to hurry if she were to see her before meeting Louise.

She road downtown in a taxi, glad that it was now no extravagance.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PROHIBITING THE DRAINING OF ROOF WATER AND SURFACE DRAINAGE INTO SANITARY SEWERS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:—
That the following is a true copy of By-law Number 5467 as passed by the Municipal Council on February 23rd, 1948.

WHEREAS the discharge of roof and surface water into the Sanitary Sewers tends to tax the said Sewers beyond their capacity.

AND WHEREAS by Sub-section 13 of Section 405 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O., 1937, chapter 266, the Council is authorized to make regulations for sewerage or drainage that may be deemed necessary.

AND WHEREAS the Council deems it expedient to prohibit the discharge of roof and surface water into the Sanitary Sewers as hereinafter provided.

THEREFORE THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE HEREBY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. THAT from and after the First day of July, 1948, no water shall be drained from the roofs of any building or from the surface of any lands so that the water therefrom shall pass into any Sanitary Sewer belonging to The Corporation of the City of Belleville.

2. THAT from and after the First day of July, 1948, all pipes and drains established for the purpose of draining water from the roofs of any building or from the surface of any lands into any Sanitary Sewer of The Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be disconnected so that any waters entering such drains shall be diverted from and shall not enter into any Sanitary Sewer belonging to The Corporation of the City of Belleville.

3. THAT not later than the 30th day of June, 1948, all pipes and drains established for the purpose of draining water from the roofs of any buildings or from the surface of any lands and connected to any Sewer Lateral which drains into any Sanitary Sewer of The Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be disconnected so that any water entering such pipes or drains shall be diverted from and shall not enter any Sewer Lateral or any Sanitary Sewer belonging to The Corporation of the City of Belleville.

4. THAT from and after the date of the final passing of this By-law no drain carrying water from the roof of any building or from the surface of any lands shall be connected to any Sanitary Sewer of The Corporation of the City of Belleville or to any Sewer Lateral leading into any such Sanitary Sewer.

5. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the Provisions of this By-law shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the Convicting Magistrate a penalty not exceeding the sum of $50.00 for each offence, exclusive of costs, and, in default of payment of the said penalty and costs forthwith the said penalty and costs, or costs only, may be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, and in case of no sufficient distress to satisfy the said penalty and costs, the convicting Magistrate may commit the offender to the Common Gaol of the County of Hastings with or without hard labor, for any period not exceeding six calendar months unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

6. THAT all By-laws or sections of By-laws, or amendments thereto, inconsistent with the Provisions of this By-law, be and the same are hereby repealed.

7. THAT this By-law shall come into force and take effect immediately on and after the passing thereof.

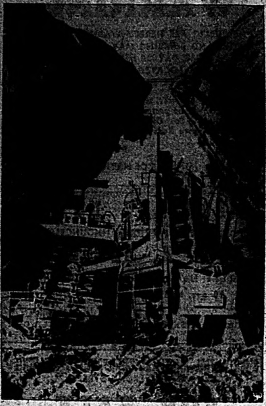
N.S. Salvage Tug Heads for Bermuda

Halifax, N.S. (CP)—Although admittedly enthused at the prospect of a daily dip in the balmy Caribbean, Capt. Royden Dykeman, salty skipper of an ocean-going tugboat, knows that his sojourn in Bermuda waters won't be an entire lark.

The non-committal salt who went to sea at 17 and got his master's ticket at 21, the minimum age, has sailed for Bermuda in command of the Foundation Lillian, a 1,800-horsepower salvage craft originally built for the United States Navy.

While Bermuda-based he'll probably operate mostly in southern lanes, but distress calls may send him speeding anywhere a tug can go.

UNDOING BIG NAZI SABOTAGE JOB IN GREECE



The opening, clearing up and deepening of the Corinth Canal is one of the major projects undertaken by the U. S. mission for aid to Greece program. When the Germans withdrew from Greece, they did a good job of blocking the canal by blowing up bridges, blasting millions of ton of rock and earth into the cut and running in seventy railroad carriages and several locomotives. Two big dredgers are shown at work in Athens at the clearing job. When the canal is put back in commission it will shorten journeys from the western Mediterranean by 36 hours.

Immigrants Enjoy Freedom And Food in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa — (CP)—The majority of immigrants to South Africa from Europe appear to be satisfied with the prospects offered by this country.

Even those whose real incomes in Europe were higher than here—taking into account the higher cost of living in South Africa and the comparative lack of social security provisions—are content with the change. They are pleased with the abundance of clothes and food, with the ability to get what they want when they want it, and with the absence of compulsion in what employment they take and where they take it.

Even the acute housing shortage does not appear to be a serious cause of grievance. Most immigrants have found somewhere to live, even if it is only a boarding house. For the future, they are content to take their turn with other South Africans awaiting houses and flats.

Though it is safe to say most immigrants have found advantages here, there appears to have been dangerous exaggeration about the advantages offered by this country by persons—including government officials — who have been persuading immigrants to come here. There has also been a lack of care in official quarters in ensuring that there were genuine openings for immigrants before they were encouraged to come.

Here's one typical example:

Although South Africa is short of doctors, a number of foreign medical men who were encouraged to immigrate may never be able to practise in this country.

Degrees Not Recognized

Some have imposing degrees, but their degrees are not recognized in South Africa because the countries in which they qualified have no reciprocal agreement with this country on the recognition of qualifications.

Before these doctors — many of whom served with the Allied forces during the war — can practise here, they have to take a three-year course at a South African medical school. But the medical schools, already overcrowded, won't admit them. The only practical course for these misinformed immigrants is to leave South Africa.

There are also cases in which immigrants appear to have been brought here by private firms on false pretenses. Reported in newspapers recently was the story of a British executive brought here by an offer of higher salary. When he arrived he was given a take-it-or-leave-it proposition — at a salary $100 a month less than the one that he had given up.

A skilled tool pattern-maker recently said his pay in Johannesburg was lower than in England and he had to take on other work in his spare time to be able to support his family.

These disappointments, however, do not prove there are no opportunities in South Africa. Industrial expansion is still rapid and commerce is growing with it.

Afraid to Eat Because of Gas Pains, Bloat and Sour Acid-Risings; Had Backache and Dizzy Spells. Tells of Good Results Syntona Gave.

"It is a real pleasure to tell you how much Syntona has done for me, and I hope other sufferers will read this and benefit as I did," said Mr. Edward Wells, Sr., Hamilton, Ont., who is the well known founder of Wells Transport Co.

"I had flu and it left my whole system in a badly rundown condition," said Mr. Wells. "I had so much distress with gas and indigestion after meals I got so that I was afraid to eat. Hot sour liquids would rise in my throat. The gas gave me a full, heavy, bloated feeling and bad pains at times. Light-headed, dizzy spells would come over me and spots darted before my eyes. I constantly had a dull, aching pain across my back and severe rheumatic pains in my arms and limbs. My nerves were so upset I couldn't sleep. I lost weight and felt tired and weak.

"I tried a lot of different things, but nothing helped me, until I began taking Syntona. It wasn't long before I realized I had at last found a medicine that was helping me. My food began to digest without all that gas, indigestion and belching of hot, sour liquids. Now I am free from those sick, dizzy feelings and spots coming before my eyes. The aches and pains went away. I sleep soundly at night and have improved so much generally that many people remark about how much better I am looking.

"I cannot recommend Syntona too highly and hope many people who suffer as I did will give it a chance to help them, too."

Syntona is made from 12 of Nature's finest herbs and roots and acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Many who take it say that even after the first few days the whole system takes on a new feeling of strength and vigor.

Go to DOLAN THE DRUGGIST, Belleville, and find out how Syntona can help you too.

Ancient Building Recalls Pioneers Of Upper Canada

By DENIS CASE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, (CP)—It's a safe bet that many York County residents don't know that within the shadow of their county administration building in downtown Toronto, men have been hanged for treason, and that up the worn front steps county representatives have attended sessions for more than 100 years.

Those 51 members of the York County Council, representing the six towns, eight villages and 12 townships of York, who go between the grey stone pillars thrice yearly for sessions, are members of a government that has undergone many changes in its 156 years of existence.

Containing the Dominion's second largest city and the heart of Canada's economic life, York County has built up a population of 963,173—more than four times as large as any other Ontario county. The council is the second largest and second oldest municipal government in Canada.

The county was proclaimed by John Graves Simcoe, first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada, in 1792, and since then has been governed by three separate bodies as its boundaries were reduced from an area now covering about 17 counties to its present size.

The hall, where council holds its sessions and police court is held daily, is in keeping with the county's tradition. Last remaining building in the large area once owned by the county, it houses the first circular staircase built in Ontario.

Hidden at the back of the three-storey building, the deeply-hollowed steps of the staircase lead to the top floor where once the Ontario Assizes were held. Legend has it that a prisoner, on receiving the death sentence, leaped from the railing as he was led from court, and fell to his death two stories below.

Historic Courtyard

Not far from the hall there are the remains of another structure, the county jail. County officials are not sure whether it is the first or second county jail—what there is left of it. The city has grown around the building and now all that is left are the walls surrounding the courtyard where Lount and Matthews, supporters of William Lyon Mackenzie, were hanged for their part in the Upper Canada Rebellion of 1837.

Across from the hall on the other side of the street is the only other county stronghold—police headquarters. The county constabulary dates back to 1788 when its duties were to police the district of Nassau, now the county itself. At that time the districts of Nassau, Hesse, Luneberg—also known as Lunenberg—and Meckleberg, formed Upper Canada. Later, in 1794, the districts were re-named East, West, Central and Home and the Nassau police took the name of Home District Constabulary.

When the United Counties were formed in 1851, the United Counties constabulary was named and policed the present area of Peel, York, Simcoe, Ontario, Durham and Northumberland counties—the peak of its authority.

Since 1851 municipalities have formed their own police forces and the duties of the county police have been reduced until now there is a staff of only 12 men and one woman to supervise the one-and two-man stations north to Lake Simcoe.

There is little now to remind one of the county's efforts through three centuries to bring wealth and progress to Canada. Perhaps the best praise for York's accomplishments is simply its motto—"Deeds Speak".

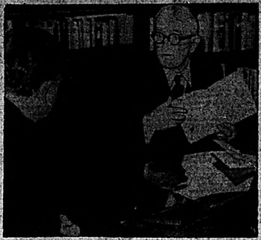
AS BENES MET NEW CABINET



Worried and harassed looking, President Edouard Benes (right), is shown in conversation with Communist Premier Klement Gottwald as the latter visited the president to formally present the new all-Communist cabinet in Prague. Benes, long-time champion of Czech democracy, yielded finally beneath the overwhelming Communist pressure and reluctantly accepted the new cabinet, at the same time holding out for some vestiges of political freedom for the country.

Policemen Get Buffalo Coats at Eleventh Hour

Edmonton, Sask. (CP)—Behind the impressive-looking attire of the Edmonton force this winter lies a story of a buffalo hunt—or rather a buffalo-hide hunt—that stretched over several years and three Canadian provinces.

The story comes from H. S. Reynolds, police accountant and procurement officer. Mr. Reynolds has to absorb the "beefs" when hot or cold weather catches members of the force unprepared.

During the Second World War he found it exceedingly difficult to obtain new buffalo coats to replace those being worn out. Furriers were too busy to replace old coats.

Inquiring about new hides addressed to several government departments revealed that enterprising business men had acquired whatever stocks of hides were available about Edmonton. And these business men couldn't meet the prices which the city offered.

In desperation, and during a personal holiday trip to Eastern Canada, Mr. Reynolds visited the federal government department dealing with disposal of buffalo—or, more correctly, bison—hides.

Action wasn't forthcoming immediately. But his visit and subsequent letters started things rolling.

Too Far Away

Communications reaching Edmonton said hides were available in Ontario and in Manitoba's Riding Mountain Park. But these hides were too far away, and apart from the distance they proved unsuitable otherwise for the city police.

Meantime, the coats were wearing out, the force growing and the winter of 1947-48 drawing near.

But at the 11th hour—in the fall of last year—the required number of No. 1 hides was made available to bidders at Alberta's Elk Island Park. After a successful bid and involved negotiations with an Edmonton furrier, arrangements were completed for the force to take delivery of about 40 new buffalo coats to bring the supply up to requirements.

Even then, said Mr. Reynolds, the record warm weather was needed. It wasn't until the last cold snap that enough coats were available to clothe the 80-odd constables who require them for patrol and motorcycle duty.

The coats are made ready to wear for less than $100 apiece, and are good for several years' service. It takes about a hide and a half to make a medium-sized coat. Some men on the force require about twice as much fur as the original buffalo.

Around the police station, the wearers of the coats shrug off with a smile remarks that the coats are form-fitting—on a buffalo. With the mercury hovering around the 30-degrees-below-zero mark, they're warm.

Blame Mail Thefts On Montreal Gang

Montreal (CP)—The post office department doesn't think much of Montrealers' home and business mail boxes.

The department blamed a rash of mail-box thefts on faulty boxes and an organized gang of thieves who lifted hundreds of letters last year, many of them cheques which were cashed under forged signatures.

A postal district survey in the city resulted in a statement that hundreds of homes and business establishments provide inadequate mail boxes making it comparatively simple matter for a thief to force open the box.

Police and postal authorities are co-operating to track down the gang and the post office warned householders to make sure their mail box was safe.

The best type of box is a letter slot about 4½ inches by 1¼ cut in the front door, authorities said.

Vatican City, March 2 —(AP)—Papal banners flew today from Vatican City in honor of Pope Pius' 72nd birthday and the ninth anniversary of his election as Pontiff.

Both veents will be observed formally March 12, anniversary of the Pope's coronation, with a papal mass in the Sistine Chapel. Most of the Vatican offices were closed today, but the Pope went about his usual duties.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, P. Willis Hinkle has quite a thawt in today's collum, William. He claims it's a mistake to think that people are not ambitious enough for the good of their own future. The truth is, they are intirely too ambitious, with the sade result that they fail to realize their own limitations, and their house of cards proves to be a castle bilt out of clouds on the shifting sands, she said.

By gollies old P. Willis has got something there, pop said. Nobody can exceed his own capacities. When a big shot like Napoleon thinks he can conker the werld, he goes down into histery as a collossal failure, and when a little guy like me gets the idea that he can conker the tobacco habit overnight just because the callender says another year is about to start, he just adds another small flop to the unrecorded annals of time, he said, and ma said, William, that's the whole story in a sycological nutshell. The reason you've always failed to keep your New Year resolutions to stop smoking is simply because you've ambitiously insisted on waiting until the eleventh hour of the last minute to stop smoking, instead of tackling the problem with gradual modesty, she said.

Precisely, my dear, but this year will tell a different tail, because I still have a few weeks before New Year's to sneek up on my resolution, pop said, and ma said. That's the only way, taper off a little every day, and then you can usher in 1948 with a clean slate and a grand slam.

Well, that's not quite the routine I had in mind, pop said. I was rather figuring on smoking the old year out with calm but resolute viggor, and that'll give me the whole of 1948 to taper off in a humble spirrit for 1949, he said, and ma said, Oh, such a man.

Meening pop.

Dynamite-Laden Truck Explodes, 11 Arabs Killed

Police Say Many Children Included in Casualties

Haifa, Palestine, March 3 (AP) —A dynamite-laden truck which police said was planned by the Jewish underground Stern Gang exploded in an Arab residential district today, killing 11 Arabs and wounding 27.

The police announcement said "many children" were included in the casualties. The explosion occurred near the Central police station.

The blast wrecked the seven-storey Salameh building and shook the whole Haifa port area.

Force of the detonation crumpled the front half of a building housing the Arab section of the Government Welfare Office, and shattered the front of another house.

Eye-witnesses said two army-type trucks came up the street. They said the leading one was driven by a man in Arab dress who parked the vehicle by the Salameh building.

The driver left the truck and got into the second machine. The witness said it carried four men in uniform apparently acting as an escort.

The escort truck rolled away and "a short time later there was a terrific boom."

Dig Into Litter

Army bulldozers and rescue workers dug into a litter of rocks and plaster, fearing other victims might be buried.

Jewish sources said the Stern Gang declared the attack was aimed at the Salameh building because it housed Arab military headquarters.

Bursts of heavy sniper fire crackled through the district.

Officials said the British army had used the roof of the Salameh building as a lookout post, and until three or four days ago a small contingent of soldiers were billeted across the street.

Rockets to Carry 300 Letters Each In Mail Trials

Los Angeles, March 3. (AP) Ten rockets, each carrying 300 letters, will be sent whizzing across Searles Dry Lake to Trona, Calif., by the Reaction Research Society, March 27, officials of the group said today. Society Officers said they envision the ultimate dispatch of mail across the country by this means, and are carrying out the Searles Lake experiment to stimulate interest in rocket transmission.

Waitress Given One Chance In Three of Surviving

Toronto, March 3 —(CP)— Given one chance in three of surviving, Mrs. Margaret Meredith, 23-year-old former night club and Army Show performer, lay in a hospital bed today with a bullet wound in her head after two major brain operations in 24 hours.

Police, who have charged Leslie Davidson, her 29-year-old former piano-playing partner with attempted murder, studied a story of broken homes, bitter jealousy and thwarted hopes.

Police charge that Davidson, insane with jealousy, fired the point-blank shot at the waitress in a downtown restaurant Monday night. Davidson was remanded in court appearance yesterday and will undergo a mental examination.

Surgeons who performed a second operation yesterday to remove pressure from the woman's brain after an earlier removal of the bullet, said that if she lives she probably will have a partial permanent paralysis of her left side.

Both principals in the case are married and estranged from their spouses. Davidson's wife, mother of a six-year-old daughter, contended that before the shooting her husband had intended to come back to his family. She declared she could produce witnesses to testify that Mrs. Meredith had threatened her husband.

She said it was Mrs. Meredith's ambition to be a torch singer that brought the two together, she as a singer and he her partner on the piano. They played in night clubs and during the war Davidson directed and played in an army revue at Three Rivers, Que.

Davidson was arrested little more than an hour after a man had seized Mrs. Meredith in full view of restaurant patrons and fired the shot into her head. Police found him playing a piano at a West-End club.

They quoted him as saying: "I'm the fellow you're looking for. She had it coming to her."

WATERFALL GOING UPSIDE DOWN

Sydney Australia, March 3 — (Reuters) — A waterfall going upside down was among the strange sights described by Arthur Scholes, a member of the Antarctic expedition on Heard Island, in a dispatch to the Sydney Sun.

"Our scientists witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of a waterfall going upside down," he wrote. "The terrific winds blew the water from the waterfall up into the air, until it gave the impression of a geyser."

CHILD DIES AFTER BEATING

Chicago, March 3 (AP) — Thomas Victor Rubart, 2 1-2, died last night and police said his father told them he beat the child to cure him of "wetting" habit. Raymond Rubart, 39, the father, was held without charge.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—Synopsis: Relief from the storm that struck Southern Ontario yesterday has finally arrived. Clear cold weather covers most of Ontario and the central continent this morning. Continuing clear crisp weather is expected ove rall of Ontario for the next two days.

Search Abandoned For Two Missing

Port Colborne, March 3—(CP) — Search has been abandoned for Mrs. Ella Rivett, 38, Crowland, Ont., and James Hart, 38, Welland, missing since February 29 when an automobile plunged into the old Welland Canal at Humberstone, carrying four persons to their death, police said today.

Four bodies, those of Mrs. Violet Keeler, Mrs. Frances Garner, Arthur Morningstar and William D. Rogers, were removed from the car.

Police say they have no doubt the bodies of Mrs. Rivett and Hart are still in the canal but no dragging operations are contemplated.

No inquest will be held.

Inquiry Opens into Plane Crash At London in Which 19 Were Killed

London, March 3 — (CP)—An official inquiry began today into the cause of the crash in thick fog last night of a Dakota aircraft of the Belgian Sabena Air Line at Heathrow airport here, in which 19 persons were killed.

Sabena and London airport officials inspected the wreckage and the pile of charred personal belongings which lay beside the broken plane as three important questions still remained unanswered:

1. Why did the pilot of the airlines, which had come from Brussels, attempt to land at London airport when other aircraft were being diverted to Blackbushe airport in Surrey?

2. Why did the plane miss the runway when radar could have brought it in safely?

3. What caused the aircraft to explode?

A spokesman for Sabena said that "so far we at this end have no complete explanation of last night's disaster." He recalled that it was the Belgian airline's second major crash. The first was at Gander, Nfld., on a Transatlantic flight.

It was officially stated at the airport that no emergency services were standing by when the airliner crashed.

"No one knew there was anything wrong," an official stated. the aircraft was being 'talked in' by radar installation at London airport.

"No one saw it touch down.

"No one knew anything was amiss until the crash was heard and watchers in the control tower saw a burst of flames."

There were three survivors: Brig. Otto William Nicholson, 57-year-old former Conservative Member of Parliament; Christopher Roberts, an English architect; and Capt. Jan Oles, of the Polish Resettlement Corps.

At the hospital Oles was described as "desperately ill" and the other two as "very ill."

Harold Benly, an airport employee, ran through the fire and dragged one passenger free. His companion, Angus Brown, dragged two others from the plane's vicinity before the wall of flame drove them back. They told of seeing others inside the plane struggling with their safety belts.

Three hours later firemen were still digging bodies from the skeleton of the plane.

Three women were among the dead.

POLISH TREASURES SEIZED BY QUEBEC GOVT. REPORT

Held Pending Decision As to Ownership

Ottawa March 3 —(CP) — A tangled mass of political intrigue has been revived here with confirmation that the Polish treasures, a $1,000,000 mystery since their disappearance in 1946, have been sized by the Quebec government.

The report, on which Quebec Premier Duplessis declined to comment, is that his government "impounded" the ancient tapestries, goblets and swords from their convent hiding-place in Quebec City and will retain them "pending a decision as to ownership."

Federal government sources confirmed the report and said a statement may be made today. An official announcement may also be made in the Quebec legislature.

Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, former Polish Minister to Canada, who first disclosed the treasures' disappearance, has himself been swallowed up in their confused story, replete with a romantic password, a mysterious "man with a tumor," and old-world political jealousies.

Smuggled Into Italy

One report late last fall was that he smuggled himself into Italy after "jumping" the Polish foreign service and was living there while awaiting transportation to the United States, where he practised medicine before the war.

From the start, the treasure trouble seemed rooted in politics — an undisguised rift between the Poles of the wartime government-in-exile and representatives of the present Communist regime.

Dr. Fiderkiewicz admitted "politics is behind all this." He said Dr. Babinski, his predecessor as Polish Minister in Ottawa, was one of the men responsible for taking the treasures from wartime hiding-places in a shrine at St. Anne de Beaupre, Que., and the Precious Blood Convent here.

Scots Oatmeal, Kippers Favorite Diet at 98 Yrs.

London, Ont., March 3 — (CP) — Good Scots oatmeal and kippers are still the favorite diet of John G. Macdonald who celebrated his 98th birthday today.

As he nears the century mark, Mr. Macdonald is no longer the hale and hearty retired railwayman known to so many older Londoners, but he still sits in his bedroom armchair, smokes his pipe and recalls life in Middlesex county in the last century.

He still reads the Bible steadily and scans the pages of daily newspapers. A mail clerk on the London-Sarnia C. P. R. line.

Czech Minister Resigns Ottawa Post, Remains As Private Citizen

Ottawa, March 3. (CP)—Dr. Frantisek Nemec, Czech Minister to Canada, announced today he has resigned his post and will remain in Canada as a private citizen.

He said practically all his staff also has resigned and will remain in Canada. He made this decision known to the government at Prague about 11 a.m. E.S.T. today.

Four other members of the legation staff in addition to himself would stay in Ottawa in private life, he added.

The minister made the statement in an interview shortly before a press conference called to announce his decision.

Earlier today, reporters who found moving vans taking furniture boxes and barrels away from his home in the heart of the capital, were told by Dr. Memec that "I am not moving anywhere. There will be a press conference at noon today when I will explain everything."

The 50-year-old minister has spent little time in his homeland since the compromise of Munich in 1938.

He presented his credentials to the Governor-General in Ottawa last March 11—almost a year ago.

Only Three Left

Dr. Nemec said the military attache, the chancellor and a messenger were the only three who would continue to take orders from the Russian-dominated government that has taken over their homeland. Walking out with him are Dr. Vladimir Moudry, first secretary, Dr. Karel Bals, commercial attache, and two women who are minor members of the staff.

Once an underground fighter against the Germans, Dr. Memec happily announced his resignation to a press conference and said the reason was that "I do not agree with the methods by which the new government has been formed ...I was, am and will always be for democratic principles."

Dr. Nemec said he did not know just what he was going to do or where he would live but exclaimed, "Canadians are the best people in the world. Many friends have been calling us, sending us flowers and best wishes and offering us places to stay. It is a matter of deciding where."

Receives no Reply

Dr. Nemec said he had decided "definitely" yesterday to leave his post and that he had wired both President Benes and Foreign Minister Masaryk of his decision.

He had received no reply at the time of the conference.

The slender, bespeckled minister said he did not know what the other resigning members of his staff would do, but said they intended to stay in Canada.

He described himself politically as "a Social Democrat, no left, no right." He was an opponent of the Communist way of doing things.

Dr. Nemec said of Col. Vwm Petzold, the military attache who remains at the degation, that "with him it is quite different He is a soldier." The others who were staying with the current government were a Mr. Bergman, the chancellor, and a messenger a Slovak named Chladny.

New Veto-Free World Council With Power to Curb Aggression ProposedbyU.S.SenatorGroup

Washington, March 3 (AP) — A new, veto-free world agency with power to curb Russian expansion was proposed last night. The idea was offered as an amendment to the Marshall Plan by a group of Republican Senators.

They called for the United States to take the lead in creating a supreme international council apart from the United Nations.

The chief job of this "supreme council" would be to combat either "aggression or subversion in any form."

Senator Joseph Ball (Rep.-Minn.) announced he would offer the plan formally when debate resumes today on the $5,300,000,000 European Recover Program.

The super-agency proposal emerged from a meeting of 14 Marshall Plan "revisionists." The text of the amendment does not mention Russia by name. But the intent is obvious.

Senator Owen Brewster (Rep.-Maine), who attended the meeting, defined the proposed new agency as an "offensive-defensive alliance." He said it would provide for "effective collective security without the paralyzing power of veto."

Ball, who drew up the blueprint for the supreme council is chairman of the revisionists group's steering committee.

During yesterday's Marshall Plan debate, Ball assailed the spread of "Russian tyranny" and said Western Europe must be offered a means of political security as well as economic stability.

Ball's amendment would direct the President and Secretary of State to open immediate talks with other members of the U.N. The aim would be to try to win agreement among as many countries as possible on the new power-backed super agency.

Specifically the agreement would provide:

1. That a supreme council should be set up. It would consist of 11 members, just as does the U.N. Security Council. Those countries holding a permanent seat on the Security Council would receive the same position in the new group — but only by signing the agreement.

2. Each supreme council member would have one vote. Decisions of the council would be made when seven members, including a majority of the permanent members, agreed.

3. All signers of the agreement would promise to make their armed forces and resources available whenever the supreme council decided they were needed to preserve peace or to defend a member state against "aggression or subversion in any form."

Justice Rules Statements Made Are Admissible

St. Thomas, March 3 (CP) — Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven ruled today that statements made by Joseph Vernon Welch to police before and at the time of his arrest on charge of murdering his wife, Florence, last Aug. 27, were admissible as evidence.

Admissability of the statements were challenged by defence counsel George McNabb at yesterday afternoon's sessions of Welch's trial, which began Tuesday.

Without the presence of the jury, Justice Treleaven heard statements, evidence of police officers present when the statements were made and arguments of counsel.

During the "trial within a trial" the accused himself was placed on the stand. He admitted that all three statements had been signed by him, given by him voluntarily and that police had not threatened him at any time or offered any promises or held out any inducements to him to make them. Sgt. Ben Milligan of the Ontario Provincial Police was called to the stand as the trial resumed.

500 New Homes In South Ontario AimofCorporation

London, Ont., March 3 — (CP) — Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation expects shortly to let contracts for construction of nearly 500 new homes in Southwestern Ontario.

At the present time 823 houses are under construction for the Corporation. These are scattered in 19 communities of the district.

The new houses, an improved development of Wartime Housing Ltd., are to be built under a scheme where the councils of the municipalities affected provide serviced lots and accept a fixed tax on the property. The Corporation expects to rent the homes at prices ranging from $33 to $37.50 per month.

Sarnia is to get 300 of the new homes under the present plan. Of the remainder Chesley will get 25, St. Thomas 54, Wingham 30, Simcoe 50 and Petrolia is negotiating for 50.

DEVELOPMENT OF CANADIAN OIL RESOURCES URGED

Would Ensure Country Of Continuing Supply

Ottawa, March 3 — (CP)—The Commons yesterday heard requests from the Liberal and the Progressive Conservative benches that the government undertake the development of Canadian oil resources to ensure the country a continuing supply of fuel.

The suggestion was advanced during the Throne Speech debate by Donald Brown (L — Essex West) and N. J. M. Lockhart (PC — Lincoln) as they pointed to growing gas and fuel oil shortages across the country indicating possibly greater scarcity in the future.

The even tenor of the debate was disrupted briefly in the late evening when two Liberal members from British Columbia — George Cruickshank, from Fraser Valley, and James Sinclair, from Vancouver North — strode angrily from the Chamber on the heels of a noisy dispute with Speaker Gaspard Fauteux over the reading of speeches.

The debate, otherwise, moved slowly. The expectation is that it will be concluded Thursday, with the Chamber voting on two opposition want-of-confidence motions in the government now before the House.

Speakers included J. L. Gibson (Ind. — Comox-Alberni), Dr. W. G. Blair (PC — Lanark), Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre), Garfield Case (PC — Grey North), Rev. J. H. Matthews (CCF — Kootenay East), Joseph Blanchette (L — Compton) and T. V. Grant (L — Kings).

Guatemala Clamps Censorship On News to U.K. Papers

By WILLIAM HARDCASTLE

Guatemala City, March 3 — (Reuters)—Guatemala has clamped down a total censorship on all British newspaper correspondents' dispatches and this message was smuggled out of the country after cable and telephone facilities had been cut.

Changes in the Guatemalan cabinet, involving five ministers and a move to the left, were believed imminent today but were not expected to bring about any slackening in the campaign for the seizure of British Honduras.

The president, Dr. Juan Jose Arevalo, banned the independent newspaper, La Nora, which in an editorial demanded the invasion of Belize, the Honduras capital, and accused the army of being "frightened of taking on the job" after hearing the president call from his palace balcony for "America for the Americans." Some 10,000 Guatemalas marched on the British Legation yesterday.

Arevalo had declared that he would call, at the Pan - American Conference to be held at Bogota shortly, for the abandonment of all European colonies in America.

United States representatives here shown no signs of dropping their "neutral" attitude, but it was learned that the United States was planning major air manoeuvres in the Caribbean in two weeks' time.

GreeceAndTurkey Need More Aid Say U.S. Officials

Marshall and Forrestal Testify Before Committee

Washington, March 3. (AP)— State Secretary Marshall and Navy Secretary Forrestal told United States Congress today there is "grave danger" Greece and Turkey cannot remain free unless they get more military aid from the United States.

The two Cabinet members testified jointly to the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the administration's request for $275,000,000 to be spent on guns, planes and other weapons for the two countries.

Marshall said that arming the Greeks and Turks would be "discouraging" to further aggression against their countries.

Both Marshall and Defence Secretary Forrestal left little doubt they were thinking of Russia.

Marshall said there is "clear evidence in Greece and Czechoslavakia of Communist intention against all nations that stand in the way of their expansion."

And as long as threats confront Greece and Turkey, Marshall said, there can be no assurance that American assistance can be stopped.

Forrestal said it is evident that "the military position in both countries must receive our first attention."

Congress voted $400,000,000 for aid to Greece and Turkey last May. The $275,000,000 additional now being sought would be for spending in the 12 months beginning next July 1.

Both the cabinet members said the guerrillas are getting help from neighboring countries on the north.

They said that economic recovery in Greece depends on first wiping out the guerrilla nuisance.

U.S. Packing Plant Union Calls Strike 100,000 Workers

Chicago, March 3 — (AP)—A country - wide strike of 100,000 meat packing plant workers in the United States was called today for March 16.

Announcement of the strike date was made by Ralph Helstein, president of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.)

The union is the one which struck in 1946 and tied up the meat industry until the Federal government intervened.

No reason for the strike was given immediately.

GIVEN LONG TERM

Detroit, March 3 —(CP)— Dr. Henslee E. Tann, Detroit physician, today was sentenced to 12½ to 25 years in state prison for raping a woman patient.

A 25-year-old Sarnia woman accused Tann of attacking her when she went to see him about an illegal operation Jan. 21.

Tann was convicted in recorder's court last week.

FINLAND APPEARS READY TO HOLD TALKS ON TREATY

President Paasikivi Said to be Growing Impatient at Parliament's Delay

Helsinki, March 3 (AP) —President Juho Paasikivi was described by responsible sources today as growing impatient at Parliament's delay in informing him of its views on a suggested pact with Russia.

Political leaders are said to be in favor of negotiating on the pact, but emphasize that acceptance of Prime Minister Stalin's proposal would not necessarily follow.

The 78-year-old President, who has had years of experience in dealings with the Russians, was said to fear that undue delay might irritate them and destroy a favorable basis for negotiations.

Government circles said they thought Paasikivi might urge parliamentary groups today to speed formulation of their attitude toward the pact. Stalin's letter proposing the agreement was handed to Paasikivi last Friday.

Parliamentary groups have spent hours discussing the proposed defence and mutual assistance pact plus its consequences for Finland. More such meetings are scheduled today.

Chairmen of the party blocs told reporters they had no intention of employing delaying tactics, but that the question was so serious it required careful consideration.

Conservative party newspapers condemned Communist-organized worker meetings in support of the pact as useless and extra-parliamentary tactics.

No Demonstrations Reported

No demonstrations have been reported yet in Helsinki, but the Communist papers carried accounts of such meetings in small towns under the sponsorship of the far left "Popular Front" Bloc.

600,000 Documents Await Historians To Tell Full Story of World War 1

Ottawa, March 3 (CP) — The careers of Canadian soldiers and the four years of war they fought —embedded in some 600,000 Canadian government documents — are open to the curious public.

The soldiers are of the First World War and the documents tell in detail of the hardship and the glory as they fought their 1914-1918 victory from the training grounds in Canada to the battlefields of France.

State Secretary Gibson today announced transfer of the records to the public archives under the domain of Dr. Gustave Lanctot.

"It's an extensive field of history of great national, military and public interest," said the dominion archivist, who had been turning down hundreds of requests to see the files.

"Now they will be placed at the disposal of the specialists, learned societies and the general public. The story of the First World War remains to be written."

The documents are the overflow after the historical section of the army attempted to complete a four-volume history of the war. Two volumes were written when work was suspended.

The documents extend from defence department policy in the training and administration of the Canadian Expeditionary Force to the regimental records of the units in action.

The difficulty, of course, complained Dr. Lanctot, was that the documents were scattered. Some were in Ottawa in two storage buildings and some were at Kingston.

But in the years to come a block-long four-storey stone building will be erected to tell the story of the Canadian war dead, confided the archivist. In it, too, will be housed some of the weapons the men used against the enemy.

In the meantime, he said, writers and others could come to him for permission to see any of the files and begin what he hopes will be a complete story of the world struggle seen through the eyes of Canadians.

"We are very rich in documents," said Dr. Lanctot, "and ...there are lessons to be learned!"

COMMITTEE DISCUSSES BUILDING PROJECT

A meeting of the House of Refuge Committee was held today in the County Buildings to discuss the costs involved, and the advisibility of erecting a new County Home.

Present at the meeting were the committee: Fred Campbell, Chairman; Wilfred Spencer, George West, Warden, and L. E. Ludlow, Inspector of Refuges for the province and J. Arnold Thomson, Architect.

O.P.P. OFFICER GIVEN TRANSFER TO PERTH

Traffic Officer at the local headquarters of the Provincial Police for the past five years, Sgt. Jack Kay, Chatham Street, has been notified of his transfer to the Perth headquarters office, it was announced today by Inspector W. A. Page. Sgt. Kay's transfer will be effective as of March 15th.

Constable Jack Hinchcliffe, veteran O. P. P. officer, has been transferred from the Toronto headquarters to the Belleville office to take charge of radio equipment. Constable Hinchcliffe has been working out of Toronto giving instruction in the use of the force's new radio equipment. He is not new to the Belleville district, having been stationed here with the O.P.P. 20 years ago.

MERCHANTS WARNED OF ICICLE HAZARD

Owners of business premises along Front and Bridge Streets are being warned of the danger of the huge icicles which are hanging from the buildings high above the street creating a dangerous hazard for pedestrians passing underneath.

Attention of the city engineer has been called to the danger and city constables have been instructed to check premises for the hanging icicles and to notify owners of the buildings to have them removed.

RALPH CAMPBELL WINS FOURTH SCHOLARSHIP

Former R.C.A.F. flight lieutenant, Ralph Campbell, of Foxboro, son of Reeve and Mrs. Fred Campbell, Sidney township, has won his fourth scholarship since starting his course in political economics at Toronto University, it has been learned.

It was recently announced that Ralph won the Robert Bruce Scholarship for high understanding of exams. Previously he had won the David Dunlop Memorial Scholarship also the War Memorial Scholarship, and one-half of the B'Nai B'rith Scholarship.

MEMBERS OF ARCHERY CLUB ENTERTAINED

The Men's Club of Christ Church held their weekly meeting last night. The club entertained members of the Archery Club.

The first part of the meeting was devoted to business, presided over by Mr. A. W. Simpson, president. Following the business, Rev. J. Grant Sparling gave the meeting a brief talk on part of the Anglican Church service.

After Mr. Sparling's very interesting talk, the hosts and their guests indulged in a little archery practice. There seems to be very few of the members with Indian ancestors, considering their skill with the bow and arrows. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening ended with the adjournment of the meeting.

PUBLIC HEARING ON ANNEXATION OPENS THURSDAY

The public hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board to hear objections against the proposed annexation of Thurlow township property to the city of Belleville, is scheduled to be heard at the city hall tomorrow starting in the morning. Argument both for and against the annexation proceedings will be heard at the hearing.

Signs of Spring

Despite the fact that since last Saturday a large quantity of snow has fallen over the Bay of Quinte district, there are definite signs of Spring in the air.

At least that is the story of one Trent Road resident who this morning stated he saw a flock of crows in the trees along the Bay shore. Whether it was in protest against the deep snow or enthusiasm over the morning's bright sun, the crows were reported to be in a noisy mood.

And Front Street hardware merchants are also anticipating the forthcoming Spring season. Display windows show quantities of syrup making equipment, including buckets and spiles, while the same windows are showing muskrat traps.

All of which indicates that despite the current wintry look, Spring cannot be far ahead.

Local Utility Managers Will Form Committee

Toronto, March 3 — (CP)—The proposal of frequency standardization of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario will be referred to a committee of local utility managers throughout central and southwestern Ontario — the area in which it is proposed to convert existing 25-cycle power to 60-cycle.

This was announced today at the joint annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electric Utilities by W. Ross Strike, a member of the Ontario Commission.

Asked whether the Ontario government would withhold legislative action on the changeover until another O. M. E. A. general meeting, Mr. Strike said: "I don't know what the government's plans are."

Yesterday Mr. Strike told the delegates no cause for alarm existed in the present power shortage in the province.

B.C.I. Students Plan Fine Program For "Boys' Night"

Final touches were put to the excellent program of the Belleville Collegiate "Boys' Night" show to be held on Thursday and Friday evenings, March 4 and 5, at the dress rehearsal last night.

The curtain goes up at 8.15 tomorrow night on the first night of a show which is guaranteed to surprise, thrill and delight every member of the family. The cast is made up of over 66 boys of the school, who have been working on their acts for many weeks in order to put on a performance that will even better their show of last year.

If you want to see a gymnastic display, acrobats, minstrels; hear some of Belleville's most talented young musicians in band selections, vocals, instrument solos; laugh yourself into stitches through the antics of the duo of clowns, you cannot afford to miss this spectacular performance.

Parents will want to see their sons, younger children their big brothers, girls their boy friends, everyone will want to see this show. Go early and be sure of a good seat. Curtain goes up at 8.15 sharp.

Bloodshed Following Partitioning Could Have Been Avoided in India Says Y Secretary While Here on Visit

Bloodshed resultant from the partitioning of India could have been avoided if dividing boundary lines between the provinces of the Punjab and Bengal had been declared final and not temporary and part of the Moslem Pakistan area not being given to the Sikhs as a reward for war services, Mr. Sadiq Dyal Chand, graduate of Punjab University with a master's degree, and an Indian YMCA secretary at present spending a year in Canada, said in an exclusive interview with the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday afternoon.

The bloodshed in Mr. Chand's opinion, was not serious for the country was taking a new birth of freedom and trouble was naturally expected. The riots were confined, besides the boundary lines, to three or four other places and the general fear was that it might spread over the country, which did not occur.

Mr. Chand refuted the general idea that Moslem and Hindu cannot get along together. In South India, Orissa, and the Central Provinces where the Moslem population is only five to ten per cent, no killing occurred. This proves that they can get along together if other reasons had been eliminated.

Says Partitioning Unnecessary

Partitioning of India was not necessary, Mr. Chand said. In the Northwest Frontier Provinces, 95 per cent Moslem, the party in power was the National Congress. In the Punjab the ministry was coalition. If these provinces had not been obliged to accept partition, they would have remained within the Indian Union. If the government of the country had been handed over to the Interim Government representing all parties, the country would not have been partitioned.

Mr. Chand said he believed that India will gain even from Gandhi's assassination. If he had still been living or died a natural death, the Hindu Mahasbha, the Party, a member of which killed Gandhi would have kept growing and gaining strength. Now the Nehru Government is taking measures against this party and has declared it illegal. Public opinion has been raised against it, for Mr. Chand said, it had a plan to kill Nehru, Patel, Azad and other Liberal leaders, capture the government and establish a Hindu theocracy in the country.

Stand by Gandhi Principles

While Gandhi was alive, members of various parties were apprehensive that his personality was affecting the course of politics and government, but now that he is dead, they would practise the principles for which he stood.

India will never bow to Communism, in Mr. Chand's opinion. Its religions are too deeply seated, and it realizes that Russia cannot change them, and only want them for what money they can get for supposedly defensive purposes in case of war.

"Yet we of the East," he said, "stand by and wonder what Russia and the Western Democracies are doing. It's like two men who are afraid of each other. And when you get two men in such mood, you will find that they crave more power with which to defeat the other."

"The Western Democracies are as much to blame for Russia's attitude as Russia herself," he said. "Stalin is doing exactly what Britain and the United States did before. She has taken Czechoslovakia, and has eyes on Finland. Britain walked into Greece, and Turkey to help starving peoples. But all they took was arms and ammunition and people cannot eat these things."

Want Equality

"You," he said, have the wealth of the world. You have the atomic bomb, and what is worse a decided superiority complex. You forget that in the East there are hundred of millions of Indians, and other races who would welcome an international organization if they would be met on an equitable basis. If this came about, Russia would see that the rest of the world was united, and would stop her aggressive tactics, and territory-grabbing schemes."

Mr. Chand who while in Canada, is a guest of the Montreal Y Association hails from Lahore, India. He has 15 years YMCA experience behind him, ten of which were served in his native Lahore. He spent two years in war service with the Y in Egypt and Palestine with the Indian Army and three years as general secretary at Simla. While here, he will study Canadian YMCA methods as well as attending the Sir George Williams College at Montreal.

The Y, he said has 145 branches in India with five and six building branches in the metropolitan centres of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras. Eighty per cent of the 200,000 members in India are non-Christians, while the many subscribers are also of various beliefs.

The YMCA is well recognized throughout India, Mr. Chand said and enjoys a very friendly attitude on the part of the non-Christian sects. Moslem and Hindu look on the Y as a strong medium for international brotherhood.

Christianity Spreading

The work of the church and the Y is spreading slowly in India, he said. Christians have two ministries in the Central Government and according to their numerical percentage, they are not entitled to any. Graduates of Christian colleges and schools get comparatively better recognition than others as they are recognized as being more trustworthy and impartial.

Mr. Chand is leaving the city today for Montreal. He spent yesterday the guest of General Secretary Al Davis of the YMCA and addressed several groups during his brief stay here. This morning he spoke to over 800 students and teachers of the Belleville Collegiate Institute.

English Flier Visits Former Members of Crew

Wartime experiences over embattled skies in Western Europe during the months preceding the fall of Germany were recently recalled by the Canadian crew members of an R.C.A.F. bomber when the one English member of the crew visited in Canada.

After visiting the four remaining crew members of his bomber which was shot down in flames over England on completion of a mission over enemy territory, former R.A.F. officer Sidney McQuillan has returned to his home in England. Sid was badly burned when three years ago the Stirling bomber came down in flames in a forced landing.

But to renew acquaintances with his former crew members McQuillan had to cross an ocean and almost completely traverse the vast Dominion of Canada. First he visited his pilot, Ralph Campbell of Foxboro, now attending university in Toronto; then he visited former gunner Frank Gladwin of Ottawa and navigator Ed. Leadlay of Port Colborne, and finally Arthur Capes, bomber, of Saskatoon.

During his visit to the American continent McQuillan took in the sights at Niagara Falls, at New York and other places of interest.

Civilization in Congo As Elsewhere, Says African Bishop

Peoria, Ill., March 3 —(AP)— A Methodist missionary to the Congo yesterday took issue with a popular song — the one about the African native who wants no neon signs or atom bombs.

"There is just as much civilization in the Congo as there is in Peoria," Bishop Newell S. Booth, presiding bishop of the African Congo, said in an interview.

He said Elizabethville, Belgian Congo, where he is stationed, is a city of 102,000 population with all the refinements of an American city of that size, "including drugstores and apartment houses."

FINDS LOST WALLET WITH $1,000 NEAR CAR

Woodstock, March 3 (CP) —A local tobacco grower must have been carrying a four-leaf clover in his pocket. When he returned home to nearby Princeton from a visit here, he found he had lost his wallet containing $1,000. Returning to where he had parked his automobile, he found the wallet intact.

Martindale, Sudbury, Northern District.

Tabernacle Men's Club Holds Ladies Night

It was ladies' night at Tabernacle Men's Club, on Monday evening. About 100 men and their wives turned out to the dinner meeting, which was the best in the history of the club. The catering for the appetizing dinner was all done by Group 6 of the Woman's Association led by Mrs. Robb.

The President, Evan Barlow, was master of ceremonies, who in his remarks thanked the members for turning out in such good numbers, and suggested that ladies' night should become an annual event.

After the Toast to the King, Capt. Jack Buchanan led in community singing. The president then called on Rev. F. Harback to make a presentation to Past President, Lloyd Hicks, who is leaving Belleville, to reside and take up duties in Ottawa. Rev. F. R. Harback in a few well chosen words, on behalf of the club extended to Mr. and Mrs. Hicks best wishes in their new home. Lloyd Hicks responded and thanked the members for the kind remarks.

Miss Doris Thrasher rendered two beautiful solos, "Kerry Dances", and "My Hero", from the "Chocolate Soldier". The movie travelogue of Australia and Prince Edward Island was shown by Errol Greenleaf and Merril Hackett followed by another sing-song. The picture "The Queen of the Future", and the "Royal Wedding" were shown.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by J. McLelland and responded to by Mrs. Harback.

Thanks to the caterers and entertainers and to all who helped to make the meeting such a success was moved by A. D. Archibald bringing to a close a very pleasant evening.

Bounty Paid On Eight Wolves

There is a high price on the heads of wolves these days. No, not the ones that roam up and down Front Street whistling at the pretty girls who pass their way. The wolves that the County of Hastings is offering $35 for each pelt are the shaggy creatures that roam the northern parts of the county preying on small game and at times terrorizing domestic stock.

The County treasurer reports that to date for 1948, there have been eight pelts turned in for the bounty. Last year 57 pelts were turned in and $1,995 paid out in bounty.

These bounties are collected mainly by men who make wolf-hunting their business. Occasionally the odd pelt may be turned in by a farmer or hunter who has run across one of the animals and the wolf has come out second-best for the encounter. The wolf-hunting season is slack right now, due to the heavy snows. The best time wolf-catching, and subsequent bounty-catching is in the spring and fall.

Junior Farmers In the County Face Busy Week

The first week in March promises to be a busy one for the Junior Farmers of Hastings County with no less than three big events scheduled for the latter part of the week.

On Friday, March 5th, the annual grain judging competition is being held at Stirling, while in the evening of the same day the first annual Junior Farmer skating party is to be held. This is being looked after by the Hungerford Junior Farmers. The third event of the week is the county Junior Farmer executive meeting to be held at the Stirling High School on Saturday.

Forty dollars in prizes as well as a number of trophies and specials will be up for competition at the annual grain judging competition which commences Friday morning. Farmers or farmers' sons up to 30 years of age may now enter the competition.

It is the thought of officials in charge that in raising the age limit more young people will be given the opportunity of appreciating the value of high quality seed and grain. A seed drill survey taken in 1947 resulted in 44 per cent of the seed taken from drills boxes being rejected and agricultural officials feel this should be an alarming fact to the prosperous farmer.

On Saturday the executives of the various clubs in the county will be in attendance at Stirling to draw up their program for the year and to elect new county officers. Don Taylor, B. S. A. assistant agricultural representative from Napanee will be the guest speaker and will discuss program planning. Wesley Down, provincial president is also expected to attend the meeting.

IN MEMORIAM

COLLINS—In loving memory of our dear mother Ethel Pearl Collins who passed away March 3rd, 1946.

Our lips cannot tell how we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how we miss her,
In a home that is lonesome today.

Ever remembered by daughters Ethel and Dreatha. M3

COLLINS—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Pearl Collins, who passed away March 3rd, 1946.

With tears we watched you sinking,
We watched you pass away,
We tended you with loving care,
But could not make you stay.
We watched beside your bedside,
As the lonely hours passed;
And how our hearts were broken,
When we saw you breathe your last.

Sadly missed by husband Herb, son Ralph and daughter-in-law Ruby. M3

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto March 3 (CP) —Volume improved moderately as a few speculative mines became active on the stock exchange today but prices generally were mildly off. Industrials posted a majority of fractional losses while the mines moved within narrow range. Volume for the first three hours was 452,000 shares, about 167,000 more than yesterday's similar period.

There were no group trends established among the industrials and price changes were scattered indiscriminately through the lists.

Better mining stocks were Chesterville, Croinor, O'Brien, Wright-Hargreaves, Steep Rock, Sladen, Silanco and Roybar.

All Major Roads Open to Traffic

Toronto, March 3 (CP) — All major Ontario roads were open to traffic this morning, the Highways Department reported, following snowstorms of the past few days which deposited as much as 14 inches in some districts. Most roads were snow-packed and Highway 12, north from Whitby was described as "rough."

In the Galt Area some north and south country roads were blocked with drifting snow carried by an east wind but all main arteries were open.

Weather was clear and cold throughout southern and central Ontario this morning and the weatherman's forecast for the next two days was "clear and crisp."

Heavy snowfalls which during the past few days paralyzed provincial traffic seemed to be at an end.

All available snow-plows were at work in the Kitchener-Waterloo area today clearing roads of heavy drifts, which in north sections of Waterloo County reached a depth of eight feet. Ice under the snow made driving hazardous.

Plows Work All Night

Roads in the Stratford district were reported today in fair condition after plows worked all night. The storm delayed an intermediate Ontario Hockey Association game between Goderich and Ingersoll in Stratford for nearly two hours as players arrived late. Ingersoll won 8-4 to take the Intermediate "A" playoff round 3-1.

All main highways in the Kingston area were open today after a six-inch snowfall last night.

Road conditions in the Windsor area were reported "good" after one of the season's heaviest snowstorms covered Southern Ontario and Michigan yesterday.

Poor Visibility

Poor visibility and traffic snarls delayed homeward-bound motorists in Toronto and Hamilton districts last night, but no fatalities were reported. Last night's snowfall brought Toronto's total for the Winter to 58 inches, 10 inches above average.

A police cruiser took a west-end Toronto woman to maternity hospital when efforts to obtain an ambulance and taxi after the storm, failed.

Telephone communications in the Cobourg area were partially disrupted during the night.

The Highway Department reported that the highway north of Wiarton to Tobermory blocked by heavy snow, would be open by noon. Cornwall had four inches of snow but few roads were completely blocked.

DYNAMITE-LADEN

The soldiers were moved "during a period of redistribution," and after the area had been quiet for some time, an official said.

In Jerusalem, sporadic shooting broke out early this morning in the Sheik Jarrah and Katamon quarters. One Jew was shot fatally.

The 55th death in the Ben Yehuda Street bombing was that of a Jewish woman today.

10 Slain Tuesday

Police confirmed that 10 Arabs were slain in yesterday's fighting for highway positions in Bal el Wad on the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road through the Judean hills.

An explosion which roared out in the Katamon district before noon today was reported to have been set off by Jews blowing up an empty Arab house believed by them to be a sniper's nest.

Jewish sources said uniformed Arabs attacked two settlements in northern Galilee last night, but that they were repulsed. One Jew and four Arabs were reported killed.

A Hagana (Jewish militia) broadcast asked British authorities to publish names, numbers and photos of army and police deserters "so we may determine whether Britishers in future attacks on Jews are connected actively with security forces."

FINLAND APPEARS

The Popular Front was the first parliamentary bloc to send its recommendation to the president. It issued a statement last night urging acceptance of the pact.

Spokesmen for the three major parties in the government bloc indicated they feel that under the circumstances Finland must negotiate.

One of the "big three" parties—the powerful Social Democrats—issued a statement last night accusing Finnish Communists of trying to "provoke unrest" with high-pressure propaganda.

The chairmen of six political parties have affirmed that Finland has little choice but to begin negotiations. They emphasized, however, that "acceptance of negotiations does not mean acceptance of the pact."

Onni Peltonen, leader of the Social Democrats and chairman of the parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee, said that when a letter signed by Stalin asks for the opening of negotiations "then negotiations must follow."

Denies Any Part In $4,045 Theft

Detroit, March 3 (CP) —William A. Ing, 30, of Toronto, a suspect in the "snatch" theft of $4,045 from a department store employee, still denies any part in the crime. He was arrested a few minutes after the crime but no loot was found in his possession.

Police said that while searching a hotel room — Ing had the room key in his possession — a telephone caller said that an accomplice had escaped. The name was mumbled and was not understood said police.

Ing has admitted a Canadian record including three convictions. He was also questioned about a $6,210 payroll robbery last Saturday.

Views Anti-Red Sentiment As Encouraging

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The revulsion of the non-Communist countries of Europe to the Bolshevist rape of Czechoslovakia is reminiscent of the violent reaction to Hitler's assault on that same little republic 10 years ago as he got his conquest of Europe under way—both reminiscent and significant.

Toward the close of 1938 I arrived in London looking for the solution of an important problem. This was after I had attended the Munich conference, followed Hitler into Czechoslovakia, and made a grand swing of the Balkans and back through Italy and France to England. I sought out a distinguished British source and placed my problem before him:

"I sense a decided hardening of the British and French attitude toward Germany, but I can't put my finger on it. I shall be grateful if you will tell me whether I am right and, if so, what that hardening means."

"You are quite right," he replied. "We have decided that appeasement goes out the window. We shall use our armies if necessary."

The Right Idea

That was to say, of course, that the two powers would use their armies to keep Hitler in hand if he started a rampage. It was the right idea but a couple of years too late.

Now with the communizing of Czechoslovakia we have reached a crucial point in a fresh world conquest which the democracies have been trying to halt by appeasement. The first reaction to the Red assault of the small democracy was the joint note of condemnation by the United States, Britain and France. This has been followed by a wave of anti-Soviet sentiment which has swept Scandinavia.

ipgpu.ggiE.Uiqr

At the same time there has been a sudden decision to speed up implementation of Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for a "western union" of Europe. England, France and the so-called Benelux countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—are scheduled to meet tomorrow in Brussels to begin discussion of this project. Under Bevin's plan these countries would serve as the nucleus of a larger grouping of western European democracies.

Consolidation For Benefit

In short, this would provide for a consolidation of western Europe for mutual benefit which would include defence against Bolshevist aggression.

Meanwhile Turkey, another strategically situated country upon which Moscow has trained its big guns, has erupted into action. Fifty-six alleged Communists went on trial yesterday in Istanbul, charged with forming a society to "establish the supremacy of one class over another."

This is part of a general anti-Communist house-cleaning which was started more than a year ago.

So we are witnessing an all-around tightening of the defences against Bolshevism in Europe. It not only is encouraging but gives definite promise that the line can be held against the Reds if appeasement is discarded.

Condon Scoffs At Accusation

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, March 3. (AP)—Public hearings to expand its charge that Dr. Edward U. Condon is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" may be ordered by the Un-American Activities Committee.

The 46-year-old director of the National Bureau of Standards, which tests some of the government's biggest scientific secrets, scoffed at the accusation. To finance its work for the rest of this year, the committee is asking for $200,000 —double last year's fund. The House of Representatives Administration Committee met today to vote on the request and perhaps bring it before the House for approval.

Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the Un-American Activities Group, delayed word to reporters from Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (Rep. -N.J.), that:

1. Commerce department loyalty records on Condon will be subpoenaed today.
2. These may be used for public hearings.
3. Even if Condon is loyal—and the committee has no evidence he is not—he still could be indiscreet. And from a security standpoint Thomas thinks it makes little difference.

NEWSPAPERMEN RELEASED

White Plains, N.H., March 3 (AP)—Two newspapermen, held in jail for five days for refusing to reveal confidential sources of information, were released late yesterday in custody of their lawyer.

Financiers Take First Game In Hoop Playoffs

Trenton Financiers defeated the Trenton RCAF Flyers 33-20 in the first game of their two-games points-to-count group playoffs at the RCAF Station court last night. Second and final game of the series will be played tonight on the same court.

The score was tied at 16-all at the half-time, but the Financiers fired home seventeen points in the last half against four for the Flyers. All the Flyer points in this half were scored from foul shots.

Plunket and Kikies each scored nine points for the winners.

The series' winners will advance to the first round of the O.B.A. Intermediate "A" playdowns.

BRAVE 100 MILES OF SLIPPERY ROADS

Toronto, March 3 —(CP)—Listowel's high school choir of mixed voices yesterday braved 100 miles of slippery, snow-drifted roads to compete in the Kiwanis Music Festival here. The group placed second in its class, losing out to a choir from Toronto's Oakwood Collegiate.

Last Dependents Arrive

64,451 dependents of Canadian servicemen who were overseas during World War II have come to Canada as new citizens. The last a small company of seven wives and five children arrived on Tuesday at Halifax on the Aquitania and will scatter to different parts of the Dominion. Members of each group on landing have proceeded to the homes which have been prepared for them in all parts of the country. In this great movement from the British Isles mainly, from the continent of Europe and from remoter areas of the world, 20,997 have been children and 43,454 wives.

In Canadian history these past few years have been marked by this incoming of new citizens, already members of Canadian families through their husbands and fathers. It is a memorable movement and the Dominion knows the excellence of the results. No better population could Canada gain than these members of the families of young Canadians who played their noble part in so many theatres of the most extended war in history.

All these newcomers are accommodating themselves to the life of this new land for with all its progress and culture, the Dominion still possesses that advantage of being a new country. It has been the vision of many people in the past two hundred years from the days of early settlement to the present and the vision will be seen by others.

The coming of people to the countries of the New World is one of the great stories of history. Early settlements of the human race in prehistoric times are naturally shrouded in darkness. Movements of races in the Old World, in Asia, Europe and Africa can be only dimly seen in the results of exploration and archaeology, which even today are seeking new lights on events which in prehistoric times changed the whole face of the then old world. General knowledge of course is being gained of the movements of the various races before the hand of history began to record these events but the knowledge gained is nothing like that known of the settlement of the Americas, S. Africa and the islands of the South Pacific.

In the immigration to America vast changes have come. Those who dared the very much 'unknown' conditions of the sea journey centuries ago, following the world-startling discoveries by Columbus, did not enjoy the comfort that the modern immigrant enjoys. It was months of sailing often very hazardous, that brought them to the shores of Canada, the United States and other lands. Canadian settlers who came less than a hundred years ago knew the anxiety of those who faced the journey, though they were buoyed with hope and promise of what awaited them when they arrived. They were pioneers and knew the hardships of pioneers but they had vision, they had pride in their achievements and they worked with a will. What Canada is today is in very large measure due to their sacrifices and efforts to develop this new land.

Immigration today is something that is not a long drawn out journey. Ocean ships cross the Atlantic swiftly and planes bear their precious cargoes of new citizens at great speed.

The very word immigration is on the lips of every Canadian. The people know the advantage of a larger population and look eagerly for newcomers.

With the coming of the war brides and the children from overseas have come the most cherished desires of the Canadian warriors who fought in Europe and elsewhere on land and on the seas to have their homes established and to be reunited with their wives and their children who were born overseas.

The immigrants who have arrived have found their place quickly in Canadian life and have settled down as citizens and those who have just arrived will find themselves in the hearts of the people of Canada who welcome them to this part of the New World, now centuries old with its civilization rooted in the ideals which were brought from the Old Land.

One of the most successful years of work recorded in recent history of Antarctic sledging has just been completed by United Kingdom experts. Some 3,500 miles were travelled by dog team to carry out extensive topographical and geological surveys in the Falkland Islands. The year's activities culminated in two long trips covering over 1,000 miles of the Weddel Sea Coast of Grahamland, much of which has never been traversed before and there fore not hitherto been accurately charted.

Argentina's Wealth

In Argentina there are over 33,000,000 cattle, nearly 44,000,000 sheep and a good few million pigs as material for the country's great meat industry. The first cattle were taken there from Spain in 1552. The first British Shorthorn went to Argentina in 1826 and it was the bull Tarquino which gave the name to all cross-bred cattle in the country. Now the vast herds spread over the plains are almost entirely from British stock. Herefords and Shorthorns predominate. Argentina is the seventh largest country in the world in area and its population of 13,000,000 is mostly of Spanish descent. Britain is Argentina's best customer for meat and the country was largely developed by British capital,' says St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Sunset Pictures

Sunsets can be beautiful in any season, but there is often something especially fine about them during the period when winter is alternately loosening its grip and reasserting its power. Now that one can hear the first faint whispers of the oncoming resurrection, the sunsets of mellowing days paint glorious pictures. No longer is Earth a helpless prisoner. Snow shrinks away from stone walls and the moss-etched granite chains once more outline fields and pastures. During a sunny day one can almost see the snow shrink on the countryside. Water trickles down sled tracks and across farmyards. When day's end approaches there is beauty on the land and over the sky. Night's curtain is not so quickly drawn; day and night meet and linger for an interlude.

When the sun is an hour above the western rim, long horizontal banners color the sky. If moisture conditions are right there is a vivid painting of reds and yellows, pinks and golds. The low slanting rays pluck shades of purples, violet, chestnut and steely blues from the granular snow. As the sun drops close the color in the sky deepens. There is a flaming interlude of scarlet hues; vertical pennants reach high. For a fleeting moment the countryside is starkly illumined in brilliant light. The hardwoods on westerly ridges are slender silhouettes; trees along the valley river are clearl yetched stitching; zig-zag rail fences are sharply outlined against the snow. Slowly the painting in the sky drops closer to the horizon. For a time there is a miniature cameo just above the rim; then deepening shadows climb over the land. Golden lights stream from windows. Darkness deepens and gold stars prick through the deep blue velvet overhead. A late winter sunset marks the end of another day, but its seasonal beauty lifts the heart of him who reads its message. — New York Times.

Heating Hints

There are many little "tricks" which help in getting the best heat out of the amount of fuel consumed in the home—a matter of utmost interest to every householder these cold days. For instance, the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating points out that a quarter-inch of soot in a furnace has the same insulating effect as several inches of concrete. Therefore it is of great importance that the furnace and heating boiler be kept clean of soot and coal dust.

Another little heating hint is offered by Canadian General Electric. Well placed fans, they say, can increase the temperature of the average room four to six degrees at bridge table level. The average room is 10 degrees warmer at ceiling level than at floor level. Experiments show that an ordinary table fan can be directed against the ceiling and keep this difference in temperature to only two degrees.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SUMMER READING

I know the wind will loudly roar,
The ground be white with snow,
And winter, as in years before,
Will take its time to go.
But still that spring is drawing near,
I have a certain sign—
Again the catalogs are here,
Of fruit and flower and vine.

Outside the shutters bang today,
The air is bitter cold.
Yet, spring adorns with blossoms gay
The pages I unfold.
And if tonight be gray with fog,
I shall not mind the gloom.
'Tis summer in the catalog,
Where roses are in bloom.

My garden still is bleak and bare.
The snow is inches deep.
Old winter still is lingering there
And still the roses sleep.
But, life has come to every seed
And flower and fruit are prime,
For in the catalog I read,
Once more it's summer time.

Which Presidents never went to college?

Six of the 32 Presidents never attended any institution of learning worthy the name of college or university.

They were: George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson and Grover Cleveland.

Twenty were college graduates. They were: John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harvard University; Thomas Jefferson and John Tyler, William and Mary College; James Madison and Woodrow Wilson, Princeton; William H. Harrison, Hampton-Sidney College; James K. Polk, University of North Carolina; Franklin Pierce, Bowdoin; James Buchanan, Dickinson College; Ulysses S. Grant, West Point; Rutherford B. Hayes, Kenyon College; James A. Garfield, Williams College; Chester A. Arthur, Union College; Benjamin Harrison, Miami University; William Howard Taft, Yale University, Calvin Coolidge, Amherst College and Herbert Hoover, Leland Stanford University. Harry S. Truman attended the Kansas City School of Law without previous college training.

Several of these attended more than one college. Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt attended the Columbia University Law School. Wilson graduated from the Virginia University Law School and received a Ph.D. degree from John Hopkins University. Taft attended the Cincinnati Law School and Hayes the Harvard Law School.

Several Presidents attended college without graduating. James Monroe attended William and Mary College for two years, but left to serve in the Continental Army. William McKinley attended Allegheny College but quit the first year because of ill health. Warren G. Harding studied for three years at Ohio Central College, an institution of academy grade at Iberia, Ohio, but left at 16 without graduating. Both McKinley and Harding are sometimes included among the Presidents without college training.

Nine Presidents taught school—John Adams, Jackson, Fillmore, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland, McKinley, Wilson and Harding taught school. Wilson was the only one who made teaching his profession. Garfield was Principal of Hiram College, where he had been a student, and Wilson was President of Princeton, from which he had graduated.

Letter to the Editor

Weather Still Holds Mastery Over Man

"Editor Ontario Intelligencer."

I liked your editorial remarks concerning both "Severe Weather" and "Weather's Attraction," and it cannot be gainsayed that today's situation, in terms of hydro-electric energy in Ontario is teaching our people generally—but particularly the so-called 'streamlined' folk who live on the pavements—that they are about as dependent upon the weather as ever?

I note that you say: "Now a new era gives hints that power to cope with the weather may come though the control by man of the elements, by snow-making at the time and place desired or by calling on rain to descend upon the parched land. . . ."

In these fast-moving times it is neither wise nor easy to foresee what the long-term future holds, nor to set limits to the possible achievements of science in the 'material creation'; but the achievement of the 'A-Bomb has flashlighted, to the mind of even the average man-in-the-street, the conviction that there is something else; that the 'material creation' is not enough; and that the social philosopher knew what he was talking about when he warned; "Science, without the 'Golden Rule,' will destroy mankind!"

So, therefore, we are learning the desirable lesson once more that, as you put it, "the weather can do without man and can behave so far as it likes, while man cannot disregard the weather, but must take all its hints and forecasts to his heart and intellect," I take this to mean that, at the present hour (alike in California as in Ontario) ambitious little Man is more dependent upon the flow of the rivers than he has been inclined to dream?

For the appropriate and affirmative answer to the endless inquiry all around the earth—"When Do We Eat?"—we had better look to the weatherman rather than to the laboratory. There are, of course, vast fields for the operations of the scientists. They cooperate with Nature and have lifted horizons and enriched life. Meanwhile if we can't 'control' the Chicago wheat market, reaching for the clouds and regulating the weather looks like 'some' job?

Arthur Boucher, C.N.R. Engineer, Killed in Wreck

Levis, Que., March 3 (CP) — Strained and weary expressions showed on the faces of passengers on the Maritime Express when it arrived here last night, nine hours late after a derailment at an isolated station which cost the life of its engineer.

Arthur Boucher, 63-year-old Canadian National Railways employee of Riviere Du Loop, who was to retire shortly, died in the cab of his engine when it left the track and rolled over after plowing through an open switch at St. Andre in Kamouraska County. The tender and a freight car also left the track and rolled over.

A mail attendant—who did not wish his name used—said the other nine cars, including the baggage, mail and passenger coaches also jumped the rails but remained upright.

"After skidding a distance of about 105 feet, the cars finally stopped," he said.

Mail car employees said when they got out they saw fireman Charles Brillant, 48, of Riviere Du Loup, emerge from a 15-foot high cloud of steam which enveloped the engine.

He was restrained from returning to the engine cab to search for the engineer.

Steel mallets were used to break through twisted pipes in the engine cab to reach the body of the engineer, buried three feet under the snow.

Abbe Gerard Belanger of nearby Lauzon, a passenger, administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church before Boucher's body was freed after more than one hour of work.

The Express, due at St. Andre at 11.30 a.m., derailed several hundred yards short of the station where it was to have taken a siding from the main line.

EVER EAT ANY WHEAT?

A reader praises parched wheat as an everyday food staple. The purpose of parching, I suppose, is to kill any eggs or larvae of the wheat beetle, if you are squeamish about such "life" in grain. To parch wheat, put it in a pan and roast it for a few minutes in the oven as you would parch corn or roast peanuts or roast coffee.

Put a cupful of the wheat in a skillet with a small amount of lard or other shortening and a pinch of salt and stir over the fire until the wheat is brown.

If your teeth and/or dentures are functionally efficient you will enjoy the wheat so cooked unground. If you can't enjoy it that way, you need the service of a good dentist.

On the other hand, if you have neglected your teeth in the years when good dental treatment might have checked decay and kept you from becoming a cripple, you have to grind it. The reader says a coffee grinder will do, but if you find you like wheat to eat you may get a regular wheat grinder for about $4—or that was the price a few months ago.

Many readers have told me that every member of the family likes plain wheat to eat — the young children as well as the grownup ones.

In Wheat to Eat numerous simple ways to use plain wheat in the every day dietary are described—by readers — who have found plain wheat a superior "breakfast food." You may have the pamphlet if you ask for it in writing and inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address. Do not use a clipping of this—if you do your letter will be placed on file in the Nothing-Else-To-Do department — before 1953 we'll probably have a day when there's nothing else to do.

Wheat as it grows is the best natural food source of vitamin B complex for man. Refined white flour and other "purified" products of wheat and the white bread and assorted cheat foods made mainly of white flour, contain practically no vitamins at all. This fact alone should make plain wheat, bought by the pound, peck or bushel from farmer, miller, seed store, feed store or market, the No. 1 staple in the food economy of every family.

Mind, now, I do not advise you to throw out all the white flour, white sugar and manufactured syrup you have in the house. I merely urge you to lay in supply of wheat and try your hand at making some of the recipes or dishes described in the pamphlet —to test on your family. Two to one they'll holler for more. Better still, consult that classic Let's Cook it Right by Adelle Davis—published by Harcourt Brace, New York, $3 — the only cook book that rates a place in my library. It gives you not only the culinary know how but also something unique in cook books, namely reliable information regarding the nutritional values of the recipes you are dealing with. The author happens to be one of America's top drawer nutritionists.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Corn Remedy

It is impossible to get the corn cure you suggest mixed by the druggist. He always offers something ready prepared says it is practically the same. (B. M.)

Answer—Mix it yourself. Any drugstore will sell you flexible collodion and salicylic acid powder. Pour a level teaspoonful of the powder into a fluidounce of the flexible collodion and you have the corn remedy. Paint corn or callus with it once a day for a week or so, till corn or callus softens and easily wipes away.

Scabies

Please send me the necessary information for the cure of scabies. (M. E. P.)

Answer—You will find a chapter on the subject in the booklet Save Your Skin—for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Members Protest Against Reading Speeches in House

Ottawa, March 3 (CP)—Protesting what they charged was Speaker Gaspard Fauteux' "refusal" to enforce a rule against reading speeches, two British Columbia Liberal members strode angrily from the Commons shortly before adjournment last night.

George Cruickshank, member for Fraser Valley, and James Sinclair, member for Vancouver North, launched a series of interruptions during a speech in French by J. I. Hamel (BP-St. Maurice-LaFleche)—a speech on national unity. They asked each time that the no-reading rule be enforced or that some indication be given of the publications from which Mr. Hamel was quoting.

Dr. Fauteux said after a stormy 10 minutes that, unless the two members stopped interrupting, he would be obliged to "apply the sanction"—name them and have them escorted from the chamber by the sergeant-at-arms.

With that, Mr. Sinclair rose and said: "I for one will withdraw from the House and read about it (the speech) in the morning."

As he walked out, Mr. Cruickshank turned on his heel and left.

Both members said later in an interview that they were "fed-up" with speech-reading and withdrew because frequent appeals to Dr. Fauteux for enforcement of the rule had brought no results.

Mr. Sinclair said reading of speeches was contrary to accepted parliamentary rules, cheapened the quality of debates, helped introduce "extraneous matter" and prolonged debates unnecessarily. He said he will raise the issue at a Liberal Party caucus today.

Mr. Cruickshank said "nine out of 10" prepared speeches are not the product entirely of the members who read them. They "look good in Hansard"—the official Commons report—and give an inaccurate impression of members' knowledge and speaking ability.

After the two members withdrew, Dr. Fauteux remarked that he has several times called attention to the rule forbidding the reading of speeches.

But it had "unfortunately" become the practice of many members to read speeches during the Throne Speech debate. Mr. Hamel was quoting many figures and press statements and should be allowed to continue.

GREAT WAS THE FALL

Melbourne — (CP) — The new Liberal premier of Victoria, Thomas T. Hollway, waited discreetly to sit down in his newly-acquired chair until his Labor predecessor, John Cain, left. Alone in the office, Mr. Hollway pulled up the chair — and fell flat on his back. The chair, used by all premiers since 1909, had finally given up the ghost.

Drew Letter Charged Govt. Warned War With Japan Was Possibility

Ottawa, March 3 (CP)—The Ottawa Citizen and the Ottawa Journal have published long excerpts from a letter written in 1942 by Premier Drew of Ontario to Prime Minister Mackenzie King criticizing the findings of the Duff Commission which investigated the ill-fated Canadian army Hong Kong expedition.

In the letter, of which each paper published more than two columns, Premier Drew charged that three days before the Hong Kong expedition sailed in 1941, the Canadian government was warned by British intelligence that war with Japan was an early possibility.

The letter has been a subject of controversy in the Commons for several weeks. The government has agreed to table a paraphrase of the full Hong Kong evidence.

Regarding the Drew letter, Mr. King said his officers had advised him against making it public.

Improperly Trained

Premier Drew's letter said the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Quebec Royal Rifles, units which were sent to Hong Kong, were improperly trained and equipped, that there was a "determined effort to withhold information" before the Royal Commission; that many of the commission's conclusions were directly opposed to the evidence, and that from the first there was no intention of holding Hong Kong.

Current demand for tabling the Drew letter marks the second time it has been a central point in the Hong Kong controversy. Col. Drew, then Conservative leader in Ontario, acted as counsel for the parliamentary opposition at the 1942 Royal Commission probe conducted by Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff. After long closed sittings Sir Lyman reported that apart from certain deficiencies in shipping space for vehicles "Canada sent forward, in response to the British request, an expedition which was well-trained and well-provided with equipment."

Secrecy Served no Purpose

Col. Drew immediately charged that the report did not reflect the evidence given and that "secrecy has served no purpose except to hide from the public the evidence of inexcusable blundering, confusion and incompetence . . ." On June 24, 1942, action was taken against him under the Defence of Canada Regulations, but later dropped.

In July he sent Prime Minister King a 32-page letter charging the commission findings were "directly contrary to the evidence." The Prime Minister declined to table the letter at that time because, he said, it violated secrecy under which the commission's hearings were conducted. A summary and partial text of 7,500 words were distributed to member papers by The Canadian Press, but withheld from publication when the press censors ruled the letter contravened Defence of Canada Regulations. The demand for tabling was made of Maj.-Gen. G. M. Maltby, commander of British troops at Hong Kong, said that Canadian troops arrived "inadequately trained for modern war."

Country Faced With Clashing Views on Affair

Ottawa, March 3 (CP) — The country was confronted today with clashing interpretations of what the Federal government knew about the dangers of Pacific war at the time it sent two battalions of infantry to Hong Kong in October, 1941.

In the Commons yesterday, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that "until the very eve of the Japanese attack (in December) such information as I received from the British authorities was to the effect that an early attack upon Hong Kong was not anticipated."

The Ottawa Citizen and Ottawa Journal Monday published a 1942 letter in which Premier Drew of Ontario charged that three days before the troops sailed the Canadian government was warned by British intelligence that war with Japan was an early possibility.

It was publication of the letter that brought Mr. King to his feet on a question of privilege and which prompted Progressive Conservative members to cry that the House had been "held in contempt" and "outraged" by the government's refusal to table something that the public already had.

(Commenting on Mr. King's statement, Mr. Drew said at Toronto that the Prime Minister was "simply piling falsehood on falsehood." Mr. Drew charged that the despatches to which Mr. King referred left no doubt of the threat of war and that was the interpretation placed upon them by Major C. G. Power, former Minister of National Defence at the time of the departure of the Hong Kong force.

Turbulent Scenes

Turbulent scenes that interrupted John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) reached their climax when Maj. Loran Baker, M. C., (L-Shelburne-Yarmouth - Clare) was drowned out in trying to finish a statement that he felt the Drew letter had been accorded "too much importance for what it is worth."

In the end, Mr. King still refused to table the letter, despite further opposition requests, on the grounds that it contained references to material the government had promised to keep confidential when it was made available to the Duff Commission on Hong Kong in 1942. Since the British government had twice refused to release Ottawa from its agreement to keep it secret, the Canadian government declined to break faith.

The Prime Minister in his statement said that "in my opinion, such information as the Canadian government received at the time from the British authorities is in complete accord with the finding of the commissioner, namely that 'the best informed opinion available to the Canadian authorities was that hostilities would not arise in the near future.'"

(Premier Drew made his charge after serving as counsel for the parliamentary opposition before the Commission.)

Six-Foot Cobra Shared His Room

Stellenbosch, South Africa, — (CP)—R. B. Rossel, of Uitspan, Klapmuts, shared a roo mfor a month with a six-foot cobra. It was only after 30 days had elapsed that he discovered his "roommate".

He heard noises from underneath the floor and his two dogs barked frequently at all hours of the night and day. Mr. Rossel took it for granted that a rat or a mouse was under the flooring boards and did not worry further.

One day, however, he saw the tail of a snake sticking out of a hole in the floor and the cobra was hauled from its refuge and killed. There have been no disturbing noises in the room since.

WALKS TO DEATH IN WATER

Woodland, Calif., March 3 — (AP)—Two men sitting on the bank of the Sacramento River watched in astonishment yesterday as another man walked calmly into the river and was drowned. Henry Bietz and Dan Hunter told police a man in working clothes changed cheerful hellos with them, walked into the river shoulder deep, paused, waved goodbye, and then continued walking until he disappeared beneath the water.

Oldsters, As Well as Young Fry, Disturbed by Shortage of Funnies

"Say whatsa matter with you guys? Don'tcha want to do business with us kids. Why don'tcha get me favorite funnies any more. If you don't I'll tell me old man to get his tobacco somewhere else".

The grubby-faced little urchin snorted his disgust after pawing over the depleted stocks of the current "funnies" magazines in a downtown tobacco store.

"The reason, my little man," gently replied the proprietor, "is because the austerity program of this country of ours prohibits the imports of a lot of what is called "pulp" magazines."

"Austerity, me eye," snorted the urchin. "Who is he? What team does he play for? Besides, what's he gotta do with the funnies?"

"He ain't a guy at all", replied the patient prop. "Austerity is something that we can't help. We try to live within our means, and we can't afford to import a lot of things — your funnies included, or at least a large percentage."

Shortage Marked Now

The proprietor was right. There has been a marked shortage of popular funny magazines as well as others of the pulp varieties due to governmental restrictions.

Shelves in tobacco and news stores, are more or less bereft of the lurid covers picturing the death-defying stunts of "The Blue Ghost"; "The Phantom Phox Phighter"; "Louie, the Leopard-Man"; "Murgatroyd of the F.B.I." "The Adventures of Nuclear Ned" and Atomless Addie"; "The Pie-Eyed Piper of Podunk Polars"; "The Scarlet Scourge", or the "Confessions of a Snooker Addict" and such breath taking tomes that catch the eye of the young -and old-thrill seeker.

Governmental clap - down in imports of pulp magazines has resulted in a fairly large percentage of these misnomered "funnies" being kept off the Canadian market. With the further resultant effect of generous gobs of disappointment on the part of youthful addicts.

Other Periodicals Banned

Included in the ban, too, are some well-known monthly periodicals. In some tobacco stores space formerly taken by the funnies and thrillers now show other reading merchandise.

And proprietors, asked the inevitable question, "when" shake their heads and say "no can tell".

Strangely enough, the sale of funnies in magazine form which has swept in unheard of popularity with both young and old during the past few years, forms quite a percentage of the volume of business done by tobacco and news shops.

The man on the street would be surprised if he could see the huge bundles of this type of merchandise which is delivered weekly and monthly to stores in the city and district.

And sales are not confined to the children and younger fellows. Standing in a new shop the other day, this reporter gazed with open mouth at a venerable gentleman who made purchases of funnies magazines of all types, amounting to nearly four dollars.

Liked by Bachelor

"Must have a large family," suggested the scribe to the proprietor after the purchaser had hobbled out.

"Family, my eye" came back the prop. "He's a bachelor, and he spends that amount of money every week in funnies, magazines and papers which carry pages of the stuff."

Another youngster bought three or four books, then asked for one he could not find. Told it was not available, he laughed and said: "I don't care, only my pop will be greatly disappointed."

The fair sex, too has its yen for the death-defying adventures of colorful funnies heroes. One shop has at least eight steady customers, ranging from a bobby-soxer to a grey-haired grandmother, who would rather miss their Christmas dinner than one edition of their favorite "Masked Rider" or 'Willie, the Wiener Wizard".

It's a funny world, and will be funnier, for a lot of people if the funnies continue to become scarcer.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott, Frankford, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Irene Elliott Carson to Mr. Malcolm Lloyd Wilson, younger son of Mrs. Wilson, Trenton and the late S. C. Wilson, the marriage to take place in Frankford Pentecostal Church, Saturday, March 27.

Mr. F. J. Carre, Dundas Street East, received notice of the birth of a Leap Year baby, Feb. 29, to his niece, Mrs. John MacDonald, (nee Mary Louise Carre), at Vancouver General Hospital.

Mr. Stewart Collins, Cannifton Rd., has returned home after visiting relatives and friends in Lexington, Kentucky, for the past two months.

Phiat Club Hears Talk On "Alcan" Highway

The story of the Alaskan Highway was told by Rev. Donald Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church to members of the Phiat Club of the Y.M.C.A. at their recent meeting in the association auditorium. In beautifully descriptive pictures the wonders of this marvelous engineering accomplishment was unfolded to an interested audience. Mr. Amos expressed the hope that this outpost of defence would be turned to peaceful purpose for the benefit of mankind.

His description of his work as a minister of the gospel was as fascinating as it was challenging. With American and Canadian service men alike as with civilian engineers the message was received with enthusiasm as a guide through spiritual values to a more stable life.

Miss Gladys Harquail and her group were hostesses. Mrs. Doris Mansfield the president conducted the business meeting. The speaker was introduced by Miss Harquail and thanked by Miss Agnes Hinchcliffe.

Miss Irene Morgan, Gwendolyn Neal, Named to Staff

The Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors acting on the recommendation of Dr. George Faulkner, chairman of the Physical Committee of the "Y", approved the appointment of the Misses Irene Morgan and Gwendolyn Neal as part-time associates on the physical staff in charge of women's and girls' physical education at a recent meeting held under the chairmanship of John Deacon.

Miss Morgan is a native of Hamilton where she received her secondary education at the Central High School, under the coaching of Captain Cornelius, noted for his outstanding production of athletic events and athletes and sponsor of the famous Penn relays.

She is a graduate of McMaster University and completed her post-graduate work at the College of Education, Toronto. Member of a family which has contributed other members to young people's work, Miss Morgan has a brother a director of religious education in British Columbia and another on the staff of the Montreal "Y" Association as Boys' Secretary. She is an experienced worker with girls in camp work and Canadian Girls in Training programs as well as being the teacher of girls' physical education at B.C.I.

Miss Neal, another member of the Collegiate teaching staff, is a native of Lindsay and a daughter of the Rev. Harold Neal, former minister of Holloway United Church. Miss Neal was educated in the Campbellford High School and Victoria College, Toronto. Following graduation at the College of Education, she was on the staff of the Petrolia schools and has had considerable experience in girls' work with Toronto Kiwanis Club.

A complete program of instruction for women and girls in physical work, swimming, and games is now being offered at the "Y". Preps and juniors are scheduled for Thursday afternoons and evenings and seniors and business women on Wednesday evenings.

Opera Lover Spurns Met's Plushy Seats

By SAUL PETT

New York, (AP) — Going to work by subway in the morning, Valerie Wagner stands. At noon, waiting for a table at lunch, she stands. Returning from work, she stands.

But at night—ah, at night—she goes to the opera.

And stands.

Standing on subways and in restaurants is nothing unusual for New Yorkers, but at the opera Valerie is something of a phenomenon among music lovers. During the last eight seasons of the Metropolitan Opera she has stood during more than 450 performances.

The average wait before the box office for a $2 standing room ticket, Valerie reports, is an hour and three-quarters. Thus, in eight years of drinking in the joys of opera, this 26-year-old music lover from Brooklyn has stood a total of more than 2,100 hours.

The average wait before the box office for a $2 standing room ticket, Valerie reports, is an hour and three-quarters. Thus, in eight years of drinking in the joys of opera, this 26-year-old music lover from Brooklyn has stood a total of more than 2,100 hours.

Why, you may ask, does a nice sensible girl like Valerie stand for all this?

"I happen to like opera," she explains simply. "A good orchestra seat cost $7.50. But by standing, I can see almost four operas for that price. Besides, in standing room, you can move around and watch from different vantage points.

"The average opera house subscriber sees only one performance of each opera a season— that's about 16 a year. I like to see the same thing several times. My favorite, 'Aida', I've seen 26 times. In eight seasons, I've already seen more than 450 performances, and that's more than the average subscriber sees in a lifetime."

Gift From Star

Such loyalty does not go unrewarded. When mezzo-soprano Rise Stevens heard about Valerie the other day, she gave her the (Columbia) album of "Hansel and Gretel," the first complete opera to be recorded at the Met.

Also, Miss Wagner has become president of the Metropolitan Opera Standees Club, which has 60 members and mets regularly every month to discuss music and pool their records. In eight seasons, Valerie has learned by heart the score of more than 20 operas, she says. Not just the leading roles, but all the parts.

Does she think the standees are greater music lovers than the seated spectators—than, for example, the box-holders in the famed "Golden Horseshoe", one of whom once came to stand, not on his feet, but on his head for the photographers.

"Well," answers Valerie cautiously, "I think we're more critical. Yes, I'd say we are more appreciative. After all, we see so many more performances. We have more basis for comparison."

Valerie once had hopes of following a singing career herself. She took lessons but gave it "up as a bad job after a year". Now she is office manager for an industrial diamond firm. She has a busy day but only gets tired after bad performances.

Once, for a Saturday performance of "Siegfried," she joined the ticket line at 3 p.m., got inside at 7, remained on her feet until the curtain fell at 11.45 p.m.

"It was so good," she recalls, "I felt like dancing afterwards."

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. Y.P.U.

The Young Peoples meeting on Monday evening opened with a singsong led by Rosslyn Robertson. Prayer was offered by Doug Ptolamy. After the business period, the Christian culture group led in the worship service. The pianist for the evening, Phyllis Beatty, opened the service with quiet music after which Olive Hall gave the call to worship. The Scripture was read by Mary Rutherford and Rosslyn Robertson read a "meditation" and led in prayer. A solo "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" by Marion Allen was much enjoyed.

The culture group took "Literature" as the topic. The life of Longfellow and some of his writings were presented by Betu Robertson and Olive Hall. The meeting closed with the friendship circle and prayer by Rev. C. A. Perkins.

HOLLOWAY ST. W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of Holloway Street United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlor, with Mrs. Kilbank, president, conducting the opening exercises and the business period.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Reid and her group, and was centred around the theme, "The field is the world, and the seed is the Word". Mrs. Oliphant Sr., read the Scripture Lesson as found in the 4th Chapter of St. Mark's Gospel, verses 3 to 8; and Mrs. Dilts rendered an appropriate solo "Thank God for a Garden".

The study book was presented in the form of a round table discussion by Mrs. Reid, Mrs. C. Perkins, Mrs. Dobbs, Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Holmes, after which a short talk was given on "Home Missions".

The meeting closed with a benediction and dainty refreshments were served.

Picton

Court of Inquiry Being Conducted In $30,000 Fire

Picton (Special)—A court of enquiry is being conducted into a fire at the Royal Canadian School of Artillery station here, which caused damage amounting to more than $30,000. But for a favorable wind, the entire station might have been destroyed.

Burned to the ground was the spare parts building attached to the R.C.E.M.E. workshop. It contained quantities of tools, tires, engines, welding equipment and spare parts which the R.C.E.M.E. uses in serving air stations in this district. The frame building was valued at about ten thousand dollars and the contents at least $20,000.

Origin Unknown

The origin of the fire is unknown, occurring in the early morning hours. No one was in the building and guards had passed the structure a half hour previously. The strong wind blew the flames and embers away from rows of other wooden buildings nearby. The station's fire brigade was on hand.

First Serious Fire

This is the first serious fire at the station since it was built in 1939, later being used by the R. C. A. F. and R.A.F. In peacetime it was turned over to the R. C. S. of A. (A.A.)

Flies to South Africa

Rev. W. R. Pair, pastor of the First Pentecostal Church here, leaves on Monday to spend six months in South Africa. He will fly as far as Trinidad, continuing the trip by boat. While in South Africa, Rev. Mr. Pair will conduct evangelistic services and attend conferences of the church. At one of these conferences, the Union of the Assemblies of Christ, as the church is known in Africa, and the United Pentecostal Church of the United States and Canada will take place.

Mr. Pair will visit such cities as Pretoria, Johannesburg, Durban and Capetown. During his absence, services here will be conducted by Rev. J. T. Miller of Toledo, Ohio and others.

County Swept by Snow

Flyers Nudge Trenton 4-3 In Action-Packed Thriller To Take Game Lead in 'A' Finals

(By G.H.C.)

When big rangy "Mid" Middleton, star defenceman of the Trenton RCAF Flyers took a golfing swipe at the rubber with but thirty seconds to go in the third period last night, the puck which had been subjected to a merciless beating for nearly sixty minutes, nestled in the twine behind Dick Bridgman, Trenton Hockey Club goalie and ended one of the best Intermediate "A" hockey games seen in Memorial Arena here this season.

A near-stunned crowd of Trenton fans sat bewildered as the light flashed a victory red for the Flyers, who skated off the ice on the long end of a 4-3 score and the first game of the two-of-three series for the group championship tucked away in their fuselages.

That is how it ended. And it was as much a heart-breaker for the Trenton Hockey Club as it was a victory thriller for the winners. The end came dramatically. For three periods the teams had battled tooth and nail in a game that saw speed sustained for its entirety. The lead seesawed back and forth three times. And three times the score was tied.

Takes Swipe at Puck

Then Tremblay, with the clock at the 19 minute mark, drew a penalty, leaving the town squad shorthanded. Seconds ticked by. Came a face-off near the Trenton goal, a Ben Hogan swipe on the part of Middleton, and the fans who had been sitting on the front three inches of their seats all night, rose as one with a concerted roar, as the red light flashed with the million-dollar goal. Seconds later the game ended.

The game was action-packed from the first face-off as the two evenly-matched squads turned on speed that never let-up until referee St. Louis blew taps on his whistle. It was clean, fast hockey with play surging from end to end with startling consistency and both goalkeepers rising to hockey heights to fend off the speedy attacking lines of the opposition. Bridgman, in the Trenton goal, outshone slightly his opponent Robertson in the opposite end. The town guardian kicked out 48 shots to his opponents 34, and that perhaps tells part of the story.

Doug Scores First

Trenton, who iced two new faces, the Bastedo brothers Doug and Bert of Stirling opened the scoring two minutes after the game started on a concerted breakaway from a Flyers' ganging attack. The airmen had the better of the play up to this point, but the speedy Bastedos flitted down the right wing, circled the goal and Bert passed out to brother Doug who fired the rubber home behind Robertson.

Flyers got that one back two minutes later and play speeded up. Prot got the equalizer from a scramble near the Trenton net but B. Johnson again put the town team in the lead when he sped away from the Flyer squad who were caught inside the Trenton blueline, and scored in a neat solo effort.

Play ranged up and down the ice as the front lines of both teams started to click. Checking was close and hard but the players went after the puck instead of the man although Schmidt of Trenton and Miller of Flyers started a minor feud of their own. With forty seconds to go, Nick Sargent took Brackenbury's pass close-in and flung home the goal that made the period score 2 all.

Fast in Second

The second period saw the fastest hockey of the night. Play surged up and down the ice with first the Trenton squad ganging in close with power plays, and the Flyers flashing back with the same style of play. Both goals had narrow escapes and both goalies turned in outstanding performances in keeping the score sheet clean. Miller, Middleton and Beale drew the wrath of the officials in this period, but no damage was done during their tenure in the sin bin.

B. Johnson, Trenton centre, put his team in the lead for the third time of the game a minute after the third period started. He swept around the Flyer defence and slung a low hard shot in the corner for the tally.

Flyers raced back to the attack, and Brackenbury and Edwards in one of the prettiest passing plays of the night, eluded the hard checking Trenton forwards swept through the defence and Brack sunk the pellet for the equalizer.

Battle Hammer and Tongs

That was as the seven minute mark and from there on until Middleton flashed his victory-getting goal, the squads battled hammer and tongs with the Flyers having an advantage in territorial play. They carried the attack to the opposition during the last three or four minutes, until Tremblay drew the penalty that prefaced the winning marker.

B. Johnson, Burtt, Schmidt, the Bastedo and Watson, with Bridgman starred for the losers with Middleton, Brackenbury, Miller, Sargent, turning in fine efforts with Ault and Dennie, for the Flyers squad.

The second game of the series will be played in Memorial Arena here next Saturday night, starting at 9 o'clock.

The teams:

RCAF: Goal, Robertson; defence, Middleton, Coweck; centre, Ault; wings, Miller, Dennie; subs, Sargent, Brackenbury, Edwardx, O'Meara, Provost, Prot, Ruzicke, McKenna.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Windsor Star, noted for its outspoken editorials, loads its criticism artillery with sports shrapnel and lets go with a broadside at the effete Maple Leaf Gardens in particular, and what it terms "Hogtown" Toronto in general.

• • •

The match that touched off the explosive in the Windsor Star editorial rooms was the announcement by the Canadian Basketball Association that the Canadian Senior "A" finals will be held in the Maple Leaf Gardens impressive of what team wins the Eastern championship.

• • •

This means, the Star says, that if the Windsor Alumni gets into the finals, its supporters will be unable to see the games, unless they go to Toronto for that purpose.

• • •

Then the Windsor writer pressed the firing button. "This", he wrote, "is following the established procedure of the Maple Leaf Gardens like a cuttlefish extending its suckers out over the whole field of sport and trying to profit by having the hockey, lacrosse, or basketball finals played in that arena."

• • •

"Toronto teams do win hockey championships—with players from other parts of the country for the most part," he goes on, "it hasn't had a lacrosse team worthy of the name for years. For a city of its size it has never made a name for itself in basketball. It is to be noted that it has had more success with home-grown rugby players and they don't play in the Maple Leaf Gardens."

• • •

"Toronto has done sport no service in the past by raiding teams in other Canadian towns and cities to get hockey and other players who can bring championships to Toronto. It is discouraging to sportsmen, in the towns especially, who develop good players of teams, only to have them ruined by Toronto grabbing them."

• • •

"People of Windsor," the writer says, "or other centres who produce a team worthy of getting into the finals want to see the finals—and they don't want to go to Toronto to do it. And when we speak of sport, we are regarding it from the point of view of those who love sport for its own sake—not for the dividends they can make out of it"

• • •

Tim Daly, popular trainer of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey and baseball teams will be a guest in the city on Thursday night. Genial Tim whose amusing mayhem of the King's English at times, has furnished plenty of copy for sports writers is to be the guest speaker at a meeting of The Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M. here. Tim will arrive in the city about 6.30 Thursday evening.

The Merchants Midgets are practicing faithfully for their all-important first game in the Ontario Midget 'B' finals scheduled for Memorial Arena next Tuesday night against either Waterloo or Collingwood. They realize that any team that reaches the top in any hockey series will be composed of tough puck hombres, and that they will have a battle on their hands before the laurel wreath of champions is placed on somebody's brows. However, the Merchants are fully confident and are ready to go out there and be a credit to the team, the management, the merchant sponsors and the city.

• • •

And speaking, the Midgets, someone brought it to our attention that there isn't a right hand shot on the entire team. All the boys fire from the portside, and are not doing a bad job of it at that.

• • •

Stirling kids uncorked a wild scoring spree in the third period of their Midget "C" playoff game on Monday night with the powerful Ajax moppets. Down 2-1 going into the last period, the village lads showed their class when they fired home nine goals, nine, count 'em, to win the pastime 10-2 and take away with them a neat eight-goal lead for the second game.

• • •

Anyone who didn't see that snorting hockey jamboree in Memorial Arena last night between the Trenton RCAF Flyers and the Trenton Hockey Club missed the best game of the year in Intermediate "A" circles. The boys spared neither the horses nor the drivers, and they went at it hammer and tongs the entire sixty minutes of play. The winning goal that was blasted into the Trenton net by big Mid Middleton was a heart-breaker for the town crew, the teams had been more or less even up to that point and a last minute penalty proved costly for the losers.

• • •

The Trenton squad flashed the Bastedo brothers, Doug and Bert of Stirling, and the starry pair added a lot of punch to the town attack. According to Bill Green, the press box demon statistician the Flyers outshot the Trenton team 48 to 34 during the game. Flyers had the edge 25-11 in the first period. Trenton outshot them 13-9 in the second and the airmen raced back with 14-8 in the final heat.

• • •

There wasn't a dull moment in the entire game. Both teams travelled at top speed and the checking was hard but clean with only five penalties being doled outby Referee St. Louis. Bert Bastedo suffered a nasty gash behind the ear when he was dumped by Nicky Sargent and was forced to leave the game. Several stitches were inserted in the wound behind the right ear.

• • •

The teams clash again next Saturday night with the first puck being dropped at nine o'clock instead of 8.30 the usual time. The game should be another wide-open affair with the Trenton squad with their backs to the wall as a defeat means elimination. The series has been changed to a two-of-three affair instead of a three-of-five as originally planned. Fans should not miss this tilt as it will likely be a repetition of last night's affair and anyone who wants more excitement for his hockey money than he got last evening, should have his noggin examined.

• • •

WEDNESDAY WANDERINGS

They tell us that an unheralded hockey star flashed over the horizon the other night in the Norwood - Tweed game. A Norwood player 'tis reported, fired home nine goals, which should be a record in any man's loop, as well as being credited with an unknown number of assists ..An ardent RCAF fan received an unexpected cooling-off in last night's Flyers - Trenton game . . . The excited one who was baring his tonsils, and part of his esophagus every time a Flyer player broke away, received a miniature avalanche of snow squarely on his bare noggin during the second period . . . It seems that snow had sifted through a window crack high above the ice directly over the fan's head . . . Whether it was the hot air that rose from his vocal reverberations, or mebbe the rafters were loose, suffice it to say, the snow crashed down nearly burying the ardent one when it landed . . . He spat snowballs for the next five minutes but his ardor was undiminished . . . Robertson, Flyer goalie, went off for repairs after suffering a slightly cut lip after a sustained Trenton attack . . . Trenton Flyers basketball squad played their first game of the points-to-count series with the Trenton Financiers last night . . . Second game this evening for the right to enter the Intermediate "A" Ontario Basketball Association playdowns . . . Albert College quintet has defaulted their games, so it is reported . . . The second annual Boys Night at BCI skedded for Thursday and Friday nights promises to be a rare treat . . . Upwards of sixty stude athletes will take part, and the program is outstanding . . . Well worth your while to trek up to the school on Church Street come Thursday or Friday nights and watch the lads in action .. Bill Green, our demon statistician told us after the Trenton-Flyers game, that during his term of office as official shots-on-goal scorer, the play ranged so fast up and down the ice, he thought he was watching a tennis match . . . Nearly nine hundred fans saw the pastime, and after last night's joust, the arena should see nearly 2,000 come Saturday night . . . And one Trenton wag came out with the statement that the reason the town team lost was because they had a touch of stage-fright . . . They are not accustomed to playing before such a crowd . . . You've had it.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 3 (AP) — It isn't exactly a novelty for a pitcher to switch to the outfield, although pitchers traditionally are weak hitters. But it does seem strange when a guy who wants to make the change encounters stiff resistance . . . Zebulon V. Eaton, Jr., who is trying for a place in the Philadelphia infield, had that happen to him...

"I wanted to play the outfield in 1946 when the Tigers sent me to Buffalo," Zeb explains. "They wouldn't let me, so I had to wait until last year at Birmingham. Of course I had filled in for a game or so before then when somebody was out." . . Eaton, who pitched in 17 games for the Tigers in 1945, did all right once they let him make the change...

He was going strong when he was hit on the head by a pitched ball and injured so badly he didn't get into uniform again until last Monday. But that .358 batting average for the Barons doesn't look bad when compared to some the A's compiled last summer.

Personal Opinion

The New York papers reveal that some sniping against Eddie Eagan's point system of judging fights is being carried on... This traveller recently witnessed the big fracas in Miami and during the preliminaries, had a chance to see the 10-7 point system favored by the National Boxing Association ... one judge awarded 10 points to each boxer in six rounds of a 10-rounder, commenting, "I guess that round was about even." ... The other four were scored 10-9 in favor of the guy who obviously was winning by a mile ... seems it ain't the system — it's the guy who uses it.

Leafs Lose to Rangers 1-0 Further Tightening First Place Race in National Hockey Loop

By DON HUNT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

While most hockey eyes were focused on the reported betting "scandal" probe in Detroit, the third place New York Rangers partially stole the spotlight last night by dusting off the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 in a rough-and-tough contest in Manhattan.

The loss left the Leafs still two points ahead of Detroit in the race for the top slot but Wings have a game in hand. With only three more weeks to go, it looks as though the battle will be decided on the final weekend when Toronto and Detroit have a home-and-home series. The triumph boosted Rangers into a six-point lead over the idle fourth - place Boston Bruins.

Play Inspired Hockey

With the words of N. H. L. prexy Clarence Campbell ringing in their ears, the Rangers played inspired hockey and put up a stone-wall defence in front of goalie Sugar Jim Henry. Campbell said earlier in Detroit that players on both Boston Bruins and New York Rangers were involved in the betting story and that evidence "warrants exclusion without doubt."

Henry, who spent Sunday night in hospital after a bruising encounter with Montreal Canadiens, played brilliantly in the New York nets and stopped several shots labelled for goals in registering a well-earned shutout.

Slick Edgar Laprade shared the hero role with Henry when he slapped in his own rebound past Turk Broda, Toronto's pudgy netminder, at 5:35 of the first period. That goal was enough to give the Blueshirts their third victory of the season over Leafs in nine meetings, having lost four and tied two.

Fisticuffs Break Out

Fisticuffs broke out in the final stanza after a comparatively mild opening. Laprade and Toronto's Gus Mortson sparked the wild melee in which all players took part. Both Mortson and Laprade were given majors for fighting. They had hardly settled in the sin-bin when Bill Barilko and Phil Watson tangled at the Ranger end. Barilko, league "bad man" was given a two-minute charging penalty while Watson went off for four minutes for charging and roughing.

A full slate of games is scheduled for tonight with first and last place at stake. Toronto plays host to the tail-end Montreal Canadiens and a win for the Leafs would strengthen their hold on first place. However, the Habitants need the win if they still have any hopes of making the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs. A loss for the Frenchmen would just about write finis to their chances.

Rangers journey to Detroit in a game that could put Detroit back in a tie for first place if Montreal co-operates and wins too. In the other tilt, the fourth-place Bruins are hosts to Chicago, tied for last place with Canadiens.

Then on Thursday, Boston play Canadiens in Montreal in a game that will make or break the Habs.

New Junior Rugby Series in Ontario Will be Formed

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—Teddy Morris, coach of Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four, said last night that one of the top senior executives in the Ontario Rugby Football Union will resign next weekend to direct a new, independent junior rugby series in Ontario, sponsored by the Argonauts.

Morris, who said the executive wished to remain anonymous until the weekend, admitted the surprise move resulted from an indignation meeting held at London last Friday when representatives of junior teams voted to withdraw from the O.R.F.U.

The withdrawal was prompted by what the teams felt was the league's poor manner of disposing of a junior playoff muddle of last autumn when Hamilton Wildcats were accused of using five overage players. London flatly disagreed to accede to an O.R.F.U. request to replay a game with Wildcats with the Hamilton team dropping over-age players — and quit the loop.

Morris, who attended the London meeting Friday, said the Scullers will sponsor a series with groupings in Windsor, London, St. Catharines, Kitchener and Toronto "and all others who wish to enter."

He said each grouping will be granted $150 by Argos and "we expect the Canadian Rugby Union will add $150 to each grouping to help the cause."

Barbara Ann Will Not Accept Ottawa Car

By The Canadian Press

Barbara Ann Scott yesterday said she won't accept the car given her as a tribute by Ottawa citizens last year when she won the world and European titles if it means losing her amateur status.

When told that Canadian citizens were wondering what she was going to do about the car and reminded that if she accepted it, it might mean dropping her amateur standing, she exclaimed: "Well, if it means that I am a professional if I take it, I guess I'll just give it a wave as I walk by."

Miss Scott is in London where she will give several exhibitions before returning home Sunday.

Oxford and Cambridge rowing eights are in final training for one of the biggest events of Britain's sport year—the "boat race".

The four-mile race is scheduled for March 27. Cambridge won last year's renewal by 10 lengths and the experts call the light-blue crew to repeat this season.

John Ahearne, general secretary of the British Ice Hockey Federation, yesterday announced a revised exhibition schedule for the R.C.A.F. Flyers to allow the Olympic hockey champions to sail for home by the end of the month. The schedule now calls for the Flyers to meet Wembley March 18 and Streatham March 20. The team then will play a series of games in Scotland before sailing.

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis will make a 10-day expense-paying tour of Europe and capitals, starting about March 28, to show his wife, Marva, the sights. Arrangements are expected to be completed in about a week.

Shortage of money is one of the main obstacles to a visit to Canada and the United States by Tommy Burns, Australian welterweight champion. Burns said in an interview at Sydney, Australia, yesterday that he would not go to North America unless a match was already arranged before he left Australia. Unless this was done he might have to live there for several months without a dollar income.

Middleweight champion Rockey Graziano finally has found a place to fight again. Barred in New York State and frowned upon by various sectors of the National Boxing Association, the Washington, D. C. Commission has granted him permission to meet George (Sonny) Horne of Valley Stream, N.Y., in a 10-round non-title fight there April 5.

It will be Graziano's first ring appearance since he won the title from Tony Zale in Chicago last July.

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds basketball team has entered the collegiate section of the Canadian Olympic basketball trials. U.B.C. will probably play University of Alberta for the right to meet Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The western winner will meet the eastern collegiate winner and the two senior champions in the Olympic tourney.

Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics talked about beer yesterday. Mack, a tee-totaler himself, conceded that maybe one beer was all right but added: "Order it with your meal, and don't be afraid to have it in front of me. A lot of players are afraid to drink in front of the manager, so they go to their rooms and have three or four beers—and that's bad."

John Mitchell Ronning, 27-year-old St. Paul skier died at Iron Mountain, Mich., last night from injuries suffered in the Pine Mountain ski jumping tournament Sunday. Ronning, a class "B" jumper, landed on his side during a leap and suffered fractured ribs. The attending physician said death was caused by lung collapse.

Elmer (Violent) Ray, No. 2 heavyweight contender, knocked out Willie Brown, New York City in two minutes 18 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round fight at Miami, Fla., last night. The veteran Ray, who twice met challenger Joe Walcott, pummelled Brown almost at will.

Three-Way Tie For Second Place

(By The Associated Press)

A virtual three-way tie for second place in the Northern Division of the United States Hockey League exists today.

Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul with 60, 59 and 58 points respectively trail the first place Minneapolis Millers who are well on top with 68.

Omaha scored a 4-2 victory over Minneapolis last night while St. Paul was knocking out Tulsa of the Southern Division 2-1.

Sam Forgie counted two for Omaha and T. Forgie made both Minneapolis scores.

Mitch Pechet scored the first St. Paul goal in the opening period and Mel Read scored the clincher after Tulsa knotted the count on Andy Chakowski's third period goal.

Kansas City is at Dallas tonight and Omaha will attempt to make it two victories in a row with a return game at Minneapolis.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Buddy O'Connor and Max Bently were both in action last night but the goalies had a hot evening as they blanked both of the National League's top marksmen when New York shaded Toronto 1-0 in the only league contest. Edgar Laprade, farther down in the scoring list, scored the lone goal for Rangers.

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 3 — (CP) — Manitoba curlers are generally recognized as the best in the Dominion. This state of affairs has been going on for a long time and bonspiel records would indicate the fact.

Nor is it surprising, according to H. L. (Brandon Sun) Crawford, who explains that nothing can keep a Manitoba curler away from a game. Not even blocked highways.

After all, there are always airplanes.

Crawford gives the story of Russ Richardson and his Brandon rink as an example. Last week they were playing in the Harding, Man., Bonspiel and reached the fours of the grand challenge event. Then a heavy snowfall shut off the road, making the 30-mile trip to and from Brandon impossible.

The Richardson rink was in Brandon when the road was blocked and for a while didn't know how to return to the 'spiel. Harding officials obligingly put off the semi-final games for a day, but couldn't extend the time any more.

Just when things looked darkest for the Brandon foursome a solution was found. They took to the air and flew to Harding, climaxing the trip by winning the grand challenge after the extra-end matches.

Clothes Make the Curler?

Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan would be the last man to deny that Crawford is right in talking about the excellence of Manitoba curlers. But Allan isn't completely happy.

Sartorially he feels that curlers from Manitoba are slipping. During the recent Dominion high School bonspiel in Winnipeg the Manitoba entry wore jumbo sweaters and felt hats. The other provinces, especially Saskatchewan, were dressed much more impressively, said the Tribune sports editor.

Nevertheless, it was the Manitoba rink that took the Canadian title among the collegians.

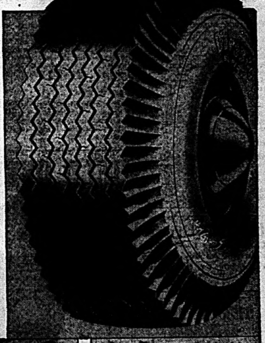
Firestone ORIGINATOR OF THE BALLOON TIRE
Introduces The NEW Super-Balloon
FEATURED BY LEADING CAR MANUFACTURERS ON THEIR 1948 MODELS

Here's the newest in tires to match the newest in cars!

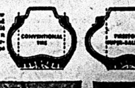
The new Firestone Super-Balloon is a revolutionary, new KIND of tire that gives you a revolutionary new KIND of ride.

PROVED PERFORMANCE
Exhaustive tests prove that with it you can drive more miles at higher speeds with less fatigue. You can stop more safely on any road in any weather . . . even with sudden stops on rough roads there is no chatter or wheel-bounce. This remarkable new tire absorbs the shock of hitting rocks, bumps and other objects instead of transmitting the shock to you and your car. It provides amazingly greater stability and enables your car to hug the road on curves.

MORE RIDING COMFORT
The new Firestone Super-Balloon is truly the tire of tomorrow, a wholly new sensation in restful riding, in non-skid safety, in blowout protection and in longer, more comfortable mileage. Many of the most famous automobile manufacturers will feature it on their 1948 models. And soon you will be able to put new Firestone Super-Balloons on your present car. Watch for them at your nearby Firestone Dealer or Store.



Cross sections show how more air volume and lower pressure permit greater flexing action when Firestone Super-Balloons go over bumps and rough roads.



LESS FATIGUE . . . LONGER COMFORTABLE MILEAGE
This tire takes the punishment instead of you and your car. It absorbs road shocks instead of transmitting them because the tire body is larger and holds more air at lower pressure. You can drive farther, faster and longer without becoming tired. Reduced vibration results in the quietest, smoothest, easiest ride you have ever experienced.

SAFER STOPPING . . . GREATER BLOWOUT PROTECTION
The combination of new Skid-Resisters molded into the tread and more area in contact with the road provide sure-footed stops and sure-footed starts on any road in any weather. The Safti-Sured Gum-Dipped cord body and cooler-running resulting from the larger volume of air at lower pressure provide the greatest protection against blowouts ever built into a tire.

KEEPS YOUR CAR YOUNG . . . SAVES YOU MONEY
By preventing road shocks from reaching your car, the Firestone Super-Balloon helps to keep the body, chassis and running gear as tight as new. Many of the irritating and annoying squeaks, rattles and vibrations which occur when parts become loosened by jiggling and jouncing are eliminated. There is less wear on the car, fewer repair bills, longer car life.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge is a game of comparative figures. What you gain is what your opponents lose. Rather than pay you more at your bid, the adept players prefer to lose less at their own bid.

Such a deliberate loss is known as a sacrifice bid. In its try, however, it may result in a bigger loss for them. By losing more in tricks than they expected. Or by driving you into a better bid.

We are concluding this deal:

NORTH
♠5
♥J 9 8 7 6
♦A
♣J 7 6 4 3 2

WEST	EAST
♠A K Q 9 8 6	♠J 7 3 2
♥4	♥2
♦7 6 2	♦K 8 5 4
♣A K 10	♣Q 9 8 5

SOUTH
♠10 4
♥A K Q 10 5 3
♦Q J 10 9 3
♣None

South opened with a heart. West doubled for a takeout. North hopped to four hearts. East passed. South reads 13 tricks in their pair. But he passes. Lack of aces makes him slam-mute.

However, west came in with an intended sacrifice bid of four spades. North passed. So did east. Rather than accept a small loss from opponents, south bid five hearts which he felt was safe.

West passed. So did north. East, however, bid five spades in the hopes that it was a worthwhile gesture. Being pushed, south took the bit in his teeth and went to the small slam bid of six hearts.

To west it looked as if his two black aces and two black kings could take at least two tricks. Figuring south was out on a limb, west doubled. Going whole hog or none, south redoubled.

The opening lead from west was spade king followed by club king. As you can see, the 12 needed tricks came in from cross ruffs; this is, trumping back and forth. Declarer never led trumps.

This was a heavy blow for the west-east pair. But it could have been worse. West might have started out with an opening lead of the club king. It is the lead that looked safest.

Had this been done, south could have ruffed the first trick. One round of trumps and both clubs and diamonds could have been established for 13 tricks. Surprises never cease.

The Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 3 (AP) — Two of the screen's ablest boogey men, Bela Lugosi and Lon Chaney are planning projects to satisfy the most eager of horror fans.

Both are currently scaring the wits out of Abbott and Costello in "A. and C. Meet Frankenstein," and Lugosi reports that U-I is mulling two subjects based on his "Dracula" portrayal. "There is enough material in the original novel for half a dozen pictures," the Hungarian actor told me.

Chaney is organizing his own producing company with Curt Siodmak top writer of gruesome scripts. They plan to create new characters "more horrible than any yet seen on the screen." I can hardly wait.

Too Contented

Alice Faye and Phil Harris made one of their rare public appearances at Kaye Kyser's 10th anniversary dinner. Alice, who looks more beautiful than ever, told me she can't get excited about returning to films. She's too contented with her home and family. "Besides, they don't make pictures as good as they used to," she said. The only picture which might induce her return would be "Burlesque," but that has been earmarked for Betty Grable . . .

Walking Man

Ralph Edwards is glowing about his "Walking Man" contest, which has already brought in $1,000,000 to the Heart Campaign. The fund's entire goal had been $800,000. Ralph expects another quarter-million to come in this week, which will probably end the contest.

Robert Montgomery is having trouble locating a leading lady for "Come Be My Love," which he will produce, direct and star in. "Roz Russell would be ideal," he says, "But she is too tall for the role." He may settle for an unknown, but don't count on it . . .

Back to B.C.

Alexis Smith will go home to take in the Penticton, B. C., peach festival March 18, after she finishes "One Last Fling" (that's a picture.) . . .

Hi-Y's In First Place Tie In Y House League

The Hi-Y Club moved into a tie for first place in the Y.M.C.A. house league last night when they defeated Pappas' Billiards in a low scoring game 25-19. They now share the top rung with the Knickerbockers who were idle last night. The Bullets ran wild over the Judeans in the second game, soundly trouncing them, 69-32. By virtue of their victory, the Bullets, won their first game and in so doing made no mistake about it.

The first game was not good basketball as both teams checked close and each took advantage of the breaks as they came. The result was a low score and if the game had lasted longer Pappas' may have come out on top as they pressed very hard in the last quarter. Half time score was 17-7 for the Hi-Y. For the winners Button was tops with 14 points, while Galbraith had five for the losers.

The Judeans went down to their third straight defeat in the second game played last night and have yet to hit the win column. It was a wide open affair with Lloyd Faulkner setting a new scoring mark for one game, getting 32 points. In the first half he had 18 as the Bullets led 35-22 at half time. Al Saunders began to find the basket in the last half equalling Faulkner with seven baskets for 14 points. All told Saunders got 21 points for the evening's work. Abe Tobe with 12 was the best for the losers.

Next week the Hi-Y tangles with the Knickerbockers in the first game and Judeans take on Pappas Billiards in the second.

Hi-Y — Countryman 2, Lockyer 5, Buchanan, Button 14, Massey, Summers 2, Cameron 2, Robbins. Total 25.

Pappas Billiards — Garrow 4, Wright 4, Miller 6, Pappas, Galbraith 5. Total 19.

Bullets — Faulkner 32, Lepore 10, Morris 2, Scrymgeour 4, Saunders 21. Total 69.

Judeans — A. Tobe 12, Z. Tobe 10, Marcus, Wiseman, Kelly 10. Total 32.

Earth Tremor Halts Traffic

Auckland, N.Z., March 3 (AP) —Railway officials on North Island reported today that an earth tremor between Te Kuiti and Ohakune last night stopped all rail traffic for two hours while officials inspected the line. A series of tremors have been noted in the area for the last 24 hours but no damage has been reported.

No Cause for Alarm Existed During Power Shortage

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—W. Ross Strike, second vice-chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario told delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association yesterday that no cause for alarm existed during the current power shortage.

Mr. Strike, resident of Bowmanville and past president of the organization, said the province was bothered with a seasonal problem that was aggravated by light rainfall last autumn.

The meeting of the Electric Association is being held in conjunction with the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities. A major item on the agenda is consideration of an Ontario government proposal to convert 25- cycle areas of the province to 60-cycle power.

Mr. Strike said materials had been exceedingly difficult to obtain during the war years and the post-war years and that "seasonal difficulties for a year or two" would continue to be a bother to Ontario consumers.

He was followed by R. L. Hearn General Manager and Chief Engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, who told the meeting the commission will "move forward with confidence and vigor" during the coming year. He said the budget for 1948 was also double the expenditure of 1947.

Projects already undertaken to expand the Hydro-Electric system—and those in the planning stage—amounted to $320,000,000 he said.

Need 6,000 Employees

The Commission will need 6,000 to 7,000 more employees to carry out its 1948 program, said the general manager. In 1947, number of employees increased from 9,000 to 13,000.

A. W. Manby, assistant general manager for administration, attributed the electricity shortage to the fact sub-normal rainfall in the central part of Canada had reduced the potential both in Quebec and Ontario.

He said his department was watching closely the breakup of ice in Lake Erie because ice floes could cause extreme damage at the dams.

Officers whose names will be proposed at today's sessions are: President, J. E. Teckoe, Jr., Galt; Vice President, J. C. Keith, Windsor; Directors elected from the membership at large, V. A. McKillop, London; R. S. Reynolds, Chatham, O. H. Scott, Belleville.

Others named are: Niagara district, E. M. Ashworth, Toronto; Georgian Bay district, R. Butter of Owen Sound; Central Ontario, Royal Quick, Brighton; Eastern, M. W. Rogers, Carleton Place; Northern, R. H. Martindale, Sudbury.

Hawkesbury Truck Driver Killed

Hawkesbury, Ont., March 3. (CP)—Rolland Chamillard, 23-year-old Hawkesbury truck driver, was killed and two of his companions were seriously injured when the truck they were driving careened off Highway 34 last night, struck a power pole and plunged a section of the town and nearby Vankleek Hill into darkness.

Passersby attempted to extricate the body and the two injured men but were hampered by the high voltage wires which looped about th ew recked vehicle.

The two injured, Charlie Laflamme of Vankleek Hill and James Pilon of L'Orignal were taken to a Hawkesbury Hospital for treatment.

AT THE CAPITOL — Kenny (Senator Claghorn) Delmar and the Missus — Una Merkel, seem to be looking on with a great deal of approval as Daughter Claghorn (June Lockhart) makes pretty unmistakable her feelings toward handsome Kenneth Farrell, in this scene from Eagle-Lion's comedy hit, "It's a Joke, Son!" a first Belleville showing hit opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Last of the Redmen," in Vitacolor starring Jon Hall and Michael O'Shea.

Point Anne

Adventure in Love

By Kathryn Bemis Wilson

CHAPTER 22

Mae was preparing to go out to lunch when Velma entered the shop. She paused in the act of pulling a late model velour hat over her henna waves.

"Why, Velma, you darling!" she exclaimed warmly. "Thank heaven, you're back! I've been lost without you! Twenty formals came from New York this morning. I've put in a few hats, too—to set off some stunning dressy coats. Oh, you'll be wild over—"

"Miss Forland," interrupted Velma, as pretty as a picture in a long mink coat. "I'm—not coming back. That is—not permenately."

Mae Forland's thin face went white. Her gray eyes were indignant. "Well, I must say, Velma—"

"I—you see, I don't have to support myself an longer."

"You've gotten married? But why didn't you give me an inkling of it? It leaves me in a tight place with—"

"I'm not married, Miss Forland. I've an income from my father's estate. Quite unexpected—but acceptable. I'll stay with you, of course, until you find some one else."

Miss Forland relaxed into a smile. "If you aren't the lucky girl! I'm so glad for you. I wouldn't work, either, if I didn't have to. I turned down an application this very morning from a good-looking girl because I thought you'd be back. Let's go phone her."

Velma followed Miss Forland to her office where her resignation was soon pleasantly adjusted. The good-looking girl would come to model in the morning and was delighted to get the position. Velma was now free to rush away to keep her appointment with Louise.

Prices at the Clayton grill were reasonable; consequently it was not fashionable. Velma knew that Louise would think she had suggested lunching here because of economy when, as a matter of fact, her income was now twice that of the Clark girls combined.

There were brief moments when it was slightly overwhelming and a little heady to think of all that this sudden affluence opened up to her, although as yet it had not made her hilariously happy. It was all because of this foolish thing called love.

Oh, why did she insist upon being in love? Insist! She smiled wryly. It had been unavoidable. Life surely had tricked her into love.

Louise in a black suit trimmed with ermine, enviously appraised Velma's rich mink coat as she laid it over the back of her chair. While seeming not to, Louise also admired Velma's knitted taupe frock, the saucy little mink cap perched on her bright curls.

They sat at a small table in a secluded corner where they could talk undisturbed. Louise was fidgetting with a menu card. "I'm not hungry," she whined. "What's this all about, anyway?"

"After we've ordered, I'll explain. Here comes the waiter."

Although Velma had breakfasted too recently to care about food now, she ordered mushroom soup, fruit salad, and coffee for two, because Louise was her guest and had sullenly refused to declare a preference for anything the grill offered.

The waiter hurried away and Velma ventured to say. "I suppose you and Tom are getting on well that you've been seeing him."

Louise sat moodily, chin in hand. Her gray eyes turned green. She snapped, "It's not exactly your concern, is it?"

"No—perhaps not," said Velma slowly, her gaze wavering down the clean, severly decorated grill room. "Only—if you're not doing so well with your—"

"I'm doing nicely, thank you," was Louise's sarcastic rejoiner. She fussed in her purse, took out a diamond-studded compact.

Velma clutched her hands together under the table. Already, she felt beaten by this girl's brazen confidence.

She blurted out, "But don't you see—if you're not—I mean, if you and Tom are only friends, why should you cling to an idea that won't lead anywhere?"

Louise stopped powdering her nose. She flared," Did you get me down here to sympathize with you? If so, you'll be mistaken in my reaction. I intend to marry a certain man—I haven't changed my mind."

"Even if he doesn't want you?"

"That's merely supposition on your part. If you interfere—"

"Louise—I'd like to make you a proposition. I know you have a nice income—but you're the kind of girl who can always use more money. If you will promise not to mention seeing Tom—that night in the alley—"Velma's voice faltered.

"You'll present me with the salary you make modeling?"

"If you'll let it be a fair war between you and me—let me see Tom now and then—let him chose between us—"

"When a man isn't at all interested in you," began Louise cuttingly, "I should think—"

"Perhaps. But if you'll agree to an equal chance between us, I'll give you a check now—for five thousand dollars."

Louise looked at her in amazement. "Where on earth would you get five thousand?" she asked scornfully.

"Let me worry about that."

"I couldn't think of agreeing to such a plan, "snapped Louise.

Velma suddenly thought of something that Tom had intimated that day at Bingham's Inn She dared to ask, "Louise—you weren't by any chance with Tom in the alley that night, were you?"

Louise half rose from her chair. "Well, of all the preposterous, insulting ideas! What are you trying to do? Get me to acknowledge something about the crime? Certainly, I wasn't there. I only saw Tom come out. Do you believe me?"

"Somehow I do," said Velma, more to herself than to her disturbed guest.

But Tom had said, "If Louise hadn't been in on it, we wouldn't have had the trouble."

He must have been speaking about Louise's interference in their love affairs. No man could trust Louise enough to let her in on a dangerous secret.

"If you'll do as I ask, I'll give you ten thousand," said Velma unsteadily.

Louise's eyes bulged, she was thoroughly alarmed. Could Velma have brooded over her lost lover until she'd gone out of her mind?

With breathless haste, Velma's trembling fingers dived into her handbag. I'll make you out a check."

Louise could find no words. She stared at Velma in dismay coupled with indecision. What did one do in cases like this?

Velma continued to fumble in her bag. She suddenly paled, and acknowledged, "I—I must have left my check-book in my room."

The thoroughly terrified Louise hastily got to her feet. "I'm sorry—you can—mail me the check.' Pausing for no reply, she nearly stumbled over her own feet in her haste to reach the street.

Velma looked after her in surprise. She wondered if, after all, Louise could be trusted. It was a shame that in her agitation to straighten out this muddled situation, she had forgotten to bring her check-book. If Louise only had waited, they could easily have gotten a blank check and closed this peculiar transaction.

It seemed for the moment that she had won over Louise. Ten thousand dollars had been too much for her to pass by. But could she place any confidence in such a girl? Loyalty had no place she had only been pretending. Velma was worried. Did she dare to see Tom? If she did see him before paying Louise, what would be the outcome? No, she wouldn't take the chance. She would mail Louise the check, get in touch with Tom afterward.

She tried to like the delicious soup the waiter had set before her, found she had no appetite, quickly paid for two lunches, and walked dizzily out of the grill.

It was beginning to snow as she went along the streets trying to plan her next best move in this intricate and delicate adventure in love. The cool white flakes, pelting against her hot cheeks, felt refreshing. She buttoned her wide fur collar around her throat and decided to walk back to the Y.W.C.A. After all, she wasn't in any too great a hurry to make out that check for Louise.

Yet she must see Tom. She must be free to talk to him. Tom must explain that Chicago trip. For all she knew, he was still there. Louise had told her nothing to the contrary. But what had Louise told her about Tom? Nothing. Did that signify that she hadn't seen him at all lately?

Barnardo Children Now Can be Adopted

London—(CP)— Dr. Barnardo's Homes — world-famous orphanages—are to allow their children to be adopted.

After years of resistance to this step, governors decided to lift the ban and register under the Adoption of Children Act.

The decision was taken following recommendations of a government-appointed commission and because of the present difficulties in housing the Homes' 7,000 children.

"Thousands of people have written offering to adopt orphans," an official said. "At present 2,400 of our children are boarded out with families on a payment basis."

British Columbia Rink Meets Major Test in Bonspiel

Calgary, Alta., March 3—(CP)—Theo D'Amour's powerful British Columbia quartet faces its major test today as it tangles with the undefeated Northern Ontario foursome in the fifth round of the Canadian curling championship.

Following the afternoon draw, British Columbia, also unbeaten, is scheduled to meet Manitoba—the only other rink with an unblemished record — in the sixth round tonight.

With the championship riding on every rock, the two games are expected to draw the majority of the gallery. Manitoba is not scheduled to meet Northern Ontario until the eighth draw Thursday afternoon, but will have stern opposition this afternoon against the Nova Scotia entry which has broken even in their four games so far. Northern Ontario's other match today is against Alberta, winners of only one game.

While the "big three's" contests will hold the major interest, the other three games on the afternoon draw will not be lacking supporters. New Brunswick, with two victories and two losses, is favored to climb another notch when it takes on the winless Prince Edward Island four. The Alberta - Quebec and Ontario - Saskatchewan matches are expected to be close. All four rinks have won only one of their four games played.

Other games in the night draw sees Ontario pitted against Quebec; Prince Edward Island against Saskatchewan and New Brunswick against Nova Scotia.

While the curlers were being feted at a banquet last night Chief Justice Thane Campbell of Charlottetown, P. E. I., trustee of the trophy awarded to the winner, announced that the Hamilton Thistle Club will be the site of next year's Dominion final. No date was set.

Two of the three unbeaten rinks were hard pressed before emerging victorious. Manitoba was squeezed to the 11th end before salting away a 12-9 decision over Quebec and British Columbia was forced to an extra end to down Saskatchewan 8-7. Northern Ontario duplicated Manitoba's score, but was never headed in its victory over Ontario.

George Sangster of Winnipeg Granite Club scored a five-ender on the 11th end to gain his margin of victory for Manitoba, after the scrappy Quebec crew, skipped by Gaston Amyot, tied the count on the 10th end.

Alberta gained its first triumph of the spiel when the Billy McLaws skipped quartet downed New Brunswick's Henry Hollies 12-9.

Nova Scotia's Gerry Glinz captured his second victory when he defeated Gerry Hayes of Prince Edward Island 13-9.

Cleveland Barons Within One Game Of Tying Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons today are within one game of tying the American Hockey League record for most games won without a loss set by Pittsburgh Hornets last year when Wasps waltzed through 19 straight games before tasting defeat.

The Barons last night boosted their undefeated string to 18 by edging Philadelphia Rockets 6-5. The triumph gave the red - hot Barons a three-point edge over Pittsburgh in the race for the western leadership.

At Hershey, the Bears moved a notch nearer the playoff territory by downing Springfield 6-1.

At St. Louis, Providence scored their first victory on St. Louis ice 6-3 and in so doing, clinched at least a tie for first place in the eastern section.

Tonight sees Providence at Buffalo, Springfield at Philadelphia and Cleveland at Pittsburgh.

N.H.L. President Says Evidence Warrants Expulsions Without Doubt As He Opens Gambling Investigation

Lansing Mich., March 3 (AP)—Armed with evidence turned over to him by Michigan authorities, a full-scale investigation into reported gambling in hockey was launched today by the National Hockey League President, Clarence S. Campbell.

He said players of two N.H.L. teams were implicated, with the indications, however, that the "gambling activities were of limited natures," the players were not named in the evidence.

But he added that "warrants expulsions without a doubt."

Campbell was given the confidential information by Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy of Detroit on orders of Governor Kim Sigler following a conference of state, Detroit and hockey officials here yesterday.

Campbell, following a private hasty examination of the material, said that it "does not indicate anything beyond what has already been described in the press."

He immediately arranged trips to Chicago, Boston and New York to "gather further information to support that which I have now received.

"As soon as I have my own investigation I will make a full announcement," he said.

He agreed to report his findings to Sigler next Monday, adding he reserved the right to make suspensions any time he felt justified.

Campbell said that "nothing implicates the Chicago Black Hawks." He would not amplify his statement.

The Governor gave Campbell permission to talk to James Tamer, a gambler and convicted bank robber who was returned to Southern Michigan prison last week as a parole violator.

The arrest of Tamer touched off the inquiry and brought to light charges that Hockey players had placed bets on games.

Toy said the evidence was obtained "by a new method which I would like to keep as a state secret. It was not an illegal method."

The Police Commissioner declared there was no recording of a tapped telephone conversation as had been reported.

Waterloo Midgets Up Two Goals On Collingwood

Collingwood, Ont., March 3 — (CP)—The Waterloo Midget "B" team took a two-goal lead in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget B semi-final playoffs here last night by defeating Collingwood 4-2. The return game in the goals-to-count series will be played at Waterloo Thursday.

The rugged tilt saw a goalies duel during the initial frame when neither team tallied. Just 30 seconds into the second period, Waterloo went into the lead on a marker by Hass on a pass from Bolduc. Four minutes later the Waterloo squad widened the gap and added another by Mader with Bolduc again assisting. Then Bolduc nicked his marker on a solo effort.

Collingwood broke into the score column late in the middle session by scoring twice within a minute of play. At the 18:50 mark Barrett took a pass from Dance and then one minute later Morrow completed a combination with Ivey to end the period at 3-2 for Waterloo.

The lone third-period marker came off the stick of Hass for his second goal of the game, this time unassisted.

Hass, Bolduc and Operele were the Waterloo mainstays while goalie Hudson played stellar hockey for the Collingwood crew.

Waterloo—Goal, Piatatowski; defence, Rutz, Raymond; centre, Operele; wings, Sealing, Barrett; subs, Hass, Bolduc, Touchwood, Allinsen, Schaffe, Mader.

Collingwood — Goal, Hudson; defence, Dai, Fryer; centre, Barrett; wings, Dance, Walmsley; subs, Hackett, Keith, Meek, Ogilvie Morrill, Ivey, Vrievson.

Leafs Lead Loop With Two Wins Over Weekend

Capturing a pair of contests during the week, Toronto Maple Leafs moved into first place in the N.H.L., two points ahead of the Detroit Red Wings. Leafs have 67 points to Detroit's 65.

New York Rangers are in the third slot with 50 points and Boston Bruins possess a seven-point margin over Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Blacks Howks for fourth place. Rangers have 50 points while Canadiens and Hawks have a total of 39 points each.

Max Bentley of Toronto gained one point on the N. H. L. scoring leader, Buddy O'Connor during the week. Bentley acquired one goal and two assists for a point total of 49, whereas O'Connor added one goal and one assist for a total of 53 points. This gives the slim New Yorker a four - point lead over Bentley, while this time a week ago he had a five - point edge.

Chicago Black Hawks' Bud Poile picked up five points and took over solo possession of 3rd place among the circuit's leading scorers with 48 points. Elmer Lach, Canadiens, and Doug Bentley, Chicago, are tied for fourth place with 48 points apiece.

Harry Lumley, Detroit's clever cage custodian, still leads in the race for the Vezina Trophy. Lumley has allowed 120 goals to be scored against him in 51 games for an average of 2.31 goals-against per game. He also leads all other netminders in shutouts with six. Bill Durnan of Canadiens is next with five. Toronto's Turk Broda has had 125 goals scored on him in 51 games for an average of 2.45 goals-against per game.

Bill Barilko, Toronto defenceman, has spent a total of 133 minutes in the penalty box and holds the dubious honor of the League's "bad man."

The leading goal - getter in the League is Ted Lindsay of Detroit who has fired 28 pucks into opposing teams' nets. Head man in accumulating assists is Buddy O'Connor with 30.

Fans Beginning To Show Interest In Game Outcomes

By The Canadian Press

With the amateur hockey title hunt field narrowing with playoffs in both major amateur groups in Ontario—the Ontario Hockey Association and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association—fans are beginning to show more interest in game outcomes of both leagues.

No games were played last night in the O.H.A. but three playoff tilts appeared in the N. O. H. A. In the senior loop the Sault Greyhounds went into a commanding two-game lead in their best of five semi-finals by defeating Sudbury Sacred Heart College 6-3, and North Bay Black Hawks trounced McIntyre Macmen 6-1 in the other best of five semi-final series for their second straight win. Copper Cliff Redmen took a two game lead in the best of seven junior finals by defeating Porcupine Combines 8-5.

The Sudbury Collegians had an edge in the first period with the period ending at 2-1. From there on the Sault crew took over and earned the three-goal victory margin.

Rangy Ron Lay paced the Greyhounds with three goals while Terry Biocchi, Husky Hodgson and Mayer each counted once. Gino Zuliani, Harry Pearce and Fats Rogers were the Sudbury marksmen.

North Bay Black Hawks continued to upset the predicters by taking their second straight game from the highly-rated McIntyre Macmen. For almost 50 minutes of the game play was close. After that the Hawks rapped in four goals to take the game well in hand.

Scoring was well distributed with Gene Labonne, Pete Palangio, Dave Morland, Ray Maisonneuve, Frank Ringler and Leo Marcellus all potting one goal. Big Alex Stewart scored the lone McIntyre marker in the middle frame.

Copper Cliff had much the better of the play over Porcupine Combines until midway through the third stanza when the Cliff crew began to coast and allowed the Porkies to nick three goals without a reply.

Here again, scoring was well proportioned as Bonhomme racked up two goals and Martel, Clements, McIver, Cuomo, Toppazzini and Burton one each for the winners. Domenico was the pick of the losers with three goals while Keefe and Campbell each had one.

TO ENJOY CONCERTS

London, March 2 (CP)—London citizens may be entertained by a series of band concerts next summer. A special city council committee report disclosed that $4,600 may be spent on a series of 25 concerts.

POLISH TREASURES

Others he named were "the man with a tumor behind his ear"— identified later as Joseph Polkowski, a legation employee before Communist domination of Poland — and Adam Zurowski, former first secretary.

Denies Allegation

Polkowski, quiet-spoken middle-aged architect accused by Dr. Fiderkiewicz of being "the man with a tumor" who used the password "Holy Virgin of Czestachowa" to get treasures from the Ottawa convent, denied the allegation.

Zurowski, the third man named by Dr. Fiderkiewicz, could not be traced at the time of the disappearance.

The treasures, chiefly tapestries made in the 16th century for the Royal Castle of Awel in Cracow, were spirited into France shortly after Germany invaded Poland in September, 1939. As France collapsed in June, 1940, they were transported to Britain and then to Canada.

Custodians at that time were Dr. Stanislaus Swierz-Zaleski, official keeper of the Cracow collection — and Polkowski.

In March and May, 1945, two treasure-laden trunks were removed to a downtown Ottawa bank, 24 to St. Anne de Beaupre and eight to the Ottawa convent. The two are still in the bank.

Accepted No Responsibility

When Dr. Fiderkiewicz told his story to Lester B. Pearson, undersecretary of state for external affairs, more than a year ago, the reply was that Canada accepted no responsibility because the Dominion never agreed to take charge of the treasures.

But the external affairs department said it would "consider whether any help could appropriately be given in this matter."

For months there was no development. Last October a Polish foreign official disclosed his government had formally asked Canada to turn the treasure mystery over to the R.C.M.P.

Lawyer Enters Picture

An unidentified Ottawa lawyer was reported about that time to have entered the picture as representative of persons who knew where the treasures were hidden. The lawyer, according to the Polish foreign office official, wished to reach some agreement with the Polish government.

The conditions:

1. That the treasures be put on exhibition in Canada and not be returned to Poland for five years. At the end of that time the question of their return would be reconsidered for final decision.

2. That the Polish government undertake that at no time the treasures be delivered to any other state.

The Pole added his government would not even discuss those conditions.

There the long, involved story stood until yesterday's disclosure that the treasures — apparently all 32 "missing" trunks — have been in a Quebec convent and now are in Quebec government hands.

DEVELOPMENT

Denies Statement

In the opening stages, Prime Minister Mackenzie King denied that he knew before the sailing of the Hong Kong expedition in October, 1941, that war was imminent in the Pacific.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said the government is considering what action to take with regard to the $1,400,000 remaining from the $12,000,000 Canadian credit extended to Czechoslovakia, site of a Communist coup last week.

Health Minister Martin said the question of whether new old age pension and national health insurance legislation will be introduced at this session is a matter of government policy which will be announced in due course.

As the Throne Speech debate continued, Mr. Hamel dealt with national unity and said that while the two main races in Canada had the same conception of this country, they did not give the same significance to Canadian citizenship.

Received Equal Rights

He held that the English-speaking minority received equal rights in Quebec but that French-speaking Canadians did not receive similar treatment in the other provinces.

Mr. Brown touched on the natural gas shortage in western Ontario and urged the government to appropriate money to expand the development of gas and oil resources and to investigate the possibilities of producing oil from coal. The United States government already was seeking oil and fuel substitutes.

Mr. Lockhart, calling for a government declaration on a national fuel policy, said that if the United States decided to shut off shipments of oil to Canada, this country would be "in an awful pickle."

Mr. Gibson urged the government to enlarge the increase recently announced in pensions on disabled veterans and widows by another $10,000,000 and called for a stronger defence of free enterprise against charges being made in the chamber by C.C.F. members.

Wants Chinese Admitted

Mr. Matthews protested that no families of naturalized Chinese have yet been allowed to come to Canada since parliament repealed the ban against them a year ago, and urged that steps now be taken to permit the entry of the families of non-naturalized Chinese.

Mr. Blanchette discussed the growth of Communism in Europe and said freedom-loving countries now found themselves in a "precarious" position and should avoid undermining constitutional authority. Canada should improve its living standards and embark on a program of economic and social security.

Mr. Knowles said the government should start a contributory Old Age Pension scheme which could be integrated in the Unemployment Insurance system, with contibutions starting at working age. This oroposal, however, should not include those persons who now are approaching pensionable age.

Mr. Grant said his province of Prince Edward Island never had been more prosperous and attributed this to the good administration of Liberal governments.

Ontario has no winter pastures...

Milk supply falls rapidly during Winter.

Lacking fresh, green pasture, using more energy to keep warm, cows yield least milk when you need it most. But your daily supply arrives as usual. Despite every difficulty of supply and transport your dairy ensures that you do not go short.

Very often at extra expense to your dairy, supplementary sources of supply are found, often from far afield. By sheer dogged determination the men engaged in milk distribution get the supplies through to you. They fight a way through snowbound country roads to pasteurizing and bottling plants, struggle through icy streets to your door. Fulfilling a duty in the spirit of service, these men, and the dairy of your choice, will not let you down.

Your milkman has a particularly hard time breaking his way through newly fallen snow and drifts to get your milk supply to you in time. Please clear a path to the milkbox to help him serve you and your neighbours more quickly and promptly.

Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary Saves Many Pheasants

Kingsville, Ont. — For fifty years the Jack Miner Sanctuary has been saving a breeding supply of pheasants. In the property Jack Miner had planted fifty-three thousand evergreen trees and in the fall the ring necks come from miles around to find shelter and food which is provided for them under the trees. The ground has been covered with ice and snow and all surface food could not be reached by the upland game birds, thus a greater influx of birds than ever has made their way to the Sanctuary. Last Saturday, an official census was taken and over five hundred were seen. To give a better estimate of the number, they have eaten ten bushel of ears of corn each day since early November.

In the evening they can be seen roosting in the evergreen trees all around the Jack Miner home, which is a natural environment for them because with a dog proof fence around the Jack Miner Estate, cats, dogs and foxes can not molest them and traps are kept set for certain species of hawks and owls that attack them. In the spring these pheasants wander out of the Sanctuary several miles and no more are seen within its borders of the refuge than in other parts of the county.

The place gives a great demonstration of how it saves a breeding supply of pheasants where they are given food and protection and the enemies controlled because Jack Miner used to always say, "I would rather see humanity have a pheasant for food as God intended, than to see them pulled to pieces alive by a hawk, owl or vermin."

Jack Miner was the first man to import, raise, propagate English Ring Neck Pheasants in Canada, which dates back to 1895, some fifty-three years ago. Although Jack Miner has been dead three years, yet by his effortr men are today benefiting from his pioneer work.

ALLEGED ANIMALS NEGLECTED TO DIE OF THIRST

Tillsonburg, March 2 (CP) — Alleged to have neglected 33 farm animals until they died of thirst, a North Norwich township farmer was charged today with cruelty.

An investigation was started when neighbors suspected something was amiss at the farm. Police said they found dead eight, cows, two calves, four horses, 14 pigs, four chickens and a goose valued at about $1,500.

Manufacture, Sale Of Bread Will Be Further Probed

Ottawa, March 3. (CP)—Midway through the second week of its examination into rising bread prices, the Commons Price Committee will inquire further today into the manufacture and sale of this household staple by the A. and P. Chain grocery firm.

An executive of the company, which bakes its own bread retailing at 10 cents, told the committee yesterday this loaf is the equal of any selling in Eastern Canada. Other bread retails up to 14 cents.

George W. Bird of Toronto, A. and P. Purchasing agent, gave this evidence in reply to questions by Health Minister Martin, committee chairman, concerning the difference in nutritional value between 10 and 14-cent loaves.

Mr. Bird's testimony indicated, however, that other bakers might not be able to make the same loaf and sell it through retailers for 10 cents.

Today's session— an afternoon one— is expected to bring from the Steering Committee an announcement on whether any action is proposed on the question of commercial rentals, to be decontrolled March 8.

Inquiry in this direction has been urged by William Irvine, C.C.F. committee member from Cariboo, on the claim that decontrol will send up rentals and thereby contribute further to the rise in commodity prices.

Yesterday, the committee inquired into competition in the baking industry and the effects of ownership of bakeries by flour-milling companies.

It was told by R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, executive secretary of the industry's National Council, that:

1. The industry was 100 per cent competitive and such a candition tended to drive down prices.
2. Ownership of bakeries by flour interests exercised no control over competition.
3. Independent bakeries generally were able to buy their flour more cheaply than those controlled by the millers, because they could shop around for their supplies.

Three Persons Injured in Crash

London, Ont., March 3. (CP) —Three persons were injured, two seriously, when a car crashed through the crossing gates and struck the rear of a westbound Canadian National passenger train at the Rectory Street crossing early today.

Miss Margaret Clark of (35 Hughest Street), St. Thomas, is in Victoria Hospital with a possible fractured pelvis, a severe leg laceration and suffering extensive shock.

Joh nDaley of (46 Elgin Street) St. Thomas, driver of the vehicle, suffered a possible fractured skull and lacerations to his head and face.

Thomas O'Neil, of Dorchester, escaped with facial lacerations.

A fourth passenger in the car, Miss Mary Ferrar, of London, Ont., was uninjured.

The car approached the crossing from the south, crashed through the crossing gates, crossed several sets of tracks, and hit the rear of the fast Montreal to Chicago passenger train. The vehicle was wrecked.

'Spiritual Quickening' Declared Need to Meet Moral, Religious Apathy

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—Of the 6,200,000 Canadians who profess adherence to Christian communions other than Roman Catholic, about 25 per cent are not under pastoral care of their churches, Dr. W. J. Gallagher, secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches, said in a report prepared for delivery today to the annual meeting of the United Church of Canada's Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

"It is evident that our evangelistic, educational and pastoral responsibilities are not being fully met," he said. "No doubt most of our people are decent people but juvenile delinquency, venereal disease, sexual indulgence, divorce, liquor consumption, gambling, crimes of violence and kindred problems have compelled us to recognize a serious decline in our moral and social life.

"We should not exaggerate the decline of these standards, but we should realize that to meet this situation we need good laws, social agencies, economic reforms and especially moral education and spiritual quickening."

A national youth survey made for the Canadian Youth Commission had shown that 58 per cent of Canadian youth said they usually attended church at least once a week. Five per cent said they never attended worship services.

Problems Faced

Rev. W. G. Berry of Regina, cited movement of rural population to cities as one of the problems faced by rural churches. He said three Alberta towns which five years ago had three ministers and three surrounding rural congregations now had only one ordained minister and no rural church work. He urged co-operative services among various churches and sects in rural areas.

Rev. E. H. Toye of Toronto, secretary of the Religious-Labor Foundation of Toronto, deplored racial prejudice. He described persecution of Jews as "one of the saddest chapters in human history" and said injustices against Negroes "stagger the imagination."

Mr. Berry yesterday presented a resolution criticizing burlesque, peep shows and gambling devices at provincial exhibitions and country fairs.

Another resolution urged that only ministers settled in a pastorate, or those doing regular supply work in a pastoral charge, solemnize marriages of divorced persons.

NEGRO ROBS BAR

New York March 3 (AP) — After downing his second drink of whisky, a Negro robbed a bar and its patrols of $200 last night paid for his drinks, then left in a taxicab.

The gunman paid the cab driver, too, police said. He tossed $2 double the fare, into the taxi after ordering the driver to stop in the East Bronx. Then he fled.

File Charges Against Henry Pu Yi

Peiping, March 3 (AP)— The procurator of the Hopeh Province High Court announced today filing of treason charge. against Henry Pu Yi, Japan-sponsored Puppet Emperor of Manchuria. Pu Yi is still in custody in Russia, however. He was taken prisoner when Soviet troops occupied Manchuria after Japan's surrender.

Rev. F. Lawson, Church Moderator To Face Charges

Sydney, N.S., March 3 (CP)—The Cape Breton presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada last night charged Rev. Frank Lawson, Moderator of the Halifax-Lunenberg presbytery, with "violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian Church."

Rev. H. B. McCurdy, who attended last night's quarterly meeting of the presbytery, said the charge laid against Mr. Lawson arose from "his denial of the virgin birth of our Lord, which is a violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian Church."

Mr. McCurdy said the charge would be dealt with by the General Assembly of the church in Toronto in June.

He said the charge was based on "documented evidence" from the Kitchener-Waterloo Record Rev. Gerald L. Stover of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago and a "Canadian Press dispatch which appeared in the press."

About a year ago Mr. Lawson laid a charge against Rev. Perry Rockwood of Truro, N.S., that the young Presbyterian minister had "made a definite attempt to split the Presbyterian church" and had preached "heresy."

Mr. Rockwood was found guilty by a church court of following "a divisive course" and later resigned from the Presbyterian church to start The People's Church in Truro.

Three Quebec Banks Robbed, One Bandit Shot

Montreal, March 3 (CP)—Two bandits, one wounded, were captured yesterday when they held up a bank at L'Ange Gardien, near Quebec City, where police had set a trap, while in Montreal police continued the search for two gunmen who abandoned a bullet-riddled automobile after staging two holdups within 55 minutes.

At L'Ange Gardien, 10 miles from Quebec City, police kept a two-day vigil following a tip that the bank would be robbed. After the pair entered the bank, police opened fire when one youth, B. Vezina, 20, refused to drop his gun.

The second bandit, P. F. Cauchon, surrendered without a fight and was booked in police cells while Vezina was taken to hospital in Quebec.

In Montreal, two other gunmen successfully held up the Banque Provinciale Du Canada at Boucherville, six miles from Montreal, and the Bank of Commerce at Chambly-Basin, 20 miles from Boucherville. Total loot was about $3,900.

The gunmen first went to the Boucherville bank where they locked two women employees in the vault and rifled the tills.

Fifty minutes later, while police cruisers were converging on the area, two men walked into the Chambly Bassin bank and forced the manager and two employees to line up against the wall. They escaped with the contents of the teller's cage.

Bank manager J. O. Galipeault, however, emptied his revolver at the moving auto.

Four bullet holes were found on the back of the car when police recovered it on a lonely road near St. Hyacinthe. The auto had been stolen in Montreal.

$100,000,000 For China Advised By Bullitt

Washington, March 2 (AP) — William C. Bullitt, former United States ambassador to Russia, advised Congress today to vote $100,000,000 for "imilitary supplies to China."

Bullitt testified to the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, considering the administration's request for $570,000,000 aid for China.

The administration's program contemplates only economic help for the Chinese.

Bullitt said:

"China is the key to the entire Far East. If our government should permit the Communists to take over China, it would have failed to bar the way to attack on our country by overwhelming masses of Stalin-driven slaves.

Ex-King Michael Says Abdication Forced Upon Him

Lunches With Royal Family At Buckingham Palace

London, March 4 (AP)— Former King Michael of Romania today said his abdication was forced upon him and he does not consider himself bound by it.

Michael sails Friday for the United States. He had lunch today with the Royal Family at Buckingham Palace, and then issued a statement saying:

"At the present moment it is no longer necessary to insist on the circumstances and causes of certain political events.

"The motives of the profound political changes imposed on the small states of Eastern Europe are already too well known.

"As far as Romania is concerned, I want to avail myself of the first possibility personally to confirm the facts as they happened.

"On the morning of Dec. 30, 1947, Mr. Petru Groza and Gheorghiu-Dej, members of the Romanian cabinet, presented to me the text of the act of abdication, urging me to sign it at once. Both of them came to the Royal Palace after it had been surrounded by armed detachments, informing me that they would hold me responsible for the bloodshed which will follow as a consequence of the instructions already issued by them in case I shall not sign within the time limit.

Act Imposed by Force

"This act was imposed to me by force, by a government installed and maintained in power by a foreign country, a government utterly unrepresentative of the will of the Romanian people.

"This government had violated international pledges binding them to respect the political freedom of the Romanian people, had falsified the elections and annihilated the democratic political leaders who enjoyed the confidence of the country.

"The removal of the monarchy constitutes a new act of violence in the policy of the enslavement of Romania. In these conditions I do not consider myself bound, in any way, by this act imposed upon me.

"With unshaken faith in our future, animated by the same devotion and will to work, I will continue to serve the Romanian people with which my destiny is inexorably bound."

The Foreign Office here said of Michael's statement:

"At the time he left the throne, we recalled that he had played a great part in helping to release Romania from the Fascist yoke.

"We also recalled that he was one of the rare recipients of the Soviet order of victory. That is still our only comment."

ARABS AMBUSH HAGANA PATROL, 17 JEWS KILLED

Trying to Penetrate Thru Hills to Lay Mines on the Highway

Jerusalem, March 4. (AP)—Arabs ambushed a Hagana patrol near Ramallah today and police said 17 Jewish militiamen were killed.

Arab sources said the patrol was trying to penetrate through the hills to lay mines on the highway when it encountered Arab defenders. A two-hour gunfight resulted. There was no estimate of Arab casualties.

Arabs said the Jewish patrol came from Kalandiya Settlement, which adjoins the airport where the advance party of the United Nations Commission charged with carrying out Holy Land partition landed yesterday.

British heavy guns roared out in the Holy Land during the night under the Britain's new policy of firing impartially on Jewish or Arab aggressors.

Two and six-inch guns were fired at Arabs attacking a Jewish quarry. No casualties were reported.

Three-inch mortar shells scattered an Arab patrol which had blown up a culvert between Jerusalem and Mount Scopus. One Arab was believed killed.

Jews Join British

Jews from the Hebrew University joined British troops in repulsing what appeared to be an Arab attack on Jewish positions in Jerusalem.

Hagana, the Jewish militia, said in a radio broadcast last night that British residents of Jerusalem had received leaflets supposedly distributed by the "British League of ex-servicemen" taking responsibility for the Ben Yehuda Street bombing here Feb. 22. Fifty-five Jews were killed in the blast, which Arabs say they set off.

The Stern gang, Jewish underground group, claims responsibility for blowing up a British troop train last Sunday killing 28 British soldiers, in retaliation for the Ben Yehuda Street incident. The stern gang also claims responsibility for yesterday's explosion at Haifa which killed 14 Arabs and wounded 27.

In London, the Earl of Cork and Orrery, retired admiral of the fleet, predicted a Russian airborne landing in Palestine after British troops withdraw.

He told the House of Lords during a foreign affairs debate last night that a large scale civil war between Arabs and Jews probably would follow the British departure unless an international police force were established.

Authorities Hold Hope for Recovery Of Pretty Waitress

Toronto, March 4 (CP) —Hospital authorities today held every hope for the recovery of 23-year-old Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, Sudbury-born waitress who underwent two major operations Tuesday after being shot in the head Monday night in a downtown restaurant.

Meantime Leslie Davidson, her 29-year-old former piano-playing partner in night club shows, awaits mental examination in the next few days, after being apprehended by police in a west-end club shortly after the shooting. He has been remanded until next Tuesday when he will face an attempted murder charge.

Mrs. Meredith was reported yesterday as having one chance in three to live, but today hospital authorities said her condition is much improved. She will be partially paralyzed.

It was learned from her brother Gordon Ashby that Mrs. Meredith was able to speak to her father Albert Ashby for a few minutes last night.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 4— (CP)—Synopsis: Generally clear and unseasonably cold weather prevails in most sections of Ontario this morning. Temperatures dropped to about 10 above over Southern Ontario during the night, and to as low as 30 below in parts of Northern Ontario. An extensive high pressure area of cold air centred over Northwestern Ontario is the cause of Ontario's weather. The high pressure area is expected to move through Northern Ontario into Quebec on Friday. Little change in weather throughout Ontario is expected for today and Friday.

HYDROCONVERSION PLAN UNOPPOSED AT CONVENTION

Members Want Report From Special Committee

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Representatives of Ontario municipalities yesterday in effect gave the "go ahead" signal for the Provincial Government's proposed standardization of Ontario hydro power at 60 cycles.

The projected changeover from the 25-cycle system in the Toronto area and the Niagara Peninsula was discussed at closing sessions of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association's annual convention. Meeting with the Association were delegates from the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities.

The principal resolution adopted asked for a report on the conversion plan for a special O. M. E. A. committee. It carried with the proviso that the Ontario Government obtain the Association's views before finally proceeding with the changeover.

Associated with the conversion project is a long-term power development program. Financial requirements of both during the next 15 years total $457,000,000. It was learned last night that engineers will proceed with plans to change to 60-cycle power half the generating facilities at the 500,000 horsepower Queenston-Chippewa plant at Niagara Falls.

Bertram Merson, vice-chairman of the Toronto Hydro-Electric System, told the gathering the estimated expenditure of $191,000,000 for power conversion should be carefully considered and the entire project studied.

CIO Packers Plan Strike in Chicago, AFL Stays on Job

Chicago, March 4. (AP) — The United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) yesterday announced that they would call a strike of 100,000 of their members in the United States starting March 16. The union is seeking to enforce demands for a 29-cents-an-hour wage increase.

The Packinghouse Workers' strike was directed against Armour and Company, Cudahy Packing Company, Swift and Company, Wilson and Company, John Morrell and Company, Hy-Grade Food Products Corporation and other independent companies throughout the country.

A strike would cut the country's consumer meat supply about in half, with the Eastern States feeling the pinch more than other sections, industry sources said. A shortage of fresh meat cuts would hit the average household within a few days after any work stoppage.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America (AFL) already have signed an agreement covering 40,000 packing plant workers. They were granted wage boosts of nine cents an hour with the right to reopen the wage question in June.

Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the AFL union, said his members are well satisfied with their contract and will remain on the job.

Provision for Civil Marriages Should be General, Says U.C. Board

Toronto, March 4 — (CP)— A request that provincial legislatures which have not already done so, make provision for civil marriages "to relieve ministers of any obligation to participate in marriage proceedings which are not in accordance with the teachings of the church" was passed to day at the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada.

Civil marriages were also favored by the board "to avoid the necessity of persons not desiring Christian marriage with its obligations participating in such vows and declarations as the church requires."

The board also urged all provincial governments to pass legislation requiring compulsory social investigation of divorce applicants where young children are involved. The custody of infant children would be determined by the judge and if neither parent is found to be fit custodian, the children should be committed to custody of an organized Children's Aid Society. The resolution further asked for the appointment of a proper officer whose duty it will be to protect the rights of children's custody as effectively as rights of property now are protected.

Another resolution urged that beneficial products of nuclear fission such as radioactive isotopes should be made available to all nations through the United Nations. They recommended further development of atomic research under civilian rather than military control.

The Board endorsed action of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies by opposing pari-mutuels at Ontario agricultural fairs.

It was reported that the United Church of Canada had send 55 tons of clothing and 100,000 of food to Britain and Europe in the last three months. Increasing amounts are going to Germany and France.

Labor Congress Tells Cabinet Canada Needs Social Security Program

Ottawa, March 4. (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress said today in a brief presented to the Cabinet that Canada has "urgent need" of a National Social Security program.

The T.L.C. said it favors Social Security legislation on a contributory basis covering all citizens regardless of income. The program should include, in addition to the existing unemployment Insurance plan, "a full and comprehensive health-insurance scheme, accident and hospitalization benefits, old-age pensions, mothers' and widows' allowances."

The Congress, whose annual submissions to the government were started 65 years ago, reiterated its desire for price controls, a national labor code, strengthening of the unemployment insurance act, "proper" old-age pensions, increases in income-tax exemptions and a "comprehensive" national housing scheme.

Recommendations

Other recommendations:

1. That immigration be the "exclusive responsibility" of government.
2. That the vote be given to all citizens over 18.
3. Prohibition of injunctions in labor disputes "at least until both sides have been given an opportunity of appearing and stating their side of the case."
4. A 40-hour work week for all employees under federal jurisdiction.
5. Maintenance of the CBC "as a government-owned utility with full control in the issuing of licences for the operation of all Canadian broadcasting stations."
6. Appointment of a parliamentary committee to examine and amend the Canada Shipping Act.

Progress Not Rapid

The brief, presented by a delegation headed by T. L. C. President Percy Bengough, noted that "one has to admit that progress has not been rapid" in the light of 65 years of requesting labor and social legislation.

"However, as a result of these annual presentations, a great deal of valuable legislation has been enacted to the benefit of the working people and to most Canadian citizens. For this reason we believe our interviews with governments are worthwhile . . ."

The Congress said it realizes the difficulties caused by the British North America Act in connection with an "all-embracing social security program."

Five Countries Begin Talks On Suggested Western Union To Stem Communist Expansion

Brussels, March 4 — (CP) — Five-power conference here on Western European union adjourned until tomorrow afternoon after an hour's meeting today to allow the British and French delegates to make a closer examination of a draft agreement submitted by the Benelux countries.

A communique said that examination of the draft of the Benelux countries — Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — "revealed wide agreement between the points of view of the five delegations on the questions of principle" it raised.

It was understood that the Benelux proposals for western union went far beyond the principles of the Dunkerque Treaty between Britain and France and of the inter-American Mutual Assistance Pact. Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian prime minister, opened the meeting at which Fernand Van Langenhove presided.

Advocate Close Agreement

The Benelux countries, it was learned, advocated a close regional agreement, provisions for which are contained in the United Nations Charter. The Benelux formula implied mutual assistance and peaceful settlement of all possible differences among the signatories.

Differences would presumably be referred to the international court at The Hague.

The brief meeting was held around a green-covered table in the Sal Vert (Green Hall) at the Foreign Affairs Ministry.

Spaak opened the conference formally, welcoming the delegates to Brussels, and said he hoped the discussions would result in successful conclusion of a five-power agreement.

They were called to study the idea of a treaty and alliance to stop the spread of Communist control.

The delegates were reported to have agreed to proceed with the meeting despite the absence of Gladwyn Jebb, second British delegate, delayed in London by bad weather.

Britain called the conference in line with Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for "consolidation of western Europe," made in the Commons Jan. 22. French officials said they "naturally" approved Bevin's pronouncement.

Experts from the other three governments said yesterday they had arrived at a common attitude for the conference. They did not say what it was.

U.S. Will Not Take Part

State Under-secretary Robert A. Lovett, meanwhile, told a Washington press conference the United States wants any western European union to be strictly European. He said the United States would not take part in the Brussels meeting.

Lord Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the Chamberlain government from 1938 to 1941, said in the House of Lords last night Britain should form "the closest union with the United States."

"What Stalin has done recently in Czechoslovakia," he said, "showed clearly that he would run the risk of a European war as recklessly as Hitler, were it not for the restraining factor of American strength."

Bevin did not propose a military union specifically in his speech. But a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said he had in mind such an alliance.

The Foreign Secretary said action was needed because the Russians were trying by "every means in their power to get Communist control of eastern Europe and, as it now appears, in the west as well."

Corporation Bonds Move Downward

By The Canadian Press

Corporation bonds moved downward for the second time this week and were lower at Toronto yesterday. Added to the drop Monday and to the sharper retreat late last year, the list averages about $4 lower than prices quoted in Mid-1947.

In tracing the decline of these fixed-interest securities, a close parallel is found in the price trend of government bonds. In each instance the drop in corporation bond prices followed similar action of government bonds. The net result is an upward pressure on interest rates and an added cost to industry.

Since corporation bonds originally were sold to bear a fixed rate of interest, the lower price now quoted raises the yield, returning more in interest to the investor. This, in turn, means that any bond issue floated now must offer a competitive yield or it will not find ready sale.

In other words, industry seeking funds for plant expansion, inventory addition or service improvement must be prepared to pay more for money borrowed and, also, must be prepared for profits reduced to the extent of the extra cost.

The weakness and general lack of activity on security markets today is a reflection of such unsettling influences.

On the market fronts, trends yesterday were irregular. New York reported its fourth successive session without an average decline although the gains were not very significant. Toronto and Montreal were mixed to slightly easier.

Commodity markets were erratic with gains at Chicago ranging widely to close a few cents lower.

JUST MISSED HOUSE

Brantford, March 4 (CP) — A Canadian National Railways box car on an eastbound freight train today jumped the tracks and missed by six feet a frame house where Mrs. Clarence Titus, two sons, and two relatives were sleeping.

Two members of the family believing the noise to be thunder paid no attention, and the family was not aware of its narrow escape until the return of Mr. Titus from work.

REQUESTS CANADA GIVE LEADERSHIP TO SMALL NATIONS

Foreign Policy Statement Demanded by Member

Ottawa, March 4 (CP)— Canyesterday to give leadership to ada was urged in the Commons the smaller nations and tell the world in a frank and courageous statement how she feels about the progressive advance of Communism across the borders of Europe.

The call came from 31-year-old E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) who drew a parallel between what is happening in Europe today and the upheavals that preceded the Second World War.

Referring to the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, he said that while other countries have issued strongly-worded statements that left no doubt as to where they stand and what they think, Canada appeared to be accepting what was going on behind the iron curtain.

He linked his plea for a foreign policy statement with a demand that the Dominion undertake, in co-operation with the Provinces, the building of a trans-Canada highway, and extend the provisions of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton's address highlighted the dying Throne Speech debate, expected to reach its conclusion today.

Other speakers were Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind L-Temiscata), E. C. McCullagh (CCF-Assiniboia) Dr. T. V. Grant (L-King's) and C. I. Stephenson (PC-Durham).

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent told the chamber he hoped to make a statement today on the case of the celebrated Polish art treasures.

Trade Minister Howe said the government is considering its reply to a quest from Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan for advice on complementary provincial legislation to facilitate the placing of oats and barley under the Canadian Wheat Board.

Look For Guidance

As the Throne Speech debate neared its end, Mr. Fulton traced the outbreak of the Second World War to the unwillingness of countries to make known their stand on the events which occurred between 1935 and 1939. Today, the smaller nations of the world were looking to this Dominion for guidance.

Czech Ex-Minister of Health Reported To Have Fled, Daughter Arrested

By A. I. GOLDBERG

Prague, March 4 (AP) —The Communist Press hinted today former Health Minister Adolf Prochazka, his wife and an anti-Communist student leader have fled Czechoslovakia, but mystery surrounded their whereabouts.

Milada, 19, the minister's daughter, is under arrest after an unsuccesful attempt to escape from the country.

Mlada Fronta a Communist newspaper, said the Prochazkas and student leader Emil Ransdorf escaped across the border. It was the first time the Communist press reported that Czechs were fleeing across the frontiers.

Rude Pravo, the official Communist newspaper, reported the Prochazkas "attempted" escape, but gave no details. Other unconfirmed reports said the three were captured or were across the border in the United States occupation zone of Germany.

The ministry of information announced President Eduard Benes is convalescing at his country home in Sezimovo Usti, southern Bohemia, and will not return to Prague this week, as scheduled.

Prochazka is one of the Ministers singled out by Communist Premier Klement Gottwald as "an agent of foreign reaction."

The information ministry has said nothing about the reported escape of the Prochazkas.

President Benes left Prague last Friday after swearing in the new Communist-dominated cabinet at a ceremony during which he told the ministers "the decision to accept you was difficult personally for me."

There was some evidence, meanwhile, that the new government was trying to rein in some of the Communist committees in almost every field of Czech life.

Alexej Cepicka, the Minister of Justice, warned that if the committees went beyond their original instructions to "purge reaction" huge economic losses might result.

There have been some private expression of dismay over the rush with which action committees have tossed out employees in some industries because of their politics.

Low-Cost Housing High On Agenda In Throne Speech

Government Will Review Provincial Taxation Fields

Toronto, March 4. (CP)—With government plans to take a hand in the low-cost housing field well up on the agenda, the Ontario Legislature today tackled the debate on the Throne Speech.

Thomas Pryde, newly-elected Progressive Conservative member for Huron, was scheduled to move the address in reply to the Speech, read to the 90-member House yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson.

Although not outlined in any detail, the proposal for legislation to encourage construction of low-cost housing in Ontario has stirred the most interest.

It highlighted a 4,800-word word speech which told of plans of Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government to review provincial-municipal taxation; develop such natural resources as mines and forests; assist gold mining communities; expand power-producing facilities and rural electrification, and extend the highway building program.

In regard to housing, the Speech said simply:

"Now that the increasing availability of essential supplies, for the first time, makes it possible for the provincial legislature to deal effectively with this matter, you will be called upon to consider measures designed to greatly increase the construction of low-cost accommodation in this province."

Form Not Known

Just what form the plan will take won't be known until legislation is introduced in the House, possibly next week.

The announcement suggests that the province will not go into the home construction business itself but that it might promote a building scheme among companies already working at it privately or even supply financial aid to individuals wishing to build.

Plane to Search For Tug in Floes

Halifax, March 4 — (CP)—An aircraft will take off today to search for the tug Grenadier which left Louisburg, N. S., early Tuesday to aid the British freighter Stuart Prince, R. C. A. F. officials reported here.

Although the Stuart Prince had arrived safely at Argentia, Nfld., yesterday after correcting engine trouble, no word had been heard from the tug for "some time."

The Grenadier reported late Tuesday night she had become stuck in ice floes within sight of the ship she had come to rescue.

HYDRO STATION TO COST TEN MILLIONS

London, March 4 — (CP)—The base of the first unit of the new Hydro-Electric Commission frequency - changer at nearby Pond Mills has been completed and the unit is scheduled to be in operation by fall. The complete station is expected to cost $10,000,000

Throne Speech Highlights

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Highlights of the Speech from the Throne in the Ontario Legislature yesterday:

Two Children Perish in Fire Near Ottawa

Ottawa, March 4 — (CP) — Trapped when flames swept their one-storey winterized cottage at nearby Westboro Beach, Johnny Hayes, aged two, and his younger brother, Tommy, died today before firemen could reach them. A third child, David, aged three, made his way to safety.

The blaze broke out while the mother, Mrs. George Hayes, was telephoning at a neighbor's. She suffered painful cuts and burns in a desperate but futile attempt to re-enter the building.

Grief-stricken, Mrs. Hayes said she had left the youngest child in its crib in the cottage and when she left, the two older boys were playing in the yard. When she returned, the building was ablaze.

The fire apparently started when a thin partition near a stove burst into flames without warning.

ST. MICHAEL'S PUPILS IN MUSIC ATTAIN HIGH STANDARDS

The following candidates who presented themselves for the mid-winter examinations of the Royal Conservatory of Music have received their results. The high standard of marks with which these progressive musicians are officially awarded from the Conservatory, bring much credit on the work accomplished at the studio.

Miss Sharon Lucy who tried her practical examination at the Conservatory Studio at Toronto, received an honor standing in her entrance to Grade VIII, as well as having passed her Grade III Harmony in the recent final tests.

Other students of Grade III Harmony also acquired an honor standing—Mary Dooley, Mary Domenico, Kathleen Morrell.

Grade II Theory Students—Helen Weston, first class honors; Carol Weston, first class honors, Joan Foley, first class honors.

Grade I Theory Students—Donna Cameron, honors; Verna Freeman.

REGINALD BISHOP WINS TOP HONORS AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Reginald Bishop, Wellington, copped top honors for the bass solo in the 21 or under class at the Kiwanis Music Festival in Toronto yesterday.

Under the tutelage of Miss Leona Riggs, he has had the equivalent of one season's lessons and is said to have a promising bass voice. The Music Festival is his first entry of the sort, and he is to be congratulated for such a fine prize-winning performance. The selection that he sang at the festival was "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride."

Most people will know Reginald Bishop from his appearance in the Kiwanis show "Pack Up Your Troubles" and local club meets.

GROUP ENTERTAINS 14 O.S.D. PUPILS

Members of the Victoria Ave Baptist Church Christian Fellowship group entertained 14 children who attend this church from the O.S.D. on Wednesday night. The children were transported to and from the school by members of the group. The children enjoyed the games provided for their amusement and also the several pictures that were exhibited. Dainty refreshments were served. Miss Jean Thompson, president of the group, presided and Miss Nurse of the O. S.D. teaching staff thanked the group for their kindness.

Mack Robertson Sells Creamery At Perth

Mr. Mack Robertson of this city who, for some years has been operating creameries at Belleville, Trenton and Perth, has sold his Land O'Lanark Creameries at Perth to Mr. John J. Finnegan of Perth, it has been announced.

The new owner of Land O'Lanark Creameries has been on Mr. Robertson's staff for 22 years as churn man at Bancroft, Belleville and Kingston and as manager at Napanee. He has been at Perth for the past 15 years. He is the son of John Finnegan who for many years was cheese maker at Marmora.

Land O'Lanark Creameries has a large production with output of butter averaging close to 750,000 pounds of butter per year. Reason for Mr. Robertson selling the unit was to lighten his business responsibilities so as to provide more leisure for himself.

N.H.L. President Carries Probe Inside Prison

Detroit, March 4 — (AP)—Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, today carried his probe of alleged player betting inside the walls of Southern Michigan prison at Jackson.

Accompanied by top Michigan penal authorities, he conferred at the prison with James (Rocco) Tamer, reported "go between" for at least two league players.

Tamer, a known gambler and convicted bank robber, was returned to the prison as a parole violator about two weeks ago. He had been in solitary confinement but Governor Kim Sigler gave Campbell permission to talk with him.

Campbell plans to go to Chicago, from where a member of Boston Bruins allegedly discussed a bet with Tamer in a telephone call to Detroit. One member of New York Rangers also is allegedly implicated in the betting reports.

President Weston Adams of the Bruins, meanwhile, called Campbell's refusal to disclose names or other details "mass torture."

MADE NEW HEAD OF ATOM-BOMB PROJECT

Announcement made by the office of the secretary of defence in Washington, D.C., disclosed that Colonel Kenneth D. Nichols, shown here, will succeed Lieut.-General Leslie R. Groves as chief of the armed forces special weapons project which developed the atomic bomb. General Groves' retirement became effective February 29.

Two Years Suspended Sentence Given Woman

Pleading guilty to a charge of arson, Mrs. Ellen Murray, Hillcrest (Stoney Lonesome) was given two years suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county police court this morning.

"There is no purpose served in imprisoning this unfortunate woman," the magistrate commented prior to passing sentence. He added a warning that "while her troubles had gotten the best of her, and I realize that her mentality is somewhat lower than normal. She must realize that she cannot do things that are designed to affect other people, or destroy property. The maximum sentences in cases like this is 15 years."

The charge arose out of the damaging by fire of the small house owned by Mrs. Murray and her husband, Frank, situated at Stoney Lonesome on Feb. 8th.

No witnesses were called. Inspector Frank Gardner, of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department, Toronto, in a resume of the facts pertaining to the case, told the court of the destitute condition of the Murray family of one infant and two children 8 and 11 years of age.

Depended on Neighbors

The family had depended on the generosity of the neighbors Inspector Gardner said, since the father and husband had gone to Toronto three weeks previous. On the day of the fire, they had loaned Mrs. Murray $10 for rail transportation to Toronto.

He explained to the court the condition of the home after the fire had been reduced by the Belleville Fire Department. "There had been a strong odor of coal-oil and windows had been covered with blankets and pieces of clothing," he stated. Fire had not broken out of the stove.

Due to the circumstances, his department did not wish to ask for severe punishment, the inspector said, but he felt that something should be done, in case other people got the same idea.

E. E. Follwell, representing the accused, told the court that the husband now had a steady job in Toronto, and that the Murray children were being cared for by friends in that city.

There was no evidence of trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Murray, he said. The property had been valued at $1,000, costing $900 to build.

Municipal Bd. Reserves Judgment Following Hearing on Application For Annexation Thurlow Property

Judgment was reserved here today by members of the Ontario Municipal Board following a public hearing on the application of the city of Belleville for annexation of Thurlow township property immediately to the east of the city.

The meeting was fairly largely attended by Thurlow township residents living in the proposed annexation area, many of whom objected to the annexation proceedings and made formal objections through their solicitor, Robt. McCulloch. Mr. McCulloch presented a petition bearing the names of 44 electors, representing 29 homes in the area. He stated there were approximately 56 homes in the proposed annexation area.

Cites Higher Taxation

In presenting the formal objection of his clients, Mr. McCulloch submitted that the benefits to be gained by residents of the area in being annexed to the city were largely elusory and would be far outweighed by the penalties of higher taxation.

He submitted that as a suburban area provincial police protection was sufficient and stated that the township had an agreement with the city which gave them fire protection through the city fire department.

Several residents in the area already were supplied with city water and in other areas had made their own arrangements through wells.

Several residents of the area already were supplied with city water and in other areas residents had made their own arrangements for water supply. This was also the case with respect to sewers. Some were already connected to city sewers having paid for the installation while others had installed septic tanks.

Says Future Costs Higher

He claimed that penalties of these residents being annexed to the city were considerable. He granted that the agreement for assessment to remain as at present for five years but noted residents would be called upon to pay the city tax rate which was substantially higher than in the township. When the five-year term was up residents would be faced with increased assessment as well as with increased rates.

With the laying of new streets, sidewalks and other services residents now in the area would find themselves bearing a substantial part of the cost.

Mr. Keon, veteran with four lots in the proposed Docter subdivision, asked that the five-year present assessment in the area be extended to 10 or 15 years, while another gentleman wanted to know what consideration would be given to residents who had paid for sewers being connected with city mains.

Objections Noted

On question from another gentleman, Municipal Board members noted that the meeting was to hear objections to annexation. The matter of industrial or residential area would be heard at a second public hearing.

Mrs. McLashon noted that their home was equipped with septic tank and also had running water. However, she had no garbage collection. She did not object to a possible factory area and felt that for the betterment of all the annexation should go forward.

A Bull Street resident claimed he had been opposed to annexation when as result of the map of the proposed annexation area being published in the newspaper it was noted that an industrial area was planned for near his home. Now that he had been assured the residential area would extend north of his locality he did not object. His present tax rate was 43.7 mills as compared with the 47 mills in the city. He felt city services would be worth the additional taxation.

Replies to Objections

In reply to objections to annexation, City Solicitor A. B. Collins stated he would like to correct impressions that the application for annexation was being made for the benefit of the city alone. Belleville was progressing, he said, and was becoming an industrial centre which meant wider markets for the area. This resulted in better living conditions for people residing in the district.

In addition better schools would undoubtedly be provided in the annexed area while there would also be fire protection.

Here Reeve Harry Harrison of Thurlow stated that at present there was no fire agreement between his township and the city. However, as a good will measure his township each year voted a grant to the city for fire protection services given.

Higher Taxes in Prospect

Mr. Harrison went on to say that although at present general tax rates in the township were lower than in the city, if the proposed area were not annexed to the city residents in the area would soon be faced with higher taxes than at present.

"Whether it is annexed or not the area will have to be serviced," he said. "There will have to be new schools and sewers and I doubt if the people can afford it."

Alderman Allin asked if there was no way which residents in the annexation area already connected with city sewers could be reimbursed for the services already installed. This was not answered by the board members.

350 Housing Applications

Mayor D. L. Storey in pointing out the need for additional housing submitted applications for 350 houses, while Mr. Collins referred to new industries locating in the city and the need of housing for employees.

R. S. Coulter, K.C., Board chairman, pointed out that suburban area not serviced with water, sewer and electric lights soon become slum areas. Speaking of schools he noted that education was dealt with as a whole whereas in rural areas each school section bears its own cost.

"If people build in suburban areas they must look forward to being serviced and to higher taxation," he said as he adjourned the hearing.

Municipal Board members attending the hearing included the chairman Mr. Coulter, and R. H. Yeates.

PREPARES FOR MORE TRIALS

Detroit, March 4 — (CP)—Dr. Henslee E. Tann, facing a 12½ to 25-year prison term for criminal assault of a 25-year-old Sarnia, Ont., woman last Jan. 21, today prepared for the first of two more trials. One is for allegedly obstructing justice and the other for an alleged illegal operation.

Although he has been acquitted on a charge of performing an illegal operation and another manslaughter charge, Dr. Tann admitted in the probation report that he had been performing such operations since 1945.

Tann said his 1945 gross income was $10,000 and $48,000 in 1946.

OBITUARY

JAMES EDWARD RICHARDS

James Edward Richards, 16 Wills Street, died in the Toronto General Hospital early Wednesday morning. He was ill for the past two months and was a patient in the hospital for five days.

Born in Montreal the late Mr. Richards was in his 52nd year and resided in this city for the past twenty years. He was a parishioner of St. Thomas' Church.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Louise Bolyea; nine daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Louise) Coon, Belleville; Mrs. Ray (Marie) Furmidge, Corbyville; Miss Gloria Richards, Miss Rachael Richards, Miss Betty Richards, Miss Beverley Richards, Miss Noreen Richards and Miss Linda Richards, all of Belleville, and one step-daughter, Miss June Budreau, Point Anne; three sons, Edward Richards, Norman Richards and Douglas Richards, all of Belleville.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. MARY E. GUNSOLUS

(Hazzard's Corners)

Madoc, March 4 (Special) — Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Gunsolus died at her home at Hazzard's Corners on Monday last after a lengthy illness. She was in her 86th year and was born at Hazzard's Corners and spent all her life there. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. William Kincaid. She was a member of the United Church and when age and health permitted she took part in the work of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Gunsolus was twice married, her first husband was W. F. Farrell and her last husband was Daniel Gunsolus.

Surviving are one step-daughter, Mrs. Ewart (Rae) Jones, Lindsay; two step-sons, Ross Farrell, Toronto and Foster Gunsolus, Madoc township; three brothers, Fred Kincaid, Toronto; James Kincaid and Archie Kincaid, both of Madoc township.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE JOHN GILBERT TURNER

The funeral of John Gilbert Turner, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Turner, 58½ Moira Street West, was held from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Wednesday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church.

Search in Canal For Two Bodies

Port Colborne, March 4. (CP) —Oliver Edwards, Welland Ship Canal diver, is making a search today of the old Welland Canal near Humberstone for the bodies of Mrs. Ella Rivett and James Hart, who have been missing since the automobile of William Rogers carried at least four persons to their deaths in the canal early Sunday.

Four bodies were recovered previously and it is known Mrs. Rivett and Hart were with the party late Saturday night.

The bottom of the old canal where the car crashed over a wall is strewn with debris and it is thought the two bodies may have been thrown from the car and caught fast.

IN MEMORIAM

LATTA—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Marian Latta, who passed away March 2nd, 1942.

There's a face that is haunting us ever,
There's a voice we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance
There's a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, dear,
And heartache, dear mother, for you.

Ever remembered by her sons, and daughters. M4

Relax Import Ban on Carrots

Ottawa, March 4 (CP) — To meet a growing shortage of carrots, the Prices Board today announced relaxation of the import ban against them and simultaneously set price ceilings on domestic and imported carrots at 10 cents a pound, effective March 5.

Imports, confined to carrots without tops, will be allowed in under temporary general permit after March 15, the statement said. The dual move will lower prices on domestic stocks and control the imported product.

Decision to relax the import ban follows the policy announced by Finance Minister Abbott last November that "supplies of basic foodstuffs will be augmented if shortages occur."

For purposes of pricing at wholesale and retail, two zones are established. Zone No. 1 is comprised of the southern and central areas of all provinces plus the island of Montreal, and zone No. 2, to be in the northern portions of all provinces plus the Maritimes.

The wholesalers' maximum selling price for carrots is seven cents a pound if his place of business is in zone 1 and 7¼ cents a pound in zone 2.

Maximum markup—or margin of profit—allowed a retailer who buys from a wholesale distributor must not exceed 30 per cent.

Marmora

Marmora Ties Norwood 6-6 In Final Opener

Marmora — (Special) — Ten minutes overtime failed to declare a winner in the opening game of the Trent Valley finals at Madoc on Wednesday evening between Marmora and Norwood, the final score being 6-6.

About eleven hundred fans witnessed a thrilling game on fairly good ice. Both teams exerted themselves to capture the opening goal. Over-eagerness kept the scoring down, when good openings were afforded both teams.

Both goalies, on the other hand, raised the cheers of their supporters in effecting some great saves. It was the first game for Marmora to play with a scoreless period.

Teams:

Norwood—Goal, Morrison; defence, Hamilton, R. Webb; centre, B. Webb; wings, Puffer, Payne; alternates, Brown, Wright, Fennell, Martin, Scott; spare goalie, Aldred.

Marmora — Goal, Koski; defence, G. Leonard, E. Leonard; centre, Cousins; wings, K. Trumble, Goodchild; alternates, Loveless, E. Trumble, McInroy, Forestell, Doyle; spare goalie, Brooks.

U.S. Farmer Takes Income Walloping In Recent Slash

By WILLIAM FERRIS

Chicago, March 4 —(AP)— The American farmer sending produce to market today finds he is getting a lower income from several important items than he did a year ago.

How the farmer's income took a walloping in the recent slash of market values was revealed in a comparison of prices yesterday with March 3, 1947. Such important items as wheat, hogs and cotton were lower.

The hog top at Chicago a year ago was $29.50 a hundred pounds. Yesterday the best price was $24.25.

Farmers are doing a little better with cattle. Good steers and yearlings which brought $21.00 to $24.00 at South St. Paul, Min., a year ago now are bringing $23.50 to $26.30.

But sheep prices are lower. Good and choice native and fed wooled western lambs were worth $24.00 to $24.40 at East St. Louis a year ago. Yesterday they brought around $22.00.

These prices are typical. The same variations with 1947 apply in all livestock markets.

But the feed grains — corn and oats — are much higher than last March. However, this is not as much a help to farmer income as it might appear. He hasn't much feed grains — a result of last year's short corn crop.

Big Revenue From Tax On Beverages, Tobacco

Ottawa, March 4 (CP)— Excise and customs levies on liquors, tobacco, soft drinks and aerated beverages during the 1946-47 fiscal year amounted to $328,139,287, the government said in a return tabled in the commons yesterday.

EVADED $86,114 TAES

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Charles Crompton Jones, sole proprietor of Jones Bros., paper dealers, yesterday pleaded guilty to 11 charges of evasion of income and excess profits taxes amounting to $86,114 in the period 1942-46. Magistrate T. S. Elmore reserved decision as to penalty.

Bancroft

Trappers Take One-Game Lead In Hockey Finals

Trappers Vanquish Rovers

Bancroft—The Bancroft Trappers continued their winning ways in the final playoffs for the N.H.L. championship over their village rivals when they subdued the Bancroft Rovers to the tune of 6-3. This was the first of the best of three series, the Rovers having ousted the Apsley Aces and earned the right to move into the final series against the leading Trappers.

The game was but a minute old when from a faceoff in the Rover territory E. Brough centred one to Kavanagh in front of the net and a hard back-hand found the goal behind O'Shaughnessy. Seconds later Kavanagh again potted one to make the count two to nothing. Norm Brough added two in a row for the Trappers and brother Elwood closed the scoring with another counter later in the period without a tally by the Rovers.

However, as the second session opened and down five goals the Rovers battled gamely and held the Trappers scoreless. The Rovers dominated the play in a scoring way, B. Maxwell notching the only goal of the period, half way through on a pass from Moxam.

The third period seemed not so rough as the first two sessions although neither team gave an inch as the play was just that rugged. Bruce and Fox notched counters for the Rovers while N. Brough also garnered one for the Trappers—his third of the evening. The game was typical playoff hockey all the way, the first two periods were exceedingly rough and both teams were fighting desperately for victory. The Trappers had a decided edge over the Rovers in the first period but found themselves out-scored by single goals in the next two frames. Fans and players alike are looking forward with interest to the next meeting of these two teams. McAlpine. Conlin, Bruce, Delyea, E. Brough and Carpenter all spent two-minute sessions in the sin-bin. The game was capably handled by B. Lehigh and D. Sinclair.

Lineups:

Bancroft Rovers: Goal T. O'Shaughnessy; defence, Watson and Collin; forwards, Vance, McAlpine, Fox; subs, Stringer, B. Maxwlel, Moxam, J. O'Shaughnessy, Delyea, Bruce.

Bancroft Trappers: Goal, McGhee; defence, Flagler and E. Carpenter; forwards, N. Brough, E. Brough, Kavanagh; subs, Adams, Whyte, Walton, J. Maxwell and Crawford.

Stirling

Close Games Feature Rural League Playoffs

Stirling, (Special.)—On Wednesday night two games were played here in the local arena with Bethel-Zion shutting out Glen Ross from the final play-off games by a score of 4-3. The game got under way as scheduled with Bethel-Zion taking the lead from a goal scored by Ted Ray in the first period. Three goals were scored in the second period, first by Ted Ray, second by Jack Clarke, third by Gerald Tummon giving Bethel-Zion a lead of 4-1 at the end of second period.

Douglas Pyear of Glen Ross, scored a goal in second perod, Ray Rose and Douglas Pyear scoring in the third period which brought the score to a 4-3 victory for Bethel-Zion.

Corbyville and West Huntingdon battled it out in the second game and left the arena with a tie game to their credit and a score of 3-3.

Charles Wright scored the first goal for West Huntingdon in the first period, Seymour Ashley scored one in the second period with Charles Wright scoring again in the third. Carl Thompson scored the first goal for Corbyville in the second period with C. Sheffield scoring two goals, one in the second and one in the third and "Doc" Empson giving both assists to Sheffield.

Corbyville—Goal, Don Bates; defence, B. Bleekman, C. Thompson; centre, C. Sheffield; left wing, H. Hart; right wing, Douglas Martin. Subs—P. Shannon, O. Glass, D. Eves, H. Ketcheson, "Doc" Empson.

Both games were played with much interest but the latter giving the most excitement to a good crowd of spectators.

Page of History Turned

A page in history was turned recently when the last of the British troops left India and so ended an era in that great land to which for generations the world has been accustomed — that in which Britain and her soldiers guarded this great subcontinent. Now the world is witnessing a new age in India, the course of which cannot of course be foretold as only time can reveal what is in the process of making.

For India Britain has done a service the like of which no other age in history has enjoyed. India realizes what Britain has meant to her. The British soldiers on their departure were bidden a cordial farewell and native regiments paraded in salute to the men of Britain. What the history of India might have been without Britain in control, will never be known, but British rule has brought to India at last the opportunity to the two new states of India and Pakistan to play their role in their development in the East. Britain has given protection and training toward democracy and her influences will show in the fabric of these two developing new Commonwealths. The long associations with the British Empire cannot but leave abiding influences on the future of the new states.

Snow Removal

To see the snowloader in action clearing Front Street was a happy experience of citizens and to enjoy the warmth of Wednesday's bright sun was another as it made little rivulets on walks and melted appreciably the volume of snow left by the latest fall.

March was forestalled by cold weather and snow in the dying days of February and herself put on a rather springlike and mild entry. Then she turned about and sent a fifteen-and-a-half-inch snowfall, which fortunately did not bear out entirely the forecasts as freezing rain did not fall nor did rain come. Yesterday's mild spell was an encouragement for those who long have looked for such a day and have gone through a winter of considerably more severity than in other recent winter seasons.

Now the stakes are against winter, which despite its evidences now and then of strength is doomed to dwindle and melt away before the blaze of the sun.

Two weeks hence officially spring will be very near, almost at the door. What the winter will do in the interim forecasts will tell. There may be snow even in the lap of spring but official winter will by that time have gone leaving a few straggling traces of a hardy season. Days are lengthening and nights are shrinking. Soon the night and the day will be matched in equal strength, with sunlight gaining day by day.

As far as the clearance of snow has been concerned this winter, the city in general has fared well. The age of mechanism has demonstrated its power to do mighty acts. Plows sweeping up and down streets, jeeps, with plows cutting a wide swath through the banks of snow on the walks made driving and walking rather better than usual. Last year the winter got in a blow early in the season with a combination of snow and rain, followed by cold as a consequence of which there was considerable difficulty in getting about, but this year there has been a lack of such combined operations on the part of the weather and so removal of the snow as desired has been achieved.

British Overseas Trade

British exports in 1947 rose 8 per cent over 1938. Compared with the target set for June this year — 140 per cent above pre-war — this might seem only a moderate improvement. But it is indicated that this 8 per cent rise is an average for the entire year and takes into account the setbacks of the British fuel crisis of a year ago. In the first and second quarters of 1947, Britain's exports barely topped the pre-war figure. By the end of the third quarter they had risen to 114 per cent and in the fourth to 117 per cent above 1938. In December the volume of exports rose to 20 per cent above the pre-war figure and half way to the mid-1948 target. On a daily basis the December exports were the highest so far recorded.

All classes of exports shared in the $32,000,000 increase in export in December.

Britain's six leading groups last year were machinery, vehicles, iron and steel, followed by cotton, chemicals and wool. One of the most remarkable was the expansion in metal goods which accounted for no less than 48 per cent of her total exports.

In value the 1947 exports were $4,458,000,000, the highest on record. This record figure was outmatched by that for the year's imports which amounted to $7,150,000,000. Taking into account Britain's re-exports at just over $236,000,000 her adverse trade balance for the year was $2,364,000,000 compared with $1,344,400,000 in 1946.

One of the two main objectives of Britain's export drive is to wipe out such a general deficit by means of increased exports and reduced imports. Even if this is achieved it will not cover Britain's dollar deficit. So increased dollar earnings is the other objective of the export drive, aiming at an expansion of at least fifty per cent.

Lady or Tiger?

We are tired of the traditional insistence that March must come in like a lion (or a lamb) and go out like a lamb (or a lion). Let the lion lie down beside the lamb in that faraway field where dispirited cliches retire to browse, while we rephrase the adage in terms of a burning question from earlier American fiction.

The lady or the tiger? No one who has left the tigerish tooth of March or sunned himself in her melting glances can doubt that the question is apposite. Some may question whether she is a nice lady—either when picking her rather slatternly way through puddles or pitching into her housecleaning duties with a rather rude energy. Some may question whether March is a bad tiger — either when playing the frolicsome, obstreperous cub or the seedy veteran snarling over winter's vanished joys, says Christian Science Monitor, which goes on to say:

"'Be that as it may, March — like a world in transition — suggests now a lady, now a tiger. The weather — like the political climate — is ambivalent. Shall we bow or shall we shoot on sight?"

SCIENTIFIC PROTECTION

It is surprising that science, with all its ingenuity, has not stepped in to devise some sort of protection against the crippling menace of the endless handshake. A robot hand, for instance, that would function while the personage stood nearby. Or a jiu-jitsu trick that would leave the skilled handshaker unscathed with his well-wisher bearing the impact of his own too-eager strength. — Ottawa Journal.

They have to be. Otherwise how could they work so hard to maintain their families, pay the rent, grocery, and doctor bills, and not be driven crazy by the noise of the kids? — Windsor Star.

WOOD STOVE DAYS

There was something in the kitchen of days of long ago
Which the children of the cities are not privileged to know.
'Twas a wood stove, warm and glowing, and the tasks for it were twin:
I carried out the ashes and the wood I carried in.

On baking days my mother (there are times I hear her still)
Said: "Remember, in the morning there's the wood box you must fill."
Then from shed unto the kitchen with arms loaded I would dash
Till my coat was full of splinters and my hair was full of ash.

In the kitchen now are gadgets and the stoves are lovely things,
But the children very seldom hear the song the kettle sings.
On the ovens, for the mothers, are thermometers and clocks,
But since wood is never wanted there's no longer any box.

Is the modern way the better? Well, it's easier, I'd say,
But I'm sure a joy was taken from the youngsters of today,
For they'll never fill a wood box, never see a wood stove glow,
And they'll never have such memories as now are mine to know.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Allen have returned home after spending part of the winter in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rathbun, Carrying Place, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hinchey, Church Street.

Mr. J. B. Brintnell has returned home after spending part of the winter at Miami, Florida.

Mrs. J. Nunn and family, who have been visiting friends in Chicago, Ill., are now visiting friends in Colborne, prior to returning to their home here.

40 YEARS AGO

March 4th., 1908

A large audience was present at the Carman Opera House last evening, the occasion being the grand military concert under the auspices of the bugle band in connection with the 15th. Regiment. The program presented several enjoyable features, not the least of which was the music of the Chalaupka augmented orchestra which gave two selections in an exceedingly fine manner. There were acts by the members of the bugle band with plenty of volume. A pleasing feature was the girl buglers and drummers who showed fair skill and looked very fetching in their natty suits. Parallel bar stunts were neatly done by W. Symons, W. Zufelt, H. McCoy and R. Wallace. The Rube Band gave some entertainment and certainly made enough noise. Sergt. Lynn swung clubs in an expert manner. The second part opened with a school scene which was entertaining. An enjoyable feature was a vocal solo, "The Grand Old Flag", by Lieut. Vincent Doyle, assisted by a chorus. A tableau, "The Defence of the Colors", closed the entertainment.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED

By GEORGE W. STIMPSON

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who was the first President to receive on honorary college degree?

The practice of conferring honorary degrees on Presidents started with George Washington, who never went to college.

Harvard University conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on General Washington soon after the evacuation of Boston by the British in 1776. In 1781, just before Yorktown, the same honor was conferred on him by Yale University, and the University of Pennsylvania did likewise in 1783.

An Academy at Chestertown, Maryland, was raised to college rank and named Washington College with the General's consent. He headed the subscribers to the new college, which, in 1789, conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws, which President Washington acknowledged with a formal letter. Brown University made him a Doctor of Laws in 1790.

Washington was a trustee of the Academy at Alexandria and in 1788, the year he was chosen President, he was selected chancellor of William and Mary College. He financed a number of young men through college.

In 1784 the Virginia Legislature chartered the James River Company for building canals and the next year awarded $50,000 of its securities to Washington in recognition of his services to the project. Washington refused to accept the gift for his personal benefit but agreed to hold it in trust for a worthy purpose and asked the Legislature to designate a recipient. The Legislature suggested an institution of learning in the "upper country." Accordingly in 1790, when the securities had begun to pay dividends, Washington gave the securities to Liberty Hall Academy at Lexington, now Washington and Lee University. The James River Company evolved into the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company and the securities presented by Washington eventually brought the school considerable income.

Honorary degrees were declined by at least two of the Presidents who did not go to college. In 1885 Oxford University offered the degree of Doctor of Civil Law to Ex-President Millard Fillmore, who declined it on the ground that he had no literary or scientific attainments to justify the honor. At the time of its 250th anniversary in 1886, Harvard University offered President Cleveland a degree, which he turned down because he thought he was not scholar enough for the distinction.

Herbert Hoover leads all the Presidents in the number of such honors. He has received more than 50 honorary degrees from institutions of higher learning throughout the world.

DWELLING BURNED ON HATCH FARM

Toronto, March 4 — (CP)—Fire last night destroyed a two-storey dwelling on the Herbert Hatch farm at nearby Maple but the flames did not reach the farm's stables, reputed to contain some of the most valuable trotting horses in the country. Two families occupying the house reached safety.

Add two teaspoons of left-over coffee to chocolate frosting and use it on cinnamon for a real treat.

LOW-COST

The home-construction intentions tie in with the announcement in the Throne Speech concerning immigration. The air-immigration plan instituted in 1947 would be continued this year.

Other plans outlined in the speech are to establish a permanent research council; apply the pending Dominion Labor Code to Ontario; increase school grants; help out mining communities with such measures as thorough geological surveys, and co-ordinate public assistance administered by the province and municipalities.

Dominion-Provincial relations were discussed in the Speech and it regretted that the federal government had held by its refusal to reconvene the Dominion-Provincial conference.

Will Wait No Longer

The province would wait no longer for any break in the stalemate, the Speech said, but would go ahead with a review of provincial taxation fields. The idea would be to rearrange taxation so that municipalities would have more sources of revenue, thus relieving the province of having to supply grants as large as at present.

On the matter of hydro expansion, the legislature will be called upon to approve the change over from 25 to 60-cycle power in Southern Ontario. Other points in the program are the introduction of steam generation in a general power increase development to cost "several hundred million dollars," and rural electrification for an added 30,000 consumers in 1948. Rural power installations would involve construction of 3,400 miles of new line and would bring to 226,500 consumers the number supplied in rural districts.

Marked by Ceremonial

The session opening was marked by ceremonial touches reminiscent of pre-war years when the legislature on this day was a style as well as governmental centre.

The Lieutenant-Governor, resplendent in his navy blue and heavily-gold-trimmed uniform with the ostrich-plumed head dress, and Mrs. Lawson, in a long turquoise gown, were escorted into the plush chamber by a guard of honor comprising the three services.

A five-jeep escort brought them to Queen's Park and a 21-gun artillery salute marked their arrival.

Other Throne Speech announcements included:

Highways

The government plans to surpass last year's spending on highway improvement. It will proceed with surfacing of gravel roads and, where necessary, reconstruction of depreciated pavements. It proposes to proceed with relocation of Highway 11 from Severn Bridge to Gravenhurst, and at South River, and to continue work on mining. Roads southwest of Timmins and between Matachewan and Swastika.

Labor

The labor code at present before the Federal parliament will be considered for adoption as the code for all Ontario industry not subject to federal jurisdiction. More than 2,000 civilian apprentices will be admitted to various trades this year.

Lands And Forests

A new type of bush aircraft has been developed and several will be placed in service this spring to provide better fire protection and resources management. Work will continue on hatchery renovation, pheasant breeding, training of licensed guides, fish culture, various aspects of fish and wild life management, forest soils and regeneration surveys. The province-wide inventory of forest resources will also continue.

Public Works

Prior attention will be given to works relating to development and protection of natural resources, to accommodation for care of the sick and other provincial charges; as well as to extension of facilities for police protection in northern districts and for improvement of the tourist trade generally.

Commissions

Suggestions of the forestry and milk reports will be placed before the Legislature for action.

REQUESTS CANADA

He also expressed regret that Canada had withdrawn her occupation troops from Germany and said they would have provided a "window" through which Canada could have watched European developments.

Mr. Pouliot objected to the action Tuesday night of two British Columbia members — George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) and James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North)—in attempting to "howl down" a member, J. I. Hamel (BP-St. Maurice-La-Fleche), who was speaking in French.

(The two members had protested that Speaker Gaspard Fauteux was not enforcing the rule against the reading of speeches.)

Mr. Pouliot said he was not accustomed to such tactics by Liberals. Freedom of speech was the cornerstone of the constitution.

Mr. McCullagh urged the government to ring down a national labor code, embodying the principle of collective bargaining, and criticized the administration for not retaining ownership of war plants which could be used to manufacture fertilizer at prices within the reach of farmers.

Mr. Stevenson said there was no reason why Canada should have a population of only 12,000,000 when the United States could accommodate 145,000,000 and demanded a firm government policy on immigration which would help people the country's empty spaces.

Dr. Grant asked abolition of the eight-per-cent sales tax and the 25-per-cent excise tax. If these two taxes were eliminated, it would be a move towards the reduction of living costs.

Need Men of Vision

C. E. Stephenson (PC-Durham) said Canada had come to a period when all vision was lost and the development of natural resources was ignored.

The Fathers of Confederation had seen greater things for Canada when they opened up the country by the building of canals and railroads. There was no reason why Canada should have only a population of 12,000,000 when the United States had 145,000,000.

Canada needed men of greater vision. She had many frontiers yet to be explored.

"It is time the government took off its political glasses so it could see Canada's possibilities in their true light," he said.

One reason for the small population was the lack of governmental policy on immigration. There were no tradesmen on farm labor. The country was not getting the production it should have.

CROSS THAT BRIDGE WHEN YOU GET THERE

When does a woman grow old?

For that matter when does anybody?

Mrs. M. L. C. says she will be 43 years old in March. She has a son aged five years and is expected ing another baby, but, alas, her friends and relatives (relatives, perhaps, but not friends, I'd say) are telling her she is very foolish to have a baby at her age and forecast all sorts of dire complications for her and the baby. They declare oracularly that most women over forty who bear a child become invalids if they survive the ordeal at all . . .

Is it just ignorance or is it woman's inhumanity to woman that inspires such "friends" to harass the prospective mother like that? Probably both. Certainly American women, including graduates of high school and college, are ignorant, uneducated or shamefully misinformed concerning sex hygiene and physiology, conception, pregnancy, reproduction, childbirth and care of the baby—as ignorant, uneducated and shamefully mininformed as are American men. Isn't it time that the schools, the common schools throw off the cloak of refinement and hypocrisy and begin teaching cihildren God's tru begin teaching children God's truth about life?

Mrs. M. L. C. and other women in their forties who contemplate motherhood, whether for the first time or not, will learn something to their advantage and reassurance by reading the booklet Preparing for Maternity — for copy send twenty - five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Mere ignorance and misinformation scarcely accounts for the assiduity with which some women try to frighten such expectant mothers. Old women, that is, envious and jealous of the younger woman's happiness.

The truth is that if the prospective mother's health and habits are good there is no particular reason why she anticipate any more difficulty, even if she bears her first child after forty, than a normal woman of thirty or twenty-five has.

I have said here more than once that a woman of any age who is not too old to roll a few somersaults every day or engage in similar physical activities need have no particular concern about her fitness for childbirth.

To prospective mothers who look forward to the great miracle with any other feeling than joy and confidence I recommend the book Childbirth Without Fear, by Grantly Dick Reed, A. M., M. D. (Some one has purloined my copy and I can't remember the name of the publisher, but your book dealer or public library will have it.)

Whether a woman is preparing for her first baby or her fifth she can best insure a normal, comparatively easy labor by keeping herself physically fit throughout pregnancy. She should continue whatever physical activities she has enjoyed before, particularly any and all housework and a daily walk of a few miles or any equivalent general exercise. A woman approaching motherhood, like a girl approaching womanhood, should regard the matter as the normal, natural course of life and never as a morbid state, a weakness, an ordeal or a danger.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bleeding

What are some of the causes of bleeding with bowel movement? (M.M.)

Answer—Quit fooling and report to your physician for examination. Usual cause is internal hemorrhoids, but whatever it may be, isn't your health worth saving?

Rough Skin

Young daughter extremely careful in personal care yet the skin of her elbows and knees is very rough, almost gritty. (Mrs. H. C. P.)

Answer—The subject is dealt with in detail in the booklet Save Your Skin — for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Modern Method

Is it necessary to go to the hospital for operation for hemorrholds or can they be cured with medicine or treatments? ? (E. G.)

Answer — Generally injection treatments, given in the physician's office, will cure, without detaining the patient from ordinary activities. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing for clipping) for writing (no clipping) for pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles.

HYDRO

Want Representative

Another resolution adopted urged that the Association be allowed to name its own representative to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission "at the pleasure of the Association for a specified more power to merchants during period." Arrangement to allot the power scarcity were suggested.

However, the meeting decided against endorsing a resolution that a steam plant to generate additional power for the southern part of the province be established.

Some opposition was expressed to proposals to expand rural electrification before present power shortage problems had been entirely solved. Delegates said they strongly favored a long-term plan to extend rural lines but felt enlargement of Hydro service at present was inadvisable.

As the meeting turned to final business of its three-day session, it elected George F. Hutcheson of Huntsville, President. He succeeds R. M. Durnford of Sarnia.

District vice-presidents are T. A. Andre, Kingston, F. G. Lovelady, Port Arthur; Loftus Reid, Toronto; R. Pierson, Brantford Township; G. W. Gordon, Kitchener; P. R. Locke, St. Thomas; G. H. Fuller, Windsor. Secretary-treasurer is Mrs. K. Kestell of Guelph.

Faris Bey el-Khouri of Syria is shown as he made a plea for reconsideration of the Assembly's Partition plan on the opening day of the Security Council's debate on the Palestine question. At table, from left, are: Dr. Alfonso Lopez, Columbia, who later proposed convocation of a special session of the General Assembly to reconsider the partition; Alexandre Parodi, France; Mr. el-Khouri; Vassily Tarasenko, Ukrainian S.S.R., and Moshe Shertok of the Jewish Agency for Palestine. Mr. el-Khouri denied that partition was the only way out. He reminded the Council that another plan for a unitary state in Palestine had been submitted and declared that the use of force to support an "unlawful cause and flagrant aggression" was "a criminal action."

BRITISH FARMERS FACE HARD YEARS

By JAMES MCCOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London,—(CP)— Agricultural returns for the United Kingdom have reminded the nation in the midst of a mild winter that it will take years to recover from the shattering losses in the storms of 1946-47.

More than 2,000,000 sheep and lambs were lost last winter, along with at least 30,000 cattle and extensive damage to cropland by frosts and floods.

This year the weather has been temperate and farmers who feared their supplies would be insufficient to carry even their reduced herds have reported conditions good with spring and new grass in sight.

But a December census showed the total of sheep and lambs was 8,207,000 in England and Wales and 4,886,000 in Scotland, a total decline of 1,900,000 compared with 1946.

The total of cattle and calves was down 55,000 less than 7,000,000 for England and Wales but the relatively small decline covered all categories except calves of less than one year.

Aid From Subsidy

Agriculture ministry officials said it was hoped farmers would be encouraged to keep calves to maturity by a subsidy now effective. Farmers will be able to submit calves for subsidy at nine months old, drawing £4 ($16) a head for steer calves and £3 for heifers.

In Scotland about 2,000,000 cattle were reported with an increase of 24,000 in beef animals and a decline of 10,000 in dairy. the production of beef cattle and the Scottish returns indicated this program is taking effect.

United Kingdom hog population declined slightly but officials said they noted with satisfaction an increase in the number of breeding sows. Farmers are hopeful additional feed supplies will result from trade agreements like those with Russia and they have maintained at least a nucleus of breeding stock.

Poultry flocks showed an increase of 6,000,000 for the year but remain far below the total reported in 1938. Further expansion will depend on availability of feed.

Wrightsville, Ga., March 4 (AP) — Only white persons voted here yesterday in Johnson county's democratic primary election, held in the wake of a Ku Klux Klan demonstration on the courthouse lawn. A single Negro went to the polls, was told his name was on the books, but did not seek to vote. About 240 Negroes are qualifier to vote here, the seat of this east-central Georgia farming county.

Can Form Orchestra With Women's Help

Winnipeg,—(CP)— Winnipeggers periodically consider the possibility of starting a symphony orchestra which would bear the name of their city and which would bring nation-wide honor to Winnipeg. But so far concrete action directed towards organization has been lacking.

Musically inclined citizens were given hope recently, however, by Bernard Naylor of Toronto, former resident here and well-known Canadian conductor.

Winnipeg can have its orchestra, he said in an address to the Manitoba Registered Music Teachers Association, if women decide there should be an orchestra.

"Civic orchestras across the Dominion owe their lives to their women's committees" he said "Women can influence so many people—their pupils, their pupils' parents and their friends to support such a musical project. No other group can instill such interest in orchestral formation as women."

Amateur Painters Flock To School for Creative Fun

By MARILYN LAMBORN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, (CP)—Art is no longer an unapproachable stranger to the man on the street. Tremendous increase in arts class enrolment shows that thousands of Canadian doctors, lawyers, business men and housewives have discovered "dabbling" an absorbing hobby as they become acquainted with easel and brush.

Why? Fred S. Haines, principal of the Ontario College of Art—where more than 600 students now are enrolled, against 160 before the war—says Canadians turn to art because it represents permanency, contrasted with "the current feeling of insecurity".

Art schools are so crowded many enthusiasts must be turned down, while evening classes have doubled in number in many cases. Reports show former servicemen who never before painted anything but the front verandah want to make art their profession.

"Painting makes you feel like a god building a world of your own—the satisfaction of creation, I guess," said Mr. Haines.

L.A.C. Panton, director of the art department of Northern Vocational School here, thinks art acts as a therapy—"like a person swinging his arms to feel refreshed."

Art a Release

"Art offers a release not found in anything else," he stated. "A person discovers excitement, interest and his own creative ability."

Design is used in so many different fields, art schools attract everyone from dressmakers to engineers. Design is also one of the first things taught art students because it fosters creative ideas and gives a deeper understanding of why life is not always represented on canvas just as it appears to the eye.

Cleeve Horne, Toronto portrait painter, sculptor and vice-president of the Ontario Society of Artists, insists there is no such thing as a "born artist". Creativeness is developed "through knowledge".

"You need intelligence, perseverance and suitable environmental conditions. And with years of experience you develop the sensitiveness and original thought to be a creative artist."

Business men especially should study painting, says Mr. Horne, because it develops original thought.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Shorty Judge were talking and arguing around the letter box, and Shorty said, Here comes Sam Cross, I wonder what big wopper he's going to tell us now.

Meening on account of Sam Cross being the most famous liar around, and I said, Well say, let's us get ahead of him and tell him the biggest lie we can think of before he's got a chance to get started. Oh boy that'll be one on him, I said.

Seeming like sutch a swell idea we awt to of thawt of it long ago, and Sam came up, saying, High fellows, and I said, High, Sam, did I ever tell you about the time my father took me fishing? Anyways, we both cawt one at the same time. My father cawt a trout and I cawt a shark, and while we were pulling them in my shark swallowed his trout, so I had a shark and a trout both on my line at the same time, and so did my father, I said.

Sam Cross not saying anything, and Shorty said, Speeking of your father fishing reminds me of my father hunting. One time he went hunting with 3 other men, and they let me go with them to hand them cartridges, and they all saw a bear at the same time, and the whole 4 of them fired together and the 4 bullets hit the bear in exactly the same spot, but the trubble was he already had a hole in that spot so the bullets went rite straight through without even touching him, so he got away, Shorty said.

Yeah? Sam Cross said I woke up this morning with 7 toes on my left foot and only my reguler 5 on my rite foot. I wouldn't of thawt mutch about it, only yesterday when I woke up I had 7 toes on my rite foot and only the usual 5 on my left. I dont know how long it's going to last so I'd let you guys see them rite now if I didnt have to go a errand, he said.

And he quick kept on going.

Split Tribe Fights With Smuggled Arms

Durban, South Africa,—(CP)— Farmers in the valley of a Thousand Hills believe that guns and ammunition are being smuggled from Durban and Maritzburg to the opposing factions of the Ximba tribe which have been at war for years over the question of chieftainship.

The factions are making greater use of firearms in their periodic battles in the valley and farmers and residents in the neighboring areas report hearing increasing numbers of shots at night.

It is believed that the natives are testing firearms and ammunition before buying them since in previous battles many rifles and much ammunition found in their possession were defective.

While traffic in unlicenced firearms is widespread throughout Natal, it is believed that it is particularly heavy between opposing forces of the Ximba tribe.

Ivanhoe — The Beulah Young People's meeting on Thursday evening, held in the United Church, took the form of a union service with the Young People of West Huntingdon, as the guests of the local society. There were about fifty present. Miss Mariel Prest presided and gave the call to worship. Rev. J. F. Everson led in prayer. Miss Deneyse Vandome read Psalm 122, the explanation of which was given by Mrs. Keith Bray. The offering was received by Larry Mitz and Floyd Reid and dedicated by Mrs. George Wood.

The program which was presented by the guests, was in charge of Miss Margery Wright. Miss Jean Haggerty gave a reading, "It can be done." Miss Joyce Wallace contributed a solo "Heartaches." Miss Wright read a story "Let us Speak" and Alec McCurdy a paper on "Empty Church Pews." Mr. H. R. Burke gave a short talk on 'Great Men Who Made a Success of Life." The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The recreation period was led by Mrs. Clifford Mitz, Miss Margaret Wright and Rev. J. F. Everson. Delicious refreshments were served by the Beulah Young People.

TEACHER DISLIKED

Windsor, March 4 (CP) — Dislike of a certain teacher is believed the reason behind the "shooting up" of a local public school last night.

Today police are investigating the breaking three windows of a second floor classroom by .22 calibre bullets. The only clue to the shooting was the information that the teacher who occupied that particular room is not liked by some of the pupils.

This was the only room damaged by the rifle shots, police said.

Glamorous Stylings Presented to Large Crowds At Hospital Auxiliary Annual Fashion Show

Potted ferns and daffodils, with tall standards of calla lilies and multi-colored Spring blossoms were effectively used on the stage of the Capitol theatre yesterday as a floral setting for the annual Spring Fashion Show sponsored by members of the local Hospital Auxiliary. Mrs. G. H. Stobie was the capable commentator, looking very "chic" in a black crepe dress, the bodice embroidered at the left shoulder with an intricate white floral motif, while the only decoration on the plain, pencil line skirt was the very new three oblique simulated tiers across the front. An outstanding tall white felt hat supplied the necessary "touch" to complete picture.

Three new and very attractive mannekins joined the group of ladies usually modelling for this annual event, namely Miss Agnes Marie O'Connor, who made her debut in a Deacon raincoat of unusual shade, with an attached hood; the coat an over-all for a citron and navy sport suit with the plain navy blazer covering the soft box pleats of the full plaid skirt. Brown gloves and a matching umbrella to protect the lemon yellow beret made for a youthful combination.

First Appearances

Mrs. Jane Forrester appeared for the first time in a new, exclusive light blue coat, striped with navy and worn over a smart navy dress with white collar and cuffs. A navy hat, with matching gloves and purse complemented an attractive Springtime costume. Mrs. Phillipa Faulkner, making her initial appearance with the models, was seen in a light brown short, "shortie" coat, over a dress of palest aqua crepe, the skirt's fullness supplied by full length front pleats below the rather wider-than-usual belt; while soft lines of the bodice were accented by the flowing Gibson Girl tie. A small brown hat above the "gay ninety" hair arrangement gave the final touch to the "new look" of the ensemble.

Mrs. Harden wore a three quarter Burlingham black coat, striped in two shades of grey, over a silver grey dress with matching plaid-trimmed sailor hat. A red purse was the bright contrasting feature needed to make this costume completely effective.

Outstanding Ensemble

Mrs. G. E. Currie wore a full length beige herringbone topcoat, and a matching felt hat with brown band. Under the coat was a pale yellow dress with brown printed pattern. A brown bag and beige gloves were added to this colorful combination. Mrs. Carscallen modelled a serviceable coat of Donegal tweed over a becoming dress of pansy purple crepe, very suitable for a young matron. The surplice bodice disclosed a vestee of paler shades, as did also the slimming side draperies on the skirt. This ensemble, accompanied by sparkling costume jewellery and a matching small sailor hat banded with grey veiling, was outstanding. A black bag and gloves offset the possibility of color frequency.

The models were all wearing the glamorous Dorothy Gray make-up supplied by Lattimer's Drug Store.

Other combination costumes included one effective in black and white. Distinguishing features of the full length black coat were the small double capes over the shoulders and the tiny waist line with matching hat and accessories worn in contrast to the brightly colored green and white striped silk jersey dress featuring a high neckline and a very full skirt.

Shortie Coats Popular

"Shortie" coats are still very popular, and appeared with all kinds of costumes, matching or contrasting with the dresses over which they were worn. One shortie of aqua blue was worn with a dress of imported material, having aqua figures on a dark brown background. A navy shortie with wrapped front, was shown over a navy and white crepe dress, featuring front fullness and an unusual pleated bertha draped across the shoulders. A white hat with navy trim was a distinguishing accessory. Another shortie in brown was worn over a dainty dress of white with all-over brown pattern, a very full skirt banded in brown three times between the waist and hemline. This dress featured a tightly fitted short jacket with long sleeves, which, when removed, revealed a short sleeved bodice, making a "double feature" combination.

Other Models

A black shortie, finger-tip length, could be worn over any type of dress, and was modelled over a pale blue figured print that was definitely "different". A black vestee, cuffs and reveres highlighted this costume which was topped with a striking blue hat, brightly flower bedecked. A red shortie featured a hemline coming down at the back; while a shoulder yoke gave it that much admired "fitted" appearance necessary for good grooming. Over a navy printed silk with deep side drapery, it was really very modish. Unusual and decidedly useful was a black hooded shortie, worn over a black frock with formal citron yellow motifs, while another finger-tip length black shortie featured a braided design on the front, for dress-up occasions.

Dame Fashion still favors suits for Springtime wear, with a great variety of styles in the many three-piece models shown this year. The jacket will not always be tailored, and the top coat may be of a different material, but in matching tones. One youthful style shown was a plaid shortie top coat over an emerald green suit with matching straw hat and alligator bag. Another, a Scottish tweed travel-suit combined a plaid shortie over a plain blue suit, relieved by a brilliant lapel pin, and worn with a matching felt hat.

Ultra-Smart Suit

A very ultra-smart suit featured a black cape with wide checked facings and collar; a wide "bonnet" with black ribbon ruching all around the shallow crown had ties fastened sedately beneath the chin; but a Canadian-designed suit of light brown with bolero jacket and light colored taffeta blouse was intriguing when worn with a Gibson girl hat, and accompanied with matching shoulder bag and gloves.

Full length dress coats and distinctive casuals are still very much in vogue and suitable for every occasion. The regulation camel hair coat with a box back was displayed over a suit of British wool; the jacket featuring a high neckline and rare pocket pattern, while the skirt buttoned down the front and had plenty of pleat fullness in the back.

A Linton Cumberland tweed topcoat was worn over a tailored blue-grey suit; a mystic green coat featured a cape collar and a large plaid full-length tailored coat depended on its bright color combination for its effectiveness.

Wide Lapels Featured

A dressy black box-back coat featured wide lapels and a double-breasted effect achieved by rows of large interesting buttons. Another long black dress coat for a matron was worn over a black dress having a colorful floral motif appliqued on the bodice below the right shoulder, with another on the left side of the skirt below the wrist line. One full length coat was fashioned of soft pliable but firm material called "kitten's ear." This garment was in plain Chesterfield style, of a light colored checked material with a large pink over-check. Very unique when worn with a pink hat, over a tailored navy suit.

Iff you wear navy in a dress, coat or suit you are dressed well this Spring, for navy is a favorite color of all designers this season, being used in light weight suit materials, lighter blue shades shown in bandings or trim on the jaunty jackets, which when removed disclose the skirts attached to bodices with short sleeves. Grey accessories and intriguing ribbon or flower trimmed hats highlight the darker costumes.

Popular For Afternoon

Navy is also used in afternoon and day-time frocks, combined with other colors for effective contrasts. One pattern showed a skirt with side opening below the knee revealing pleating in two tones of orchid, and a flower hat in matching shades topped this charming tea time frock.

One definitely distinctive navy ensemble featured a skirt detailed with rows of circular tucks from hem to waistline, a bolero jacket worn over a plain white blouse with pearl studs at the front closing. A checked "petticoat" peeped beneath the very full "swishing" skirt and one of the proverbial sailor hats succeeded in adding the "Gibson Girl look." A note of color was added to one strictly plain, serviceable navy dress when worn under a tomato red cape, which added a collar for good measure, the whole accomplishing a note of definite attraction, without the bizarre.

Wide Selection Materials

Afternoon and dinner dresses were formed from a variety of materials, in plain colors, in printed patterns and in combinations of printed and plain materials. One of these was shown in black with white; the top in plain color, with a pleated flounce of the white printed crepe across the front of the skirt, and above that a side closing laced from flounce to waist, Chantilly lace yoke and cap sleeves over pale pink nylon, or what-have-you, was the distinguishing feature of a lovely black dinner dress worn with a large black hat.

A few startling cocktail dresses were modelled. One of black taffeta had tiny buttons fastening the front of the fitted basque; a Chantilly lace bertha collar, which barely covered the shoulders in the almost backless bodice, and a prominent fullness in the front of the skirt. Another featured a plain top and frilled skirt, with an uneven hemline.

A strikingly youthful model was of black silk with a very realistic "big apple" pattern, featuring a high neckline, and cap sleeves on the bodice and a draped hipline on the skirt.

A girl would be happy wearing her first formal such as a dainty baby blue evening gown with detailed tucking around the skirt; while a Junior model, organza, Elizabeth Ann formal featured a plain lower half-skirt with stripes circling the top half and continuing around the bodice.

A dinner dress shown was of soft blue lace, with draped georgette bertha, the same material used in the lower half of the very full skirt. Very svelte was a black lace and crepe gown for the sophisticated young matron, draped over the hips from the side fronts to the zippered centre back; a deep lace yoke and long tightly fitting sleeves relieved the severe plainess above the waist line.

Contrasting with the darker shades was a dress of turquoise blue, with long tight sleeves and a sweetheart neckline accented by small brilliant clips, and a long pointed peplum reaching almost to the hem of the skirt on the right side, while a fairly wide belt was laced at the front with a gold cord. As if in opposition to its lighter colored confrere was a royal blue creation exhibiting a fringed hood, while beautiful costume jewellery scintillating and colorful added much to the effectiveness of these new and charming ultra-feminine dictates of Fashion.

Attractively Gowned

Mrs. Stobie called attention to the chartreuse gown worn by the pianist, Mrs. W. P. Wareham, whose music furnished a background of harmonious Springtime melodies for the pre-Easter parade.

Beauty of form and luxury of materials were displayed in the out-of-door garments from Ashley's Fur Store. A Junior model of natural muskrat, trimmed with narrow collar and fitted cuffs of seal, would win the admiration of any of the "young set", and the lovely brown softness of a mouton, full length model with box back, might appeal to anyone desiring durability and beauty.

The ever popular persian lamb was shown in long coats, with a removable cape collar, ripple back and wide fitted cuffs; another was made with large "melon" sleeves and "tulip" cuffs and a third had widely pleated "parachute" sleeves and a narrowish high collar.

Grey Furs Popular

Grey was shown in the silver fur of kid skin, suitable for early Spring. A full length coat with melon sleeves and small collar was worn with a bright blue hat. Kid skin lends itself, too, to between-season-shorties, when worn with cloth skirts, and combines effectively with several shades of tan. Grey lamb has always been a fur popular for youthful garments and is still very much in evidence.

Luxurious Hudson seal and Canadian muskrat are the all time favorites, their lustre giving a full measure of beauty to coats in the loosely fitting back modes, with double cuffs for comfort and collars which may be closely buttoned, or turned back to form long revers.

Stoles of Canadian mink, silver fox, stone martin and kolinsky furs were carried or worn as accessories to suits and ensembles.

Expresses Gratitude

Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the Auxiliary, was introduced by Mrs. Stobie. Mrs. Scott was wearing a becoming navy dress, with surplice bodice buttoned under the left arm, to meet the rippling side drapery on the pencil line skirt. Her matching off-the-face hat was flower trimmed and she wore a pearl necklace and earrings.

On behalf of the members of the Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Scott expressed gratitude to all who had helped in presenting the show; to the shops contributing dresses, hats, coats, suits and furs; to the hair dressers, and to Miss Mary Stone, of Toronto, Dorothy Gray Cosmetic representative; to the staff of the theatre; to the press and to CJBQ for publicity; to Mrs. Wareham, to Mrs. Stobie, and last but by no means least to the models who wore and displayed the "new look" garments, and the intriguing hats, large and small.

Mrs. Scott told something of the work of the auxiliary; of its gifts of needed equipment and other supplies to the hospital and to indigent patients. She said, "the auxiliary hopes for a representative from every active women's group in the city," and extended an invitation for more members in the auxiliary.

Prizes Presented

From a box, Mrs. Stobie drew three ticket stubs, the following ladies being presented with prizes in the afternoon: Mrs. Lorne Vaughn, a wrist watch from McFee's jewellery store; Mrs. G. Osborne, Shannonville, a set of dishes from Walker's Hardware, and Mrs. Leona Wilson, a Dorothy Gray Beauty Set from Lattimer's Drug Store. Evening prizes —another wrist watch from McFee's went to Mrs. Jas. Hanley of Read, Ont. An electric teakettle from Walker's Hardware was won by Mrs. J. F. Barber. A Judy Bond blouse from the J. A. McNabb store went to a lady from Peterborough and a Dorothy Gray Beauty Kit was added as a fourth prize.

Beautiful Finale Scene

Gowns worn in the "Bridal Scene", which was the beautiful finale to the show, were reproductions of those displayed in the New York Fashion Show. The matron-of-honor wore a hand painted white crepe gown, with draped front; the attendants were gowned in blue and pale lime green with matching watteau hats and Mrs. Faulkner as the bride wore the traditional wedding gown of white satin, with long veil. Her bouquet was of calla lilies and roses, and that of the attendants were cascades of pink roses. Mrs. Carscallen as the mother wore a distinctive black dress, also hand painted in delicate shades of blue, heliotrope and green, and the guests were in dinner gowns of navy with pink shortie, and a dusty pink crepe, with darker sequin shoulder motifs.

On behalf of the exhibitors Mr. Ashley and Mr. Shapiro presented bouquets of deep red roses to the commentator, the pianist, the models and to Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. R. A. Elliott was in charge of the ushers for the afternoon who were members of the auxiliary. Mrs. W. E. McCormick was convener for the sale of tickets; Mrs. Howard Graham was publicity convener and Mrs. R. M. Flynn had charge of the stage setting.

Capacity Audiences

Capacity audiences viewed both afternoon and evening shows, and many had to be turned away in the evening as the theatre would not accommodate all who wished to attend. The auxiliary deeply regrets this inability to accommodate all who desired admittance, and hopes to make arrangements for a larger audience next year.

Merchants contributing to the success of the display were: J. A. McNabb, Ashley Furs, Campbell Hat Shop, McIntosh Bros., Angus McFee, Jeweller; Lattimer's Drug Store and J. S. Barber, the Florist. Hair dressers were Ramsay, Cummins and Vogue, and make-up was applied by Miss Mary Stone, representative from Toronto for the Dorothy Gray Cosmetics.

Ivanhoe

Presentation Party

Ivanhoe. (Special.)—A large number of friends and neighbors joined in a going-away party, held on Monday evening for Mr. Ben Brough and Arthur, at their home in Fuller. After a time of fellowship and neighborly chat a sing-song was conducted by Mrs. Frank Keller, with Mrs. Keith Bray at the piano; an address was read by Mr. H. R. Burke and presentations made by Messrs. Charles Irvine and Orvil Keller. Mr. Brough was presented with a Black Lodge pin and a smoker set and Arthur with an Orange Lodge pin, a bed lamp and shaving set. Each made a suitable reply expressing regret that circumstances had made it necessary to leave the home which had been in the family name for some 75 years.

Short speeches were made by Mrs. Frank Keller, Charles Moorland, John Geen, Michael Kirby and H. R. Burke.

During the three-quarters of a century that the family have lived in the Fuller neighborhood they have rendered a faithful service to the church and to the community; and have earned for themselves a reputation for kindliness and helpfulness seldom surpassed among friends. They will be greatly missed but not soon forgotten. Rev. J. F. Everson, of Ivanhoe, acted as chairman.

Now that the 1947 books have been closed for the Ivanhoe pastoral charge of the United Church it is revealed that the past year was from a financial point of view very successful. A grand total of $4,434.84 was raised. This included almost $1,000 spent on improvements to church property; $260 by the Sunday Schools and over $600 for Missionary work. Over $60 was raised for the Tornado Fund and the same amount by the Young People.

Personals

Mrs. Harry Lovibond has returned home after a lengthy visit with friends in Toronto.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Earl McMaster on the arrival of a little daughter to gladden their home, a sister for Larry and David.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and family, of Stirling, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mitz and family.

The services at all outside points were cancelled on Sunday on account of blocked roads.

Rev. George Patton of Queensboro, was a supper time guest at the parsonage recently.

ORDER RESTORED IN ACCRA

Accra, Gold Coast, March 4—(AP)— Troops with shoot-to-kill orders restored order in Accra yesterday following a weekend of rioting in which 25 persons were killed and several hundred wounded. Police and British colonial officials still were mystified as to the cause of the disorders.

Replacement of Home for Aged Main Problem Facing W.C.A. This Year

Problems confronting the Women's Christian Association should that organization decide to rebuild the city Home for the Aged which was extensively damaged by fire last January 24th were foremost in the minds of members of the Association attending the 88th annual meeting on Tuesday.

In every report heard at the meeting the loss of the home was mentioned together with regret being expressed because of the death of the two aged inmates who lost their lives in the blaze.

"The past year has been a momentous one for the W.C.A." stated Mrs. J. Imlah in her president's address. "Then, the decision was made to turn the hospital over to the city, and also will be remembered the tragic loss of the Home for the Aged. We can but hope and trust that these two institutions will go on to better serve this community."

Much Work in Prospect

Referring to loss of the Home for the Aged, Mrs. Imlah stated that to again establish the Home would mean a great deal of thought and work, but satisfaction of achieving this would make the efforts worthwhile.

The president expressed her appreciation to the Hospital Advisory Board for their helpful advice during the past year, and also extended the gratitude to the members elected to the Hospital board, also to the W.C.A executive members who have resigned. Thanks were expressed to Mr. Elmer Sandercock and Hastings County for the shelter offered in the county home following the loss of the Home for the Aged.

Delay in Building Regretted

In her report as recording secretary, Mrs. L. Alford noted the inability of the W.C.A. to proceed with the building of the convalescent hospital was due to the lack of financial support and also due to the fact that the general hospital was to be transferred to the city.

She recalled that the W.C.A. had established the hospital on its present site back in 1886 with Mrs. M. W. McLean as president at the cost of $20,000. This amount had been raised chiefly through efforts of the organization. Today the hospital was one of the best equipped for its size in Canada.

"This has been accomplished without municipal or county grants, and but few endowments," she pointed out. "Owing to the high cost of operation and necessary expansion needed for the city's growth, we have decided in order to best serve this community to turn the hospital over to the city."

The various departments of the W.C.A. had had a most successful year, she noted.

Twelve Inmates

As chairman of the Home Board of Management for the Home for the Aged, Mrs. Harry Thompson said that at present there were 12 Home for the Aged inmates. These number 10 men and two women. Six inmates are at the county home; three are in the hospital; two at the Home and one living with relatives.

Cost of operating the home during the past year had shown an increase, due mostly to salaries, upkeep and the higher cost of food. The Board acknowledged the many generous donations of money, clothing, furniture, provisions, Christmas gifts and entertainment for the pleasure and comforts of the home inmates.

With the loss of the Home for the Aged, Mrs. Thompson stated the Association was faced with one of two alternatives.

Alternative Plans

The first alternative would be to sell the present property and build a new home. This would take a lot of work and planning.

The second alternative was a suggestion which had been forwarded by Mr. Ludlow, provincial welfare inspector, who had noted that in Western Ontario several rural and urban municipalities had combined to build a new home. If the city of Belleville and Hastings county were to do this, the W. C. A. would be relieved of the responsibility of operating the Home, she said.

In conclusion Mrs. Thompson stated that on the day previous to the fire, Mr. Ludlow, Home for the Aged matron Mrs. Gilroy and herself had completely inspected the Home. As far as the inspector could see, she said, there had been nothing wrong with the furnace on that day.

Miss H. Lynch as chairman of the Indigent Committee stated that the bequest of the late Senator Corby had been distributed prior to Christmas with the result that fuel had been sent to 62 homes in the city. Canned vegetables and turkey had been sent to the Home for the Aged. From the emergency trust fund $30.08 had been dispensed during the year.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Deserted Husband and Children

It is a sorry enough situation when a wife decides to flout her marriage vows in the face of her husband, even when he is the only one who will suffer from it.

But it is twice as dreadful when there are children involved.

In the first type of case, the husband can treat the wife as she deserves, let her go her own way, and make a new and happier life for himself. When he has children to consider, however, he is apt to be inextricably tied to the frustrating set of circumstances in which he finds himself.

As, for example, the 34-year-old man who writes me the following pitiful story:

Of the seven years during which he and his wife have been married, only the first two were happy. After she had had one child ,she threw over both her maternal and her wifely responsibilities and began to go out with other men. For a while, her husband's vigorous protests restrained her. But when a second child was only a year old, she began all over again. Now she tells her husband she doesn't want anything more to do with him, neglects him and the children completely, and has informed him there is another man in whom she is seriously interested.

Complicating the situation is the fact that this couple and their children live with the wife's parents, who take her side even though she leaves home for several days at a time so that she can carry on her affairs with greater freedom.

This man has no family to whom he can turn for help with the children, and he is at his wits' end to know what to do. He still loves his wife, he says, even though he knows she isn't worth it.

"I bought her a suit and a purse and a pin for Christmas," he writes pathetically, "and she told me I was just a sucker. She said that I don't mean anything to her. Some people tell me to let her go, but what am I to do? I love her and I can't get that feeling out of me. I have always treated her well and bought her everything I could, even more than I could afford. I am in debt now, so that I don't know which way to turn. I pay her parents $100 a month for board and to buy clothes for the children, and I only make an average of $47 a week.

"What should I do? I am so afraid I won't get her back. She isn't worth worrying over, but you know how things are when you love someone."

And then in a pitiful postscript he says: "Did you ever have a feeling of being lonely all the time?"

If this man were financially able to do so, my suggestion would be that he take his two children and leave the home of his wife's parents, hire a housekeeper to run his home and take care of the children. Obviously, however, he could hardly afford, out of his $47 a week, to pay for rent, a housekeeper, food, and all the other incidentals to maintain a home of his own.

But he might arrange to board himself and the children in another home with someone who was able to care for them while he was at work. In this way, he could be independent of his wife and her family. Another possibility is for him to go to a social welfare agency in his town, or in some nearby large city, and find out of there are any Homes in which he could have the children taken care of by themselves for a while, until his own plans become clearer to him.

I think it would be an excellent idea if this man talked his problem over with an understanding consultant on family problems. If he will write me again and tell me how I can send a personal letter to him, I shall be glad to give him the name of someone in his town from whom he might get some good advice.

MASKED WITH HANDKERCHIEF MAN ROBS TOBACCO SHOP

Brantford, March 3 (CP)—An armed robber, masked with a handkerchief, today held up William Haynes, tobacco shop owner near his home and escaped with $75.

Tire prints of an automobile which the robber apparently used in his escape, matched tire tracks of an automobile stolen from a lot, police said.

Haynes told police the man, wearing a khaki-colored coat, stepped from behind a tree and jammed gun in his ribs.

The Latest Thing in Hairdos

The plain bob, flat on top and sides and fastened with a simple barette is still a favorite

By HELEN FOLLETT

IN THE LANGUAGE of the hair stylist there is a new word. It is "floue".

When the hairdresser enters the booth he may give you a keen look-over in the mirror and exclaim, "Ah, floue! It is for you, madame. You are the type!"

If you know your French you will realize that he is not being slangy. He is merely suggesting softness in the coiffure, the light touch, the floating ringlets. The hair will be free as air, the effect will be charming. If you are weary of patterned undulations, and prim rolls, you will feel that you have regained youth in large measure.

Soft Hairdress

The soft hairdress is something to sing and shout about, especially if you have been trying out the straight, sleek arrangement that only the beauties of the world can afford to wear.

A snug little chapeau will steam roller your pompadour and slap your rolls flat, but it does nothing at all to your four inch trim that has had a permanent and that can be put in order by half a dozen whisks of the comb.

It is nice that coiffure styles are varied. You can march right along in the fashion parade with hair high or low or betwixt-and-between. Standardized styles belong to the olden days.

Forming a Wreath

A cute and youthful design is the smooth crown with soft, fluffy curls careening around the hair line, front and back and sides, forming a hirsute wreath. You can pull them down in front to form bangs, you can sweep them away from your forehead into a tabloid pomp.

Teen-agers are going in for heavy bangs in a big way. They are adorable for the oval or heart-shaped face. To give balance to the head, the hair should be only of shoulder length at the back, ends turned under. The very plain bob, flat on top and sides and fastened with a simple barette is still a favorite with them, too.

Lots of brushing will put the lustre on the glorious crown. That is a beauty must.

Flavour...
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Happy, healthy faces at the table enjoying cooking and baking with the extra flavour

Baking with that special extra flavour that's tops with every member of the family is more than just a matter of chance. Quality ingredients must take first place in a wise homemaker's recipes for, aside from their health value, they do away with costly kitchen failures.

That is why Canadian housewives prefer Crown Brand Corn Syrup—famous for its quality and delicious flavour for nearly fifty years.

Crown Brand Syrup is a favourite in so many ways:—as a spread on bread or toast—on waffles or pancakes—in a glass of milk—as a topping for puddings and ice cream—as a sweetener that gives your baking that extra flavour to delight the tastes of the whole family.

"We appreciate your loyalty to Quality."

SPICE LAYER CAKE

1 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
½ cup milk
½ cup butter or shortening
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Combine Crown Brand Corn Syrup and milk. Place shortening in a bowl and stir with spoon to soften. Sift dry ingredients over shortening. Add unbeaten eggs and half of liquid. Mix to combine all ingredients, then beat 1 minute. Add remaining liquid and beat again for 2 minutes. Bake in 2 greased and floured 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes. Frost with your favourite frosting.

If you use an electric mixer, follow directions above; setting mixer at low to medium speed. Watch beating time and be sure to scrape batter from sides and bottom of bowl during beating.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Concerning an Old English Style of Initialing Silver

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you give me your advice, please? I have just bought my sterling silver, (a plain, simple English pattern) for our new home (we are to be married in June), and have been considering just how I wish it marked. Now I have decided on using the initials of my name-to-be. I am very much intrigued with the suggestion made to us yesterday by the jeweler from whom we bought the silver, but, since I have never seen or heard of this idea, I wanted to ask your advice about my ordering it. The idea is to use three initials; the initial of my first name, "his" first name, and his surname. Between the first name initials is engraved what looks rather like an asterisk ,and either under or over the asterisk (there are two designs) is centred the initial of my fiance's surname. Like this:

A • B or C
C A • B

To me this is very charming, and really makes sense. But I am afraid it is perhaps too ultra for a marking that has to last for so long a time (I hope!), perhaps too new. If I have made clear the designs I saw, what is your advice?

Bride-to-be.

The style of initialing recommended by your jeweler is an enthusiasm of mine ,too, and since it has so definitely caught your interest I strongly suggest you choose it. Far from being 'ultra' or 'too new', this style has a long-time backing of a fine old English custom, and is particularly appropriate to use on the design you mention. To this plain, simple pattern it adds, I think, a most effective design of marking. Of the two triangle-designs I strongly recommend that you choose the one with the initial of the surname at the top.

Bride Wearing Suit has Only One Attendant

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to be married in June in church, but would prefer to wear a suit instead of a wedding gown. I would like to have a maid of honor and two bridesmaids, but many of my friends have told me that when a bride wears a suit is it not proper to have bridesmaids. I have also been told that it is not proper for a bride to wear a suit at a summer wedding, but I, and the girls I want for attendants, think this would be more practical and less expensive. What is your advice?

Mary B.

I agree with your friends who have told you that it is inappropriate for the bride wearing a suit to have bridesmaids. Customarily the informally-dressed bride has only one attendant, a maid (or matron) of honor. But the bride who is being married at a summer wedding may wear a suit; usually it is a dressmaker suit of a very light-weight material in the bride's most becoming color, and with hat and other accessories in a light-hearted mood.

Hostess May Wear Long Simple Dress

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a woman is hostess in her own home and she invites guests for such "don't dress" occasions as Sunday afternoon or evening buffet parties, or other similar occasions when she knows the guests will wear street clothes, is it ever correct for her to wear a long afternoon dress or a dinner dress?

Madeline

It is proper for the hostess to wear a long dress, either of an afternoon or dinner type, if the dress is really very simple. The important point is that she must not wear a dress strikingly out-of-key with the informality of the occasion or of the attire of her guests.

CUTTING A RUG IN DARKEST AFRICA

The Gatti-Hallicrafters' expedition to the Mountains of the Moon has its lighter moments. This is one of them at Kwale, Kenya Colony, B.E.A., that came when a howling mob of natives "invaded" the expedition camp to hand over the "Keys of the Veldt." The welcome consisted mostly of dancing by the dusky men and maids. with much giggling. Commander Attilio Gatti, leader of the expedition, stands with one of the girl dancers here. William D. Snyder, of Fargo, N.D., radio technician, is in foreground holding up a microphone as he makes a recording.

Old Country Letter:

Communist Push in Europe Raises Memories--And Nightmare Feeling

By STAURT UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The nightmare feeling of "it has all happened before" spread over Britain as black newspaper headlines reported the Communist Push toward Western Europe.

Justly or unjustly, most people think back to the days of 1938-39 when Hitler was snapping up pieces of Central Europe. A newspaper vendor summed up popular feeling when he wrote on a blackboard by his stand:

"Russians only 500 miles from channel ports!"

Today's spread of communism is, of course, different in operation from the Nazi expansion. Communists work from within, seizing key positions. As far as arms and men are concerned, there is no foreign intervention.

Both Mean Same

But as far as popular opinion in Britain is concerned, communism and Russia mean the same thing.

With France believed high on the list for a Communist Push, historians are recalling that this is the 100th anniversary of the French Revolution of 1848. Three February days—from the 24th to the 26th—saw rioting and bloody fighting on the barricades that brought down the Orleans Monarchy.

The outcome of that revolution course of history. A communist success in France today would have the same effect. If Britain managed to remain aloof from that turmoil 100 years ago, today she is watching with concern the sturdy efforts of Premier Robert Schuman to establish a stable government with the moderate "Third Force."

Adding to the feeling of uneasiness in Britain, is the knowledge that British military strength has rapidly diminished since the end of the war. Nobody is in the least belligerent, but all would feel better if Britain could speak with more authority.

Uneasiness Elsewhere

Events in Europe are not the only factors contributing to the general unhappiness. The squabbles with Latin-American countries over the Falkland Islands and Honduras have depressed and irritated Britons.

"And now—Honduras," said the Evening Standard wearily in a headline last week, as if this were the last straw.

A lot of people who had to look Honduras up on the map agreed that it was.

WANTS AGREEMENT CANCELLED

London, March 3 (AP)—Sir David Robertson, Conservative member of parliament, demanded last night that the government cancel its trade agreement with Russia. He said Britain is sending "weapons of war" to the Soviet Union. Britain agreed last fall to ship locomotives, steel and machinery to Russia in exchange for grains.

REGISTRATIONS CANCELLED

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—C. P. McTague, Chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, yesterday announced that registrations of three Toronto brokerage houses have been cancelled. They are: Canadian Securities)W. F. Bradley), Walter Richardson and Associates, Limited, and G. F. Cockburn and Company.

Nine Homeless As Grocery Burns

Ottawa, March 3 —(CP)—Nine persons, including three children were left homeless early today when fire swept through the Sadaka grocery store in West-End Ottawa. Damage to the two-storey frame structure has been estimated at $3,500.

The blaze was noticed by Mrs. Anna LeClaire, 56, who occupies the second-floor apartment with her daughter, Georgette. and two sons, Henri and Jean.

Within half an hour firemen had the blaze under control, but not before it had destroyed the first-floor store, and apartment, occupied by Ahmed Sadaka, his wife, and three children.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Lepers Lead Lonely Lives On B.C. Isle

Victoria (CP)—The leper colony on tiny Bentinck Island, 16 miles south of Victoria in the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, has now dwindled to three persons and they are finding life lonely.

A small party of newspapermen visited the island recently with the permission of federal authorities, and interviewed the residents.

Two Orientals and a matronly white woman, formerly a missionary, are Dr. Bertram Jenkins' only patients. He is the medical officer for the colony.

There are 10 neat, rain-washed cottages of sombre hues for the use of lepers, and three of these are occupied.

On the reporters' first visit to a leper's home, they were greeted by a middle-aged, motherly woman. She explained that she had a cake in the oven "for the boys"—the two other patients, a Chinese and a Japanese.

She had contracted the disease while a missionary in foreign service. One day she noticed a slight loss of sensation in her left leg and consulted the doctor. It was leprosy.

"I don't mind being alone or isolated. It is being cast out that hurts," she said. "Why should we not be allowed to live in an institution like a tuberculosis sanitarium? If people knew that we lived normally it might make a difference. Their attitude is so cruel—so wrong."

No leper has ever died of the disease, medical officials said, but are taken of a secondary ailment. Two have died on Bentinck from old age, one over 80.

Hopes For Company

The Chinese said he hoped another Chinese would come to Bentinck "to keep me company." "If I am not here when he come, he read about me up there," he laughed, pointing to a rough piece of beechwood recording in Chinese red letters the history of 10 lepers who have died on the island. He has been on Bentinck 11 years, having contracted the disease in a Canadian shingle mill.

Dr. Jenkins said there had never been a case where leprosy was contracted by a nurse, caretaker or visitor on the island, where no person under 21 is allowed.

Supplies, wood and medical requirements are brought from Vancouver Island by government launches which ply back and forth three or four times weekly. Letters leaving the island are sealed in a container containing formaldehyde fumes for 12 hours.

The third patient is a 26-year-old Nisei (Canadian-born Japanese), and he looks like any healthy youth. The disease affects only one leg and since settling on the isle his weight has risen from 130 to 160 pounds.

The humane and understanding manner with which the lepers are treated by Dr. Jenkins and his staff is reflected in the regard in which they are held by the patients. The lepers feel "at home" as much as their isolated circumstances permit.

Dr. Jenkins said chief handicap was a lack of recreational equipment. Even a small movie projector would be welcomed.

DOMICILIARY INFLUENCE

Old age pensions in Denmark are influenced by the domicile of the recipient. If he lives in the city he gets more than a country man.

ENGINE ROOM FLOODED

Belfast, March 3. —(Reuters)—The 7,140-ton Canadian government-owned freighter Mount Oxford Park arrived here in two today with her engine room flooded after a collision in the fog near here last night with a cross-Channel passenger ship, Duke of Argyll. There were no casualties.

Considerable Preparation Required To Present BBC Special Interviews

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 3 (CP)—One of BBC's most popular regular features is a series of interviews with men and women who are "In Town Tonight" and the whole thing is carried into millions of homes with an air of spontaneous informality.

But in Broadcasting House there's little spontaneity about the show.

Most subjects interviewed are nominated by friends or colleagues or have been spotted by BBC news scouts. They are first asked to complete a form to the effect that they are (A) Willing to be interviewed (B) Are not seeking to be interviewed for commercial motives.

Subject Interviewed

They are given a preliminary interview by an official at Broadcasting House to see if he or she is worthy of being interviewed on Britain's state-owned radio system. If satisfied, the official turns over the subject to a script writer. The finished script is submitted to the program director who, in turn, submits it to the producer.

After final approval, the interviewee is eventually requested to attend a rehearsal which may last anything from two to three hours with a short interval for tea.

The final broadcast, lasting half an hour permits four or five interviews of six or seven minutes duration. The fee is moderate and, when it's all over, interviewees are sometimes heard to ask: "Is it worth while?"

Yet despite the inconvenience few people ever decline to be interviewed.

All Types Sought

All types are brought to the microphone weekly — singers, movie-projectionists, train drivers, coal miners, actors, newspapermen and sometimes people doing very humdrum, work-a-day jobs.

Recently Cyril Ramon Newton, former London bandleader, told of his early adventures as a young emigrant to Canada before the First World War—road-making, farming, railroading surveying and, finally, playing the violin in a Wetaskiwin, Alta., movie theatre where he also had to "light the fires and keep the hall clean."

"In Canada," he told Britons "there isn't so much distinction between the manual and professional worker... I enjoyed doing both."

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF COSTA RICA NOW BEHIND BARS

Charged With Complicity in Killing of Two Customs Guards

San Jose, Costa Rica, March 4 (AP)—Otilio Ulate Blanco, whose election as Costa Rica's president was voided by Congress Monday, was behind bars today, charged with complicity in the killing of two customs guards.

Ironically, his arrest was personally directed by the War Minister, Gen. Rene Picado Michalski, who supported Ulate during the turbulent Feb. 8 elections. He is a brother of the present President, Licencido Teodoro Picado Michalski.

Army troops arrested Ulate and six political lieutenants in a private home here last night. Ulate, a Costa Rican newspaper publisher, had been sought since the customs guards were shot Monday night when they tried to enter the home of Carlos Valverde.

Valverde, a new-elected parliamentary deputy and follower of Ulate, was critically wounded.

Police said Ulate was known to have used Valverde's home as a hide-out after the elections touched off rioting in this central American republic.

Three choices had been given Ulate at his arrest, Picado said. He was allowed to choose between taking refuge in the Venezuelan Embassy, accepting house arrest while his followers were jailed, or going to an army jail with them.

"I prefer to stay with my friends who have been loyal to me," Picado said Ulate told him.

Ulate's arrest climaxed elections which resulted in wild rioting in San Jose, charges of fraud in the balloting, and high political tension.

Congress annulled Ulate's elections which resulted in wild rioting in San Jose, charges of fraud in the balloting, and high political tension.

Congress annulled Ulate's election Monday by a vote of 27 to 19, upholding claims of "scandalous fraud" brought by Ulate's government - backed opponent, former President Rafael Calderon Guardia.

Decree Precludes Vote by Catholics For Communists

Vatican City, March 3—(AP)—The Sacred Consistorial Congregation of the Roman Catholic church issued a decree today informing Catholics that they may vote only for candidates who will "respect and defend the rights of the church."

(Vatican sources said the decree applies to Catholics throughout the world. The pope himself serves as prefect of this congregation. Its members include James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto and Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York.

Throughout Italy Catholic prelates, following the lead of Alfredo Ildefonso Cardinal Schuster, immediately made clear that the decree precluded a vote of Catholics for communist or extreme left candidates. The consistorial congregation is the high legislative and administrative body of the church.

A pastoral letter by Cardinal Schuster two weeks ago ordered priests in his diocese to refuse absolution of communists.

The cardinal's letter also warned Catholics that a vote for communist candidates was "gravely illicit for the faithful."

The letter was attacked by the extreme left as a violation of Italy's electoral laws. There was a possibility that it might be discussed in today's session of a central committee of major political parties formed to help maintain electoral truce for the April 18 elections.

JUST FLOUR, NOT OPIUM

Los Angeles, March 3 —(AP)—Police chemists, examining 25 welded tins found in a bus terminal locker, reported they contained flour instead of opium, as the labels indicated.

Stickers attached to the tins and printed in Chinese read: "Beware of imitations."

DIGESTION OFF?
Jittery? Pepless?
—Your Nerves May Need Feeding

Every act—every movement of your body, no matter how small, is controlled by nerves. When nerves lack nourishment, every function of your body may suffer . . : digestion . . . bowels . . . muscles. You may sleep poorly, feel depressed, physically and nervously exhausted.

An impoverished blood condition due to lack of sufficient iron is often accompanied by nervousness, for nerves may thus fail to get their proper nourishment. So if you are nervous, rundown, pepless and tired with sluggish digestion and bowels because of this condition try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. They not only help build up the blood but they supply Vitamin B-1 which contributes to the normal functioning of the nervous system and the digestive tract. Then see what a difference your improved blood condition may make, not only in your energy and strength but in your nerves, digestion and bowel action. Will Repeat Charges At General Assembly Meeting in June

Sydney, N. S., March 4 — (CP) — Charges against Rev. Frank Lawson of Halifax, Moderator of the Halifax - Lunenburg Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, for alleged denial of the Virgin Birth were rejected for lack of evidence at a meeting here Tuesday of the Cape Breton Presbytery but a supporter of the charges said last night they will be repeated at the General Assembly of the Church in Toronto in June.

In a story yesterday The Canadian Press erroneously reported that it was the Presbytery that made the charge.

H. B. McCurdy of Sydney, a layman who attended Tuesday's Presbytery meeting, said the charge laid against Mr. Lawson arose from "his denial of the Virgin birth of our Lord, which is a violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian Church."

He said the charge would be raised at the June Toronto Assembly.

Last night three Presbytery officers issued a statement in which they denied that the Presbytery had made the charge against Mr. Lawson.

They said the charge had been made by a member of the Presbytery and had been rejected through lack of evidence.

The statement was signed by Rev. Hugh Jack, of Sydney, Moderator, Rev. Samuel Kerr, Glace Bay, N. S., and Rev. Earl Moore of Sydney.

Meanwhile in Halifax Mr. Lawson said he had not heard of the charge nor seen the report of the Presbytery meeting and he would wait for a full report before offering a comment.

SAYS MANY TEACHERS PAID POOR SALARIES

Toronto, March 4 — (CP)—J. Earl Lawson, head of a British film company (Rank) interests in Canada, last night told guests at the annual dinner of the Toronto Public School Masters' Association that salaries paid many Canadian teachers were "a national disgrace."

"Today more is asked of the teacher than ever before . . . yet we permit him to be the lowest-paid drudge among the learned professions."

Progress Marked In Livestock Field

Toronto, March 4 (CP) — Last year was a year of difficulties for Ontario farmers but "it was also a year of positive progress in the development of long term plans for improvement of agricultural conditions," the Throne Speech at the 1948 Ontario Legislature opening declared yesterday.

Reviewing 1947, the Speech said progress was particularly marked in the field of livestock in which new policies initiated by the Department of Agriculture were being "accepted with favor by farmers."

It listed such things as extension of scientific research at Ontario Agricultural College, Ontaria Veterinary College and the various experimental stations under the jurisdiction of the Department. These, the Speech said, have gone ahead rapidly in the last year.

It promised continuation of the research program "bringing to the aid of the farmers of Ontario all the resources of agricultural science."

Government Plans To Increase School Grants

Toronto, March 4 (CP)—Noting a great need for additional school accommodation in the province, the Ontario Government plans to increase school grants over last year's record expenditures.

In the Speech from the Throne at yesterday's 1948 Legislature session opening, The government said grants will exceed the $30,134,336 spent in 1947 by a substantial amount.

It said the Legislature will be asked to approve continuation of expanded activities in schools such as recreation programs conducted under the Physical and Health Branch of the department.

"Fifty-five communities now are conducting recreation programs under full-time directors. A notable part of this program is the provision of citizenship classes for recent arrivals in the province."

Reviewing welfare operations of the last year, the speech said unemployment relief has been increased due to increased cost of living. Mothers' allowances had also been increased. By agreement with the Dominion government, the province had undertaken to pay its 25 per cent share of old age pensions increased from $25 per month to $30. In addition a further provincial payment of $10 a month for cases of need had been provided for, and preliminary steps had been taken to inaugurate a system of rehabilitation for handicapped persons.

SAYS FOLSOM FATHER OF CHILD

Cullman, Ala., March 3 (AP)—An Alabama woman asked a court here yesterday to declare Governor James Folsom her legal husband and the father of her 22-month-old son. Folsom, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States presidency, is a widower.

COSTS $3.45 BUT MEAL IS A 'BIG' ONE

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — With his friend, George Bagnato paying the shot, Rocky Pasquino sat down in a tearoom for a snak last night. The meal cost $3.45.

This is what Rocky ate:

Three hot hamburger sandwiches, two hot chicken sandwiches, two hot roast beef sandwiches, 10 doughnuts, two pieces of cake, five cups of coffee and three soft drinks.

Said Rocky, after an hour's steady eating:

"I was born hungry."

Convent Nuns Asked Duplessis To Remove Polish Treasures, Police Never Entered Picture

Quebec, March 4 — (CP) — Proceedings in Quebec's Legislature in the midst of a session, generally believed to be a prelude to general elections, were overwhelmed today by the issues surrounding transfer of custody to the provincial government of Polish treasure brought to Canada during the war for safe-keeping.

The afternoon newspaper, L'Action Catholique, quoted Premier Duplessis as saying in a statement that the Polish valuables had been removed from a 300-year-old religious community to provincial care.

The statement, which the newspaper said had been given exclusively to it by the premier declared that the provincial government had intervened to "prevent the repetition of incidents regrettable and profoundly revolting for the population of our province."

L'Action Catholique quoted the premier as saying the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who in a later statement of their own, denied the charge, had "violated" the cloister of Quebec's Hotel Dieu, where part of the treasures were kept.

Early today Sister St. Henri, Superior of the Hotel Dieu, issued a statement through a Quebec lawyer explaining the position of the institution.

Police Make No Comment

In the meantime, Provincial Police who had no comment to make stood 24-hour guard over the treasures stored in steel vaults at the provincial museum located on the historic Plains of Abraham.

The statement by Sister St. Henri said that "several months ago" the Hotel Dieu Sisters had undertaken to keep parcels containing what were described as "precious objects."

The parcels had been received from a "very mysterious man of Polish nationality," said the statement and the "best possible care had been taken to keep them sheltered from all risk."

Sister St. Henri declared that month "another citizen of the same nationality, as Charge D'Affaires of the Republic of Poland" had claimed that the treasure parcels "should be given to him."

"Informed of this fact, the person who had confided them to us forbade us formally to accede to the request . . and ordered us to deliver the deposit to the Provincial Museum."

The statement continued:

"We then addressed ourselves to the premier of the province, who consented to transportation of the parcels to the Provincial Museum . . ."

The statement noted that there had been no "seizure" by the provincial government and the treasures had "never been under protection of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

"We accepted the deposit and remitted it according to instructions from the person who had effected it," the statement concluded.

U.S. Congress Tries to Pry Lid Off Secret Report

Washington, March 4 (AP) — The United States Congress tried anew today to pry the lid off a secret report on China.

The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee called the man who wrote the report—Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer as a witness on the pending $570,000,000 Chinese aid program.

Wedemeyer went to China last summer as President Truman's special representative. But the findings upon his return have never been made public.

The state department ruled that to do so might be "actually harmful" to both the United States and China.

Representative Walter Judd (Rep.-Minn.), a member of the House Committee, told reporters he is convinced that Wedemeyer's views conflict with those of State Secretary Marshall, who himself spent a year in China as Truman's personal envoy before taking over the cabinet post.

The committee already has learned that the views of Gen. MacArthur on help for China are at shop odds with those of Marshall and the president.

The administration program now before the Congress calls only for economic help for China. It proposes no guns, ammunition or other military assistance for the government troops battling Communist forces.

Prices Committee Prepares to Turn Spotlight on Butter

Ottawa, March 4 — (CP) — With the opening stage of its bread-price inquiry nearing a close, the Commons Prime Committee was preparing today to turn the spotlight on bread's dinner-table complement — butter.

The investigators, it was learned, had put butter next in an effort to find out what impelled the mid-winter surge in price that caused the government to clamp down a ceiling on the product.

After butter, according to present committee plans, will come eggs, meat, boots and shoes and textiles. However, the order in which they will be taken up has not been settled.

Whether or not the committee will look into commercial rentals, in view of the fact they are due to be decontrolled Monday, may be announced oday.

In the eighth day of its inquiry into rising bread prices, the committee heard yesterday that the Ontario Bakers' Association had tried twice in January — without success — to persuade the A. and P. grocery chain to increase its price of bread.

Sells for 10 Cents

The chain, which makes its own bread, sells it for 10 cents a loaf. The general price of bread then was 13 cents, and it has since risen to 14 cents.

George W. Bird of Toronto, A. and P. purchasing agent, told the committee a representative of the Bakers' Association had complained his company's price was "demoralizing" the industry.

He identified the spokesman as Clifford Ruttan of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Association. Mr. Ruttan, an earlier witness in the bread inquiry, was bakery administrator for the Prices Board until last November.

Mr. Ruttan had testified he knew of no agreements among bakers to fix prices.

Under committee questioning, Mr. Bird said Mr. Ruttan had approached his company twice about increasing its 10-cent price.

He said neither he nor the company took the alleged attempt seriously.

At times, he added, it received such representations from many facturers of other commodities, but it continued to follow its own price policies.

Free Transfusions Of Blood This Year For Most Canadians

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — Free blood transfusions will be available for the majority of Canadians within a year.

That's the word from Harold Leather, National chairman of the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service. He said the service already is in operation in British Columbia and Alberta and agreements have been signed with Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Prince Edward Island residents will be served through depots of the other two Maritime provinces.

URGES RE-OPENING OF PALESTINE SITUATION

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., March 4—(AP) — The Foreign Missions Conference, an organization representing 118 Protestant Foreign Mission Boards, yesterday, was told the General Assembly of the United Nations should re-open the Palestine situation for review. Such action was advocated by Dr. Flora Wysner, executive secretary of the committee of work among the Moslems and Rev. Garland Evan Hopkins, associate foreign secretary of the Methodist Church.

Selecting Site for Launching 'Barrel'

Mr. Frank Cormier, Mr. Malcolm Robb and Mr. "Bud" Gill of the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce are shown choosing a site at the Corbyville Dam for the launching of the 'Barrel" for the "Belleville Barrel Derby."

Plans for Belleville 'Barrel Derby' Set for April 25th Well Under Way

Plans for the 'Belleville Barrel Derby" sponsored by the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce are well under way. The "Barrel Derby," an event unique in the history of promotional schemes, is scheduled for April 24th.

At 2.00 p.m. on Saturday, April 24th, the judges chosen for the event will place a barrel in the Moira River at Corbyville Dam. From then on the swollen waters of the fabled Moira will carry the barrel, painted a brilliant orange and black, to the finish line at the lower bridge in Belleville.

In order to lend excitement and interest to this novel "Derby" the Junior Chamber of Commerce has arranged to provide the people of Belleville and district with an opportunity to officially estimate the elapsed time of the water journey of the barrel. Official estimate forms are now on sale. They may be purchased from any member of the "Jacee" and, at a later date, from certain merchants in the city. Attractive prizes, ranging in value from $10 to $500, will be awarded to those whose estimates are most accurate

A comprehensive set of rules has been drawn up to cover launching, timing, possible snagging of the barrel en route, the estimates, etc., and in order to help the public submit intelligent estimates, information concerning the idiosyncrasies of the Moira River, her history and peculiarities and other pertinent nautical data will be published from time to time.

The funds resulting from the sale of estimate forms will be devoted to the community projects planned by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1948. Among these are a clean-up campaign, a traffic safety club and a tourist development program.

Russ Policy Shows New and Sinister Side in Czech Events Says Labor Lord

London, March 4 — (Reuters)—Lord Pakenham, speaking for the government, condemned as "utterly damnable in every way" the communist "overthrow" of Czechoslovakia.

Replying to a debate on foreign affairs in the House of Lords, Lord Pakenham said "the unfortunate government of Finland (now) is being approached — embraced with the kiss of death."

The Communists were convinced "that we are being driven to desire their overthrow and they believe that our whole system is fundamentally decadent and unsound and doomed before long to collapse and give place to their own.

"We must spare no effort to live in charity with Russia. In the last resort we shall succeed or fail in determining Communists mentality by the way in which we shall succeed or fail ourselves."

Lord Pakenham spoke after Lord Salisbury, leader of the conservative opposition, had opened the debate by declaring that Russian policy had shown a "new and sinister side."

Hitler Technique Revealed

The same qualities which had animated Hitler had begun to make themselves apparent in those who directed Russian policy.

"Just as Germany snapped up Austria and Czechoslovakia, so Russia has snapped up Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary. The same technique was applied."

Britain was anxious to maintain good relations with Russia if possible but events of the last week made it impossible any longer to "ignore the threat which again overhangs Europe."

Lord Salisbury said the police state was a new word for old-fashioned tyranny. Britain had fought the last war against German despotism. Now it seemed that Europe was faced with something of the same threat from another great country — one which Britain had every reason to believe shared her views and whose gallant fight she had watched in the midst of her own life and death struggle.

Unless the present trend of Russian policy was reversed there was "a very real danger that the whole dreadful tragedy of 1939 will be re-enacted.

ACQUITTED OF SHELTERING ESCAPED GERMAN P. W.

St. Louis, March 4 — (AP) — Miss Gloria Sammartino, 25-year-old waitress, was acquitted yesterday by a Federal court jury of sheltering an escaped German prisoner of war. Her counsel contended Miss Sammartino's common-law marriage to the escaped prisoner, George Rudolf Von Hyeburg, was legal in Pennsylvania where they lived for several weeks. She did "nothing more than any wife would do," he argued.

Defence Counsel Are Preparing To Appeal Conviction

Ottawa, March 4 (CP)—Defence counsel today are preparing to appeal conviction of Mrs. Edna Emery and her husband, Leo Emery, sentenced to reformatory terms on charges of failing to provide for their four young children.

Magistrate Austin O'Connor yesterday sentenced the 29-year-old mother to a term of five months. The father, Leo Emery, is to go for five months definite and one month indefinite.

Although facing other charges, the couple were convicted on the grounds that they failed to provide the necessities of life for their four young children, found abandoned in a trailer Feb. 10.

Two other charges, that of abandoning a child under the age of two and of abandoning children under the age of two and thereby endangering their health, were withdrawn at the request of Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier.

In passing sentence, Magistrate O'Connor sternly warned that "parents cannot dodge the responsibility of caring for their children."

Earlier, yesterday, Leo Emery told a story crowded with marital troubles. He said his wife had gone off leaving him with the four children, the oldest of whom was six, and it was the fourth time she had gone away.

Asked if he should not have remained with the children the night of Feb. 9, when the children suffered from the intense 19-below-zero weather, Emery, who said he had gone out to again search for his wife, shrugged his shoulders and lowered his head.

SUCCESS STORY

Doncaster, England — (CP) — Brook Hardcastle, former colliery worker who expanded a backyard workshop into a chain of 45 radio and bicycle stores and whose land holdings included the Yorkshire village of Thixendale, died aged 51.

Long-Awaited Government Statement on Missing Polish Treasures Expected in House

Ottawa, March 4 —(CP)— A long-awaited formal government statement on the missing Polish art treasures — some of which were seized Feb. 25 by the Quebec government — may be made in the Commons today by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent.

He told the Commons yesterday that he prepared a report on the matter, with special rfeerence to the part played by the R.C.M.P., but postponed his pronouncement because of a newspaper dispatch from Quebec City.

Meanwhile, the R.C.M.P. last night issued a statement that it had made "no demand to enter . . . much less search" Hotel Dieu, a hospital and church institution at Quebec City.

The statement apparently was issued in reply to a story in L'Action Catholique which said that Premier Duplessis "gave orders to liberate the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu from grave and disgraceful annoyance" by R. C. M. P. officers who forced them to open their "cloister doors."

The report that the Quebec government "impounded" the treasures in the provincial museum "pending decision as to ownership," was confirmed Tuesday by government sources.

Found in Institution

The R.C.M.P. statement said that last December the Federal government instructed R.C.M.P. Commissioner S. T. Wood to locate the missing $1,000,000 treasures and "endeavor to keep the same under surveillance until a decision could be reached as to what action might be taken by the Polish legation."

Last month a part of the treasures — 23 trunks and one box—had been found in the Quebec City institution. They previously had been stored in the Redemptorist Monastery at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que.

The Mother Superior of Hotel Dieu had "quite readily informed" R.C.M.P. officers that the rteasures were there and had offered to show them.

At Quebec, Sister St. Henri, Superior of the Hotel Dieu, issued a statement in which the conduct of the R.C.M.P. was not mentioned. She indicated that a mysterious "Polish gentleman" had first brought the treasures to the institution and had arranged for their transfer to the museum when he learned an "agent" of the Polish republic was seeking them.

It is believed the statement which Mr. St. Laurent may make today will reaffirm the official R.C.M.P. statement. He told the Commons yesterday that the Quebec dispatch was "extraordinary in terms" and "inaccurate in its assertions."

BRIEF BID FOR FREEDOM

Orangville, March 4 —(CP)— Two 16-year-old boys, awaiting trial on theft and break-in charges, yesterday made a brief bid for freedom while shovelling snow in front of Dufferin County jail here.

Walter Giles was captured by a county snowplow crew after he successfully dodged jail governor Harry Coutts who followed his trail on skis.

James Black, only his nose showing was discovered hiding under a pile of straw in an Orangeville chicken pen.

They are to appear next Tuesday on charges arising from theft of a number of cameras from a Shelburne, Ont., store.

Alberta Chemist Seeking Gasoline From Natural Gas

Edmonton— (CP)— The conversion of natural gas to a cheap, high-quality gasoline is one of the problems now being studied by scientists at the University of Alberta research laboratories.

Research men all over the continent have been working at the project for years but as yet none have succeeded in producing a method that will make gasoline cheaply enough to compete with that obtained from petroleum. At university lab here, gasoline has been made from natural gas but not cheaply enough to make it feasible. The project is particularly important to Alberta with its huge untapped sources of natural gas.

Initial work on the synthesization of gasoline was begun at the university in 1943 by the late Dr. E.H. Boomer, professor of chemical engineering. Since his death, graduate students have been conducting the experiments.

Must Increase Yield

At present a 23-year- old chemical engine r from Vegreville, Alta., Michael Chmilar, is taking his master of science degree on the project. So far he has obtained one-quarter of a pound of gasoline from 35 cubic feet of carbon monoxide. Theoretically, twice that amount should be obtained and he now is attempting to increase the yield so the gasoline obtained can compete with ordinary petroleum gasoline.

Natural gas is converted to carbon monoxide is then combined with hydrogen gas in the presence of granulated cobalt metal at a temperature of about 200 degrees. The big problem at present is to find something besides the cobalt metal to combine the carbon monoxide and hydrogen. It's a big job—but Mr. Chmilar is optimistic about the results.

Weatherman Lonely On Remote Island

Sydney, Australia, —(CP)— One of the Empire's loneliest jobs is undertaken each year by three volunteers from the Australian Commonwealth meteorological bureau.

The three men go out to the meteorological station on Willis Island, a tiny dot in the Pacific about 275 miles east of the North Queensland coast and remain there without direct contact with the outside world for 12 months.

Each year a patrol boat visits the island to take three men to relieve the occupants and bring enough food—and two new can-openers— to keep the newcomers alive during their 12-month stay.

Every three hours of each day the meteorologists flash the latest weather reports back to Australia. Other than that there is nothing for them to do but cook, sew, repair and maintain the station and its equipment—and count the days left before the patrol boat comes to take them back to civilization.

Christopher Soames, looks on, Mrs. Soames, the former Mary Churchill, daughter of Winston Churchill, England's ex-prime minister, proudly shows off their first child, a son, born Feb. 12 at the Churchill country estate at Westerham, England. The infant, as yet unnamed, is the famed British statesman's fifth grandchild.

Native Haligonian at 32 Is Veteran Shipping Magnate

By WYN RHYDWEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, (CP) — In an unpretentious oak-panelled back office near the waterfront, quiet Harry Isaac Mathers directs the helm of a shipping realm that is potentially one of the world's largest.

A second-generation Canadian and native Haligonian, Harry as he is called by all his employees, is only 32 and certainly doesn't look the part of a shipping magnate.

But in 1951 he expects to be operating a fleet of 80 10,000-ton freighters and one tanker. Already he has 13 cargo carriers plying the shipping lanes of the seven seas. This summer he will take delivery of nine more along with the tanker, which, he admits, may well be the start of a fleet of oil carriers. The remainder are on order.

Three years ago, even then a veteran in the shipping world, the young man inherited a family firm started 76 years ago by his grandfather. Harry branched out and organized as a shipowner in 1941.

Just two years ago his company bought its first ship, the former Lakeview Park, and renamed it the Halifax County which, at the moment, is in Australian waters. All his ships have been named after Nova Scotia and British Columbia counties. When he runs out of names there he may include counties of other provinces.

Although he never went to sea, Harry absorbed as much of salt spray and ships as could be had from a dockside. At 17 he left King's College School at Windsor, N.S., to take a stenographer's job in his father's office.

Shipping is in Harry Mather's blood. I. H. Mathers and son of which he now is president was organized by his grandfather after he arrived in Halifax from Ireland. At one time the firm operated schooners, but with the advent of steam the fleet slowly dwindled and became only a managing and agency business.

Organized Company

The urge to operate ships to foreign ports as his grandfathers had done was strong in young Harry and it was while a director of I. H. Mathers and Son, of which his father was then president, that he organized Acadia Overseas Freighters Limited.

During the war years Acadia operated ships on a charter basis. With the end of hostilities it began to buy up all the Canadian-built Park ships the government had for sale.

Harry learned the shipping and stevedoring business the hard way. After a fling at stenography, his father put him to work on the docks and he had to slog it out with the other dock workers.

"I had all kinds of jobs," he smiles now. "I worked at just about every job on the docks and in the office."

Today he is president of 10 firms, director of four others.

Curling is his number one hobby. A member of the Ashburn Golf Club, he does not play golf; a member of the Nova Scotia Yacht Club, he does not sail.

"I don't really know—so much of it is invested," he says of his personal wealth which he would rather not discuss anyway. "Somebody told me the other day I was worth at least $5,000,000. I thanked him very much."

Considerable of the backing for his shipping empire was provided by private Greek financial interests. As well as interest from his investments the young president draws a regular salary from the firm.

In politics Harry is a Liberal. His uncle, Frederick Francis Mathers, K.C., was at one time lieutenant-governor of his native province.

Premier Condemns Subversive Forces

Wellington, N.Z., (CP)— Outspoken condemnation of forces inside New Zealand threatening to destroy democracy has been voiced by Prime Minister Peter Fraser.

"Forces are at work throughout the world to destroy democracy and to create totalitarianism under various names," he declared in a recent statement of aims.

"Dictatorship, whether of individuals, groups, or sections, cannot be countenanced and must be opposed.

"In New Zealand we have had small groups vociferous out of all proportion to their importance who have threatened the continuity and welfare of the economic and social life of our country. This menace, if it continues, must be faced conclusively in the coming year, and the government may be compelled to ask for the full support of the people to enforce the observation of the principles of democracy in our industrial and economic life.

"I feel sure that the people of New Zealand will respond to any request to combat any suversive and destructive influences inside our country as wholeheartedly as they helped to fight the menace of Nazism and Fascism."

Find Adobe Walls In Pioneer Home

St. Thomas, Ont., (CP)—Workmen probing the century-old walls of a house at nearby Port Stanley have uncovered evidence of the pioneer's art as a housebuilder. Behind the quarter-inch plaster, electricians found foot-thick adobe walls—still as solid as the day an early Canadians poured straw-mixed clay into wooden forms.

From the street, white-painted lap siding gives the house a modern appearance. But beneath stair wells and in the cellar handhewn oak, walnut timbers and hand-split lath betray its great age.

W.H. Williamson present owner of the 12-room building, says the adobe walls make his home comfortable despite the fact that it is perched on a hill overlooking the village and the harbor.

Forced Landings Don't Worry Vet

Kentville, N.S., (CP)— George D. Johnston, an R.C.A.F. veteran, considers himself lucky to be walking around these days after subjecting himself to two forced landings in less than a week.

Flying his ski-equipped Piper Cub aircraft here from Caledonia in Cape Breton, Johnson was forced down on Paradise Lake by a bad sleet storm. He had to spend the night on the lake and took off again for Kentville.

A few days later he was down again, this time with engine trouble.

"I was on a trip from Parrsboro, N.S., to Kentville, easing along at about 6,000 feet when suddenly my engine conked out," he said. "But I managed to glide six miles to a landing on the frozen dikeland."

The plane came to a gentle rest a few yards from the Cornwallis River bridge, about a five-minute walk from the centre of this town.

When repairs were made he climbed into the plane and took off again. He had a short taxi run and he engine faltered as soon as he cleared the ground. The plane shot between a woodworking plant and foundry.

But his luck was still with him. He finally got straightened away and landed eventually at the airport he owns and manages at Waterville, N.S.

DIES IN PLUNGE TO STREET

New York, March 4 — (AP) — Phillip Stack, 60, who contributed poetry to Walter Winchell's syndicated Broadway column under the pseudonym "Don Wahn," was killed today in a 12-storey plunge from a mid-Manhattan apartment building. Police, listing the death as apparent suicide, said Stack left a note saying he was "incurably ill."

"Rehab" Training Establishes Veterans on Civvy Street

Ottawa. (CP) — Canada is getting the greatest injection of skilled hands and brains in its history through operation of vocational training and university courses for ex-service men and women.

In this, politics has gone out the window, say officials of the federal department of veterans' affairs, with Dominion and provincial governments — Liberal, Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit—co-operating to the full.

Some 150,000 will have been trained when the program ends; 92,000 vocationally, of whom 16,000 still are in training; and 58,000 in universities and colleges, with 32,000 still in attendance. In addition 15,000 are taking correspondence courses. Of the total, 10,000 are women, 7,000 vocational and 3,000 college.

Building and mechanical trades are most popular in vocational courses to produce steam-fitters, sheet-metal workers, masons, plasterers, plumbers, carpenters, bricklayers, electricians. About 400 trades are taught, 150 in schools, the remainder "on the job" — bookkeepers, draftsmen, clerks, barbers, actors, dancers; whatever a veteran may wish to to go into, even to a clarinetist who has appeared in a command performance before the Duchess of Luxembourg.

College Students

Current college students include 12,000 in arts and science; 6,000 engineering; 2,500 commerce; 1,500 agriculture; 1,500 law; 900 medicine; 500 dentistry.

The first trickle started in 1943; the peak came in late 1946; virtually the last will be through in the early 1950s. Last date for application was Dec. 31, except for pensioners and patients now in hospital.

Results:

Eighty per cent of those who have completed their courses are employed in occupations for which they were trained; only five per cent are among occasional unemployed.

In the last college academic year 87 per cent passed; 13 per cent failed. One university's survey showed all of 210 recent veteran graduates employed at salaries averaging more than $2,000 a year.

Arthur W. Crawford, director of training for the department of veterans' affairs, says of the students:

"They are doing far better than ever could have been hoped for, and in turn are giving something to the colleges

"The ex-servicemen, several years older than students just coming out of high school, have brought a new maturity to the class-rooms; they are quicker to challenge established ideas and to question them in the light of their own experiences.

"Married men show firmer purpose than those with fewer responsibilities.

"Universities too are to be congratulated. They didn't say 'come and take your turn' when faced with a flood which doubled their enrolments. They improvised—some virtually built new communities; others put army huts on their campuses. Thus we have been able to take care of all applications almost without delay, except in medicine and dentistry which offer special problems.

Paid While Studying

Trainees and students are paid while studying, and allowances to married veterans were increased recently ,retroactive to Jan.

The present scale is: single veterans $60 monthly; married $90 monthly, plus $18 for the first child, $14 for the second, $12 for the third; $10 for each additional one year students may borrow up to $500 a year, and a maximum of $2,000 over the course.

Vocational instruction is given through Canadian Vocational Training, set up through Dominion-provincial co-operation before the war It was intended for War Emergency Training to find personnel for war plants, especially in replacing men of service age.

Now it operates training for veterans, and the federal minister of labor is advised by a council representing provincial departments of education, organized labor, manufacturers, women's organizations and the general community. Cost is borne through the federal department of labor, but the work is done through provincial staffs.

Some of the schools across Canada handled as many as 5,000 persons at a time at the peak of vocational training, operating day and night classes. College and university courses are given in every province in some 40 institutions.

Direct vocational and university training is augmented by part-time instruction and by correspondence courses and the department of veterans' affairs recently took over more than 90 correspondence courses formerly given by the Canadian Legion Educational Services.

Training in Hospitals

There is Institutional Training in hospitals and convalescent centres, including bedside instruction, as one aspect of "physical medicine"—applying the term to rebuilding not only the body but the "whole man".

A Counselling Service attempts to send men into the work for which they are best suited, and sometimes to persuade them to stay out of lines for which they have little aptitude or in which employment is limited.

"There is no use training 3,000 shoemakers if there is employment for only 300," an official commented.

Nearly all take their courses in Canada, but where facilities are not available or particular post-graduate work is required, they may study elsewhere. About 500 (127 vocational—369 university) have been approved for Britain and northwest Europe, and about 2,900 (1,094 vocational—1,814 university) for the United States.

A large group in Europe and the United States are post-graduate medical students, but other studies run from dry cleaning to nuclear physics.

"The United States Veterans' Administration and universities are treating our boys like their own," a department official said.

The influx of skills into the stream of Canadian life is expected to do much to solve a situation which had been a worry —the relatively few trained workmen who had been coming along to replace craftsmen passing out of industry. What the university-trained men will mean to Canadian professional and scientific life lies in a hopeful future.

1,000 RINGS STOLEN

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—A gang of shopbreakers were believed by police to have broken into a downtown apartment garage early today and escaped with $11,500 worth of rings, including diamonds from the automobile of Jules Nisenbaum, a jewelry salesman.

The thieves cut a hole through the roof of Nisenbaum's car and when he went to start it this morning, he found two leather cases containing more than 1,000 rings, were missing.

WOBBLY SENATOR MUST HOLD FORT --ON HIS FEET

By C. R. BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, (CP)—Precedent and tradition rather than written rules provide a striking instance of man's inhumanity to man in the United States Senate where a member, perhaps old and wobbly, may be forced to stand on his feet four hours to deliver a speech he could make in one hour.

It arises from the understanding that once a senator gets the nod from the presiding officer he has the floor only until he resumes his seat.

This is how it works out:

Senator Blank has prepared a speech on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project and has arranged with the party leaders and presiding officer that he will get the floor immediately after opening formalities of Monday's sitting which starts at noon.

He gets the nod from the chair and stands up to his paper piled desk but immediately a dozen or more senators are on their feet, each clamoring for Senator Blank to yield just a moment for a unanimous consent request or some such reason that "will take only a matter of seconds."

The senator yields and sometimes it is for a simple request or bills accompanied by windy explanations through which Senator Blank, pained and wearied and impatient ,shifts from one foot to the other, leans and shrugs and stretches—but does not sit down on his well-padded chair.

Finally, often an hour after he first got the floor, Senator Blank launches into his speech. The throng of senators has dwindled.

His troubles are not yet over. Those who bother to remain are interested in the speech either as an opponent anxious to handicap the speaker, or as a supporter, anxious to help him.

So he is frequently asked to "yield" and if he doesn't he is considered lacking in co-operation or downright mean and, if he does, he may open the way for some opponent to speak several minutes and put him off the track of his carefully prepared speech.

If it is a friendly interruption he may welcome it as a chance to rest his vocal chords, but not his weary frame. He still stays on his feet.

Under the rules the member who holds the floor may yield only for a simple question or a parliamentary inquiry. But in practice the "questions" are often long-winded interventions.

The point of order is seldom raised but it is useful when a senator is filibustering. Then he may prime friends to interrupt him so that he may rest his tongue, but not his body, and in such cases his opponents raise the point that he can yield only for a question and the chair must admit the point.

Perhaps anyone who speaks for an hour or more deserves this sort of punishment. But it seems cruel treatment even for a long-winded senator.

COUNCIL VOTES INCREASES

Hamilton, March 3 (CP)—City council by a vote of 16 to 4 last night voted itself increases in salary which will amount to 50 per cent for aldermen. A schedule adopted specified that the mayor's salary should be raised $1,000 to $5,000, controllers increased $1,100 to $3,500, and aldermen boosted to $1,000 from $500.

Blind Annie Fisher Teaches Sightless

Edmonton, Alta.—(CP)— Annie J. Fisher hasn't seen a kitchen in 30 years. She hasn't seen anything since the day in Boston when she was struck in the eye by a snowball. She is blind—and also deaf.

But Miss Fisher is an instructor and has taught more than 1,000 sightless people in northern and central Alberta. She can take a blind, despairing mother and teach her once again to tend a stove, cook and run a household. And she's proficient at knitting, crocheting, beadwork, leathercraft, basketry, cane-weaving, typing, writing and reading Braille and Moon type.

She has been a home teacher for 25 years—as long as any blind person engaged in the same work in Canada. Her despair in not her double handicap—it's that the lack of proper facilities, equipment and space keep her from teaching as many as she might.

"Sympathy—public or otherwise—is not what blind people want," she says. "Support which would make it possible for them to re-adjust their lives through training and reassurance is what they actually need."

As for herself—Miss Fisher considers herself lucky.

"I think I am. When my sight suddenly went I went to a training school for the blind in Boston. Certainly I missed my old friends and activities but I didn't suffer the let-down that so often accompanies blindness. I liked the training, was interested and readjustment came easily."

STEAL REFRIGERATOR

Hamilton, March 3 —(CP)— Thieves who may have thought that spring was on its way and wanted to keep their food on ice stole a 700-pound electric refrigerator from a restaurant outside the city limits. They had to cut through heavy electric wiring to remove the cumbersome cooler.

PISTOL DUEL FIGHT IN ARGENTINE

Burnos Aires, March 3 (AP)— Two members of the Argentine Congress fought a duel with pistols yesterday. No one was hurt. Rudolfo Decker, editor of the newspaper Laborista which supports the government of President Peron, and Lt.-Col. Gregorio Pomar, a member of the Radical opposition, each fired one shot. They left the field without reconciliation of a political dispute.

Canadiens' Victory Over Leafs Revives Montreal Hopes Of Entering Stanley Cup Playoffs

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

That booming sound on the banks of the St. Lawrence today was an echo of the cheers of Montreal Canadiens' supporters, all of a sudden convinced that their once-mighty Canadiens can still make the Stanley Cup playoffs.

With all six National Hockey League teams in action last night, the fifth - place Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 right at Toronto. The Detroit Red Wings defeated New York Rangers 4-2, and the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks held Boston Bruins to a 4-4 tie in beantown.

That leaves Detroit and Toronto once more tied for the lead, and Detroit has eight games left to Toronto's seven. Boston, in the fourth and last play-off spot behind New York, now is only six points, or three games, ahead of the Canadiens, and each team has eight games left. Canadiens in turn are only a point ahead of the last-place Hawks, but have one game more than the Hawks on the schedule before the league play finishes March 21.

Rookie Scores Twice

In their first victory on Toronto ice this season, Coach Dick Irvin's Canadiens were always ahead last night. Rookie Norm Dussault scored in the first period, and Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored twice in the middle frame. Bill Durnan, sensational in the Montreal goal throughout, was robbed of a shut-out when Toronto's rookie Sid Smith ran wild to score twice within 21 seconds in the last period.

Gus Mortson of Toronto sparked a free-for-all in the first period as he charged Durnan while the goalie was out of his net. Mortson served a minor and major penalty and a major was also given Durnan, but he didn't serve the time. Instead, referee Bill Chadwick gave Leafs a penalty shot, and Max Bentley muffed it. Over the whole session Durnan had 41 saves, compared with 22 for Turk Broda.

The Red Wings meantime kept the Rangers well in check at Detroit. Ted Lindsay in the first period, Gord Howe and Pete Horeck in the second and Leo Reise in the last period were the Detroit goal-scorers, with Rangers hotly disputing Reise's goal. Ed Slowinski and Tony Leswick got the New York counters.

Bruins Were Rolling

Boston Bruins were on the wrong end of a 4-1 score when the third period started at Boston. Bud Poile and Ralph Nattrass scored for the Hawks in the first frame, and Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley scored in the second. Up to then Boston's only count against young goalie Emile Francis was the goal by Woody Dumart late in the first period.

The Bruins were rolling in the final period however. Jimmy Peters scored on a backhand shot, Knobby Warwick on a fast drive and Johnny Pierson got the tying goal on a pass from Don Gallinger.

Tonight's only game has Boston at Canadiens, where Montreal victory would put Canadiens within four points of the Bruins.

Delay Cannot Be Helped Says Prexy of Bruins

Detroit, March 4 (AP)— The National Hockey League today continued a probe of reported betting involving league players as Boston Bruins president Weston Adams termed it involuntary "mass torture."

Adams, who conferred at Lansing Tuesday with league president Clarence Campbell and Detroit and Michigan officials, held a meeting with newspaper men last night prior to the Bruins' game in Boston.

"The delay in any announcement by president Clarence Campbell can not be helped. It is one of the cruellest forms of mass torture ever inflicted on any team in any sport," he said.

Adams emphasized that he knew "nothing more now than when I went to Michigan" when the league took note of the rumored betting scandal.

Campbell meanwhile continued his quiet probe of the reported betting which players of Boston and New York teams have denied.

Campbell was reticent to discuss the progress he is making in running down details of information supplied him at the direction of Governor Kim Sigler.

The N.H.L. President said when the evidence was given him Tuesday that "it undoubtedly warrants expulsions," but he gave no indication as to the players involved.

The hockey boss is due to go to Chicago, New York and Boston to probe other details of the rumored betting. He is scheduled to return here Monday to tell Sigler what progress he is making in the investigation.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Nels. McGaffin, genial prexy of the Kingston Ponies entry in the border Baseball League, has gone into a new field in an effort to weld closer together the fandom of his city and district with the baseball laddies of the Ponies and other Border squads.

• • •

Mr. McGaffin has blossomed forth with a neat four-page miniature newspaper which he calls "Your Pony Express-Hot Stove League Issue." The first edition of the Express arrived yesterday and a quick perusal gives us the impression that it will serve a grand purpose. The editor plans to keep the baseball public abreast of the Border League times with breezy items and articles which otherwise would not be aired. Its a fine move on the part of the Kingston president and should serve its purpose with outstanding success.

• • •

The "Pony Express" carries a story of Norman Dussault the Victoriaville Tigers, hockey, star, who flashed into overnight prominence when he was drafted by Les Canadiens and immediately clicked with his aggressive style of play. He cavort in the Pony outfield this season Dussault was a member in the Border League two years ago when he led the circuit in stolen bases with 43 and batted .325 in 86 games finishing directly behind Barney Hearth and Fred Gerken in the averages.

• • •

The French-Canadan flash was sold to Kingston at the end of that season but decided to sit last year out. He played with his home team, Sherbrooke, in the Provincial League.

• • •

Maurice Courteau, scrappy little goalkeeper of the Philadelphia Rockets, who trained here with the team last fall, has Jack Stewart's "stitch" record all shot to pieces. Stewart, Red Wing defenceman has had 203 pieces of gut inserted into various parts of his anatomy since he started bumping 'em behind the bluelines, but Maurees, b'gar, she has got dat beaten all to 'ell. He has had 269 stitches to clamp hockey wounds during his career.

• • •

In addition he has lost four teeth, had both cheekbones broken—his right one twice — he has had four broken fingers, four broken ribs, three broken toes and had his nose smashed four times.

• • •

Yet Courteau never has missed a game because of injuries! Tie that if you can!

His record for stitches reads like this log book of a plastic surgeon.

• • •

He has had 75 on the top of his head, 18 on the mouth, 20 on the chin, 19 over the left eye, 22 over the right eye, eight over the right ear, 12 inside the nose, ten outside the nose on bridge, four on forefinger of left hand, three on the second finger, three on the little finger, seven on the palm of hand, four on the middle finger of right hand, nine on the thumb, eight on the palm, 12 on the right foot, ten on the left foot, 12 on the left arm, six on the right arm and seven on the right elbow.

• • •

Courteau is not one of those fellows who goes out looking for trouble, like a defenceman. It literally skates into him. He's like Turk Broda, colorful goaltender of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who replied, when someone asked how he got his lips split, "I just forgot to duck."

• • •

Courteau, a native of Quebec City, speaks English with a strong French accent. He was a fine goalie with the Boston Olympics for several years, saw some service with the Boston Bruins of the National League, and has been with the Rockets for the past several campaigns.

• • •

As an amateur, he guarded goal for six championship clubs, with the Quebec Aces, Noranda Copperkings and Boston Olympics. He is married and the daddy of four children, three boys and a girl.

Maurice is the Mr. Stitch of hockey.

THURSDAY THOUGHTS

Allen (Joe) Kelleher, will go south to the Albany Senators training camp, so he tells us ...Representatives of the various U.S. boxing commissions will conclave in an effort to drag higher brackets boxing upwards to a point where its chin whiskers will be resting on the curb ... Cocky Jersey Joe Walcott has started slinging the boast-toasties around the boxing firmament ... says Joe Louis is practically a has-been, and that he (Walcott) won't fight the same kind of fight that featured his last appearance against the Sepia Slugger ... We may be all damp, etc. but in our opinion unless Walcott has taken some elixir of youth pills if he wants to knock Louis kicking, he'll put his gloves on six-foot poles and get astride a motor-bike in the ring come June ... Merchants Midgets will likely make the trek to Waterloo next week taking it for granted that that team dusts off Collingwood tonight, by car ... It's an over night jaunt for the youngsters, the round trip being in the vicinity of 400 miles ... Meanwhile the kids are practicing hard ... They went through a stiff workout last night, and were going at top-speed...

• • •

Trenton Flyers have protested the game against Trenton Hockey Club played the other night despite their 4-3 victory ...Protest is against Bridgman wearing facial protection ... apparently rulebook says "No." but Trenton officials claim that Bill Hewitt, OHA secty, said "Okay" ... Seems that the appearance of the Bastedo kids on the Trenton line-up caused the Flyer management to have a change of heart re the protest ... Which will be but more spice and vinegar for the game next Saturday night between the squads which should be a classic ... The crepe is out in Oshawa today ... Windsor Spitfires sent them into the Junior "A" discard last night with a 2-1 victory ...

• • •

Marmora and Norwood tied six-all in their first game of the Trent Valley Loop finals in Madoc last night ... Eddie (Peterborough) Murphy has called a meeting of fans, players and others interested in senior baseball this season, for Saturday afternoon ... And thereby hangs a tale ... We'll have an exclusive on senior ball here this summer in tomorrow's pillar ... Don't be surprised, if there is a senior baseball loop hereabouts come June ... Belleville Softball Association expects to get matters cleared up next week, then go into conclave for this season's activities ... Several mushball enthusiasts of the city and district are trekking to Kingston on Good Friday to take in the OASA annual ... Modern MacBeth. "Is this a shovel I see before me —the handle toward my hand. Come, let me clutch thee" ... No, t'ell with it. Give the kid next door a half-dollar and let him clean the sidewalk...Thasall.

MILLERS STILL LEAD

(By The Canadian Press)

Minneapolis Millers still head the parade in the Northern Division of the United States Hockey League even though they lost their third straight game last night, bowing 6-4 to Omaha Knights.

In the league's only other game Dallas Texans took a 6-1 drubbing from Kansas City Pla-Mors, enabling the Kansas City team to widen their second-place hold in the Northern Division to three points over Omaha.

Cleveland Barons Fix Their Sights On New Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons today fixed their sights on a new American Hockey League record for the most consecutive games without a setback.

Last night in Pittsburgh, the high-flying Barons came from behind to edge Hornets 2-1 for their 19th game in a row without a loss, tying the league mark set by Pittsburgh last season. On Saturday night, Cleveland has a chance to break the mark when they play host to the Eastern Division leaders, Providence Reds.

The victory gave Barons a five-point edge over the second-place Hornets in the race for the first place in the western division. Church Russell scored the winning goal, a minute after Bobby Carse had knotted the count in the third period. Pittsburgh's lone tally was netted by Pete Backor early in the final session.

In Buffalo, the third-place Bisons grabbed an early 5-0 lead and went on to beat Providence 8-5. Murdo McKay paced the Bisons with a three-goal effort, including a goal on a penalty shot. Doug Lewis and Tommy Cooper picked up two goals each while Freddie Hunt scored one.

Harry Taylor netted two goals for Reds with one each going to Johnny Chad, Roger Bedard and Ab Collins.

In the only other contest on tap last night, Vernon (Wimpy) Jones scored three times as Springfield Indians downed Philadelphia Rockets 8-6. Other Indian goal-getters were Bill Gooden, with two, and Ken Hayden, Bill Summerhill and Paul Courteau one each. George Defelice paced the Rockets attack with a pair of goals while Steve Wochy, Phil Hergesheimer, Wendell Jamieson and Orville each blinked the light once.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

Edmonton, March 4. (CP)— Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore hopes that Pacific Coast Hockey fans soon may be in for a treat.

He has suggested that the runner-up in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League "might pick up a little easy change by giving hockey lessons to coast clubs in exhibition games."

And, he says, the suggestion seems to have goaded the coast leaguers to action.

Tom goes on:

"Coley Hall of Vancouver Canucks is reported to be trying to arrange such a series if his own team finishes as runner-up in the coast circuit's northern division. . . Such a meeting would rate far above most post-season exhibition games, should give coast fans some of their best hockey in years.

"Incidentally, it should be nice to see Pacific teams in the Allan Cup picture in future years rather than degenerating into a strictly fourth-rate pro circuit, as is very probable if the loop persists in turning professional."

In sign of devotion to Calgary Stampeders of the W.C.S.H.L., Tom discusses the case of Mrs. N. A. Pharis of Tod Creek, Alta.

Many people doubtless collect buttons, he says. But just as probably there are very few button collections like that owned by Mrs. Pharis.

"She recently wrote Calgary Stampeders asking if the players would each send her a button, to be mounted and displayed with appropriate notes of their connections."

Tampa, Fla., March (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds may not have the best ball club in the majors (who said "may not? They don't) But the chances are they have the biggest ... of 38 players on the roster, 27 are six feet or more tall and two of the others are less than half an inch under...

Tallest is 6-6, 190 pound Ewel Blackwell, but another pitcher Walker Cress is 6-5 and trainer Dr. Wilbur Bohm is about 6-5 and weighs 265 pounds ... it looks like a blooming basket ball squad ... even Jewel Ens, the Syracuse manager was surprised to see how tall shortstop Red Stallcup looks on the practice field. He's listed at 6-3 and has a lanky, almost awkward way of moving around, but he gets in front of the ball...

The Reds plan to stake a scientific experiment on the results of baseball television next summer, televising all week-days and four of their seven Sunday games. They plan to pair up the Sunday games that are aired and those that aren't as closely as possible and then compare attendances ... Ewell Blackwell's 16-game winning streak doesn't look too hot to one rookie pitcher in camp here. Harry Perkowski won 17 straight for Ogden, Utah, 1946 ... Oshawa Generals Eliminated By Windsor Spitfires

(By The Canadian Press)

Last night's Ontario Hockey Association games were heartbreakers to some teams but wonderful victories for others as two semi-final winners were decided and another team went into a one-game lead. No games were played in either the senior or junior divisions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

In the O. H. A. senior 'A' loop Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen trounced Owen Sound Mercurys 9-3 to take their best-of-five semi-final series in three straight games. The Dutchmen now meet Hamilton Tigers, winners of the first semi-finals, for the league title.

In the junior section Windsor Spitfires squeezed out a 2-1 victory over Oshawa Generals to win their best-of-seven semi-finals 4-2, and qualify to meet the winner of the Galt-Barrie series for the championship. Barrie Flyers swamped Galt Rockets 10-2 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five semi-finals.

Mercurys Outclassed

In taking their third straight victory from Owen Sound, the Dutchmen completely outclassed the Mercury crew as they led all the way and carried most of the play. Mercurys kept close only until the end of the initial frame when the Dutchmen led 3-2. From there on it was a question of how many goals the Dutchmen would win by.

Art Hurst and Bobby Bauer paced the Dutchmen with a brace apiece while Don Bauer, George Zuk, Doug Verity, Johnny Blute and Sparky Weller added one each. Jack Ingoldsby, Bun White and Miller were the Owen Sound snipers.

A freak goal in the first period gave the Windsor crew their early lead over the Generals. Johnny Wilson of the Spitfires lifted a shot towards the Oshawa nets and the puck was deflected off Gerry Scott's stick behind Pete Piquette. From there on the Spitfires checked the Generals into the ice and added another in the 3rd period on an effort by Ed Busch. The lone Oshawa goal came in that third frame as the Generals swarmed in desperately, with Joe LaFrance finally connecting.

Oshawa Checked into Ice

The Oshawa team was made to look impotent most of the time as the Spitfires checked them at every turn and outhustled them on the attack. Oshawa passing was poor as Spitfire players broke up organized attacks time after time. Ray Cerisino missed the game because of a leg injury.

After the first period which ended with Galt leading 1-0 on a goal by Wiggie Wylie, the Barrie Flyers climbed all over the Rockets to take that one-game lead. Harry Marchand was the only other Rocket scorer.

Stan Long and Bill Barrett paced the Flyers with two goals each while Whit Mousseau, Ray Gariepy, Rusty Aikin, Gil St. Pierre, Jerry Reid and Ray Mayer each scored one. Barrie will have a chance to end the series at Galt Friday.

U.S. Hockey Team Arrives Home, Criticize Brundage

(By The Canadian Press)

The Amateur Hockey Association hockey team that represented the United States at the winter Olympic games over the protests of the American Olympic Committee, arrived at New York yesterday full of defiance at Avery Brundage.

"He is a dictator and he always has been a dictator," said John D. Semple, the trainer who acted as spokesman for the team, in referring to Brundage, American Olympic Committee President. "Despite what he said to the press, the hockey games were considered a part of the Olympic games and all our players were awarded Olympic medals."

The A. H. A. team finished fourth in the Olympic hockey competition which Canada won.

Eight Toronto boxers sponsored by the Central Ontario Athetic Union will take part in an intercity fight show at Rochester and Grand Rapids, Mich., March 8 and 11. The fighters, ranging from featherweights to heavyweights, will be coached by Vic Bagnato of Toronto, who will accompary them on the trip.

Canada's Olympic championship hockey team, R.C.A.F. Flyers, last night suffered a 2-1 setback from the Scottish hockey team as play continued in the four-country international round-robin tournament which winds up March 6.

In the first round last Saturday, Canada overwhelmed the Czechs 8-4 while the Paris club edged out the Scottish representatives 3-2.

More than 900 fans jammed the Petrolia arena last night to see Sarnia Sailors play Owen Sound in the Senior "B" O.H.A. playoffs, only to be told that Owen Sound had misunderstood the date and thought the game was set for Thursday night.

George P. McCarthy Jr., of Bridgeport, Conn., and Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., won the Seminole club's professional-amateur golf tournament at Palm Beach, Fla., yesterday with a best-ball of 127 for 36 holes.

Ottawa may be the scene of the 1949 world figure skating championship competition. Donald B. Cruikshank of the Minto Skating Club indicated at a recent meeting of social, athletic, service clubs and recreational association representatives here. It was suggested an attempt would be made to have it coincide with the winter carnival, which is expected to run from Feb. 7 to 12.

Teddy Randolph, light heavyweight boxer from New York, was suspended for life by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission for failure to make an appearance in a 10-round bout at the Philadelphia arena Monday after declining to submit to a physical examination. Rains said the New York fighter had a bad eye.

The search for "the new Joe Louis" still continues after the eastern Golden Glove finals. The New York tournament of champions produced only one knockout in 24 semi-finals and final amateur bouts.

Only Johnny Saxton of New York's Salem Crescent A.C. was able to dump his man for keeps. He later clinched the title by outpointing Bob Rosengart of Buffalo.

Leonard Marsh, 85, champion oarsman at the turn of the century, died at Toronto after a long illness. He was a contemporary of the late Lou Scholes, noted sculler.

Twenty Grand, 193-Kentucky Derby winner, died at Lexington, Ky., yesterday of a twisted intestine. Twenty Grand took the derby in the fast time of 2:01 4-5, second best on record. His racing earned $261,790.

Cincinnati Has $2,000,000 Arena For AHL Entry

The ever-expanding American Hockey League expects to add a new member city team to its complement next season, when the Cincinnati Gardens Inc. is expected to ice a team in their new arena, now under construction.

Cincinnati has already been granted a franchise in the American League and work on the building, which will be one of the most modern and efficiently operated sports arenas in the country is progressing favorably. Being constructed at an estimated cost of two million dollars, the arena will afford perfect conditions to its patrons for viewing hockey as well as other leading events such as boxing and wrestling matches, basketball, conventions and ice skating musicals. There will be 11,000 permanent seats, comfortably arranged for space and size, none of which will be marred with obstructed views of the playing surface because of supporting columns. Architectural plans call for the use of two million bricks and two thousand tons of structural steel in the completely fireproof building, which will be located on a forty acre tract of land, less than two miles from the population centre of Cincinnati.

Space for 4,000 Cars

The large spacious grounds surrounding the new arena will provide an automobile parking convenience for patrons, the lack of which causes much confusion around most other large gathering places these days. Provisions have been made for the parking of 4,000 cars as well as buses.

Cincinnati has long been an enthusiastic sporting city, with a perfect example of the following enjoyed by the Cincinnati National League Baseball Club offered in evidence. Baseball fans purchase their tickets for the opening game of the new season, soon after completion of the previous one. With the fast playing, hard fighting, efficient type of hockey displayed by American Hockey League teams, it is expected that the new ice venture in the Ohio city will be a welcome addition to the sport hungry menu for, Cincinnati's residents. Undoubtedly, an intense rivalry will be built up between the new entry and Cleveland Barons, what with both cities being in the same state, and both expected to be in the Western Division of the AHL.

Grading Completed

The grading of the site for the new arena has been completed, foundations have been laid, and work is progressing so rapidly that officials of the new enterprize and the American League are quite enthusiastic over the prospects of everything being ready for the start of the 1948-1949 season. The picture appears so optimistic for the Cincinnati Club to operate next season, that a reserve list for players has already been established and team representatives are busy scouting the various leagues for playing personnel.

Mr. Charles Sawyer, former United States Ambassador to Belgium and a preminent citizen of Cincinnati is the president of the Cincinnati Gardens Inc., and its representative member of the American Hockey League Board of Governors.

George MacNamara Jr. is the supervisor of club organization and Mickey Hennessy is in charge of the scouting system to secure players for the team. Mr. Sawyer's address for the official business of the Cincinnati Gardens and Hockey Club is 1218 Union Central Building, Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP) — It's natural for a boxer to feel pleased when he wins a bout that may lead to a British title, but for Dick Turpin, Leamington, Warwickshire, middleweight, it was a special occasion.

He made boxing history when he won a 12-round decision from Mark Hart and thus became the first Negro in professional boxing to get within striking range of a British crown since the British boxing Board of Control lifted the color ban last September.

"I have battled 10 years hoping that one day the color bar would be lifted," said Turpin after the Hart scrap. "Tonight is the happiest moment of my life."

If Dick takes the British title it looks like staying some time in the Turpin family, which has 3 brothers on the active scrapping list — Jack 21-year-old featherweight, Dick and 19- year old Randolph both middleweights.

Randolph is tipped as a possible contender for world honors when he becomes of age. A B.B. B.C. ruling states no boxer may compete in a championship bout until he is 21.

One thing seems certain; the brothers won't fight each other. Some say Dick would make way for his brother if Randolph, who is growing fast, does not move into another weight division.

Harry Curtis, Brentford soccer club's manager, has proposed a scheme to bar clubs from spending "fantastic prices" on transfer fees for new players.

He contends there should be no cash deals in the playing season and loyal players should be rewarded by payment of pension or special grant. Purchases out of season, he says, should be limited to £20,000 ($80,000) for each club, irrespective of the number of players bought.

"Clubs will be heading for insolvency unless something is done soon," he said. Recently he was asked £10,000 for a non-league player. "Yet Middlesborough once sold me three of the best players I ever had ...for £1,500.

Sportsmen of the speedier games should heed the words of Dr. Robert W. Lawson, of Sheffield University's Physics Department, and watch their blinking.

Dr. Lawson contends the involuntary closing of the eyes causes a temporary blackout which may be a considerable handicap to a sportsman.

"In fast games like tennis or badminton," said the professor, "the ball or the shuttlecock will certainly be lost to sight during a third of a second black-out due to blinking."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you are in a tough contract it is usually because you have overbid. Chances are that you or your partner counted on more tricks than the hand contained.

For our purpose, take a deal like this:

NORTH
♠A K Q 4
♥A 8 5 3
♦6 4 2
♣J 7

WEST
♠9 7 5 2
♥9
♦K 10 8
♣K Q 9 8 3

EAST
♠10 8
♥J 7 2
♦J 9 7 5
♣10 5 4 2

SOUTH
♠J 6 3
♥K Q 10 6 4
♦A Q 3
♣A 6

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 H	1 S
2 H	4 NT
6 D	6 H

Four no-trump is the ace and king asking convention. The reply of six diamonds is Kibitzer convention for showing two aces and one king. This landed the pair in a heart small slam.

Four no-trump should not be used until a player has discovered 12 tricks in their pair. At no time did north learn of that many by the bidding. So, his final bid was due to a stretch.

When a contract is stretched, it must expect one of two things. Either it will be defeated by any possible plan of play. Or it will be made only by some unusual plan if there is no lucky break.

West led club king. This marked him with the queen. Declarer in south saw the losers in diamonds and clubs. But he was equal to the task of overcoming a contract that was short of tricks.

Trick one went to his club ace. Three rounds of trumps and four spades were pulled. On dummy fourth spade was sluffed a south small diamond. A club was then led and west was thus thrown in.

West has left only clubs and diamonds. Which will he return? If a diamond, the south ace and queen are both good. If a club, dummy ruffs and south sluffs the diamond queen.

Manitoba Rink Still Unbeaten In Bonspiel

Calgary, March 4 (CP)—The Manitoba rink, skipped by youthful George Sangster of the Winnipeg Granite Club, today moved into the final day of the Canadian curling championship carrying the only undefeated record. The event winds up with three draws—morning, afternoon and evening.

British Columbia, with only one defeat in the six rounds so far, are pinning their hopes on either Ontario, Northern Ontario or New Brunswick to spoil Manitoba's record. However, the Sangster rink has indicated that it is capable of duplicating the record of Winnipeg's Jimmy Welsh, 1947 Canadian titleholder, of winning nine straight games.

While pulling for a Manitoba defeat, Theo D'Amour and his Trail quartet must win its matches against Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec.

The third-place Northern Ontario rink, with four wins and two losses, needs victories in their three matches to stay in the running. They are scheduled to meet Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Seven Out of Running

The seven other provinces, none holding better than a 3-3 record, are practically out of the running.

British Columbia's lone defeat came last night when Sangster scored a two-ender on the 12th to eke out a 9-8 decision in a battle which saw the lead change hands six times and was tied twice.

On the No. 1 sheet of the five-sheet arena, Northern Ontario dropped their second straight game of the day, losing a 10-9 decision to Alberta's Billy McLaws of Calgary. Skip Jimmy Guy of Kenora, after tying the score on the 11th, was wide of McLaws' shot rock on the 12th, sailing through the house to give Alberta its second win.

The third game of the night to be decided on the last end went to Nova Scotia's Gerry Glinz, who upset the Henry Hollies New Brunswick foursome 10-9. Both clubs now have a 3-3 record.

The Saskatchewan rink, skipped by Rosetown's Cliff Annable, waltzed home to a 14-11 triumph over Prince Edward Island's Gerry Hayes rink. It was Saskatchewan's third victory.

Ontario's Jack Patrick of Galt also moved into the 3-3 bracket, with an easy 14-7 win over Gaston Anyot's Quebec four. Quebec held a 5-2 lead on the third end but faded badly on the remaining nine. The loss was the fourth for the all French-Canadian crew.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 4. (AP)—Despite reports that John Garfield's production company will shoot in the east, the actor is expected here soon to begin his next film.

Garfield's producer, Bob Roberts, is preparing two scripts, which will be shot in succession. They are "The World and Little Willie" and "Tucker's People", the latter a story of the numbers racket. Alexander Polonsky, who won an Academy nomination for his "Body and Soul" script, will be given his first director chore with "Tucker's People".

Long Vacation

Edmund Gwenn plans a long vacation after "Apartment for Peggy". He was ill during most of last year and has done two strenuous pictures since, so he feels he needs a rest. However, he won't leave until after March 20, when he undoubtedly will collect an Oscar. . . .

Bill Holden tells me his only beef with Paramount is over money. He has no complaint over choice of roles. But, he says, the studio gets four or five times as much as he does when he is loaned out to other studios. He thinks it's time for a change.

Bob Hope will start "Sorrowful Jones" April 1 IF he can find a girl to play the role Shirley Temple has in the original "Little Miss Marker". I asked Bob where the next "Road" will be heading "It'll have to go somewhere," said the comic, citing the big business "Road to Rio' is doing.

Bela Lugosi plans to play in "Harvey" next Fall. "I will give a slightly different interpretation of the role," he said, uttering the understatement of the week. . . . . .

Czech Minister Now on Way To Washington

Washington, March 4. (AP)—Czechoslovakia's new Communist government already has an envoy on the way to replace the ambassador to the United States who quit rather than serve a "police state"

Diplomatic officials said today Irvin Munk was named Minister Counsellor to Washington after last week's Red coup in Prague.

Due in New York, Monday, he thus was en route when Ambassador Juraj Slavik quit his post yesterday to "fight for Czechoslovak democracy."

Munk is slated to become Charge D'Affaires. In that capacity he will head the Embassy staff which did not immediately follow the ambassador into voluntary exile.

The State department, meanwhile, is prepared to assure Slavik that he is welcome to remain in the United States. But whether he can look for official support in his announced attempt to rally Czech "patriots" against the new government of Prime Minister Klement Gottwald is something else.

Under-Secretary Robert A. Lovett said the United States is holding further talks with Britain and France, which joined the United States in a three-power condemnation of the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia.

But if the established pattern is followed, there will be no break in formal diplomatic relations with Prague. In the absence of such a break, Slavik and other Czech exiles could expect no more backing than similar refugees from Poland, Hungary and other Soviet satellite states.

In announcing his resignation Slavik declared that the great majority of the Czech people remain true to ideals and that he "will act in their behalf and in their name." He did not say whether he has specific actions in mind.

STAFFORD CRIPPS LABOR CABINET'S MAN OF THE HOUR

By FRAZER WIGHTON

London, —(Reuters)—Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, now working on a budget that may open an even more rigorous chapter of British austerity than any yet experienced, maintains his present terrific working pace on five hours' sleep a day and a diet of fruit and vegetables.

Strongly tipped as Britain's next Labor Prime minister, Sir Stafford, a tall, spare and commanding figure, has become synonymous with austerity and reserve, though actually there is no more friendly and approachable minister in the government.

As the hot gospeller of tighter belts and shorter rations he is merely the instrument of official policy. His Spartan personal existence is due not to any burning desire to mortify the flesh but to past illness.

Many years ago he had a serious ailment for which a vegetarian diet was prescribed. It not only cured him, but it gave him the capacity to do twice as much work as before and with much less sleep.

His work-day is 17 hours. Not only is he chancellor of the exchequer with chief responsibility for financial policy, he also is in overriding control of five other government departments board of trade, ministry of supply, ministry of transport, ministry of fuel and power, and ministry of agriculture. Under Prime Minister Attlee he is also chief of the cabinet expert group on India and Burma. He does all this for £5,000 ($20,000) a year. As one he formerly earned more than £30,000 a year.

Patient, Friendly

Sir Stafford has friendly brown eyes and a disarming smile that do not at all match his reputation for austerity and although he does not suffer fools any more readily than the average busy man he has tremendous patience.

Startling stories are told about the secret good works carried out for charity both by Sir Stafford and Lady Cripps. They are probably all true.

The chancellor has sometimes been called the British Gandhi. The analogy is not accurate, but it has basis of truth. Sir Stafford's integrity is a byword in parliament. He cares little what happens to him personally in his advocacy of any cause in which he believes.

Under Attlee he was the supreme interpreter of the British government's plan to transfer power to India and Burma. That to him was a burning cause. When he went to India with the cabinet mission he worked night and day in search of solution until he virtually collasped. India knows Sir Stafford and respects him as she does few Britons.

After the prime minister, Sir Stafford now is the most important man in the government. The only other ministers who rank alongside him as Attlee lieutenants are Foreign Secretary Bevin and the deputy prime minister, Herbert Morrison.

In the sense of being the man of the moment, however, his personality for the time being is overshadowing almost every other figure on the government front bench.

He is working at tremendous pressure, but is enjoying every minute of it. Events of the next few months will tell whether an even more fateful role awaits him.

CONFERS WITH ARCHBISHOP AND CARDINAL

Brantford, March 4 —(CP)—Rev. Isidor Borecky, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church here, elevated yesterday to Bishop of the Ukrainian Catholic Church in Eastern Canada, Labrador and Newfoundland, will confer in Toronto today with His Eminence James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto.

Friday he will confer in Ottawa with His Eminence Ildebrando Cardinal Antoniutti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada.

Father Borecky came to Canada in 1938 after being ordained in Munich the same year. He has served as pastor of churches at Canora, Sask., Winnipeg, and Delhi and Waterford in the Brantford district.

TO EDUCATE NATIVES

Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika —(CP)— Thirty thousand natives working here on Britain's $92,000,000 scheme to cultivate peanuts to alleviate the world shortage of fats are being biven opportunity for education and social welfare. Britain plans to raise the general standard of living and fit them to assume complete control.

Adventure in Love

By Kathryn Bemis Wilson

CHAPTER 33.

Cruising taxis swung near the curb to tempt this rarely lovely girl in the luxurious mink coat. Surely, she didn't prefer to walk in this storm, thought the drivers. But she scarcely noticed them, so absorbed was she in her own troubled thoughts.

Her brown suede shoes splashed unconcernedly through the cold puddles of melted snow. The sun nosed through a cloud, proudly conscious of its dominance over incoming winter.

Abruptly the shadow of a man before her caused her to halt.

"At last!" cried Tom Orville. "I've been hunting all over for you!"

She was too shocked to reply. She could only continue to stare up at him in stupid wonderment.

Why did you do it, dear? Why didn't you leave an address? The clerk at the Y.W., as well as Miss Forland, claimed to know nothing."

"Tom!" she blurted out at last. "Don't you remember seeing—in Chicago?"

He scowled. She watched that old glint of fear creep into his hazel eyes. He said, almost gruffly, "I don't understand, Velma. How could I see you in Chicago when I've been here in Carryville working like the dickens? Mr. Milligen's been away—I've had to attend to his business as well as my own. But I've got my raise! I tried to tell you about it that day at Bingham's Inn—but the miuute I mentioned money, you grew scornful and suggested I buy a yacht."

There were strolling along now, his coat sleeve linked through hers.

"Tom—can't you understand how bewildered I am? Your raise came at the time of the—the alley affair. After seeing you there—then seeing you in Chicago the other night—throwing money away—I —"

He stopped walking, forced her to look squarely at him. "Velma! Tell me, quick—where did you see me in Chicago—what was I doing?"

"You were in the Club Bertrand bar, terribly intoxicated You had a startling looking girl with you—a a blonde. You merely waved at me—and went on drinking. Oh, Tom, how could —"

The sob in her throat choked her. Her lower lip quivered pathetically but he did not appear to notice. He was searching the street with frantic, wild eyes.

A taxi drew up as he beckoned. He entirely ignored her and leaped into it. He cried to the driver, "Union station—and step on it!"

In stark astonishment, Velma stood on the sidewalk where Tom had left her so unceremoniously. She watched the taxi whirl out of sight around the corner. Union station? She had reminded him of his recent Chicago trip, he had leaped into the first taxi that came along, and gone to the Union station. What did his action mean? Was he going to Chicago? If so, why? What could cause a man to act in this precipitate mystifying manner?

And when she had mentioned the blonde girl who was with him at the Club Bertrand, he hadn't offered a word of explanation! Oh, what did all the jumble mean? The Jekyll and Hyde existence! But no, Tom must have some explanation! And she knew that despite everything she loved him.

Suddenly, she lost all inclination to walk. She, too, hailed a taxi, but not to go to the union station. She seemed to have lost all violation again—again she had sunk to the depths.

Her telephone was ringing shrilly when she came from the elevator to her room. She was in such a hurry to open the door that she scarcely could insert the key in the lock. She finally managed it, and shortly afterward had the receiver in he trembling hand.

Tom's unaturally anxious voice brought her to keen attention.

"Darling," he blurted out, "I'm going to Chicago. I hope I won't be away too long. Hold good thoughts for me dearest—I'll

It must be something connected with that alley affair—that need them!"
murder.
But now she might be able to help him. Oh, she wanted desperately to help him!

"Tom—can't you tell me, can't you explain?" she begged. "I —I don't want anything to happen to you!"

"Sweetheart—I love you. That's all I can tell you. That's all I can tell over the phone. I wanted to

"explain weeks ago, but thought it best not to. But when I return, you shall know—everything."

"Oh, Tom, I—"

"Please, darling—trust me a little."

"That—that girl—you're going to her?"

"I may—may be obliged to see her he acknowledged reluctantly.

She stiffened. Then abruptly grew limp. She burst out, "I don't know what it all means, Tom—but I'll have faith—and—and pray for you."

"My darling," came from him huskily. "Bye—dear."

The click on the other end of the wire was like a sharp slap on Velma's tear-stained face. She sank into the nearest chair and tried to select a reason, out of the dozens swarming through her mind, for Tom's hectic trip to Chicago. Was it somehow connected with that platinum blonde he'd had with him in the Bertrand bar? What could an apparently fine-minded man like Tom have in common with that decidely uncultured girl? But then, hadn't she seen Tom when he was far from refined? Hadn't she even talked to him when he was in one of his wild, rough moods—after he'd darted from the dark-alley? What did it mean?

Crying like this wouldn't settle her problem. As she dried her eyes, she noticed her check-book on the table. It reminded her of Louise and the check that must be mailed to her. Now that she had actually talked with Tom, it might be more important than ever to keep her part of the bargain with Louise.

She went to the little desk and quickly dashed off a ten thousand dollar check for the girl who was constantly scheming to take Tom from her. She addressed an envelope an sealed the check inside.

She made out another check for the exact amount that Clarence Pell had paid over to Mae Forland so that her salary would be $75 a week instead of the $25 the other girls in the shop got. Although her thoughts were in a turmoil, she recalled with gratitude Clarence's kindly effort to help her when she needed help most. Poor Clarence! How forlorn he had looked at Lake Ingus when he had proposed and she told him she didn't think she would ever marry; and then after she had discovered the subtterfuge under which she received her salary, and faced him at the dress shop, and he had diffidently renewed his proposal, and she told him she couldn't marry him because she did not love him.

She placed the second check in an envelope addressed to him, along with a note again thanking him for what he had tried to do for her. She also told of her good fortune in recovering part of her father's estate. Sealing the envelope, she dropped it in the hall mail-chute. She had already taken care of all her old debts to Chicago shops.

Louise's check she would take to her later. She must receive further assurance from Louise that her side of their unusual agreement was on the level. Louise had reacted oddly to the proposal at noon.

She called the Clark residence and was told that Louise would be out of town until the end of the week. That was strange. Only an hour ago, Louise had been with her. Was there anything significant in the fact that both Louise and Tom had left town about the same time?

Oh, why must she be suspicious of every circumstance that was even remotely connected with Tom! She loved him; she knew that —despite everything. She must love him or she wouldn't be trying to buy Louise off.

Shepherds Needed On Scottish Farms

Inverness, Scotland, —(CP)— Highland shepherds have asked wages as high as £30 ($120) weekly for work during the lambing season in remote districts, said R. V. Getn of Badenoch.

Good shepherds are scarce and the position became so difficult for sheep-owners that they "polled" available staffs of experienced men.

Glen said the labor problem was caused by the lack of suitable houses and unwillingness of shepherds to take even seasonal work in a remote locality where there were limited school and other facilities.

"Scarcity of good shepherds is also due to the fact that young men appear to have lost taste for the job. Instead of following in their father's footsteps, they take jobs as forestry workers, tractor drivers and so on."

Girls Inseparable Both Learn to Fly

Montreal, —(CP)— Two Montreal girls who have been inseparable friends at school, sport and business have taken their companionship into the air.

They are Dorothy Hay and Kay Evans and they live next door to each other. Both recently passed difficult flying tests and have become fully licensed private pilots.

"They soloed just as quickly as male pupils," said Instructor Don Scholfield. "Usually it takes women quite a bit longer to get the knack of flying."

The girls attribute their aptness partly to participation in sport. They play golf and tennis and go skiing, and although "we aren't tops at anything" they have fun in "taking a try at practically all sports.

The two started taking lessons early last fall and soloed by November.

Miss Hay found soloing "so much excitement; you're so alone and you feel you shouldn't be up there, but it's wonderful."

Miss Evans said her family didn't object to her flying "but at first everyone thought it was silly."

Partition Plan Heads into New Complications

Lake Success, March 4 (CP)—The plan to partition Palestine headed into new complications today after Canada, backed by China, demanded a "supreme" effort to bring about a peaceful compromise between the Jews and Arabs.

Some observers said it looked as if there might be no Palestine partition as recommended Nov. 29 by the U.N. general assembly.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, emphasizing that Canada was not repudiating or abandoning the plan, insisted yesterday that the Security Council should not endorse partition before all possibilities of a settlement through conciliation were exhausted.

China's representative, T. F. Tsiang, declared the Canadian position "eminently reasonable."

McNaughton voiced Canada's opposition to that part of the United States resolution on Palestine which calls for prompt approval of the partition plan by the Security Council. China also said she was against it.

The Canadian delegate said that "even at this late hour conciliation must be tried," and he urged that the Big Five take responsibility for trying to find a solution acceptable to both.

The entry of Canada and China into the ranks of those opposed to the United States resolution appeared to make its defeat virtually certain. Besides these two countries, Syria and Belgium are definitely opposed and Britain is expected to abstain when the issue comes to a vote in the 11-member council.

The United States must muster seven votes to put the resolution across. The council will meet tomorrow to hear Camille Chamoun of Lebanon before taking the vote.

Accuses Tenant Of Eavesdropping With Microphone

Atlanta, March 4. (AP)—Mrs. E. M. Shepherd, a landlady, accused a tenant of bathroom and bedroom, eavesdropping with a microphone.

Mrs. Shepherd told Judge Quincy Arnold yesterday that E. H. Richardson, a tenant, not only recorded her most intimate conversations in bathroom, bedroom and living room, but played the recordings back to his family.

The recordings were made, Mrs. Shepherd told the court, by means of a microphone dropped down a hot air conduit.

Richardson denied the charge. He said his landlady was provoked because he and other tenants objected to an extra $100 assessment for heat.

Judge Arnold ordered Richardson held in $100 bond for criminal court for violation of the "peeping tom" law.

'CRUEL NEGLECT OF HORSE' CHARGE BRINGS FINE

Montrose, Pa., March 4 — (AP) — Elmer Greene, a farmer who testified he bought a "special, secret medicine" for his sick horse, but consumed most of it himself, was fined $9.13 yesterday.

Peace Justice Philip T. Lonergan found Greene guilty of "wilful and cruel neglect" of the horse.

Roosevelt Began As President 15 Years Ago

By ALEXANDER GEORGE

Washington, March 4 —(AP)— Fifteen years ago today tradition-smashing Franklin D. Roosevelt started his presidential career by smashing a tradition.

When Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes read the presidential oath of office, Roosevelt did not follow with the usual phrase-by-phrase repetition of the oath. He waited until Hughes had finished and then repeated the entire 35-word pledge in one unbroken statement.

Then, in an effort to bolster the spirit of a country with a bad case of the hard-time jitters, he launched into a confidence-studded inaugural speech.

"So, first of all," he said, "let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Pledging government action on "first things first," he said:

"I shall ask the Congress for broad executive power as great as the power that would be given me if we were, in fact, invaded by a foreign foe."

"Hundred Days"

Next day he closed the country's banks until they could be reopened on a sounder footing. Then he called Congress into special session for an emergency action.

Eight days after his inauguration, Roosevelt began the series of fireside radio chats which delighted his friends, exasperated his enemies and impressed multitudes of voters.

During his famous "100 days," Congress swiftly ground out legislation, tailored almost completely to his order. He bombarded Congress with messages. Revolutionary economic measures sometimes swept through both houses in a single day.

To aid an estimated 12,000,000 unemployed, Congress approved a $3,300,000,000 public works program. A fund of $500,000,000 was voted for states which matched Federal money in furnishing food and shelter for the needy.

Other billions were voted to help families threatened with the loss of homes and farms by mortgage foreclosures.

Tax Liens Filed For Seven Millions

Baltimore, March 4 (AP)—An internal revenue agent called on a local business man yesterday and said: "You owe the government $7,000,000. Have you got it?"

He told him no, Hyman K Klein related through his counsel.

A short time later tax liens were filed in the amount of $5,561,201 against Klein for 1944, 1945, and 1946 income taxes, $492,471 against Klein's wife Gertrude for the same years; and $1,040,304 against H. Harvey Company, Ltd., a liquor importing firm of which Klein is president, for excess profit and income taxes for 1945 and 1946.

CHILDREN RESCUED FROM SQUALID HOME

Atlanta, March 4 — (AP) — Four small children were rescued last night from a dirty backroom prison where they lived in squalor, juvenile authorities said, and ate "out of tin plates like puppies." The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Carney, were held in the city jail on a charge of suspicion of neglect of minor children.

DENTIST TO AUTHOR

Zane Grey struggled from 1899 until 1904 to establish a dental practice in New York.

TELLS OF RED TERROR IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

How Czechoslovak Communists, led by police, bullied their way into government control, terrorized peace-loving citizens, and desecrated religious symbols was dramatically described by Josepha Chekova, an American opera singer now in New York, who fled that country but four days ago. Miss Chekova, shown giving vivid expression to her words, said: "What I personally witnessed and what I heard from crying lips should be a forceful warning to Americans to be ever-vigilant against the crushing march of communism.

PRINCE GAVE UP TITLE FOR LOVE

A man who would rather be happy than king, the former Prince Oluf arrived by ship at New York with his commoner bride, the former Dorit Puggaard. A royal prince of Denmark and a cousin of King Frederick IX, Oluf renounced his right of accession to the Danish crown when he married, and was given the title of Count of Rosenberg.

ELECTION ANNULLED

The Senate of the Central American Republic of Costa Rica in a tumultuous session voted 27 to 19 to annul the results of the nation's recent presidential election. Otilio Ulate, shown here, a prominent publisher, had been elected in 10,000 vote victory over Dr. Rafael Calderon. Ulate, an outstanding anti-Communist and his National Unionist party, were accused of fraud by the opposition. His backers were howled down by packed galleries of Communists and Calderon supporters when they attempted to defend his election before the Senate. Soon after the Senate session police and army units machine-gunned the suburban house at San Jose where Ulate was visiting. Several persons were reported wounded in the attack.

FATAL R. R. WRECK IN BELGIUM

Brussels, March 4 (AP) —Belgian railway officials said nine persons were killed and 4 badly hurt this morning in a train accident at Jambes, in southeastern Belbium. Reports said a passenger train and a freight collided in a dense fog derailing and wrecking a passenger coach.

Governor Grants 32-Day Reprieve From Electric Chair

Nashville, Tenn., March 4 (AP) —Two youths who were scheduled to die in the electric chair at dawn were still alive today and a 20-year-old Pittsburgh Sunday school teacher who flew here to wed one of them was on her way home.

Governor Jim McCord last night granted a 32-day reprieve to 21-year-old Richard Reilly of Pittsburgh. The action came 25 minutes before Reilly was to enter death row at the state penitentiary.

The death sentence of Reilly's companion, Daniel Budzynski, 19, also of Pittsburgh, was commuted to 99 years' imprisonment Tuesday.

The governor's action in commuting Budzynski's sentence came after the youth's childhood sweetheart, Jeanne Clair Lucas, came here with the avowed intention of marrying Budzynski if his sentence was not commuted.

The youths were convicted of murder in the hold-up slaying of Samuel Colsky, Memphis clothing merchant, in 1946.

Testimony at the trial brought out that Reilly shot Closky while Budzynski acted as lookout. McCord said Reilly was granted a reprieve because the district attorney general of Shelby county, where the crime was committed, had recommended commutation of Reilly's sentence to life imprisonment.

AIR VICE-MARSHAL BOUCHIER RETURNING

Tokyo, March 4 (AP) —Air Vice-Marshal C. A. Bouchier, commander of British occupation aerial units since their arrival in Japan in February, 1946, will sail this month for England and a new assignment. Bouchier was in command of the Allied fighter cover placed over the beachhead during the Normandy invasion.

Arrested German Woman Declares 'Still a Nazi'

Tuebingen, Germany, March 4 (AP)—Frau Gertrud Scholtz-Klink Heissmeyer, who was the Fuehrer of Germany's women in the Nazi days, declared today: "I am still a Nazi—as much as ever."

But her voice as she said it was soft, almost meek.

Then, clenching her fist, she said:

"Hitler still lives for me and my husband."

But, she added, she and her husband, Maj.-Gen. August Heissmeyer, both believe Hitler and Deputy Fuehrer Martin Bormann are dead.

Frau Heissmeyer, her once-blonde hair faded and her once-buxom figure covered by a shabby man's coat, talked with an interviewer today for the first time since she was arrested with her husband last weekend by American, French and German police. They are being held in a small prison here.

She said she escaped from Berlin, after being wounded five times by Russian shell splinters in the last days of Nazidom. With her husband, she fled into the Russian zone.

In October, 1945, she came to Wuerttemburg and sought sanctuary with Princess Pauline, a cigar-smoking 71-year-old woman who was arrested yesterday on charges of sheltering the Heissmeyers.

Frau Heissmeyer said under the name of Stuckebrock they were exonerated in French denazification proceedings.

"I suppose we will have to be denazified again," she said.

Frau Heissmeyer and her husband, formerly and S. S. (elite guard) officer, are being held by the French, who said they would be questioned further to determine what, if any, charges to bring against them.

Heavy Property Damage Reported After Explosion

Milan, March 4. (AP)—A large military powder magazine between Argisate and Induno exploded early today. A number of persons were in hospital with injuries and there was heavy property damage.

Some of 28 watchmen on duty at the time of the blast were missing and four were said to be gravely wounded. Houses in Induno, in Verese province, collapsed and thousands of windows were smashed.

The blast which shook the town like an earthquake could be heard clearly in Milan, 30 miles away.

Induno was evacuated because of the fear of other blasts in 17 other munitions depots in the same area. Rescue workers were hampered by a fire which followed the explosion.

LABOR CONGRESS

"However, we do feel that this museum piece of legislation should not be allowed to persistently stand in the way of progress toward a better life for all our citizens and in the face of the need of uniform labor and social laws . . . so necessary if we are to attain national unity."

The brief urged protection of the standard of living by re-establishment of price controls on all essential goods and by imposition of a 100-per-cent tax on excess profits, prosecution of all cartels, monopolies and speculators found guilty of profiteering.

Not in Accord

The Congress said it was not in accord with all provisions of bill 338, the labor code legislation introduced during the last session of parliament but was "prepared to accept it as drafted as a good start in the right direction."

On Unemployment Insurance, the brief said:

"We request that the act be amended to include the recommendation of the advisory committee on Unemployment Insurance to establish a higher grade with higher contributions and benefits and to increase other stipulated benefit rates."

Noting "the very fact that it is necessary to prove destitution to qualify is untenable," the T. L. C urged a "full and proper" old-age pension system, with those qualifying reduced to 60 years.

The Congress asked that income-tax exemptions be boosted to $2,400 for married persons and to $1,200 for single persons, with a $400 exemption for each child and "no portion of family allowance refundable to the government, irrespective of income."

Hard-Luck Series On Friday Thirteenth Ends With Bill

Winnipeg, March 4. (CP)—Here's a postscript to a Feb. 13 hard-luck episode.

On that date, a Friday incidentally, B. D. Rose ran into the following string of mishaps: 1. Slipped and fell downstairs on his way to breakfast; 2. Slipped again on the ice pavement going for his car. 3. Found his car had a flat tire. 4. Had his automobile break down en route to the office.

Today it was disclosed that Mr. Rose's misfortunes hadn't ended. He received a letter with a bill for $65 allegedly owed for damage to another automobile. The letter had been mailed. . . that's right. . .Feb. 13.

SHORE EROSION ACUTE

Sarnia, March 4 — (CP)—Erosion along the Lake Huron shoreline has become so acute in the last few years that the problem will be presented by township councillor K. W. Thomson at a meeting in Toronto March 18. The meeting has been called to discuss erosion problems of Lake Ontario, Lake Erie and Lake Huron municipalities.

COST OF INDIGENTS

Preston, March 4 — (CP) — The thousands of dollars that Preston has spent on hospital care for indigents in the past few years are not being wasted. One appreciative citizen voluntarily gave the town treasurer $100 as partial payment for his hospital bill paid for by the town and says he intends to pay the balance.

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of the irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish. Mrs. George McBride of Scarboro says: "My baby of 16 months caught a nasty cold so I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets from now on." Effective also in teething troubles, constipation and other simple baby ailments. 25¢.

Back Pains Disappeared Soon After Using Syntona

Had Troubled Him for Years, Says This Man. Also Relieved Stomach Disorders, Nerves Relaxed. Tells of Help in Other Ways.

MR. ANDREW DROTAR

When the stomach is out of order and food fails to digest properly, but ferments, causing gas, sour acidity and a full, heavy sensation, when poor kidney action brings on bachache, night risings and rheumatic pain; when bowels are constipated and you have headaches, dizziness and nerves are on edge, take a short treatment Syntona Herbal Compound and see what a difference it maks in only a short period of time.

Here, for instance, is the experience of Mr. Andrew Drotar, 153 Oak Ave., Hamilton, Ontario, as reported only a few days ago:

"For a great many years I have been ailing with severe backache and bad stomach disorders. Many mornings my back was so lame and sore I couldn't get out of bed. Rheumatic pains set into my limbs and joints; I got dizzy spells and throbbing headaches. After eating even the lightest foods I would have a bloated feeling with gas, sour stomach and heartburn.

"Other things that I took didn't seem to do me any good at all, but Syntona has given me relief almost from the very first day I started taking it. Now that I've been taking it awhile, I am entirely free from backache. All he soreness is gone out of my joints and muscles, and I can eat my meals without distress afterwards. Whereas I used to be so nervous and irritable, I find that now my entire disposition is happier. I sleep well and feel better than I did in many years."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Opens Easter Seal Campaign

The Honorable Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare opened the Ontario Society for Crippled Children's Easter Seal Campaign by purchasing the first hundred seals from "Timmy" a little crippled boy who was chosen as the symbol of the work done by the Society and hundreds of service club members. Immediately after the sale, Mr. Martin presented the seals to His Excellency the Governor-General for his personal use. Shown here are left to right: Hon. Paul Martin; "Timmy"; in the rear, Miss Zelma Creedon, Crippled Children's Nurse; and His Excellency the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander of Tunis. — (Ontario Society for Crippled Children.)

Trans-Ocean Planes Refuel in Mid-Air

Montreal, (CP)—Aerial tests in mid-ocean refueling being conducted now over the Atlantic may prove ethe biggest forward step in long distance air travel since the introduction of four-engine aircraft.

Termed an "historical step in air travel" by Captain James Percy skipper of the first scheduled air liner ever to refuel in the mid-Atlantic, the plans were originated by the British Ministry of Civil Aviation and executed by the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Capt. Percy, 38, a veteran of 22 years flying and at least five other historic "firsts" in aviation, is supervisor of the entire experiment.

The principle of the scheme, as he explains it, is that—refueling from "tanker" planes outside Newfoundland and Ireland—a trans-Atlantic airliner would not have to "sit down" at Gander Bay and Shannon airports as it now does to take extra gas—thus saving at least four hours flying time.

Another advantage is that the airliner can carry a smaller gas load and thus increase her pay load; further tests will prove whether the time saved and added pay load will pay the additional cost necessitated by having a "tanker" operating .

95 Mile Head Wind

The first test flight this month operated against fierce winds averaging from 60 to 95 miles per hour. Yet, 600 miles off the Irish coast and at 9,000 feet, the airliner kept its rendezvous within a minute of scheduled time with the "tanker" —a converted R.A.F. Lancaster bomber.

The operation lasted only 16 minutes. The "tanker" dropped just under the wing of the airliner and fired a line at another line trailing from the plane to be refueled. The two lines tangled, were caught by automatic grapplers hauled in, and a gas hose was attached that fed into the airliner a needed 900 gallons.

While all this was going on, the two aircraft were flying at a ground speed of 180 miles per hour.

The next refueling took place above Gander airport—19 1-2 hours after leaving London. The aircraft reached Montreal airport without having once touched ground.

Proof of the efficiency of the system was pointed out by Capt. Percy: no other trans-Atlantic airliner flying the London- Montreal route got into the airport that night because of storm. They had been grounded at the various stops along the way as they went in to be refueled.

NEW PROCEDURE SPEEDS DIVORCE FOR SERVICEMEN

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—An accumulation of divorce applications which threatened to clog British courts indefinitely has been largely cleared away by a "mass production" system of obtaining decrees that is dissolving the marriages of servicemen at the rate of almost 20,000 a year.

Partly the speedup is due to revised procedure which has shortened the period of waiting between the time when a divorce is granted and it becomes absolute, and the extension of divorce powers to local courts.

Of equal importance has been the establishment throughout the country of highly-trained legal teams, appointed by the Law Society which was chosen by the government to organize and operate the scheme.

"In March, 1946, it was estimated there were some 40,000 service cases which had to be dealt with," T. G. Lund, secretary of the Law Society, said in an interview. "At one time the estimates ran as high as 45,000, but it seems that actually they will amount to about 35,000.

"By the end of last year well over 15,000 absolute decrees had been granted. The society had about 16,700 cases in hand, most of them approaching their final stages. There were only 413 new cases, compared with 3,139 in December, 1946."

The society had been asked to complete its work within two years and "it seems clear that the arrears of service cases should be disposed of well within the specific time."

Staff Enlarged

When the society's divorce department took on its assignment in 1946 it had a staff of about 100 solicitors and clerical workers. This was quickly expanded to 700.

Offices were opened in provincial centres like Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester and Leeds to handle applications from residents of those cities. Staffs were trained to a rigid system so that if it were necessary to interchange personnel, there wouldn't be delay in operation.

A reduction from six months to six weeks in the waiting period between decree nisi and decree absolute, and the extension to provincial courts of authority to hear divorces, further aided the progress.

Financing the scheme, which is available to anyone with service connections under the rank of sergeant—including wives of servicemen, or servicemen who have been named co-respondents—costs the government about £200,000 ($800,000) a year. The petitioner's fee works out between $12 and $15.

In service cases, most of the applicants are men who returned from overseas to find their wives had formed other associations. But in civilian cases—the society also has a Poor Persons department—the petitioner is more often a woman.

Lund says in his opinion the massive total of divorce applications betokens no moral collapse but reflects the dislocation which the war effected in the lives of thousands of persons who ordinarily would have carried on placidly with their mates.

ON WAY BACK TO PRISON

Toronto, March 3 (CP)—Frank McGillicuddy, 41, released from Kingston penitentiary only a few days ago, was on his way back about 12 hours after being arrested following the robbery of a downtown jewelers store last night.

A building superintendent and a restaurant proprietor armed with a broom helped in the arrest of McGillicuddy, who had $800 worth of looted jewelry in his pockets. He was sentenced to two years imprisonment.

NEWSMEN WHO WOULDN'T TALK RELEASED

News Editor Douglas V. Clarke, left, and Reporter Charles L. Leonard, of the Newburgh News, who were freed from jail at White Plains, N.Y., and paroled in custody of their attorney pending a court decision on their appeal against being sentenced for refusal to tell the source of information for a gambling expose. The two newsmen, jailed for ten days and fined $100 each on contempt charges, had refused to tell the grand jury at Newburgh how they obtained lottery tickets which were reproduced in the newspaper.

Laborer Slain at Timmins, Wife Confesses, Police State

Timmins, Ont., March 5. (CP)—Jerome St. Cyr, 32-year-old laborer, was slain shortly before midnight last night and police said today his wife, Clara Irene St. Cyr, 32, mother of six children is in custody charged with his murder. Police said she has signed a complete confession.

Police Chief Lepic said he answered a call to the St. Cyr home at midnight, in which the woman asked him to come immediately. The Chief sent some of his men to investigate.

The officers entered the St. Cyr home to find Jerome St. Cyr in the front bedroom lying in a sleeping position on a bed. They said his jugular vein was slashed and his jaw smashed.

Mrs. St. Cyr told police this morning following her arrest at her brother's home, that St. Cyr had not gone to work yesterday. She said he had come home half drunk and started a quarrel.

According to the woman's story, her husband committed an indecent act after tying her hands to the bed. She said he had committed similar acts before. She told police that one of the youngsters had untied her.

Police said she told of waiting to be sure St. Cyr was asleep, going to the back of the house for the axe and returning to the front bedroom.

"As far as I know, he was struck only once," Police Chief Lepic said. "He must have been killed instantly for I don't think he even twitched a muscle."

Dr. H. L. Minthron, coroner, was called and pronounced St. Cyr dead.

Axe Found in Snow

Police found the blood-covered axe embedded in snow at the back of the yard near the garage.

Not permitted to talk to her, reporters today could see Mrs. St. Cyr sitting quietly in the police patrol room. At one time she was humming to the strains of music from the radio in the room.

Police did not release the names of the children this morning other than the oldest son, Robert, who answered the door when police arrived. There are two boys and four girls. All are now in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

Police said that Mrs. St. Cyr had been into the police station frequently before to complain about her husband's immoral treatment of her. They had never been able to prepare a case against St. Cyr because she had never been able to get any corroboration of her evidence against him.

MEMBER CLAIMS GOVT. BLAMELESS FOR SHORTAGE

Thomas Pryde, Newly-Elected Member for Huron, Makes Maiden Speech

Toronto, March 5 (CP) —With the Throne Speech debate adjourned until next Tuesday, the Ontario legislature turned today to measures placed before the House by both the government of Premier Drew and the opposition.

The first round of the Throne Speech debate wound up yesterday with the address in reply moved by Thomas Pryde (PC—Huron) and seconded by William E. Hamilton (PC—Wellington South).

Mr. Pryde in his maiden speech in the legislature discussed and lauded the legislation proposed by the government of Premier Drew covering immigration, agriculture, education, travel facilities and hospitals.

He did not refer to the housing plan mentioned briefly in the Throne Speech.

Mr. Hamilton followed with a lengthy discussion of government Hydro proposals in which he laid blame for the present power shortage in Ontario to the former Liberal administration of Mitchell Hepburn.

The Progressive Conservative government is blameless for the current shortage, he said. Mr. Hamilton quoted letters from Premier Hepburn to Prime Minister King sent in 1938 in which the Ontario leader said the province was not interested in production of further Hydro power.

COMMONS REJECTS C.C.F. MOTION OF NON-CONFIDENCE

Overwhelming Majority Given the Government

Ottawa, March 5 (CP)—By a vote of 173 to 38, the Commons turned aside a C.C.F. motion of non-confidence in the government yesterday in the lingering Throne Speech debate.

But the division, coming traditionally on an amendment to the main motion for adoption of the Throne Speech, was thrust into the shadows by a larger and more dominant issue—a growing demand by opposition members that the government take effective steps now to crush the development of Communism within Canada.

The attack on Communism was spearheaded by Donald Fleming, energetic, 42-year-old Progressive Conservative member from Toronto Eglinton and taken up by C. E. Stephenson (PC-Durham) and Maxime Raymond (B-Beauharnois).

With the rejection of the C.C.F. motion, the Chamber promptly found itself faced with a Social Credit amendment, moved by F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) which asked the government to raise income tax exemptions, eliminate the eight-per-cent sales tax and reduce excise taxes, increase family allowances and old age pensions, provide adequate payments for disabled persons and pay selective subsidies on the necessities of life.

In defeating the C.C.F. motion, which expressed regret that the government had "failed" to use its powers to control prices, the administration drew support from the Progressive Conservative opposition, J. L Hamel (BP-St. Maurice LaFleche), Mr. Raymond and a lone Social Crediter—Patrick Ashby (SC-Edmonton East). The remaining Social Credit members sided with the C.C.F. party.

Debate Nearing Close

Still before the House is a Progressive Conservative non-confidence motion which merely expresses the opinion that the government does not possess the confidence of the Canadian people. It will be dealt with today as the debate draws to a close.

In the main debate, apart from the call for action against Communism, speakers included Victory Quelch (SC-Acadia), J. Ralph Kirk (L-Antingonish-Guysborough), Douglas Ross (PC-Toronto St. Paul's), R. E. Drope (PC-Northumbreland) and John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader.

Slag Explosion Startles Residents

Sydney, N.S., March 5 (CP) — Residents of this community of 30,000 were startled early today when a slag explosion at a steel plant which fringes the harbor rocked the city.

The explosion was caused by molten metal in slag dumped into the icy waters of the harbor. When the hot mass struck the icy waters it resulted in a blast of terrific intensity.

Windows in a number of homes near the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant were smashed but no injuries were reported.

Steel Corporation officials explained that the blast occurred because molten metal had not been removed from blast furnace slag.

Mad Pianist Not Deemed Incurable, But Music Only Touch With Reality

By ARTHUR W. EVETERR

Detroit, March 5 (AP)—Out at lonely Eloise, the delicate music of the mad pianist still echoes through quiet corridors.

Maestro X still is a patient two years after he startled the music world with his beautiful piano playing.

Dr. T. K. Gruber, superintendent of Wayne County General Hospital at Eloise, said he still is completely mad in everything except his music.

The maestro, whose name never was revealed, was a brilliant student of music. He was committed to the asylum a decade ago, suffering a split personality.

As Dr. Gruber describes it, he withdrew from life into a world of his own twisted thoughts. For many years, the musician was unable to walk, feed himself or perform simple acts.

Then, in the search for a means to bring him back to reality, the hospital turned his attention back to his music.

At first an attendant had to turn the pages of the score. If she didn't, the man would play the same page of notes over and over.

Gradually Maestro X improved.

He appeared before a National Education conference. He amazed recognized teachers of music with the beauty and clarity of his piano artistry.

Later he performed in public. Millions heard him play Mozart's difficult "Concerto in D Minor" on a National Radio broadcast.

Then he returned to Eloise and the obscurity of the insane. Gruber emphasized that the mad pianist has not been given up as incurable.

"But he remains out of touch with reality in everything except his music," the superintendent said. "If we ever are able to help him, however, we feel we may open an important avenue for others like him."

A piano is available to him and daily he plays the classical music he loves.

"And he's not just hammering a piano. He plays beautifully," the superintendent said.

St. Laurent Backs up R.C.M.P., Says Duplessis Tries to 'Smear' Quebec M.P.s' Over Treasures

Quebec, March 5 (CP) — Premier Duplessis said at a press conference today that in a "few days" he would make further comment on "other extraordinary aspects of the attitude and statement of Mr. (External Affairs Minister) St. Laurent and the Federal authorities" about the Polish treasures.

Commenting on the statement made in the Commons yesterday by the External Affairs Minister, the Premier said the "different attitudes" of Mr. St. Laurent and the Federal authorities in relation with Communist governments and a Quebec religious community were "supremely odious and injurious."

"Briefly," said Premier Duplessis, "for Stalin and his satellite and atheist governments, all diplomatic precautions and protocol. For a very noble and admirable Quebec religious community, the Mounted Police.

Reference to Interview

Last night in the Quebec legislative assembly Mr. Duplessis referred to an interview he gave the newspaper L'Action Catholique which he said "represented the exact truth."

In that interview he was quoted as saying the R.C.M.P. had "forced their entrance" in to the cloister of the sisters of the Hotel Dieu where the Polish treasures were kept before the province took possession of them.

Mr. St. Laurent, in his statement, described as "quite ridiculous" the suggestion that the R.C.M.P. had violated the Hotel Dieu cloisters. He charged that Mr. Duplessis was attempting to "smear" Federal cabinet ministers from Quebec.

Premier Duplessis said: "I have received the text of the statement in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent. The time at my disposal does not permit me to reply this morning to the allegations made by Mr. St. Laurent about the Polish treasures..."

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 5 (CP)—External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, in a statement backing the R. C. M. P. role in the $1,000,000 Polish treasures case, said yesterday that Premier Duplessis of Quebec is trying to "smear" the Quebec members of the Federal Cabinet on the treasures issue.

But Mr. Duplessis came back last night in the Quebec Legislative Assembly with a new charge of R.C.M.P. "infringement" on provincial rights.

As members of his Union Nationale Party applauded, Mr. Duplessis said a recent Canadian newspaper story alleging R. C. M. P. violation of a religious cloister "represented the exact truth." He said there have been "attempts for some time to replace the Provincial Police of all provinces by the Federal Police."

Mr. St. Laurent's statement to the Commons reviewed all the events of the newly-enlivened, 1½-year-old treasures controversy.

He implied the Quebec Premier had political motives in his verbal attack—when "one remembers that he is preparing for a provincial election, one can only declare that Mr. Duplessis should expect such tactics to win him anything but contempt."

Duplessis' Charge "Ridiculous"

Mr. St. Laurent termed "quite ridiculous" Mr. Duplessis' charge that the R.C.M.P., in locating 24 trunks of treasures in Hotel Dieu, a hospital and church institute in Quebec City, violated the convent cloisters.

Liguori Lacombe (Ind.-Laval-Two Mountains) said during Commons debate last night on Communism that the Quebec government acted properly in impounding the treasures. They were Polish church property which would be quickly seized by Poland's Communist government if ever returned to that country.

Mr. Duplessis, replying to a question, told the Quebec Legislative Assembly: "I gave L'Action Catholique two or three days ago an interview about the Polish treasures. The interview represented the exact truth. Yesterday or today, Mr. St. Laurent made a statement. I want to add that I am waiting to read the official report of that statement before making appropriate comment."

Mr. St. Laurent's statement added that Mr. Duplessis' first charges were a "clumsy but deliberate" attempt to "smear" the federal members of the government from Quebec Province.

Proposes Australia Build Ships to Carry Millions Of Britons, Pay Part U.K. Debt

Melbourne, March 5 (Reuters)—Australian plans are before the British government, it was learned here, for large-scale emigration of millions of British people to Australia, for Australia to take over a proportionate share of Britain's national debt, and for the building of a great fleet exclusively for removing "a share" of Britain's population to Australia.

The proposals, which had the blessing of Prime Minister Chifly, were put forward in a letter from Australia's Immigration Minister, Arthur Calwell, to Philip Noel-Baker, British Minister for Commonwealth Relations.

Chifly told the Australian parliament yesterday that Calwell's letter was "personal and unofficial," but was sent with his full approval.

Calwell's letter proposed that Australia accept a share of Britain's population in millions—not thousands.

The Melbourne Herald said the Canberra government had not intended the facts to become public before receiving the British reaction, but added that the scheme had been approved in principle by the Commonwealth Migration Advisory Committee.

Reputed Russian Count Given Six Years in Prison

Toronto, March 5 —(CP)—Constantine Michael Nakashidze, convicted Feb. 27 of 15 charges involving theft of money and bonds, forgery and publishing false business prospectuses, was sentenced today to six years in penitentiary by Judge James Parker in county criminal court.

Arrested last June 21 at his daughter's wedding, Nakashidze, believed to be a Russian prince or count, faced a total of 35 charges originally. The counts on which he was convicted involved $47,000 and several shares of capital mining stock.

The theft charges arose out of complaints by B. S. Sheldon, Dr. W. J. Chafe, V. I. Boake, and Seelite Plastic Enterprises Company, all of Toronto, and T. H. R. Brock of Hamilton, who said they had lost amounts ranging up to $24,000 to Nakashidze.

Mustang Fighters Sold to France

Washington, March 5 (AP) — Fifteen P-1 Mustang fighter planes have been sold to France, the State Department announced yesterday. The sale price was $157,467 and the planes' original cost $787,335.

Govt. to Depend On "Just" Clause Of Regulations

Ottawa, March 5 (CP)— The government will depend for the present on the "just and reasonable" clause of the Prices Board regulations to hold down commercial rentals after decontrol Monday, it was announced today.

R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, gave this information to the Commons Price Committee in response to C.C.F. demands that the committee immediately investigate the possible effects of decontrol on the cost of living.

Mr. Mayhew said the "just and reasonable" clause was to remain in effect after decontrol, as it had remained in connection with various commodities from which controls have been removed.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton), who with Mr. Mayhew is a member of the Price Committee, also told the main body that the clause would provide fines up to $5,000 for imposing unfair rentals.

Tenants would be able to launch prosecutions, he declared.

After getting this information the committee decided to defer "for the present" and investigation into commercial rents.

GOVT. RINGS DOWN CURTAIN ON ENTRY OF COMMUNISTS

Special Targets Are Reds Among Union Officers

Ottawa, March 5 — (CP) — A curtain has been rung down on the entry of alien communists into Canada.

The government has decided to move swiftly to bar all reds from getting into the Dominion from outside countries and indications today were that it also intended to squeeze out all non-Canadian undesirables now in Canada.

Action to bar reds, it was learned, was taken by the cabinet this week after it had received advice from Justice Department experts that it can proceed against them under existing provisions of the Immigration Act.

The move was aimed particularly against a reported influx of communist sympathizers flushed out of the United States by the anti-communist Taft -Hartley Act of that country, but it will eventually work against all known or suspected alien reds now in Canada on temporary permits.

Special targets are reds among union officers and organizers coming into Canada from the U.S.

As the government's action was disclosed unofficially, Progressive Conservative members in the Commons last night called for an offensive against reds.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said Prime Minister Mackenzie King and External Affairs Minister St. Laurent had shown in recent speeches that they were belatedly awakening to the threat of communism in Canada.

He said the Prime Minister earlier had shown no "realistic appreciation" of the Red threat to the Dominion.

C. E. Stephenson (PC—Durham) declared he believed the time had come when Canada should follow the example of the U.S. and give Communist paid agents a "one-way ticket to the land of their dreams in the U.S.S.R."

There was no reply from the government as to its new policy.

While no announcement of the move has been made—and perhaps may not be made for some time—it was learned the cabinet had decided to accept the advice of the Justice Department and had ordered swift action to close the border against what it regards as subversive elements

Previous to this interpretation, the government had been reluctant to act. It wanted to ban Communists, but it wanted to do it legally.

The Justice Department reported Communists may be barred under the Immigration Act clauses listing "prohibited" classes of immigrants as those advocating overthrow of governments by force or even opposing organized government.

How the immigration department—which will administer the ban—will identify a Communist at the border has not been disclosed.

Enterprise Man Acquitted of Charge

Napanee, Ont., March 5. (CP)—Donald Wager of Enterprise, Ont., was acquitted yesterday of committing an indictable offense against an 80-year-old women. When Wager was tried last November, the jury disagreed on the assault charge but found him guilty of breaking and entering. He was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary. Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, yesterday ruled that he would not allow Wager to be punished again under the same set of circumstances.

Two Finnish Minority Parties Oppose Military Alliance With Soviet

Helsinki, Finland, March 5 — (AP) — Two minority parties announced their opposition today to entering into a military alliance with Russia. Their stand means that parties representing a majority of the members of parliament now are aligned against such a tie.

The minority parties — the conservatives, and the Liberals — joined other parties and blocs, however, in approving the opening of negotiations with the Soviet Union on a friendship and mutual assistance pact as suggested last week by Prime Minister Stalin.

The final decision on the answer to Russia now rests with President Juho Paasikivi. Parliament would be required to ratify any treaty after its conclusion.

The Conservatives, with 29 seats in parliament, and the Liberals, with nine, will deliver their formal response to the president late today. The Social Democrats, with 48 seats, and the Swedish party, with 15, already have recommended to Paasikivi that he appoint a delegation to negotiate. Together, the four represent 101 of parliament's 200 seats.

The Popular Front, of Communists and radical Socialists, has urged acceptance of negotiations toward a full military pact. They have 51 parliamentary seats.

The Agrarians, who hold the other 48 seats, are expected to make their stand public some time today.

There were some unconfirmed reports that the president already has drafted his reply to Stalin.

14 To 20 Of Crew Missing As Towboat Hits Bridge Piling

Caught by Treacherous Current and Rolled Over

Greenville, Miss., March 5 — (AP)—Fourteen to 20 crew members were dead and missing today from the 180-foot towboat Natchez, which rolled over and sank last night after a treacherous Mississippi river current swept it against a bridge piling below here.

Capt. William A. Howell of the towboat Sohio-Latonia, which brought 11 survivors here, said "there could hardly have been any others" saved.

A 12th man escaped, however, as he was with the barges behind and not aboard the Natchez at the time.

The Natchez carried a normal crew of 28, but survivors' figures on the actual number this trip varied from 26 to 32.

Howell witnessed the end of the Natchez from his pilot house.

"The current caught her and rolled her over," he said. "She went down in about a minute. The men below — firemen, engineers and so on — had no chance. The men picked up were mostly deck crew.

The Sohio - Latonia picked up nine survivors, of whom two died on board. Four other men, rescued by other boats, were transferred to the Sohio - Latonia to be brought here.

Howell said the disaster was "by far the worst" in the twelve years he has been on the river. He is 28 years old.

The young captain said he thought the master of the Natchez, Capt. John Browinski of St. Louis was missing.

"Most of the fellows didn't know what had happened," he related.

Pilot Not on Duty

"The pilot wasn't on duty — I understand the captain was at the wheel. The pilot was asleep and they didn't know the boat had hit the bridge. They thought it had bumped against one of its barges."

The Natchez was owned by the Federal Barge Lines, but was on charter to the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, taking crude oil from Mayersville, Miss., to St Louis.

Gladys Pirtle of Memphis, a ship chandler who listens regularly to radio conversations among river boats, was tuned in when the Natchez hit the bridge, and heard conversations among that boat and several boats which went to the rescue.

Miss Pirtle said the Natchez sank six minutes after crashing against the solid masonry of a piling off the 2½ - mile - long bridge.

The current at that point has been described by river men as the most dangerous between Memphis and the mouth of the Mississippi.

The crash swept the helpless towboat a mile downstream where it settled to the bottom.

HUSBAND KEPT WRITING TO OTHER WOMEN, SAYS WIFE

Los Angeles, March 5 — (AP)—Her husband had writer's itch, Mrs. Mary Packard complained yesterday in court.

They met by correspondence through a matrimonial bureau, she testified, and were married in January, 1945.

But, she added, husband Jack C. Packard kept right on writing — to other women.

Divorce granted, said the judge.

PRICE CONTROLS ADVOCATED BY LABOR CONGRESS

Claim They Were Removed Earlier Than Industrial Conditions Warranted

Ottawa, March 5 (CP) —The Canadian Congress of Labor said today that establishment of the Parliamentary Prices Committee "was in no way an adequate substitute for effective price control."

"In the face of the widespread demand on the part of the Canadian people for the re-establishment of price controls, it is difficult to understand the unwillingness of the government to take effective action," the C.C.L. said in its annual submission to the Federal cabinet.

"External factors" had influenced prices but "one of the most important reasons for the inflated prices was the removal of price controls much earlier than industrial conditions warranted."

Price boosts during the last 18 months "have largely and in some cases entirely wiped out any benefits obtained by the workers through wage increases."

"In the circumstances, they have no alternative but to seek further increases in order to cope as far as possible with higher prices. The wage policy they adopt, however, will be determined to some extent by the action taken by the government in reimposing controls and excess profits taxes and in re-establishing subsidies."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 5—(CP)—Synopsis: The weather is clear and cold over most of Eastern Canada and the United States this morning. Minimum temperatures this past night were between 10 and 20 below zero in some localities in Southern Ontario which is extremely cold for the date. An extensive high pressure area centered over Ontario is the cause of the unseasonably cold weather. It is expected that tonight will be about as cold as the past night in Southern Ontario with higher temperatures throughout the province on Saturday.

City and District News

SMALL TREE TOAD SEEN, PROBABLY HARBINGER OF SPRING

Maybe Spring is around the corner, although today's weather gives the lie to the suggestion.

It may be that the housing shortage has extended to wild life, or that the vernal season is close at hand. In any event, Mrs. Claude Tucker, Stirling, is certain that it is one thing or the other.

Returning home the other night, Mrs. Tucker and her husband were surprised to see a small tree toad comfortably ensconced in the centre of a table in their living room. Where it came from is a mystery but the froglet was as spry as a Spring lamb, and just as frisky.

A little while ago, Mrs. Tucker saw a caterpillar crawling along the verandah of their home.

CAPACITY GATHERING ANTICIPATED AT C. OF C. BANQUET

With over one hundred tickets already sold, directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce anticipate a capacity gathering at their annual banquet in the Hotel Quinte tonight. The guest speaker is Professor Watson Kirkconnell, McMaster University, Hamilton, who will address the gathering on "The Red Fifth Column in Canada".

Chamber of Commerce officials from Picton, Trenton, Wellington with their ladies will be in attendance. The banquet will be held under the chairmanship of President Harold Seldon of the Chamber of Commerce here.

LITTLE DAMAGE CAUSED

Small fire loss at the home of Mr. G. W. Jackson, 85 Bridge Street, West, occurred Thursday when furnace pipes set fire to the floor between the first and second floors. The fire department answered the alarm and quickly extinguished the blaze. Damage was reported at about $10.

EXAMS WILL START ABOUT MARCH 16TH

Spring, they say, is just around the corner. With the warmer weather, departure of snow and the rest of it come the inevitable Easter examinations for those striving to obtain an education in our local 'brain-factory'.

Mr. G. E. Currie, principal of Belleville Collegiate, announces that for this year the examinations are scheduled to begin on March 16 and end about March 25. Following these exams, the students will have an eleven-day vacation for Easter. Classes will be resumed on April 5.

B.C.I. NIGHT COURSES TO END MARCH 25TH

Special night courses being held at Belleville Collegiate are scheduled to end on March 25.

For those attending the classes who have had 90 per cent or better attendance refunds of the entry fees will be made during the week of March 22 to March 25, states Mr. G. E. Currie, principal Belleville Collegiate.

Patient Survives Five-Storey Fall

London, Ont., March 5. (CP) —Condition of a patient who dropped five floors from a Victoria hospital window to the lawn was described by hospital authorities today as "serious". The hospital said he fractured his thigh in the fall.

The man, whose name was withheld by the hospital, plunged 50 feet Wednesday night and was discovered by attendants as he lay moaning on the lawn outside the hospital.

Tim Daly, Veteran Maple Leaf Trainer, Entertains Masons With Story of Hockey World

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Connie Smythe is the leading man in hockey today. The Maple Leaf Gardens is the landmark of hockey on the continent and the greatest "stadium" in North America as far as the winter sport is concerned. High-priced stars are not "tentemental." The Toronto Maple Leafs will win the Stanley Cup again, and the young athletes of today in their "sports comfort" have many more prospects for stardom, than did their forebears of three and four decades, ago.

That's what the man said.

He is Tim Daly, well-known trainer of the Maple Leafs hockey and baseball teams, who last night with facial expression as solemn as the ice surfaces he loves so well, gave upwards of 200 members of The Belleville Lodge, A.F. & A.M. a colorful verbal insight into the workings of a professional hockey club and its players, garnished with delightful reminiscences of forty years as a professional trainer of athletes.

Little Time in School

Rotund, poker-faced Tim, "one of the many Smythian good-will ambassadors, who was sent home after a year in school, "because the teacher thought I was too danged smart" with droll Irish humor regaled the Masons with colorful anecdotes of four decades as a trainer, in a version of the King's English that was out of this world.

A slightly flattened proboscis, substantiates Tim's claim that he was once a professional boxer. In fact he held a Dominion title away back when, in the days when "amachoors" were "amachoors" and all they did was get paid for their services.

One of the most widely-travelled men in sport, the sixty-four year-old dressing-room maestro of the Leafs, reviewed the progress of hockey from the time "the boys played with broken arms and charley horses for thirty-minute periods" to the modern player who cavorts on the ice for two minutes, yet actually gives "more endurance" in that brief period of play than did the oldtimers.

Have More Chances

The young athlete of today, Tim told the Masons, has much better chance of attaining stardom than did the kids of long ago. "In those days," he said, "they grabbed a baseball bat, or a hockey stick, played on street corners, broke a couple of windows then "ran like h. . ."

Nowadays, the hockey player of 15 and 16 is looked over by trained scouts of the big time. The boys do not know they are there. But they are, watching and waiting. Then they sign the youngsters up. Today, Tim went on, the "young fellers has sport comfort. They have coaches, trainers, scouts, arenas, baseball diamonds and everything to boost them along the highway of athletics."

"Players of today have to be in physical condition," he said. Years ago they played with injuries. But today no chances are taken and they don't go on the ice unless a doctor gives them the "Okay." They must be 100 per cent right."

"All you gotta do is ask 'em" said Tim. "They'll tell you how they feel. They don't lie." And there was a suspicious swelling in the right cheek of the speaker.

Two sets of Equipment

Turning to his favorite subject, the Leafs trainer said that his team is the only one that carries two sets of equipment, one for home play and the other for away games. Each player has two dozen sticks of his own and 3 pairs of skates. They carry one pair of the skates with them, the rest of the team's equipment is transported in six huge trunks as compared to one small box which sufficed for the teams of years ago.

Before each game the players order what they want to eat. "And" said Tim "which is mostly steaks."

The lowest salary paid Maple Leaf players is $5,000 and the highest, $12,000 which includes bonuses etc.

"Lot different to when I was in the racket," Tim said. "My first pay check was eight bucks, and after I bought two bottles of beer, I was broke."

Players Save Money

But, he went on, the players of today save their money. They don't spend it in "booze joints" ("There's only two guys on our team which takes the odd drink, the rest are ice-cream grabbers") but invest it in business and farms. When the season ends, they go back to work.

"And," Tim said, "in pro hockey, the boys meet the best people, actors, actresses, big shots of all kinds, and personalities."

He related an experience in New York. The Leafs were playing Rangers and previous to the game, a Leaf player sidled up to Tim, and motioned with his stick to a box in the lower tier of seats in Madison Square Gardens. "Know who that couple is?" he asked.

"No," said Tim.

"Its Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck," the player replied. Tim went to the box, "Say," he demanded of the handsome young gentleman, "are you Robert Taylor?"

Asked to Visit Room

It was. "Come around to the dressing room after the first period and meet the boys," invited the unperturbed Timothy. "I will," smiled the motion picture star.

Tim went to the dressing room after the period ended, and warned the boys. "Lissen, you guys, I gotta perticuler friend of mine coming to see you. He's a big shot in the movies, so behave yourselves, eh?" The Leafs smiled, one to the other.

Came a knock at the door. "Come in Bob" sang out Tim. And the famous picture star entered the room.

"Meet Robert Taylor, boys," said Tim, chest stuck out a foot. After introductions and small chat, Taylor rose to leave. "See you again, Tim," he called out as he left. "S'long Bob" quoth the trainer.

The players looked at one another. "Ole Pop did know that guy."

On another occasion he went on "I shook hands with the late President Harding of the United States. I musta given him a chill for he died a week later."

Tim recalled his early days when he was part and parcel of this district. "I fought a guy here once, but I can't remember his name. I also trained a hockey team, I think they came from Trenton. It was all right with the exception that Tom Power who run a hotel here, grabbed all the players trunks for the board bill Luckily I got mine out, just in time."

"The Maple Leaf," he said, "is one of the greatest emblems on this earth. When a kid put on a sweater with the Leaf on it, it is the proudest moment of his life. You see them everywhere. They wear 'em at school, at home and on the street. And the fame of the Maple Leafs has extended everywhere."

"I remember years ago when Detroit beat us for the Stanley Cup, we took a tour out west with the Red Wings. Them were the days of Primeau, Conacher and Jackson, the Kid Line. We stopped at a small station on the prairies. Outside was a crowd of kids yellin'."

Wanted to See Conacher

"I got off the train and a kid said to me, 'Where's the hockey players, mister?' I motioned to the Red Wings' car, There's the world's champions, I told the youngster."

"The kid snorted. Who wants the champions, Where the h. . T's Conacher?" he yelled.

Daly gave full credit to Connie Smythe, the Maple Leaf Garden and Foster Hewitt for raising professional hockey to its present high status in Canadian and American sports. "Most teams play to 15,000 people," he said, "but on Saturday nights, the Leafs play to over a million through the broadcast. Our players control the emotions of hockey fans all over, through this medium.

Smythe, he concluded is a great leader, who has done more for sport in Canada than any other man. He is one of four men whose foresight made possible the three-million dollar Maple Leaf Gardens "the greatest hockey stadium in north America".

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Daly was extended the appreciation of his audience by Wor Bro. Hayes Pitt.

Acrobatic and Musical Numbers Well Presented at Boys' Night Show

The first performance of two of Boys' Night presented by a cast of students and former students of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, was held in the Collegiate Auditorium last night. The program consisted a variety of acts featuring gymnastics and musical numbers.

The introduction was delivered by Bob Matthews to a crowd of some eight hundred people, including students of the O.S.D.

The opening number was the entire cast of B.C.I. boys singing "Keep Your Sunny Side Up", followed by two vocal solos by Jim McKay.

Team work was the key-note of the display of mat work. The four boys did somersaults, flips and acrobatics, to the enjoyment of the audience. Following the mat work, a Mutt and Jeff combination played a clarinet duet for two numbers, featuring synchronized harmony. The trio on the pommelled horse display which followed the duet executed their vaults, scissors and other figures with deftness and good timing.

Don Charlton's mastery of the cornet in two selections was of the typical perfection for which he has long been noted. Greasepaint and slapstick comedy, plus a few renditionings of songs of the South made the minstrel show a fast-moving act.

The band struck up a few lively airs during the intermission on a par which showed the excellence of their training under the baton of Mr. A. Cooper. The audience quickly regained their seats in expectation of the next act.

By Popular Demand

By popular demand of last year's audience who were so taken with the act, the Grecian statue work was repeated this year in its exact form of last year. The symmetrical grace of the poses was a delightful thing to witness.

The chordbusters gave out with "Old MacDonald Had a Farm" and "All-You-Etta", complete with imitations and sound effects was one of the features of the evening. In a more serious vein the parallel bar display once again showed the necessity of constant team-work and muscular co-ordination, which these boys have attained to near perfection, Kaye Martin followed the high bar with two organ solos which served to calm the people's nerves after watching the boys flirt with danger on the parallel bars.

Modern Statuary

The boys of Industrial 12th put on a very good display of Modern Statuary work which was well received. Following them, the Glow-Worm Trio rendered a couple of vocal selections which might have come under the heading of music depreciation. Still in the swing, of it, the high bar act once again was enjoyed as the boys skilfully executed their figures with apparent disregard for their personal safety.

Again switching to music, Arthur Duby, Jolson the second, gave out with "Mammy" and then in a more sentimental mood, "Golden Eearrings." Milan Kravacek at the piano gave an excellent renditioning of two piano selections.

Fine Pyramid Display

As a good thing invariably must end sometime, so must Boys' Night, but it could not have been concluded better than with the pyramid display. It was a case of build up those bodies until the top man was out of sight, blow a little whistle — somebody get out the liniment.

The entire cast re-appeared for the grand finale, ending the first night of the second annual Boys' Night.

The show is still on tonight. The performance starts at 8.15 sharp.

Deseronto Physician Quits Active Practice

Due to his ill health for the past several months. Dr. H. A. Boyce, Deseronto, is turning over his medical practice on March 8 to Dr. A. H. Greenidge. He will remain in the advisory capacity, retaining several of the medical offices which he now fills.

Dr. Boyce has been a practitioner in Deseronto for the past 30 years, during which time he has played an active part in community affairs. Mayor of the town less than 20 years ago, he was a pioneering force in the establishment of the public utilities commission in Deseronto. In 1936 he ran as the Liberal candidate in the famous East Hastings by-election and was defeated by late Dr. Harold E. Welsh. He is also the immediate past president of the Deseronto Lions Club.

Dr. Greenidge is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston and McGill University, Montreal. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Science and M. D. C. M. and became a licentiate of the Medical Council of Canada in 1943. A veteran of the "World War" he served as surgeon-lieutenant in the R. C. N. V. R. in Canada and the United Kingdom.

Enjoyed Trenton Course Naval, Air Cadets

Esquimalt, B.C., March 5.—Sixty-seven naval cadets and 34 air force cadets from the joint RCN-RCAF College, H.M.C.S. "Royal Roads", near Victoria, B.C., arrived back, fit and eager, after a month's training with their respective services. The Air Force cadets touched down in two RCAF Dakotas, March 2, at the Air Force station, Patricia Bay, B.C., following a thirty-day period of dual flying instructions and general airmanship in Trenton, Ont. The naval cadets returned from their training cruise, in the frigate, H.M.C.S. "Antigonish", the next day, March 3. The cadets of the two services had been on the intensive training program since February 3.

JARRELL—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frederick Barker Jarrell, who passed away March 5th., 1946.

Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
A page in the book of memory
Is silently turned today.

Affectionately remembered by his wife, Lula; his son, John Jarrell and wife, Ruth Jarrell, of Ridgetown, Ont. M5

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 5 —(CP)— Prices eased gently in quiet trading on the stock exchange today although a handful of selected issues turned over actively. Winnipeg Electric featured the industrial lists on about 5,670 shares to add 1-2 at 25, C.P.R. was busy on a loss of 1-8 at 13 and Imperial Oil on a gain of 1-4 at 15 1-8. Mining stocks were dull with a couple of key issues mildly off.

Volume for the first three hours was 343,000 shares, about 30,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

Mixed gains and losses within fraction range among the industrials included on the gain side Acadia Atlantic Pfd., Aluminum, Bank of Toronto, Bell, Burlington Steel, Canada Malting, Crow's Nest Coal, Dominion Foundries, Moore Corp. Pfd., Purity Flour Pfd., and Power Corp.

HOGS

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Hog prices, in markets reporting early this morning were:

Stratford: Unchanged, grade A delivered to farmers $28.85 to truckers $29.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Cattle prices opened 25 cents a hundredweight higher but eased off toward the close of the livestock market this week while calves gained $1 a cwt. and hogs 25 cents cwt. Sheep and lambs remained unchanged.

Trading on cattle was brisk at the opening but slowed up by the close of a fairly good clearance made on later arrivals. Receipts totalled about 4,600 head.

Top for weighty steers was $16.75 for a few head with others from $16.50 downward to $14.50. Butcher steers were $12.50-$15.50 and a few choice at $16. Heifers sold mostly from $15.25 downward. Butcher cows were $9.50-$12.50 with canners and cutters from $5.50-$9. Bulls sold from $10.50-$12.50 cwt. and fed yearlings brought mostly $15-$17.50. A few lots of plain to good stockers brought $11-$14 cwt. Ordinary quality milkers and springers were from $85-$145 each.

Calves were 950 head. Choice vealers sold at $22-$24 cut with plain to medium lights and heavies from $12-$20 cwt. Thin grassers for slaughter brought $10-$12.

Hogs were 1,800 head and a very light run. Grade A hogs sold at $29 cwt with grade B1 at $28.60. Sows were $20 dressed.

Sheep and lambs were only 150 head. A few good feed-lot lambs sold at $18.50 with other lambs from $13-$18. Sheep were $5-$9 cwt according to quality.

Business Keeping Liquid Reserves For Contingencies

(By The Canadian Press)

This year's crop of financial statements emphasize the awareness of industry that the assets side of the balance sheet, which today show substantially greater value than in previous years, very often is inflated by high - price inventories.

Examination of a few of these reports shows that management concedes the possibility that prices may be appreciably lower in the current business year. Reserves against future decline in inventory values show sizeable increase.

Harding Carpets, Ltd., in its consolidated balance sheet for the year ended Oct. 31, 1947, reports such reserves as $503,050. This compared with $54,383 for the previous year.

Sarnia Bridge Co. Ltd., includes in its report $25,000 reserve for contingencies whereas there were no such reserves at the end of the previous business year.

Paralleling such increases in reserves are reports that purchasing departments are exercising greater caution in business transactions. Buyers today are said interested primarily in day-to-day purchases and are prepared rather to go short than overbuy at current prices. With a buyers' market steadily coming into its own and competition making itself felt in business, management sees even a small drop in prices converting a profitable inventory into a loss.

Commodity markets yesterday led the activity with Chicago grains buying on news of government re-entry into the low market on a large scale. Winnipeg coarse grains reflected Chicago strength. Security markets, however, continued the dull and narrow road.

Police Build Fire

When police arrived at the home shortly after midnight, there was no fire on in the Quebec heater in the front room. There were no lights in either of the bedrooms. Police had to build a fire and dress the youngsters before they were taken to the children's shelter.

The house was in a condition of almost indescribable chaos and lack of attention. In the front room where two of the kiddies slept on the sofa, there was only the sofa, one chair, the heater, a trunk and an old radio.

In the kitchen lay a copy of the St. John Ambulance Brigade text book, "First Aid to the Injured". Inside under the heading "Treatment" was an illustration of a man with a bandaged arm.

The head had been circled in pencil. On the front room wall was a certificate in the name of Jerome St. Cyr who was qualified to practice First Aid.

Parking Meters To be Numbered, Will Help Police

In order to facilitate the reporting of parking meters which are out of order, and at the same time to facilitate law enforcement officers in making convictions against motorists who persist in over-time parking, meter standards in the city will be numbered.

This was decided by members of city council at their regular Thursday evening committee meeting when the matter of parking meters came up for discussion. In the past police officers have had no definite means of identifying meters which were out of order so that the meter attendant could effect prompt repairs.

In preparation for the delivery of the new aerial ladder ordered by the fire department, council recommended the purchase of a new turret gun complete with brackets. A new electric range for the fire hall to take the place of the present gas range, was also recommended, as was the purchase of 300 feet new hose, chemical fire extinguisher and nine reconditioned fire fighting helmets.

Will Divide Costs

Division of costs for the installation of sanitary sewers for the Reynolds property in the College Street area, was approved by council with Thurlow township to be advised as to the city's share.

New parts for the city street sweeper were recommended at a cost of $396.26. The zoning by-law will be revised to permit an increase of 35 per cent in the cost of building permits issued for each zone. The city solicitor will be asked to advise as to who is responsible for the rebuilding of the retaining wall on Campbell St.

In accordance with a recommendation that all north and south streets in the Docter subdivision extend north to Pine St., it was recommended that options on the required property be secured from Mr. Docter.

Committee Named

A committee of Aldermen Lattimer, Vanner and Lummiss was appointed to meet with Hastings County Council to discuss the possibility of the city joining with the county in the future location of the Home for the Aged.

In the future city officials will advise the chairman of the special property committee immediately upon the expiration of building covenants which have not been completed in accordance with the terms of the covenant. Six city-owned building lots were recommended sold, while an extension of building covenant was granted to Mr. Maund for Lot 7 on the east side of Coleman Street.

Northern Electric Ready to Open Their New Plant

With the new manufacturing plant of the Northern Electric Company, Ltd, now virtually completed, the second stage in the movement of the company's electronic division from Montreal to Belleville has now commenced, according to a news item in the "Northern News" company newspaper.

This week, the first of more than 130 employees of the Montreal plant who are destined for key jobs in the new Belleville plant arrived in the city and will be followed by regularly scheduled parties for the next four months. Transfer of employees to Belleville will be planned with a minimum disruption to production.

Movement of machinery awaits the final completion of the manufacturing areas of the modern one storey plant and is expected to commence in the spring and continue until the end of August when the entire movement of the division will be completed.

The Sidney Street plant in this city will eventually employ about 500 people, most of whom will be recruited in the Belleville area. Together with the Water Street plant, Northern Electric will employ about 800 in this city.

Departments to be housed in the new plant include divisional general offices, machine shops, sheet metal-working, finishing, vacuum tubes and general assembly.

In the Water Street plant there are now approximately 350 workers, 78 of whom were moved from Montreal and the balance selected from the Belleville area. Departments here include Northern Hammond organs, domestic radio receivers, magnaphones and public address equipment

Fined $50 for Violating Exchange Regulations

Found guilty of exporting from Canada approximately $100 in American currency, contrary to foreign exchange regulations, Jack Johnston, Charlotte Street, was fined $50 and $13.50 costs when he appeared in city police court this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The accused was acquitted on two other charges in connection with the same offence, including that of failure to declare foreign currency, and of attempting to deceive a customs officer. The alleged offences were claimed to have taken place at the Ivy Lea Bridge last July. Charges were preferred by the R.C.M.P.

Special prosecutor for the case was Malcolm Robb, local barrister, who claimed that in passing through customs the accused had declared money carried loose in his pocket but had failed to declare $107 in American funds carried in his wallet. Alan B. Sprague appeared for the accused.

19 Below Zero During Night

Just as a grim reminder that old Man Winter can still be reckoned with despite signs of Spring that are in the air, the weatherman last night sent thermometers plunging in a sudden dive from the comparatively balmy weather of the past week.

Official low for the night at the Belleville Water Purification Plant on the Trent Road was a chilly 19 degrees below zero, this point being reached just before sunrise. With the sun serving to warm the chilled air thermometers still read three degrees below at eight o'clock and the mercury had risen but to zero at nine fifteen.

The official weather forecaster was considerably out in his prognostication for the Bay of Quinte district with yesterday's forecast indicating that a low of six degrees above zero could be expected for today. Insofar as the immediate Belleville district was concerned, the forecast was approximately 25 degrees on the optimistic side.

County Orange Lodge Holds Annual Meeting

The County Orange Lodge of South Hastings held their annual meeting in the Oddfellows' Hall on Tuesday afternoon. There was a very good attendance, considering the stormy day. Members from the following lodges were present: Shannonville, Plainfield, Foxboro, Wallbridge, Frankford, Trenton, Point Anne and Belleville. The election of officers was carried out by the Wor. Bro. E. Denyes, Past County Master.

Installation of officers was carried out by Wor. Bro. H. Graham of Kingston, Grand Organizer and Past Grand Master of Ontario East.

The officers elected were as follows: Past County Master, Bro. H. Harrison, Plainfield; County Master, Bro. J. Logue, Point Anne Deputy County Master, Bro. E. McFarlane, Trenton; County Chaplain, Bro. B. Charlton, Point Anne; County Secretary, Bro. W. J. Hall, Belleville; Assistant County Secretary, Bro. George McCullough, Foxboro; County Treasurer, Bro. George Reed, Foxboro; County Marshal, Bro. L. Wease, Shannonville; County First Lecturer, Bro. Tom Juby, Point Anne and County Second Lecturer, Bro. Tom Howard, Shannonville.

The doctors, the nurses, his mother, his sisters . . . they told him who he was.

He, they said, was a musician. His mother spoke of what a talented little boy he had been—a prodigy. His sisters tried to recall to his memory incidents of his shy youth, his gifted manhood—concerts, dance bands, symphonies . . .

They told him, too, that he had joined the Navy; served in the North Atlantic; off Africa; off the Normandy beaches.

Words without meaning

To his clouded mind it meant nothing. He was in the neuro-psychiatric ward of a great new Veterans' hospital.

One day his sisters took this young man for a walk. Along bright corridors; down an elevator; through a great quiet tunnel.

At its end they came into another building, bearing no resemblance to any hospital. It is more like a comfortable attractively-furnished home, with pleasing decorations, inviting easy chairs and a baby-grand piano. Flowers are there, and girls in a well-remembered uniform. The Red Cross uniform. For this is a Red Cross Lodge.

Guided by his sisters, the young man came slowly out of the tunnel. He glanced vacantly about him. But, all at once, he buttoned his blue jacket—strolled casually across the room as though he had been there a hundred times, although he had never seen it before. He sat down at the piano. His fingers ran lightly over the keys.

Other men in blue

He didn't come out of the darkness immediately. It was days, weeks, before complete sunrise followed the slow dawn.

At first, he played only to himself. Just fragments of song, bits of Chopin, snatches of messroom ballads. Then he noticed—his smile less vacant now—that what he had he could share. For other men in blue had begun to cluster around the piano.

Long ago this young man left the hospital—cured.

Would any piano have done it? I don't know. But, to me, the piano in itself is unimportant. The significant thing is that this miraculous restoration of a brilliant musician's faculties was accomplished in surroundings planned, for the care and comfort of the afflicted, by the Red Cross. An organization always at hand whenever or wherever Humanity is in distress.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion; Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

The work of mercy never ends . . . Give generously to the CANADIAN RED CROSS

Red Cross and Safety

One of the many peacetime services of the Red Cross is that known as Swimming and Water Safety. This plan has already without doubt saved many lives and the sum-total of the work of the society in this regard will grow greatly as the years pass.

Loss by drowning and water accidents is one of the mass tragedies a land like Canada with so many lakes, rivers and streams and watering places knows far too well. Canadian boys and girls are active and desire to enjoy the fresh waters of this country especially in the summer time when with ideal temperature and plenty of sunlight, health is built up. From coast to coast the Red Cross is teaching swimming and water safety to safeguard human life. The results of the instruction in swimming and in taking care of one's self and others when on the water or in the water is one of the high objects of the Society.

Parents especially must feel an intense satisfaction towards the Red Cross in the knowledge that their children have learned or have the privilege of being taught to swim and take care of themselves where water is concerned.

To the children and others it is the opening of a new life as they are taught the correct things to do and what to avoid in the water and as they are made capable of enjoying swimming which itself is a healthy activity. Each child or adult taught enjcys life the more and is able possibly to save others not so fortunate as to know how to swim or take care of themselves in the water.

Busy Bears and Bees

Bears in New England were recently said to have been wandering about instead of obeying their native instinct to hibernate, that is, to snooze in profound sleep and carelessness of whatever befalls. Now just a little later comes word from England that the very busy bee has been restless, contrary to its custom of rest in wintertime and that millions of them have come out into the open.

Now Canadian bears have been more sensible and have rested except on that day, Feb. 2nd., dedicated to the bear family as a memorable day according to human yarns when they take a look out and try to see their shadow.

No more word has come of the New England bears, whether they have gone into a late hibernation or not. But the bees of England whose behavior has been the subject of note have become recorded in verse by a writer well known to the readers of the Manchester Guardian, Lucio. In the days of war Lucio wrote a great deal of verse and his new utterance on the bees is marked by his usual wit. Here is what he wrote in the Guardian just a week ago:

(At the beginning of last week beekeepers were complaining that the mild winter has roused millions of bees from what should have been their dormant state and brought them out into the open.)

How doth the busy little bee
  Mistake the shining hour
And think itself too soon set free
  From winter's chilly power!
Deceived by days with milder ways
  Which seem serene and sunny
It ventured out to buzz about
  For non-existent honey.

The foolish thing did not allow
  For weather that benumbs;
It should have had its lesson now
  When back the winter comes.
When frosts are keen and snow is seen
  Swirling around all dizzy,
You must agree the little bee
  Should not have been so busy.

Its path it should with speed retrace
  And make no further move—
A method which our human race
  Might envy and approve.
Within the hive it yet may thrive,
  And, safely stowed away there,
Its course is clear till spring is here:
  Go back to bed—and stay there.

Britain's Progress

As Britain is using her strength and skill to build up production and increase her exports, Canadians do not forget the time when British coal from Wales and Scotland in large quantities used to be shipped to Canada in the period some years ago. In fact the time may be nearer than expected when British coal will be brought to Canada again for the British Minister of Fuel anticipates that Britain will be able to increase her anthracite coal shipments to Canada this year.

Britain is making the efforts worthy of this race which has been in the forefront of nations and will remain so for British spirit is that which has done so much to advance the world's betterment. She has been and is the great trading nation and her confidence in her future is indicated by the tremendous strides which have been made in Britain's building of ships. In this latter she has led the entire world.

Britain is making rapid progress. She is busy and working heroically to build up trade. Of the merit of her manufactured products the whole world knows from experience.

The Condition of Mars

Astronomers at Mount Locke, in Texas, thought their telescope falls far below the range of the Palomer instrument, announce that they have just secured "tentative evidence that life in primitive form exists on Mars." It sounds a bit unguarded but it is to be hoped that they will go on with their inquiries. We should like to know just how primitive the Martian form of life is, whereabouts does it fall, for instance in the scale that separates the amoeba from the atomic bomb? Have they got anything approaching a "spiv" in their primitive form of society; do they know anything about price controls or bacteriological warfare? Have they got a language and does it include an adjective like "unilateral" as applied to international relations where, with us, it usually means going your own and anything but sweet way?—Manchester Guardian.

Recovery Plan

A natural consequqence of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia is seen in the intensification of interest in the Marshall Plan for the recovery of Europe so that peoples of many countries of the Continent may be preserved from Communism. It is seen as the agency to help them to build up their strength after the ordeals and suffering and losses they endured in the Second World War. Their economic and physical recovery from the devastation of war will go far to preserve the spirit of these nations, which are striving to get on their feet.

Vital Food

Most people know that there is danger in violent exercise, in middle age, but, ask health authorities, how many older people realize that there may be a danger-factor in diet, too? Experts say that it is very important for a person in the middle years to maintain normal, or slightly below normal weight. Otherwise the heart and other vital organs may be overtaxed. Those who find that they are putting on weight should cut down on starchy and fatty foods. They are urged to turn, instead, to such things as milk, green vegetables and whole grains.

The Institute of Forest Genetics at Placerville, California, has crossed the Jack Pine of the Great Lakes region with the Western Lodgepole Pine, says Winnipeg Tribune. This vigorous hybrid grows more rapidly, acquires height and volume at a greater rate, than either of its parents. It therefore holds great promise of restoring lumbering to vast areas in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and other areas around the Great Lakes.

About this time every year we envy automobile owners in states where license tags don't have to be changed, but only the year tag on them. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HERITAGE

Talk about heritage! Dimples in place,
Just like her grandma's the smile on her face;
Saw her aunt's picture when she was just three;
Looked for a moment and said: "That is me."
Everyone notes the resemblance so plain,
Grandma all over is our little Jane.

Talk about heritage, traits coming down!
Look at the eyes of her, long-lashed and brown.
See how they twinkle; hear how she laughs;
Just like her aunt's are her own photographs.
Just like our Jannie all over again.
Just like her daddy is our little Jane.

Talk about heritage! Down through the years
All that was lovely in time reappears.
Eyes with a twinkle and lips with a smile,
Such were her grandma's . . . away for a while.
Wish she could see her, though wishing is vain.
Jane is her grandma all over again.

Trinity College School, Port Hope, the school gymnasium and modern skating rink were destroyed by fire. The house of Dr. Orchard, the headmaster and the Hospital were saved. The loss will be over $500,000, possibly $750,000. The Governors of the school have decided to rebuild at once upon the same site.

At the home of Mr. George Henderson, Donald Street, a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Edna Henderson, bride to be, who was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts. The evening was highly enjoyed by the many friends present; games were played, dancing enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson will leave this evening for Halifax and will sail from there for Liverpool. They will spend some time in England and on the continent and will return home some time in June.

In a hockey match between the barbers and the milkmen the result was a tie, the score being 4 to 4. The playing of Skinner for the Barbers and Miller for the milkmen showed that the professional ranks are not in danger of extinction for lack of fast recruits. The following composed the teams — Barbers: Bennett, LaPalm, Arnott, O'Connell, Skinner, Burke Milkmen: Miller, Waite, Clarke Young, Vickers and Waite. Referee: Bill Green; Timekeeper, Jack Watts.

In the Sunday School basketball league a match was played between John Street and St. Michael's, the former team won the score being 34 to 27. The following composed the teams: John Street, — Robertson, Coppin, Andrews, Deacon and Hitchon. St. Michael's, — Hurley, Meagher, Young, Blanchard and Wims. Referee, H. P. Ellis; Timekeeper, Chute; Scorers, — McGee and Deeton.

40 YEARS AGO

March 5th., 1908

The pupils in the senior classes at Queen Victoria School were addressed recently by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, on his trip to the Tomb of Napoleon. He gave a vivid description of that wonderful structure, the Hotel des Invalides' in Paris, under which rest the ashes of Napoleon Bonaparte, surrounded by the captured flags and other trophies of the wonderful career of this remarkable man. The pupils listened most attentively and fully appreciated Mr. O'Flynn's kindness in addressing them. Short addresses were made by Mr. George Bennett, Chairman of the Board of Education; Mr. C. M. Reid, Chairman of Queen Victoria School; Mr. Walter Alford and Col. Ponton.

Mr. W. F. Sprague and Mr. W. J. Cook have been appointed 3rd. class excise officers for this district.

Mr. J. E. Ketcheson's horse ran away on Bridge Street this morning and the cutter was damaged to some extent.

50 YEARS AGO

March 5th., 1898

Mr. Victor Wensley, who left here with the Klondike party some weeks ago, returned home last night owing to a severe attack of muscular rheumatism which he contracted on the steamer going from Vancouver to Wrangel. When he reached the latter place he could not walk and considered it advisable to return home for a time. He intends to resume the journey if possible for him to do so. The rest of the party which includes Joseph D. Clarke, Robert Bogle, S.S. Moore, Ed. Sprague, Alf. English and Dr. Robinson of Consecon were in the best of health when he left them. Rumors that the party had disbanded, he says, are without foundation; the only one to leave the party was John C. Keith, who is now in Vancouver, B. C.

Mr. A. M. Reid is home from Buffalo to spend a few days.

Mrs. Thomas Watkin has returned to the city after spending some time in California.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who is Alfalfa Bill?

William Henry Murray, former Congressman and Governor of Oklahoma, is almost universally known as "Alfalfa Bill."

Murray was born at Collinsville, Texas, in 1869 and edited a newspaper and practiced law in the Lone Star State for several years before he moved to Indian Territory in 1898. He settled at Tishmoningo and grew the first alfalfa ever planted south of the Canadian River, which divides Oklahoma into two nearly equal parts.

About 1903, when cotton prices were low, Murray began to urge the farmers in that section to diversify their crops and to plant Irish potatoes. At a meeting in Tishmoningo in 1903 a group of farmers raised enough money to buy two carloads of seed potatoes for the experiment. When the seed-potato business was concluded, George W. Watkins suggested to the gathering that Murray make a speech on how to grow alfalfa. Murray responded, and later, on the request of Indian Territory farmers, made many speeches on the advantages of growing alfalfa.

A young man from Michigan named Arthur Sinclair had attended the meeting and saw humor in the transaction. Arthur Simpson, editor of the local newspaper, met Sinclair outside while the meeting was still in progress and asked him what the news was. "When I got up there they were planting 'taters'," replied Sinclair, "but when I left they were contemplating planting Alfalfa Bills, and Alfalfa Bill himself was making a speech." Simpson put the witticism in his paper. A few weeks later a farm paper printed near Muskogee got Murray to write a series of articles entitled "Alfalfa Hogs" in which he pointed out the most profitable way of combining the two. The editor put the first article on the front page and headed it "Alfalfa by Alfalfa Bill Himself." Presumably he had seen Sinclair's article in the Tishmoningo paper.

That is Alfalfa Bill's own story as to how he got one of the best known nicknames in American politics. In a letter to the author dated August 6, 1942, former Governor Murray wrote:

"From then on the nickname stuck and I adopted it because all my life I have had some nickname and I used this one because it was a good one for identification. Hence it has stayed with me ever since. In a political way it has both helped and injured me, as the great body of farmers and the multitudes in general took to the name, but it was a little too 'rustic' for the effete of the population. It has also impressed the general public that I was too much of a rustic to be a scholar."

HIS MOTHER-IN-LAWS POICE

Lythe, Yorks, England, March 5 (CP) — When Vic Frost, bricklayer and fireman, found his chimney on fire, he called out the local fire brigade and mounted the roof with a hose which he aimed down the chimney.

There were yells of rage from below as water gushed — he had put the hose down the chimney of the next door. Who lives there? His mother-in-law.

HISTORY OF AN ORDINARY C R I. (KREE)

In the leading article in the February issue of Health Education Journal, entitled Cold Facts the author, John L. C. Goffin, M.D., whose writings on health and hygiene are among the finest I have seen anywhere observes that it is one of the impenetrable mysteries why a cold is called a cold, but that the odd misnomer is conquered by medical science.

Forever, eh?

I was not greatly irked by that. Just between ourselves I'm beginning to wonder whether anybody other than you and I and the editor of the Atlanta Constitution who allowed a reporter to say the mayor was staying home for a day or two with the C R I, will ever adopt an honest word for it.

But I was a little irked with what Dr. Goffin says at the top of the next page:

On the other hand we all know that we have "caught cold" following chilling of the body without ever having been exposed to anybody with such an infection. This would indicate that perhaps many cold-susceptible individuals harbor the virus all of the time and it is only when their resistance is lowered that they succumb to its pernicious activity.

Now I'm not going to descend to billingsgate about this, but if chilling of the body has anything to do with it where is the mystery about the misnomer? And what, I'd like to know, what the blue blazes is "resistance"—that is, how can a physician or any one else determine in any instance whether a person has or has not "resistance"?

A schoolboy aged seven years had what the parents considered an ordinary cold for several days, but the boy had not been feverish or otherwise really sick, so he kept at play and at school. He was a little hoarse, that was all. Then one night the boy's parents noticed he had some difficulty in breathing, called the doctor, who prescribed for the boy and instructed the parents to call him again if the breathing was not better within two hours.

The boy vomited and then the breathing seemed easier, so the parents did not call the doctor again until next morning. The doctor found the boy in desperate condition, rushed him to the hospital for intubation (insertion of tube in larynx), and administered immediately 60,000 units of antitoxin in the ordinary way plus 10,000 units in dextrose solution directly into a vein.

The "ordinary cold" proved to be diphtheria.

The history of the case reflects on the ability of the physician who first saw the child. He acquiesced in the idea or the hope that the boy had just an ordinary "cold"—whatever that may be I don't know. The physician failed to take a culture. Of course even that might have required 12 hours or more — but meantime a tentative 30,000 units of antitoxin could have done the boy no harm even if the illness was not diphtheria.

I give the history of the case here to emphasize three important facts:

1. You never know and neither does any physician at the onset of the C R I ("cold" to you, stupid) what the outcome will be.
2. When a child has nose or throat symptoms and very evident fever the illness is less likely to prove serious than it is if there is little or no fever.
3 In any such case if there is even a suspicion of diphtheria we should give the child the benefit of the doubt—an immediate dose of not less than 10,000 to 30,000 units of antitoxin, and if the culture proves negative, no harm done anyway.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Adult Tetany

You suggested calcium and vitamin D for leg pains. I followed your suggestion and am happy to say that the leg cramps completely disappeared in three weeks.

(Mrs. I. C)

Answer—Thank you. Many mature adults suffer from cramps or pains in legs, usually at night, sometimes in wrists and arms too. Instructions in pamphlet Adult Tetany, available or written request, no clipping, if you inclose stamped self addressed envelope.

Growing Pains

My two children, aged two and four, complain a lot and often wake out of sound sleep crying with pains in ankle and instep. Pediatrician says he finds nothing wrong and that most youngsters have growing pains.

(Mrs. R. C. L.)

Answer—The pediatrician is pjassing the buck. Growing pains my eye. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on "Growing Pains." Lucky the brass specialist didn't tell you the children are developing the rheumatism. That crepitation you may hear in the background is the gritting of teeth—the brass specialists of Yankeeland won't like this.

COMMONS REJECTS

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent confirmed reports that the Polish art treasures now are in the Quebec Provincial Museum and termed statements attributed to Premier Duplessis in connection with their movement a "clumsy but deliberate" attempt to smear federal ministers from Quebec.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King declined request for assurance of an early debate on international affairs.

Believe Action Likely

Finance Minister Abbott declined to indicate whether the government plans to take any action to curb exorbitant increases when commercial rent ceilings are lifted Monday, but sources outside the Commons said such action is likely.

He said the government has decided to reimpose price ceilings on meat only "in the event they become necessary."

Opening his attack on Communism, Mr. Fleming criticized the government for "belatedly" awakening to the threat of Communism and said it was necessary only to read the speeches of Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive Party leader, to realize that Canada was on the list of the Communist revolution. If the Marshall Plan was delayed and France and Italy fell to the Communists there would be a grave threat to every man, woman and child in this country.

He challenged the government, which was on the "slippery slide to socialism," to a general election on the issue of its trend towards centralization and a "socialistic tyranny."

Wants One-Way Ticket

Mr. Stephenson said the time had come for Canada to follow the example of the United States and give Communist-paid agents a "one-way ticket to the land of their dreams in the U.S.S.R." Canada, he charged, had been following a policy of appeasement.

Mr. Raymond held that the government's policies of scarcity and austerity would engender the growth of Communism in Canada.

These policies, he said, developed from the government's practice of placing the needs of Britain ahead of those of Canada, with the result that Canadians were facing scarcity in a land of plenty. All Canadian policies were being made subservient to British needs by a Federal cabinet which was imperialistic in its outlook.

Mr. Bracken, speaking on the C.C.F. motion, said his party would have supported the amendment had the word "inflation" been substituted for the word "prices." His party believed that price controls could work only if everything was controlled.

But his party, he said, was not against all controls, although it believed price controls alone could not accomplish what the C.C.F. wanted.

Mr. Shaw, moving the Social Credit amendment, said his group did not want the motion looked on as one of non-confidence in the government but rather as a motion on which the members could vote for what their constituents wanted. Acceptance of the amendment would not be regarded as a Social Credit victory.

Mr. Quelch pressed the government to guarantee farmers a fair share of the national income and said that some people were trying to push this country into a depression.

Against Sales Tax

Mr. Drope said the eight-percent sales tax, because of its effect on the cost of living, should be reduced or abolished and that income tax exemptions should be increased, possibly to $1,200 for single persons and $2,000 for those married. To permit tax reductions, governmental expenditures should be curbed.

Mr. Kirk called for the installation of modern aids to navigation on Canada's east coast and urged the government to reconsider its decision not to establish a coast guard service.

Mr. Ross urged the abolition of indirect taxes, said higher pensions should be paid to veterans and retired civil servants and criticized the government's handling of the U.S. dollar shortage.

Earlier Mr. Stephenson urged the government to give more assistance to Ontario apple and tobacco growers.

He said that because of world conditions the apple and tobacco growers had to market their products in Canada, and suggested the government advertise the value of apples and the uses to which they could be put in the home. The government should ask the United Kingdom to give preference to tobacco imports from Canada.

Mr. Stephenson said there was a shortage of veterinarians in his constituency and this was worrying cattle breeders. He urged better remuneration for veterinarians.

He criticized the prices being charged veterans for their homes and urged higher pensions for them.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

INDUSTRY SAVES COAL BY TONS!

The engineers at Johns-Manville have made an interesting study. They summed up the overall fuel savings due to all Johns-Manville Insulations now serving industry. They figured these insulations saved thousands of tons of coal in one year. And insulations not only cut fuel waste but also made possible the accurate control of heat which is so necessary in all manufacturing processes.

There's a J-M Insulation made to solve every heat problem anywhere from 400 degrees below zero to 2600 degrees above. And back of this ability to meet every insulation need is Johns-Manville's 90 years' experience in every conceivable type of insulation work.

If you have an insulation problem in your plant, get in touch with Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

One of the most curious family situations I have ever heard of comes to me from a woman who is being driven frantic by her children's abnormal preoccupation with cleanliness. This obsession seems to have been either inherited from their father or fostered by him, since the letter writer tells me that the 25 years of her married life—at the end of which she divorced her obsessively clean husband in desperation about the business of keeping the house clean.

So prolonged were this husband's ablutions in the morning that his wife and children had to go to a neighbor's house to make their own. When he returned from work at night, he would run his hands over the furniture to see if it was dusty, and then ask his wife what she did all day. She never knew the gay abandon of going out in the evening, leaving the dishes to be washed later. Everything had to be in order before any other move was made.

Divorce, however, failed to free her as she had hoped, for she found her two children carried on where their father left off.

"At 65," my correspondent writes, "I am that most envied of mortals—an adored mother. But am I happy? No! My children devote all their spare time to giving me a list of clean jobs in the morning which I am expected to have done by night. Closets must be cleaned out on Sunday, when I'd give the world to go out for a ride. Sometimes I'd give the world to go to a Shangri-La where there is no dirt.

Don't think I'm not clean; I am. But the outside world seems more important to me than this obsession with soap and water. I certainly think my two children have missed something in life when they constantly spend their free time rubbing finger marks off doors, re-arranging furniture, and, when they consider that a has been well spent if the garage has been done over, the furniture sponged, or a collection of snapshots has been put in order—everything but washing and drying out tea bags.

"Am I unreasonable to think there is more to life than such excessive interest in cleanliness? Would the world be astonished if I wallowed in mud for a vacation?"

Now obviously this husband and the two children he brought into the world all have a psychopathic condition which could only be adjusted by treatment from a psychiatrist. Excessive preoccupation with soap and water is a well-known neurosis brought into being by maladjustment of one kind or another. Only a doctor trained in handling such a condition can help the person afflicted with it to overcome it.

The only hope for this situation, of course, would be if this mother could make her young people realize that this sort of behavior is definitely abnormal and that all of them would be far happier if they took the necessary steps to correct it. It is a question, however, if they would listen to her. If they refuse to do anything, I think she should refuse to co-operate with such a compulsive cleanliness and announce that she shall take no more than a reasonable interest in her housekeeping and go about her business and her outside interests as she pleases. If this doesn't prove agreeable to her children, it seems to me she should, if at all possible financially, get an apartment of her own and go her own way, where she could "wallow in mud" if she liked and they could devote themselves, on their side, to cleaning and scrubbing.

BEAUTY By HELEN JAMESON

Unpleasant voice ruinous to charm

Every woman with sense in her head, no matter what her age may be, desires with all her heart to be attractive to the eye of the beholder. But that is not enough. It is extremely important to be attractive to the beholder's ear. A deckle-edged, raspy, shrill, whiney or nasal voice will make any suitor take to the tall timbers. Men are extremely sensitive to voices. Women do not give sufficient thought to this subject. Just a little attention can bring better tones, clearer enunciation. The trouble nearly always is in pitching the voice too high or using too much volume.

Here are some exercises suggested by a vocal teacher who tells your reporter that a pleasing speaking voice is easily cultivated.

Take a deep breath, but not so deep that the body becomes rigid. Slowly sing the scale on the word "oh".

If you have to take fresh breaths as you go up and down the scale, try to have the sensation of focusing the tone forward in the mouth at the front of the palate and behind the upper teeth. This may sound complicated, but it isn't. You'll figure it out easily enough when you try it. Sing each note clearly. Make the tone as full as possible. You are not trying to learn to sing, you understand, but to breathe properly.

For better voice control, take a deep breath through the nostrils and exhale through the lips saying "ah" in a long sigh. Then, in your normal voice, do the same thing, but start the "ah" very quietly, increasing the tone until it is fairly loud, gradually decreasing it until it trails off in a whisper.

Keep the voice steady. No hesitations. No quavers. The progression from soft to loud and back again should be smooth. Try to do all that on one deep breath. This is called a messa di voce in singing. Once you have learned to do it easily, you will be well on your way to cultivating a delightful speaking voice.

Nervous women and excitable women are likely to pitch their voices too high. That's bad business. It destroys poise, makes one a distracting companion instead of a restful one.

The voice should be well-placed and colorful. Never should it harp on one key, nor should it be given to sudden emphasis, which becomes tiresome to the listener. Loud speaking, of course, is unpardonable; cultured women never fall into that habit. Ladies do not shout. Maybe you fancy there aren't any ladies any more. Don't fool yourself. There are plenty of them. Their speaking manners are always correct.

A little attention can bring better tones, clearer enunciation.

Tips on Care of the Skin

To use cosmetic meal, make a paste with a little water and the meal. Apply to your face, leave on until dry; rinse off.

By HELEN FOLLETT

TO keep a good complexion in perfect form it should be scrupulously clean, lubricated and massaged lightly. One must have sufficient exercise to keep blood streams dancing. Unless circulation is brisk and normal the skin will be pale, and the texture is likely to become coarse.

Soap should be used once a day, preferably at bedtime. It is one of the best of all cleansing agents and, as the surface of the skin is beset more or less with bacteria, it serves as an antiseptic. A thoroughly clean skin is not as likely to develop blackheads.

Cosmetic Meal

A cosmetic meal is another excellent cleaner. Sprinkle a small amount on your hand, mix with water to paste consistency. Dip your washcloth into it and go over the face lightly. Rinse with tepid water. Cold water is no help to a dry or sensitive skin.

Cleansing creams should be used for the removal of make-up. These emollients are of light consistency, can be applied quickly, are easily removed. Heavier creams are for the purpose of massage. They should be used after the bedtime face washing, applied first to the throat, the fingers moving upward as the cream is spread over the face. A three minute slapping and patting treatment is of benefit. It not only rouses the blood streams, but it keeps underlying fibres firm.

Vigorous Massage

A full, fleshy young face can endure fairly vigorous massage, but checks that have lost the resiliency of girlhood, that have started to sag a bit, require gentler treatment.

A weekly complexion pack acts as a cleansing agent. If the skin is dry, mix kaolin (refined Fuller's earth) with mineral oil; if the skin is oily use witch hazel instead of oil. The mask should be the consistency of whipped cream.

Spread on a light film, let it remain until it begins to flake, then remove with tepid water.

Aids to Beauty Frowned On Back in 1770

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 4 (CP)—British cabinet ministers bear with patience the taunts about the amount of cloth used to provide the "New Look" in women's clothing and perhaps are given comfort by the knowledge that an old law could be used to check the new fashions.

An old law still on the statute books, dated 1770, reads: "No woman shall seduce or betray a man into matrimony by using scents, paint, cosmetics, waxes, artificial teeth, false hair, high-heeled shoes, iron stays or bolstered hips."

Rule Out-dated

An odd survival of parliamentary tradition is that when a member wishes to raise a point of order in the Commons after a division has been called, he must wear a hat and sit in his place. If he hasn't a hat, he must borrow a neighbor's.

The rule could be easily observed when all members of the house wore silk hats, but now a man with a complaint often has trouble finding a headpiece in order to catch a speaker's eye.

Party Orders

P. L. Wells, party private secretary to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, said in a speech that the Labor party should demand a minimum standard of behavior fro mmembers of the House.

"Ernest Bevin has not been assisted in his efforts to convince Molotov of Britain's peaceful intentions by ranting members of his own party," he added.

Fashion Flashes

THE COCOON silhouette is the thing for Spring toppers, judging from fashion show interest Pale rose-beige velour-finished woollen makes a slim wrap coat. Sleeves are cut in one with slightly padded shoulders. The loose sleeves have turn-back cuffs and are tucked in the middle at the outside. The notched collar buttons onto the coat.

NEVER-ENDING is the sure popularity of the soft shirtwaist dress, no matter what fashion is touted. Pure silk shantung—in gray polka dotted in white—is used for a charming shirtwaist frock. Neckline is worn either high, with a tiny collar, or opened to a deep V.

BACK, YET FORWARD, is the paradoxical line assumed by some hats, such as the pale blue ballibunti straw sailor worn back off the face, yet with forward-posed full-blown pink roses at the centre of the brim edge. It is banded in brilliant sapphire taffeta ribbon with streamer bows.

When Boy Sends Girl Corsage To Wear to the Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I have invited a girl to go to my school dance with me, and of course I want to send her a corsage to wear. My mother tells me that unless I send white flowers, one or two gardenias or camellias, I should ask the girl what color dress she is to wear so that the color of the flowers won't clash with the color of her dress. Is this really the correct thing to do. . . or should I 'surprise' the girl by sending her the corsage I've chosen?

Bob

Your mother is right . . . and she's undoubtedly speaking from experience or obsefvation of the clashing-of-colors of dress and corsage. If you consult with the girl about colors she'll know that you know what's what . . and she will be grateful. Keep in mind that no matter how inartistically your "surprise" flowers clash with the dress she's planned on so carefully, she just must wear the corsage you send. So make it right, sir. . . with good technique you can!

What to Say After the Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

What is the best way for a girl to say "thank you" to her partner after a dance?

Cleo

The best formula for this after-the-dance-thanks is: (1) for the man to say his "thank you" and (2) for the girl to enthusiastically imply her "thank you". For example: the man says, "Thank you, Betty," and Betty replies, "It was a delightful dance, Tom. . . .I thoroughly enjoyed it," or "It was grand, Tom. . .wonderful to dance with you again!"

If no Finger Bowl, Use the Napkin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When there is no finger bowl, is it correct for me to pour water from my water glass over my fingers?

R. L.

No. . .this technique should never be used as a substitute for a finger bowl. Instead, "proceed" with your napkin.

To Serve only Coffee at Tea-Time Generally not Correct

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really incorrect, as I have been told ,to serve coffee instead of tea at an afternoon "tea"? I like coffee so much better than I do tea!

Sarah

As a general rule it would not be correct for the hostess to offer only coffee when she invites guests to an afternoon "tea". But it is entirely correct, and has become quite customary, to offer coffee as an alternative to tea. If you are absolutely positive that all the guests you are inviting, as well as you yourself, prefer coffee, then you will be safe in serving only coffee. In the spirit of true hospitality, you must serve not what you prefer, but, in so far as is possible, you must provide a choice for your guests. And many, many people prefer to drink tea at tea-time.

Friendly Aid to Remembering

A gift that is a wonderful inspiration to kind thoughts and consideration is one of the record-books of birthdays, anniversaries, and other important days to be remembered. There are beautifully attractive ones now in the stores . . . and they are an excellent gift for a child, to "bend the twig" to thoughtfulness, as well as for a grown-up. A remembrance for remembering!

Chicago, March 5. (AP)—The new-born baby is tiny—but tough.

In many ways, he makes a full-blown adult stack up like a No. 1 sissy.

Dr. Clemence Andrew Smith, assistant professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, listed these among baby's strong points:

Babies have been known to go five, 10 and even as long as 14 minutes without breathing immediately after birth.

The body temperatures of babies exposed to chilling or covered by too many blankets have ranged from less than 90 to 102 degrees.

These changes in internal temperature will not do the baby any particular good, but on the other hand, neither do they signify as much harm as they might in an adult, he said in a paper prepared for a clinical conference of the Chicago Medical Society.

Babies, apparently, are born with more water in their bodies at birth than after. For this reason, it is sometimes considered wise not to feed them for two up to five days after birth. This is especially true of premature infants.

Baby also has disadvantages, too, the first being his small size. A baby has proportionately a much larger surface area than an adult. That causes a heavy loss of body heat. To make up for this an infant must breathe faster and his heart beats faster.

Dr. Smith suggested that doctors regard babies as "extraordinary physiological organisms—not merely miniature children."

"We often feel that more harm is done by overtreating new-born patients than by undertreating them," he said.

LIPSTICK MIRACLE

Lip retouching becomes wholly unnecessary when you use the new Super-Indelible Lipstick GUITARE. For GUITARE is something really new in lipsticks and is based on an entirely new formula that has taken years of experiment and research to achieve. Once applied this Super-Indelible Lipstick GUITARE lasts for at least 8 hours. What is more, it contains a new colour base —"KISSEFIX"—in the form of a soothing beauty cream and incorporated by a special new process. This new wonder ingredient makes pale, hard and cracked lips, soft, supple and lovely at first touch of the Super-Indelible Lipstick GUITARE. With Super-Indelible Lipstick GUITARE you avoid those lipstick traces on cups and cigarettes, your lips take on a new natural beauty and avoid the "painted" look. There are eight glorious shades from which to choose. Each has been specially designed to harmonise with the natural colourings of hair and skin. Try one and you'll want them all.

Past Noble Grands Of Rebekah Lodge Take Over Chairs

The Quintena Rebekah Lodge held their regular meeting, Tuesday evening in the Oddfellows' Hall, but instead of the officers taking the chairs as usual, they were turned over to the Past Noble Grands who took complete charge of the evening.

In spite of the stormy night, there was a good attendance and all enjoyed it very much.

Sister Janet Twiddy presided in the Noble Grand's chair and her supporters were Sister Eva Turvey, R.S. District Deputy President and Sister Vandevort as Left Supporter.

Sister Jennie Redner, acting as Vice Grand, was supported by Sister Hicks and Sister Georgina Charlton.

Other Past Noble Grands taking the chairs were Sister Irene Aman, Past District Deputy President; Sister Nellie Cooper, Sister Florence Craik, Sister Elizabeth Noakes, Sister Phyllis Burleigh, Sister Florence Pollitt, Sister Mary Newman, Sister Lena Barrett and Sister Ruth Charlton.

District Deputy President, Sister Turvey was presented by Sister Burleigh and welcomed by the Lodge

After the regular meeting was over Brother Gordon Miller took the chair as chairman. Readings were given by Sister G. Charlton and Miss Nevery. Sister Vandevort gave a skit on "Sister Turvey's diet". Sister Webber gave a delightful solo accompanied by Sister Dorothy Harwood at the piano.

Afterwards refreshments were served by the Past Noble Grands in the Upper Hall and a vote of thanks was given to the Past Grands for the fine evening, by Noble Grand Sister Harwood.

Next meeting night will be held by the Brother Rebekahs.

BUILD GENERATING PLANT

London — (CP) — Building work on the first hydrogen-colled generating plant in Britain, suspended during the war, has been resumed. Part of the national electricity supply system, the paint is situated on a 56-acre site at Birkenhead and is expected to be in operation in 18 months.

WILL WED RESCUER

Smiles cover the faces of singer Jane Froman and her husband-to-be John Curtis Burn, veteran flier, upon Miss Froman's arrival at Miami, Fla. The couple, both survivors of the Lisbon plane crash in 1943 which took 20 lives, will be married in Coral Gables, Florida, March 12. Burn, co-pilot of the ill-fated plane, saved the singer's life during the accident.

Women's Activities

AIKENS' W. A.

3rd Sidney—Mrs. S. Spafford, president of the Aikens' Woman's Association, was in charge of the afternoon meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Wilmot Bailey, on the 2nd line of Sidney Township.

The program, which had been prepared by Mrs. Fred Moon and Mrs. R. Hennessy, consisted of good readings by several members, and an especially interesting descriptive story of the United Church crest, given by Mrs. Moon. She was assisted by Mrs. S. Marshall, Mrs. W. Bailey and Mrs. Douglas McPherson, who explained the symbols on the crest and their meaning.

During the business period there were many items of business discussed. There was an unusually large attendance at this meeting and the offering amounted to nearly $6.00.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close.

STONE CHURCH MISSION BAND

4th Sidney.— At the Stone Church Mission Band meeting held at the school a welcome was extended to the new leader, Mrs. E. B. Phillips. A chorus by the whole school, "McNamara's Band", a piano solo, Jack Vermilyea; recitations and readings were given by Thelma Rushnell, Herbie Whitfield and Buddy Meeks. A duet "The Blue Velvet Band" was sung by Jack and Harold Rushnell accompanied on the guitar by Dorothy Benedict, was followed with a song by the junior boys. Mrs. Phillips read a very interesting story. The senior girls sang, "The Three Little Sisters" and solos by Jack Vermilyea, and Jack Rushnell were much enjoyed.

A piano solo and tap dance number was given by Sandra Read. After a sing-song the collection was received and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Mrs. F. Tucker, Carol and Pearl, and Mrs. S. Piere were guests at Mission Band.

Toronto, March 5 — (CP) — A motorist had his memory jogged when a police cruiser and motorcycle officer chased him through traffic during rush hour. The driver reported his car stolen the previous night, found it but neglected to notify police.

$4 Million Given Ontario Hospitals By Auxiliaries

Toronto — Four million dollars has been contributed to Ontario hospitals in the last 25 years by the affiliated voluntary auxiliaries, which have become an important unit in the set up of most large hospitals, said Dr. Margaret Ryhnas, public relations administrator of the Women's Hospital Aids Association of Ontario.

Mrs. Rhynas was addressing the sessions on hospital administration being given by the University of Toronto, under direction of Dr. Harvey Agnew. U of T is the first Canadian university to offer classes in this course aimed at providing basic training in hospital administration to post-graduate students, and is being attended by potential administrators from the United States as well as Canadians.

"It is now the exception, rather than the rule, when women's hospital auxiliaries are not represented on hospital governing boards," said Mrs. Rhynas.

"We do not want to run hospitals. We want to make it easier for the hospital administrator and governing body to do so, always with the best interest of the patient uppermost," she said. 'No hospital auxiliary can function satisfactorily or produce the best results without the complete cooperation of the hospital administrator and his belief for the necessity of this work, she added.

Active 85 Years

People are apt to associate the work "volunteer" with times of crisis and emergency, when as a matter of fact women's voluntary aid has been carried on in connection with hospital work for the last 85 years, she pointed out.

In many cases these little groups of women have pioneered in hospital public relations, "going ahead of the hospital and making the need for hospital service in the community an issue and enthusing the citizenship to action until results were realized and hospitals in the community became a reality," she said.

Long before nurses became organized, she said, "women's hospital auxiliaries awarded scholarships, extended loans without interest and encouraged advanced training for nurses by giving financial help to them, providing nurses' residences, furnishing class rooms and libraries, and, when funds permitted, any needful help to make the life and progress of the student nurse and staff more complete."

Auxiliaries have provided libraries, tea rooms, travelling gift shops, recreational advantages or any set-up promoting the well-being of patients, hospital and nurses, in fact, the entire personnel.

LEARN COOKING EASILY

Saint John, N.B. — (CP) — British war brides are learning Canadian culinary art quickly. At the first night of a course in scallop preparation offered by the Red Cross here the brides turned out scallop dishes termed "excellent."

ONE DAY'S RATIONS

A smile engulfs the face of one of the 11 U. S. army enlisted men who began a diet of one-third of a pound of biscuit and three glasses of water each per day for the next six weeks, as he eats the day's ration. The experiment, being conducted at Metropolitan Hospital under the supervision of New York medical college physicians, is to aid the U. S. army in developing a survival ration for military and civilian use.

Fashion Flashes

IT'S FUN — and easy — shopping for a print frock this year, for prints are colorful and varied, and designs are beautiful. Silk crepe — black, with a rich multicolored flower background — is used for a pretty frock made with a high, tucked surplice closing and a skirt that is full below a pointed hip yoke.

ALWAYS EFFECTIVE is the evening frock with bouffant skirt and off-shoulder bertha bodice. This formula is used for a lovely summer evening dress of white organdie dotted all over with tiny embroidered pastel flowers. Powder blue grosgrain ribbon is pulled through the bouffant tiers of the skirt and through the off-shoulder bertha.

IF YOU WANT something different in the way of prints, then you'll like the casual shirtwaist dresses of tie silk, both in pure silk and in fine rayon, that have become a major fashion. Cravat silk, with its small, neat patterns, is nice for dinner clothes, too, and appears in jacket - dress ensembles.

HONORS go to the fine calfskin bag in black, green, navy or red, the leather beautifully shirred, draped and manipulated in a bag that is otherwise quite plain. The ideal bag for the tailored and semi-tailored suit or coat.

Memorial Fund For Organ, Plaque Tops Objective

At a special assembly of the students of Belleville Collegiate yesterday afternoon, it was announced that the Memorial Fund for the remembrance plaques bearing the names of those former students who lost their lives in the Second World War had reached its goal.

The total costs reached $4,200, the subscription surmounted this with a total of $4,500. By request of ex-servicemen and various civic organizations, the balance over the costs is to be transferred to a fund for a plaque bearing the names of the ex-students who served in the Second World War. All monies received in future are to be used for this second plaque.

Present at the assembly as representatives were: Jim Airth, president of the Students' Council, Alderman H. J. Allin, for the city, H. C. Seldon, Board of Education. Jack Kuntze student, presented the key to the new electric organ.

A committee was drawn up to arrange for an official dedication service of the plaques, to be held some time after Easter. Mr. H. Mott, teacher, gave a short speech to the assembly.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, March 3—(CP) — Just once this column is going to throw sobriety to the winds and indulge in a little "sweet talk"—of the dessert variety.

While it isn't the most important part of a meal, dessert ogten comes close to being the most popular.

And when Junior comes in asking "What dessert are we having for dinner tonight, Ma?" —why not surprise him with gingerbread, topped with "apple snow" sauce?

The sauce is easy to make and may even be used alone as a "light dessert, following a heavy meal. Here is the recipe for Apple Snow recommended by by the consumer section of the redagriculture department: ingredients: one egg white; two tablespoons sugar; dash of cinnamon or nutmeg; 1 ¼ cups apple sauce. Beat egg white until stiff, add sugar gradually and continue to beat until mixture stands in peaks. Add spice. Fold in applesauce and chill.

As for the gingerbread part of this dessert, there are any number of recipes, but here is one a little different than the average ingredients; 1-2 cup butter; one-half cup brown sugar; one cup molasses; one wine glass of strong coffee; three eggs well beaten; one teaspoonful cinnamon; one teaspoon mace; one teaspoonful nutmeg; one teaspoonful soda; juice and grated rind of one large orange; three cups of sifted flour.

After butter and sugar is well creamed, molasses is added Sift in the spices with the flour, and add the orange juice and rind with the soda dissolved in it. Beat well and turn into a loaf tin. Bake in a slow oven.

If guests are coming for dinner and you want to surprise them with something new in desserts, here is a treat which will do those crystal sherbet glasses of yours a special credit.

Heaven's delight—ingredients: one-half pound marshmallows; one-half pint whipping cream; two cups fresh strawberries (the frozen berries may be bought at most groceterias); one-half cup sugar; one teaspoonful vanilla.

Whip cream until thick, add sugar and vanilla, and beat slightly. Cut each marshmallow into quarters, add to whipped cream, and set on ice for at least two hours. Stir several times during this period, and then add strawberries which have been cut into small pieces. Let stand for one-half hour before serving. This concoction should be served with small cookies or plain cake.

Brownies are the rich goodies destined to satisfy those "sweet-toothed" guests at the club or church social.

Ingredients: two square melted chocolate; one-half cup butter; one cup granulated sugar; two beaten eggs; one-half cup flour; salt and vanilla; one cup nuts. Mix in order given and bake in slow oven. in an eight-inch-square tin lined with wax paper.)

Prime Minister Endorses Brief Of Labor Congress

Ottawa, March 5. (CP)—Two more of organized Labor's annual submissions to the federal cabinet are on record today and Prime Minister Mackenzie King has reiterated his belief in an "all embracing Social Security program."

Briefs were presented yesterday by the Trades and Labor Congress and the joint legislative committee on the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods. The T.L.C. presentation was open to the Press but reporters were excluded from the cabinet's meeting with the railway men.

Social Security highlighted the Congress' brief—and this section won unqualified support from the Prime Minister. He said there was nothing, in the 3,000-word brief with which he agreed more wholeheartedly.

The T.L.C. said it favors Social Security legislation "on a contributory basis to cover all citizens, regardless of income". It should include, "with our unemployment insurance now established, a full and comprehensive health insurance scheme accident and hospitalization benefits, old-age pensions, mothers' and widows' allowances".

Wants Equity Preserved

The railway men urged that their equity in pension plans be "considered and preserved" in any Social Security scheme the government may introduce.

Both delegations advocated amendments of old-age pension legislation, reduction of income tax and study of prices, immigration and housing. The T.L.C. urged a national labor code and the railway men asked a national transportation policy ensuring "the service upon which producers, trade and citizens must depend". They "deplored" the lack of regulations and controls allocating each type of transportation "to the service of which they are most capable."

Finance Minister Abbott, noting the T.L.C.'s request for reimposition of price controls on essentials goods, said it is "not feasible, practicable or desirable to go back to an over-all system of price controls."

WANTS STOP ORDER ON INVESTIGATION

Toronto, March 5 — (CP)—Toronto District Labor Council by resolution last night called on the federal and provincial governments to "place a stop order on any further immigration" until a conference can be arranged to map out a new immigration policy. It said the conference should include representatives of government industry and labor.

Welch Denies He Murdered 31-Year-Old Wife

St. Thomas, March 5. (CP)—His voice barely audible in the crowded Elgin County Assize courtroom here, Joseph Vernon Welch, 24, yesterday denied he murdered his 31-year-old wife, Florence, last August 21, and prepared to hear final arguments by defence counsel today before his case goes to jury.

On the stand four hours, Welch who said he met and married his wife overseas while both were serving with the armed forces, quietly revealed a subsequently unhappy marital life. He particularly stressed at least one plan he devised to kill himself.

In almost monotone, he described how he and his wife—Florence Berry—met in England and how he was buried for 12 hours after an explosion of a buzz-bomb in London.

He told Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven and the jury he was happy after his marriage in England, but after his return to Aylmer, Ont., business problems forced him to dispose of a fish store there.

Despondency Grew

His despondency grew. Referring to his arrest at Chorley Park Military Hospital, Toronto, several weeks after his wife died, he explained he tried to re-enlist in the army permanent force. Saying he bought strychnine with the thought of committing suicide, Welch denied giving it to Mrs. Welch.

Medical testimony previously said she died from strychnine poisoning.

After his fish business failed, he went to Toronto where he met Julie Parsons, an unmarried woman.

They stayed one night together at a mid-town hotel.

Eventually, Mrs. Welch showed him a letter—bearing the name "Julie Parsons" on the envelope which was sent to the Aylmer apartment.

He said it led to a quarrel, but later he and his wife visited Niagara Falls "on a second honeymoon".

Embarassed If Executed In Public, She Says

Peiping, March 5 (AP) — Manchu-born Princess Yoshiko Kawashima, sentenced to die for espionage, said today she would be "greatly embarrassed" if executed in public. She asked to be shot in private, and without fanfare. Date of her execution has not yet been announced.

BUT GUNMAN GETS AWAY

San Francisco, March 5 (AP) — When State Agent Ray McCarthy saw the cops chasing a gunman down the street he parked his car and joined the chase.

When he got back his car was gone—towed away by police for illegal parking.

Police, however, thanked McCarthy profusely for his help. The judge let him off when he heard McCarthy's story.

The gunman got off easy, too. He outran the whole bunch.

Expects Trial of Alleged Slayer of Gandhi Shortly

New Delhi, March 5 (AP) — A high police official said today he expected Narayan Vinayak Godse to come to trial within the next few weeks on charges that he assassinated Mohandas K. Gandhi Jan. 30. The official declined to say where the trial would be held. Godse now is being held in Bombay.

Finnish Govt. Nearing Decision On Russian Pact

(By The Associated Press)

The Finnish government appeared near a decision today on whether to accept an invitation for closer ties with Russia.

The Finns are the latest to be invited to dicker with the Communists. The world struggle between the Communists and their opponents produced new developments also in Italy, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Germany, and Canada.

Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg had delegates in Brussels talking a proposed union of Western Europe to buck Communist expansion.

Finland's President Juho Paasikivi was getting advice from political parties before replying to Prime Minister Stalin's proposal for a treaty of friendship and mutual assistance.

Two of the three top political groups already have given their advice. The third—the Agrarian party, with 48 of Parliament's 200 seats—is expected to do so today.

Both the other groups— the Communist-Radical Socialist Popular Front, with 51 seats, and the Social Democrats, with 48— came out for negotiating with Russia. But the Social Democrats insisted yesterday that Finland stay out of military alliances.

Izvestia, the Soviet Government's Moscow newspaper, commented today on the treaty proposal that "only a policy of friendship with the Soviet Union can ensure Finnish national independence".

Italian Test in Elections

In Italy, the lines were drawn for a test between Communists and anti-Communists at the polls. The test will come in the election of the republic's first parliament April 18.

The main campaigners are Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrats and the Bloc —The Communist-Socialist Popular Front.

Each is forecasting victory for itself. Well-informed observers predict that each instead will get around 40 per cent of an expected 26,000,000 votes, leaving the balance of power with smaller parties.

Italian electioneers, for and against Communism, have been mentioning Czechoslovakia, where Communists recently got control of the government.

Czech Arrested on Spy Charge..

In that country, security police last night announced the arrest of a former official of the Catholic People's Party, Felix Uhl, on a charge of spying for an unnamed foreign power.

The Czechoslovak Social democrats said they expelled ten Rightist deputies from the party and asked the deputies to resign from parliament. The party's Prague newspaper forecast a similar purge by two other parties.

In Germany, an official of the American military government, speaking by radio from Berlin, told the people "Red Fascists" have grabbed power in Czechoslovakia. Richard M. Scammon of Minneapolis, chief of the A.M.G.'s elections and political parties branch, said that proved "there can be no compromise with totalitarianism".

Sees Red Offensive in Austria..

A reliable Austrian government source in Vienna professed to see signs of a general Communist offensive against the government with Russian help.

In Canada, an Ottawa government informant said border police have been ordered, by Cabinet decision to keep foreign Communists out of the country.

Communists from the United States in Canada as labor union officials were said to be the particular targets of the ruling.

Films, Projector Seized at Thorold

Thorold, March 5 (CP)— Five films being shown to an audience of about 100 people in the Ukrainian Labor Temple here were seized last night.

Inspectors of the Ontario Motion Picture Censorship Branch, accompanied in the seizure by Thorold police, alleged the films had not been censored. They were said to depict the training of Tito's Yugoslav army and the trial of Chetnik leaders.

A projector for which police said no licence could be produced also was seized.

Clear Cut Program

Mr. Pryde spoke glowingly of the government's program which he described as "clear cut" in contrast with what he called "negative policies of the opposition."

He said it would result in increase of immigration to the province, more attractive farming life, improved highway system and extended facilities for both rural and urban education.

Mr. Pryde voiced a plan for opportunities for young men and women so that they would not find it necessary to "seek their fortunes elsewhere."

He spoke of the "imperative" need for hospital accommodation and said the government could be given credit for instilling fresh encouragement into members of small hospital boards through grants and interest in their affairs.

More than a dozen bills were introduced at yesterday's sitting five of them by the CCF and the others by the government.

The C.C.F. legislation included such measures as civil rights protection and working conditions, similar to the last session.

The government bills dealt with charges in various acts to bring them up to date.

Protect Civil Rights

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader, introduced a bill to protect certain civil rights.

The general purpose of the bill, it was explained, is to "protect by statute the rights of freedom of religion, speech and association, and more specifically to prohibit discrimination against any person by reason of race, nationality or religion in such matters as employment, education, right of access to any place serving the public."

Sections of the bill would carry fines for conviction in cases of offence against the proposed act.

G. I. Harvey (CCF—Sault Ste Marie) introduced an act to amend the Municipal Health Services Act. It would eliminate the present need for reaching agreement with the Ontario Municipal Health Services on every plan for Municipal Health Services.

A 40-hour week and vacations with pay of two weeks would be required in a bill to amend the hours of work and vacations with pay act, 19, presented by R. H Carlin (CCF—Sudbury). He would also add a section to limit overtime work to eight hours a week and 100 in a year and require time and-a-half for overtime. No reduction in weekly pay would be connected with any cut in hours under the act.

Ask Amendments

The C.C.F.'s legislative proposals also included an amendment to the rights of Labor Act, 1944, which would prevent applications for injunctions in any court in connection with a strike or lockout except with consent of the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

Garfield Anderson (CCF—Fort William) introduced a bill to amend the Milk Control Act. This would exempt producer co-operatives for the law which prohibits them against inducing the producers to invest in a dairy. It also would provide that co-operative dairies may pay patronage dividends.

Government bills included one increasing the commission allowed a broker who sells tickets for sporting events and entertainment. Others provide penalty of up to $100 for failure to post room rates in any room for hire which contains sleeping accommodation; wider powers of arrest in pursuit of escaped prisoners for guards and other officers in reformatories, jails and industrial farmers; and additional financing powers for the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission Act.

ISSUES WARNING

William Hugh Morris, above, secretary of the Federation of Klans at Birmingham, Ala., has wired the Anti-Nazi League of New York to "stay out" of Alabama following the league's request of Governor James E. Folson that he revoke the Ku Klux Klans' charter.

ST. LAURENT

Part of the interview in L'Action Catholique quoted Mr. Duplessis as saying the federal cabinet, and particularly the Quebec members, made themselves "collaborators of Stalin and his Polish government" by ordering the R.C.M.P. to "ignore the laws and violate the cloisters" of Hotel Dieu.

'Never Felt It Was Accomplice'

The federal government, Mr. St. Laurent said, never felt it was an "accomplice" of the Polish government in telling it that it was free to retort to the Canadian courts to reclaim property it maintained belonged to it.

He also disclosed that L. W. Brockington, a leading Ottawa lawyer, acted for certain Poles, who knew where the treasures were hidden, in negotiations with the government in December, 1946.

These negotiations were aimed at reaching an arrangement between the two groups of Poles — one representing the present Warsaw government and the other the followers of the old London Polish government-in-exile — for return of the treasures. They failed.

Says 8 Treasure Trunks Missing

An official of the Polish Legation here said the Legation intends to press the Canadian government to continue the R.C.M.P. search for the eight treasure trunks missing.

Twenty-six of the 34 original trunks, brought from Poland in 1940 for wartime safekeeping, have been located—24 in Hotel Dieu and two in a bank vault in Ottawa. Those in the bank have remained there and those in Hotel Dieu were impounded by Quebec provincial authorities and placed in the provincial museum "pending decision as to ownership."

PRICE CONTROLS

Renew Demands for Controls

The C.C.L.'s renewed demand for controls followed an almost-identical request yesterday by the Trades and Labor Congress, Canada's other major labor organization.

Finance Minister Abbott told the T.L.C. delegation that an over-all price-control system now is not considered "feasible, practicable or desirable."

The C. C. L. and T. L. C. briefs were similar in other respects. Both urged extension of unemployment insurance legislation, co-ordination of the production and supply of building materials needed to alleviate the housing shortage, a sound immigration policy, boosts in income-tax exemptons, a broad social security program and extension of the franchise to all persons of 18 years. Canada's plan to conserve United States dollars "should not be used to interfere with the fullest possible trade between Canada and countries other than the United States and other 'hard currency' countries." The "non-discrimination" principle in dollar-conservation should be dropped.

The C.C.L. said Bill 338, introduced in Parliament last session to provide a national labor code, "showed little or no appreciation of the issues involved."

"The coverage of the bill was narrowly restricted and ... nation-wide industrial disputes in basic industries might paralyze the whole industrial life of the country, yet the Federal government would, under the terms of the bill, be powerless to intervene...

Claim 200,000 Unemployed

"The Congress would strongly recommend that the standing committee on industrial relations be reconvened to examine the new bill and hold public hearings in order that labor organizations may express their views with regard to its provisions."

Also advocated were establishment of a National Council for the steel industry and designation of the steel and packinghouse industries as national industries, 'to enable the Federal government to deal with any disputes."

The Congress said more than 200,000 Canadians are unemployed. The government should undertake development of industries in sections "where seasonal unemployment constitutes a heavy and recurring drain on the national economy."

Other recommendations:

1. A Canadian bill of rights.
2. An annual representation on all government bodies dealing with matters of primary concern to workers.

. A "health and decency" budget and index."

5. A bureau of standards, "based upon the experience obtained by the Prices Board and making use of the facilities of the National Research Council."

NON-COMMUNIST IN CZECH CABINET

SAYS SHE WAS LURED INTO CAR

Toronto, March 5 — (CP) — A 17-year-old domestic told police last night she was lured into an automobile, criminally attacked and ordered out of the car in Northwest Toronto. She said she had been on her way to a store when two men invited her into the car.

Cost-of-Living Index Takes 1.8-Point Jump

Ottawa, March 5 — (CP) — A 1.8-point jump in the official cost-of-living index was reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics amid speculation that the all-time high of 150.6 will be shattered when the next report is issued a month hence.

Covering the January period, the Bureau reported that the index climbed from 148.2 at Jan. 3 to 150.1 at Feb. 2, bringing the total increase since the outbreak of the Second World War to 48.9 per cent and boosting the advance over the last year — from Feb. 1, 1947, to Feb. 2, 1948 — to 22.3 points.

The Bureau attributed more than half of the January rise to higher food costs, notably in meats, cereals and vegetables, and said these individual increases in the food group outweighed seasonal declines for eggs and citrus fruits.

But, while the advance in the main index continued during January, it was noted that the momentum had slackened.

The index, calculated on the basis 1935-39 equals 100, now stands a half-point away from the historic peak of 150.6 reached in the inflationary period that followed the First World War.

While food prices contributed largely to the January increase, the Bureau reported that meat price averages at Feb. 2 were down appreciably from levels indicated by a mid-January survey.

Lower prices for United States anthracite coal were responsible for a slight decrease with fuel and light dropping fractionally from 120.4 to 120.1. Clothing advanced from 161.2 to 165.1 while home furnishings and services edged from 158.4 to 159.9.

EIGHT EXECUTED IN GREECE

Picton

Canadian Legion Sponsors Gay Ice Carnival

Picton, (Special.) — Sponsored by Post 78 Canadian Legion, a gay carnival was held Wednesday night at the arena. More than 800 were present. More than half of these were in costumes, making a colorful scene. There were many specialty acts including a bull-fight. Several games of hockey with brooms and a rugby ball used proved exciting. Teams were made up by the Legion, Town Council, Business Girls' Club, policemen.

Costume prizes were won by John Lighthall, Marlene Rolston, Peggy Chapman, Mrs. Howard Seeley, Mrs. Doris McLaughlin, Barton Reid.

Herbert Rolston and B. Reid engaged in blindfold boxing. A case of oranges was distributed to the crowd and huge balloons were released. Clowns provided many funny acts. Legion Ladies' Auxiliary members were dressed as Indians. There were races for all ages.

Convener of the program was Vincent Gentil, who suffered a cut on the hand which required four stitches to close. As the clown, he tumbled and was cut by the skate of another clown.

Reg. Fox directed events and with Phil Dodds judged costumes. W. G. McLean announced proceedings. Members of the Legion assisted in staging the events.

BUT NO PINK COATS

London, March 5 (CP) —London's suburban fox-hunting season will soon be in full swing, but there will be no pink coats, no hounds, no huntsman's horn or cries of "tally ho!"

Fox-hunting in the suburbs is intended to relieve small poultry keepers, whose stock is frequently raided. As soon as "raiders" are reported men with guns and gas are hurried to the scene.

Philadelphia Arena Destroyed

Philadelphia, March 5 (AP)— Wind-whipped flames early today destroyed the Met, Philadelphia boxing arena and former opera house.

The interior of the building at Broad and Poplar Streets was completely burned out, including the boxes where audiences once gathered to hear such singing stars as the late Enrico Caruso.

Firemen said they did not believe anyone was in the building when the blaze started shortly after 2 a.m. EST. Four alarms were sounded in rapid succession.

Stores on the Broad Street side of the building also were destroyed together with the second-floor offices of the Academy of Modern Acting.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Built in 1908 as the Metopolitan Opera House, the theatre continued in use for opera until 1920 and then became in succession a vaudeville playhouse, dance hall and sports arena. The Met was purchased in 1944 by James Toppi, Jr., Philadelphia sports promoter.

Wellington on the Lake

THE WINDS OF MARCH

The winds of March are calling across the frozen plain
Awaking earth to springtime, the flowers to bloom again,
To rouse the streams from sleeping,
To set the waters leaping,
To hasten on the coming of the shining April rain.

The winds of March are calling in voices shrill and high.
We hear their ghostly clamor when midnight hours are nigh,
But tho' the trees are bending,
The sap is fast ascending,
To paint the maple leaf-buds against the evening sky.

The winds of March are calling insistently to me,
To waken all my being to springtime's ecstasy,
To rouse to new desires
That like the sunset fires
Give promise of the brightness of the days that are to be.
—Helen B. Anderson

After several days of Spring-like weather, Winter, with the coming of March, has resumed his sway over this lakeside village. Streets, on which last week boys were playing marbles, are again carpeted with snow, but the winds of March, though rude and boisterous, will defy King Winter's power and bring to a waiting world, the gladness of Spring.

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER IN FINN CRISIS?

Prime Minister Pekkala (left) and Foreign Minister Enckell are shown leaving the presidential palace in Helsinki, Finland, after a conference with Finnish President Juho Paasikivi. It is possible that they may have the president's recommendation to the Finnish parliament on the Russian demand for a mutual assistance pact. Another caller at the palace was Hertta Kuusinen, woman leader of Finland's Communists, who is said to be the driving force behind an entire Scandinavian "united front" against the Marshall Plan.

FIRE DESTROYS JAP GOVERNMENT BUILDING

Dr. Hitoshi Ashida, Japanese premier-designate, is shown with girl government workers standing on the site of one of the government offices at Tokyo which was destroyed by fire that also damaged the prime minister's official residence. Apparently the office was of all-wood construction and nothing was left but ashes. Many valuable documents and official papers of the Diet and cabinet sessions were lost.

Hamburg Goes A Long Way

For budget-weary homemakers, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture have many helpful suggestions.

The question of the meat course is always pre-eminent and the woman who can serve "save-a-penny" meats in ways that are appetizing has the solution to the economy enigma in her hand.

When tougher cuts of meat are put through a mincer they may be cooked as tender cuts. Hamburg steaks, sausage and lamb patties are all in this group which may be served with no apologies.

Here are several new ideas for serving these economical cuts.

Yorkshire Bake

1 lb. minced steak
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 teaspoons salt
1-4 teaspoon savoury
1-2 cup cracked crumbs
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
3 tablespoons fat

Mix all ingredients except fat. Form into six flat patties. Melt fat. Brown patties well on both sides. Remove patties and keep hot. Heat the pan to sizzling in the oven at 450 degrees F. pour in batter mixture:

1 cup flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup milk

Sift flour and salt. Beat eggs, add milk and slowly add to flour. Using a dover egg beater beat three minutes. Pour into pan, place patties on top and bake ten minutes at 50 degree F. Reduce heat to 350 degrees F. Cook 20 minutes longer. Six servings.

Meat Patties With Tomato Sauce

1 lb. ground raw beef
1-4 lb. ground beef liver
1 small onion
2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups mashed potatoes
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups canned tomatoes

Mix meat, onion, seasonings, potatoes and egg yolk lightly together; shape into 12 patties. Brown on both sides in hot fat then cook slowly until well-browned, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove patties to a hot platter. Add tomatoes to pan, bring to a boil and pour over patties. Six servings.

Quick Meat Pie With Biscuit Rings

2 cups cooked minced beef
1 tablespoon flour
1 onion, sliced
3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
1 1-2 cups mixed, diced, cooked potatoes and carrots
1 teaspoon spicy meat sauce
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup water (or vegetable stock)

Mix meat with flour and brown with onion in hot fat. Add vegetables, seasonings and water. Cover and simmer ten minutes. Pour into casserole, cover with partially baked biscuit rings (top side down). Finish baking in a hot oven, 400 degrees F. for 12 to 15 minutes. Six servings.

Tea Biscuit Rings: Roll biscuit dough to a thickness of 1-2 inch. Cut with a doughnut cutter. Bake for eight minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., then use as directed above.

Rawdon

Rawdon (Special)— Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Two-by-Two Club staged their play "The Improper Henry Propper" in the church hall on Friday evening, February 27th. The large audience gathered from all the nearby communities and a capacity audience greeted the cast. Rev. N. Cole was chairman, and extended a hearty welcome to all.

Miss Betty McConnell played several musical selections and accompanied Mrs. Don Rose, Holloway (nee Olive McConnell of Mount Pleasant) and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, each of whom contributed two vocal solos.

The three act comedy was filled with humor and mirth provoking situations. The scene was the bridal suite of "The Blue Flamingo Hotel" at Palm Beach, Florida, and one act followed the other in rapid sequence. The play was directed by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Mrs. Carleton Potts, with the following cast:

"Sid Hurd"—a young married man—Orno Sharpe.

"Dora"—his wife—Helen McConnell.

"Bonnie"—her sister — Marion Sharpe.

"Henry Propper"—Sid's best friend—Herb Smith.

"Billie Vandercoff"—an heiress—Helena McKeown.

"Prince Gregor Oliverra"—her fiance—Lindsay McKeown.

"Mrs. Vandercoff"—her mother—Hazel Sharpe.

"Mr. Quartz"—hotel manager—Norman McConnell.

"California"—a coloured maid—Mabel Wrightman.

"Bertha"—a page girl—Elva Scott.

"Mr. McGillicuddy"—a Justice of the Peace—Raymond McConnell.

Following the play Mrs. Herbert Smith, president of the club, and her assistants served an abundance of pie and sandwiches to the guests. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $105.00. The group have five engagements booked for March at Burnbrae, Pethericks, Campbellford, Bethel and Frankford.

Centre and Victoria Farm Forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Waterhouse on Monday evening with a good attendance.

Those who attended W.I. at the home of Mrs. Earl Bonter on Thursday evening were Miss Audra Brickman, Mrs. Earl Fox, Mrs. Ralph Redner and Miss Sybil Redner.

Mrs. Arza Pulver and Sheila Margaret were Friday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Pulver.

Sunday School and Church services were postponed at Centre Church on Sunday owing to the bad storm on Saturday.

Miss Sandra Jean Green spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Earl Fox.

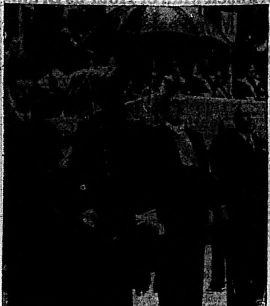
Mr. Ray Fox suffered two severe heart attacks recently. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Lorne Brickman, of Victoria, was a Tuesday afternoon guest of Mrs. Willie Fox and Mrs. Julia Fox.

Messrs Clarence Vanclief and Gordon Waterhouse were canvassing this street on Tuesday for the Pringle family who had their home destroyed by fire on Friday night of last week.

The W.A. was held at Mrs. Mac Wallbridge's home on Wednesday afternoon with a splendid attendance. A fine program was enjoyed. Mrs. Herb Pulver was convener of the program for the afternoon.

FRENCH COMMEMORATE 1848 REVOLUTION



All France recently commemorated the revolution of 1848, in which King Louis-Philippe was overthrown and the second republic instituted. The fact that the current French president, Vincent Auriol, stood under an umbrella while the Marseilles was played, above, brought smiles to many faces in Paris, since the umbrella was a "trademark" for King Louis-Philippe.

CZECH, CANADA, U.S. ENVOY QUIT

Dr. Frantisek Nemec and Mrs. Nemec

Dr. Frantisek Nemec, Czech minister to Canada, announced that he has resigned his post and will remain in Canada as a private citizen. He said practically all his staff also has resigned and will remain in Canada. He made this decision known to the government at Prague about 11 a.m. E.S.T. Wednesday. Four other members of the legation staff in addition to himself would stay in Ottawa in private life, he added. Czechoslovakian ambassador to the U. S. also resigned in protest over the Communist coup in his homeland, Washington announced.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Colorful Tim (born Thomas) Daly, rotund, poker-faced trainer of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey and baseball teams, and good-will ambassador-at-large of the Smythian brigade of Stanley Cup champions, yawned, stretched lazily, opened one eye, and grunted "Ha yuh" as we entered his room in the Hotel Belvedere last evening.

* * *

Later, Tim addressed upwards of 200 members of The Belleville Lodge No. 123, A. F. and A. M. in their Front Street quarters, and had the brethren in near-stitches with his droll humor, breezy stories, and lively anecdotes which interspersed an interesting insight into the life of a professional athletic trainer, pro sport, and a delightful if verbally rough-hewn, philosophy on the athletes and athletics of today and yesteryear.

* * *

Sixty-four years of age, the exacting life of a professional athlete and trainer, with its unceasing travel, its ups-and-downs, the temperament and idiosyncrasies of top-flight athletic stars, the rush and bustle of excited crowds; all-night hops on trains, the ever-changing hotel fare, and the nervous tension when "his boys" are under hockey fire, has left few physical marks on this grand old gentleman whose name is synonimous with sport throughout Canada, and hockey-minded United States.

* * *

He has a memory like an elephant. A chance word dropped here or there will launch the portly Tim into a flood of reminiscence. He recalls the sports greats of the turn of the century, as easily as he does today's butter prices. Imprinted on a remarkable photographic mind, are the great sports events, and sportsmen of today, and three decades ago.

* * *

He blinked through drowsy eyes as we entered the room. But the fog of slumber had not dimmed the mental equipment of the man. For Tim was in his element. A question here and there opened the floodgates of memory, and the Dalyian tongue with its quaint use of the King's English went into action like a well-oiled machine.

* * *

"I don't talk like these collitch-bred guys," quoth the recumbent Timothy, "Y'see I only went to school for a year. Then the teacher told me I was too damn smart for school—and she sent me home. I ain't bin back since."

* * *

You wouldn't think to look at this genial, sober-faced gentleman, whose right name is "Tom" but has been dubbed "Tim" since a store clerk in Toronto wrote that name on a sales—slip, and Tim or Tom made the mistake of telling "my boys" that the "Toms" came from the north of Ireland and the Tims from the south, that he was once the Dominion lightweight boxing champion. He formerly held the Toronto title and during his heyday as a boxer fought in three different classes

* * *

"I suppose you were an amateur in those days?" we ventured. Tim yawned, and rolled over on his side. The bed sagged a bit. He opened an eye, and looked at us with the quizzical optic.

"Amachoor," he said, his face maintaining that frozen poker look. "Me bhoy, there ain't no such thing. Never has bin. In one of my amachoor fights, I reached down to put me fightin' boots on, and they was a fifty-dollar bill in each of 'em. An A.A.U. official was there and when he saw the lettuce he grinned. 'My, Tim, the wind must have blown that money there. That was back in 1905."

* * *

Tim started his professional training career with the old Berlin, now Kitchener, hockey team away back in 1911. Then he went to the famous Charlie Querrie-led Toronto Tecumsehs lacrosse squad, joining the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team in the same year. And he has been with them ever since.

* * *

He joined the Toronto St. Pats, later the Maple Leafs, in 1918 after he returned from overseas service with the Sportsmens' Battalion, in the days when John Ross Roach, Red Stuart, Kenny Randall, Bert Corbeau, Cy. Dennenny, and other former greats were making hockey history for Toronto. Since that time, some of the greatest stars of the professional hockey world have passed through his efficient hands. Like Tennyson's "Brook," players may come and players may go, but apparently Tim Daly will go on forever.,

* * *

But, Tim says, the hockey player of the old days was a vastly different type to those of the modern ice-lanes. The old-timers practiced for an hour, and had the rest of the day off. They spent some of their time in "pool-halls and booze joints." But not the hockey athletes of today. They have businesses or farms of their own and the minute the season is over, they go back to work.

* * *

"Are the high-salaried hockey stars of today temperamental?" we managed to squeeze in while Tim was backing up for a fresh verbal start.

He squinted a knowing eye at the light above him. "Some of the boys get tentemental at times," he said. "Whereas in the old days they had a left, right, or centre hockey stick, the spalpeens now carry two dozen sticks each. And they choose by ounce-weights, not by left, right or centre. But you've got to know 'em. Got to know their way of living. And you've gotta rib 'em back when they start, or they'll rib you to death."

* * *

"And times have changed," Tim sighed. "In the old days we used to pack all the gear in one box. Now I am dry nurse to six big trunks of equipment. We have two sets of uniforms, the whites for playing at home and the blues for away games. The boys have three pairs of skates each. The lowest paid player on our team gets $5,000 while the highest salaried guy gets $12,000, including bonuses, etc."

* * *

Asked the inevitable $64 question, how does the oldtime hockey star compare with the modern hero of the icelanes, Tim sighed. "You must remember, the old boys went out there and played 30 minutes at a stretch. Nowadays they play two minutes and they're off for a rest. There was Cyclone Taylor, Frankie Nighbor, Newsy Lalonde. Ah, them were the boys, not forgetting Howie Morenz, the greatest centre of them all. That boy would have been in his glory in the modern style with his flashing speed and fast breaking. You don't see any Morenzes coming up now, do you?" he asked.

* * *

Coming up-to-date Tim naturally figures that the Maple Leafs will win the Stanley Cup. "They have been down on their form the last two games, but they'll beat Detroit when they meet in the playoffs. Tommy Ivan of the Red Wings, Tim thinks, is the best coach in the National Hockey League. "Tommy has a great system, and knows how to handle men. He'll be the coach of the year."

* * *

The Montreal Canadiens? Dick Irvin has been lucky, but it has not been all luck, in Tim's opinion. "If he was not a good coach, he would not be in the National Hockey League. But he has been unlucky the latter part of this season. His players have not been up to form."

The Waterloo team will be the Merchant's Midgets opponents in the Ontario midget "B" championship series. The Waterloo kids hung a 5-3 defeat on the Collingwood moppets in Waterloo last night, winning the semi-finals series by a goals-to-count score of 9-5.

* * *

So the Wilbur-Barriage-Strahan bevy of youthful puckists will clash with the Western Ontario team in the first game of their three-of-five championship series in Memorial Arena here next Tuesday night. It should be a thriller of a series, as any squad that reaches the provincial finals has something more than a sweater and pants in their hockey set-up. And Waterloo has produced some danged smart hockey squads in the past. It won't be a push-over for either team, and the games will be fought to a finish.

Brimsek Man of Hour as Bruins Jolt Montreal Playoff Hopes By Tying Habs in Cricial Game

By DON HUNT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Except for a gent named Frank Brimsek, Montreal Canadiens today would still have a good chance of making the National Hockey League's post-season Stanley Cup playoffs.

In Montreal last night, Brimsek, goalie for the fourth-place Boston Bruins, turned in a sensational performance as the Bruins tied Canadiens 1-1 and kept their six-point lead over the Habs intact.

Playing up to his "Mr. Zero" nickname, Frankie kicked out shot after shot from close range as Canadiens pressed all the way. The draw meant that Canadiens have to pick up an extra six points in seven games to pull them even with the Bostonians—a next to impossible feat.

The game, delayed 38 minutes by a late train arrival from Boston, was the only one scheduled last night.

The Bruins, content to earn a tie, played a close-checking game most of the way, opening up only in the first period. Although the draw disappointed the 11,000 Forum fans, the rough-and-tumble contest gave them plenty to cheer about.

Penalties played an important part in the scoring as both goals were scored while the opposition was short handed. Bruins grabbed an early lead in the first period when Egan brought up the rear of a power-play and drove a hard shot that bounced into the open side of the net off defenceman Dutch Bouchard's stick.

Got it Back Quick

Canadiens got that one back less than three minutes later with Elmer Lach turning the trick. With Pete Babando sitting out a slashing penalty, the Canucks put on the pressure and tested Brimsek with several hard shots. Finally defenceman Ken Reardon flicked the puck over to Glen Harmon who shot a sizzler from the blueline. Brimsek stopped the drive but Lach, standing uncovered in front of the net, took the puck off the Boston goalie's stick and dumped it in the open side of the cage.

That ended the scoring for the game as Boston settled back and put up a stone-wall defence in front of Brimsek for the final two periods. Several times, the Boston goalie had to push his own men away from the net as they blocked his view in an attempt to prevent the Montrealers from getting a clean shot away.

One fan showed displeasure by heaving an egg on the ice.

After a one-night layoff tonight, two games are on tap Saturday night and three on Sunday. The Saturday contests bring together Detroit and Canadiens in the Motor City and Bruins and Leafs in Toronto. Then on Sunday all teams see action with Montreal at Chicago, Toronto at Boston and Detroit at Rangers.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Lakeland, Fla., March 5 (AP)—The mystery man of the Detroit Tigers' line-up is 26-year-old Richard Cummings Wakefield. And he's a mystery that will have to be solved if the Tigers are to improve on last year's second place finish ... to all appearances Dick is the same tall, good-looking young fellow who was such a great hitter before the war ... but in the past two seasons, since he left the United States Navy, his batting average dropped to .268 and .283 ... he could blame injuries to some extent last year, but, generally speaking, he didn't seem to know what was wrong and didn't give give a hang.

Take it Or Leave It

"Dick always thought he'd get going," manager Steve O'Neill explains. "I couldn't convince him until the season was over and he realized he'd had a bad season. This spring he working hard, hustling every minute. He's even sliding ... he knows he has had two bad years and he'll have to come through if he wants to stay in the big money." That is more than a hint that Wakefield like several other Tigers, absorbed a severe salary slash. He didn't grumble about it or hold out, but was in there working from the first day ... still he does grumble when the fans ride him... when a group of shirtless sun-bathers loosed some blasts yesterday, Dick turned and shouted something about "fine specimens of American education."

Elmer Lach, Canadiens' shifty centre, moved into sole possession of second place in the National Hockey League scoring race last night when he scored Montreal's only goal as they held the visiting Boston Bruins to a 1-1 stalemate. Lach's goal, his 25th of the current campaign carried him past Max Bentley of Toronto, and Bud Polle of Chicago who were idle last night, and left him four points behind the leader, Buddy O'Connor of New York.

Waterloo Midgets Enter Final Series Against Belleville

Waterloo, March 5 (CP) — Waterloo Midgets defeated Collingwood 5-3 here last night in the second of their two-game points-to-count O.M.H.A. Midget B. series.

They won the round 9-5, having taken the first game in Collingwood last Friday night 4-2. Waterloo now advances to the provincial finals.

The winners opened the scoring early in the first period and went on to outscore their opponents 3-1 in that period. The winners carried on to count the only tally in the second session and earn a 2-1 edge in the third.

Oberle sparked the Waterloo attack, netting two goals and an assist. James Barrett played the best hockey for the visitors, poking in one goal and setting up the major portion of their plays Morrill Walmsley counted the other two Collingwood goals while Mader, Allenson and Hoffarth rapped in one each for Waterloo.

Lineups:

Waterloo: Goal, Piatkowski; defence, Tuckwood, Allenson; centre, Hass; wings, Mader, Schafer; subs, Raymond, Jack Barrett, Seiling, Rutz, Hoffarth, Oberle, Bolduc, Buhlman.

Complete Set-Up For Canadiens

Winnipeg, March 5. (CP)—Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League tacked several on its "farm" house today in an expansion of Manitoba operations.

Actually, the shingles were nailed in place by Winnipeg Canadiens but the N.H.L. team will benefit eventually since it will serve as "master" in the house and will have the rights to players who show promise.

It was disclosed that Winnipeg Canadiens, now battling in the Provincial Junior final, have pulled three teams—Midget, Bantam A and B—under the Montreal Canadiens' roof. They are 'teenage clubs which operate in the West End Memorial League and will join the Juvenile Canadiens to form a complete minor hockey set-up for Montreal.

Just a year ago the N.H.L. outfit and Winnipeg Canadiens sealed a working agreement. It isn't often that a junior club will completely remove its mask of "amateurism" but Canadien officials make no bones about the money side of things.

Already during the regular season, the players have pulled up their chairs and with sharpened knives cut their share of the melon.

"There will be more coming depending on just how far we go down the play-off highway," says President Brooke Armstrong.

Gus Lesnevich Takes on Fox Over 15 Rounds

New York, March 5 — (AP) — Billy Fox, knockout winner of 50 of 51 fights, gets his second shot at Gus Lesnevich's light heavyweight crown tonight over the routine 15-round distance. The durable 175-pound titlist is a 5 to 8 early favorite.

Philadelphia Billy proudly took a ready - made record of 43 straight K. O. victories into his first joust with Gus Feb. 28, 1947. Instead of adding No. 44, he was flattened in the 10th round.

They say things may be different this time. Their argument hinges on ages, for Fox at 22 has at least 10-year advantage in that respect over the veteran Lesnevich. Cagy Gus is 32 according to manager Joe Vello or 33 according to the books.

Inexperience was costly to Fox in their first fight. He tagged Lesnevich with a right hand in the third that wobbled the champion's legs. Unable to follow up this advantage, the Philadelphia Negro wilted under heavy fire. Gus simply was too wise for him.

Fox has had seven fights — all knockout victories — since, including one over Jake Lamotta, who never had been knocked off his feet. Lamotta was stopped in the fourth.

Investigations failed to uncover any evidence of fraud so both boys were paid off after the commission held up the purses for a month. Recently the Athletic Commission fined Lamotta $1,000 and continued his indefinite suspension until June for failing to report an injury before the fight.

Lesnevich, since he snapped Fox's streak, has had three scraps winning two by knockouts. He was acclaimed last year's "fighter of the year."

Bounding Basque Will Take Part In Tennis Tourney

By The Canadian Press

Jean Borotra, France's once-famous "bounding basque" is going to take another swing at the United States indoor tennis championship he held four times in the years between two world wars, it was announced yesterday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The national indoor tournament opening at New York March 11, once again will have a distinct international flavor.

Players from half dozen foreign countries already have entered the first major net carnival of 1948 and others are expected.

Heading the Canadian list is Henri Rochon of Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup player.

Players of New York Rangers yesterday announced their National Hockey League all-opponent teams which included four Detroit stars on the first squad. First team: Goal, Harry Lumley, Detroit; defence, Jack Stewart and Bill Quackenbush, Detroit; centre, Max Bentley, Toronto; wings, Bud Poile, Chicago, and Ted Lindsay, Detroit.

Second team: Goal, Frank Brimsek, Boston; defence, Ken Reardon, Montreal and Jack Crawford, Boston; centre, Syl Apps, Toronto; wings, Syd Howe, Detroit and Gaye Stewart, Chicago.

Figure-skating champions Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa and Richard Button of the United States, made their only London exhibition appearance at Wembley Empire Pool last night before a crowd of 10,000. Both champions skated their Olympic program.

The parents of boxer Sam Baroudi, in a statement to a coroner's jury at Chicago yesterday, absolved manager Mike Spinelli of New York, from all blame in events surrounding the ring death of their 20-year-old son Feb. 20. The statement was presented by Spinelli's lawyer as the jury resumed an inquest into Baroudi's fatal bout with Ezzard Charles.

Jack Kramer edged Bobby Riggs 8-6 and 9-7 last night in their cross-country tennis match, coming from behind to win both sets. The tour reached Seattle with Kramer in front 25 matches to 16.

At an age when most boys are playing with building blocks, Joseph (Butch) Janeczek of Meriden, Conn., had become the youngest member of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress. Butch who is three years and 10 months old, received his membership card this week.

French newspaper men yesterday peppered members of the R.C.A.F. Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, with questions about their trip to Czechoslovakia, during which Communists seized political control of the country.

"We have already had our knuckles rapped for talking about the political situation," one member of the team said. "All we like to say about the trip is that we were wonderfully treated. We've each got a sackful of presents."

The sale of Pine Ridge Farm horses at London, Ont., March 6, is expected to interest harness horse race followers. Heading the list of stallions is His Royal Majesty, by Texas Grattan out of Ima Widow.

Dick Button, world amateur figure-skating champion from Englewood, N.J., said at London yesterday he is ready "to listen" to professional offers when he returns to the United States. The 18-year-old ice artist plans to attend Yale University next fall, but said he "might be available" if professional offers were made.

Ezequiel Navarra, 29-year-old three-cushion billiard champion of Argentina, yesterday captured the United States three-cushion tournament title at Chicago by winning his 10th consecutive match without a defeat.

Navarra now will meet Willie Hoppe in a three-day challenge match for the world's three-cushion championship today through Sunday.

Former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney said in Toronto yesterday "Joe Louis is the greatest fighter of his day, possibly the greatest of all time—but I don't think he could have ever beaten (Jack) Dempsey." He added that the record of Louis is greater than Dempsey's, but Dempsey was fast and ferocious when he was hit, while Louis becomes confused."

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 5 (AP) — The expected epidemic of sore arms among major league pitchers has failed to materialize so far but the trainers of the 16 teams nevertheless are ready.

Due to the March 1 embargo on the opening of spring training and the fact that most teams are scheduled to start exhibition games in less than a week, managers and pitchers both were envisioning plenty of sore arms.

However, no pitcher has reported a bad flipper as yet and injuries among players have been few.

—Jackie Robinson is the centre of attraction as far as the fans who turn out for the Brooklyn Dodger workouts in the Dominican Republic are concerned.

Robinson arrived in camp yesterday and fans cheered his every move during the drill.

The Negro first sacker, although 15 pounds overweight, lined three pitches to deep left centre and spent some time around the bag.

Johnny Sain, winner of 41 games for Boston Braves the last two seasons, said the next move in his holdout campaign is up to the club.

"I'm still here (Belleville, Ark) until I hear from them," said the tobacco-chewing righthander. "I haven't made any plans to go to camp and I won't until I've signed."

General manager John Quinn said "we offered him what we thought was a large raise."

After signing Stan Musial to a 1948 contract yesterday, President Bob Hannegan of St. Louis Cardinals was ready for a talk with southpaw Harry Brecheen who is due here today from his Oklahoma home. It is understood that Brecheen is ready to sign. If he does, all Card regulars will be in line, leaving only recruit righthander Ray Rochim holding out.

Two Detroit Tiger rookies, shortstop Johnny Lipon and first sacker George Vico, will be in the starting lineup when the Bengals face Cincinnati Sunday in their first exhibition game at Lakeland, Fla.

Manager Steve O'Neill also announced that pitching duties would be shared by Dizzy Trout, Virgil Trucks and Art Houtteman, righthanders.

Model Changes Force Layoff Of 25,000

Detroit, March 5. (CP)—Manufacturing changes for 1949 models of the Ford Motor Company will result in the layoff of about 25,000 Rouge plant production workers for periods ranging from two to six weeks.

The company said yesterday that plans to hold the layoffs to a minimum included alternating shifts and providing other employment for the workers

Currently the company employs about 107,000 hourly rated workers, about 65,000 of them at Rouge Another 8,000 in other United States Assembly plants also will be laid off.

The company's announcement follows a week's layoff of about 17,000 Kaiser-Frazer workers at Willow Run, and brief layoffs by other manufacturers.

Belleville Golf Tops In Major A Bowling Session

Belleville Golf bowlers racked up a convincing score in the regular Major "A" Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome last night, taking the four points against Lawn Bowlers with an aggregate of 3561. The Lawn lads had to be satisfied with 3093.

Kinsmen took the measure of the Central Cigar team, last week's high scoring team with the York Trading quintet turning back the Northern Electric keglers. The CNR and Optical teams split the points with scores that noted only ten points margin.

W. Dingman, one of the most consistent bowlers in the league topped his mates with the high triple of 791, while the veteran Joe Legault came through with the high single of 314.

Omaha Knights 5 Points Behind

(By The Associated Press)

A week-long Omaha rally, good for four victories in five games, has shrunk the gap between first-place Minneapolis and the Knights from 13 to five points in the United States Hockey League standings. The Knights who were moving along in the Northern Division cellar until their spurt began, bounced into second place last night at Omaha with a 4-3 victory over St. Paul.

Minneapolis, idle last night, holds first place with 68 points.

St. Paul's winning goal last night was scored by Max McNab in the final period.

Houston came from behind four times before finally downing Kansas City 6-5 in an overtime contest at Houston. Ken McKenzie picked up three goals for Houston including the winning one.

Billy Warwick duplicated the three-goal performance as Fort Worth took a 6-3 decision from the visiting Tulsa Oilers.

Quiet Choir Boy Was Busy Burglar

London, (CP)—By day he was a model boy—quiet, retiring and well behaved, studying for an examination. He attended church regularly and sang in the choir. The vicar spoke highly of him.

By night, while his family slept, he crept out through a window with housebreaking tools, black cloth mask and gloves in a leather case. He was carrying an air rifle wrapped in a sack when police caught him.

At Lambeth juvenile court the boy was said to have broken into six shops, a vicarage and a school and to have stolen property worth nearly £100 ($400) in six weeks. He was put on probation.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge players can work up to a squeeze with the greatest of ease. But darn few. Usually, it takes years of experience and practice to become a good squeezer.

The general run of bridgers acquire an adept squeeze ability only in the school of hard knocks. Most of us who try to learn it otherwise, however, could use a simple routine guide.

Such a guide I have. It is an easy way of studying when there is a chance to apply the operation. Soon you will be shown the whole lesson in a nutshell. First, listen to some of the details.

After ten tricks have been taken in a deal, the remaining three cards in each hand are shown here:

NORTH
♠ 10
♥ A 10
♦ None
♣ None

WEST
♠ Q
♥ K Q
♦ None
♣ None

EAST
♠ 9
♥ 9 8
♦ None
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ 3
♥ 2
♦ 2
♣ None

This deal was being played with diamonds as trumps. Declarer in the south has taken all the tricks so far. He now leads his last diamond. See what happens.

West is squeezed. If he discards a heart, the north dummy sluffs the spade and takes both hearts. If west gives up the spade queen, dummy sluffs the heart ten and takes the heart ace and spade ten.

What have you learned from this? That when the 13th trump was led, each of the other hands must play in turn. Each is forced to let go of a card from some other suit.

So what? If a player has plenty of cards to spare, he can let go of some card he does not need. If he has no cards he can afford to give away, he is up against it.

If an opponent is trying to protect two suits, he must unguard one or the other. Thus, the 13th trump becomes a squeeze card. It forces out a seeming winner or a seeming protecting card.

A squeeze card is a 13er in somesuit that is led when another player has barely enough cards to protect two suits. Store that.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 5 — (AP) — Robert Montgomery says he expects this criticism to be levelled against his latest picture:

"The players were okay, except for the guy who played the author — he was terribly miscast."

The reason for Montgomery's suspicions is that the author is being played by Frederic Wakeman, the man who wrote the novel for the picture, "The Saxon Charm." This guy Wakeman just happened to be in town and the film happened to need someone to portray an author and — well, it just happened that way.

I am not going to try to figure out why Wakeman, who generally works in Bermuda, happened to be in Hollywood at this time. In fact, I am going to treat him gently. You see, he has been accused of putting his acquaintances into his novels, and not in a complimentary light. I'm taking no chances.

Round-faced Chap

Wakeman is a round-faced chap in his early 30s, who looks more like a college senior. Proceeding cautiously, I directed simple questions.

Had he ever acted before? "No." Did he like what M. G. M. did with his "Hucksters?" "Yes, I thought it was a good picture." Would he write for the stage? "Yes, if I get an idea." Is he working on a new book? "Yes, I've done one draft of a sea story — it's about a shipwrecked father and son, whose lives are revealed in flashbacks."

Would he consider acting as a career? "No," he replied modestly, "I still have to learn how to write a novel." Besides, who in his right mind would give up a life of sunning, spear - fishing and tossing off best - sellers in Bermuda?

The author's acting chore consisted of listening while Montgomery, as a play producer, criticized his manuscript unmercifully. He was only slightly self-conscious, which was the part called for. As I say, I'm trying to keep on his good side. I don't want to be the Llewellyn Evans of his next book.

Stage-Struck

Conrad Nagel is acting in Monogram's "Stage-Struck," his first film work in four years. He prefers stage and radio work and returns to New York soon for a new play . . . Valli does her first United States radio show with "Spellbound" on Radio Theatre Monday . . .

Jack Carson of Carman, Man., plans a European vacation this summer, if he can escape his air show . . .

What next dept.: Vincent Price is playing Cardinal Richelieu as a Protestant in "Three Musketeers" It seems the studio couldn't get Roman Catholic approval of the role.

AT THE BELLE — Bing Crosby co-stars with Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in Paramount's new big fun show — "Road to Rio," featuring the Andrews Sisters and the very funny Weire Brothers, closing at the Belle Theatre tonight.

Adventure in Love

By Kathryn Bemis Wilson

CHAPTER 24.

She began to think more connectedly about the proposal she had made to Louise. Why had she thought of offering such a girl $10,000 in exchange for love—a love which Louise took so seriously? From the Carryville standards Louise and Maude Clark were wealthy. Their camp at Lake Ingus was a camp in name only. It was luxurious; it used to entertain there—HRDL had everything to attract and the many guests Marie Clark used to entertain there— perfect bathing, tennis, dancing, a stable of riding horses, in fact everything the most exacting visitor could demand.

The blunt, unattractive Maude she could understand. Velma could almost smile when she recalled Maude's vulgar attempts to "put her in her place" after Marie Clark's death. Maude said just what she thought: "You are no longer the Velma Wilkins because the Reed Wilkins millions are gone." And when Maude "discharged" her as social secretary—it was true that Marie had made the position for her but only after she had learned Velma's true worth and her creative flair for entertaining—she had practically told her that she had been living on the family's bounty.

But Louise? From the moment of Tom Orville's arrival in Carryville she had connived to keep him and Velma apart. There had been no open antagonism until after her mother's death, though it had soon become evident that Marie's influence over both daughters was slight. Louise was a climber, it was true but to making his way in the world, would not add to the Clarks' social presitige.

The more Velma tried to reason things out, the more involved the situation seemed to become. And she could not figure out to her own satisfaction why she had thought, or hoped, that ten thousand dollars would influence Louise when it came to giving up Tom Orville—rather to agreeing to allow Tom to choose between them.

For the remainder of the week, Velma lived in acute suspense, the greatest suspense she had ever experienced. No word came from Tom, no word from Louise what did it mean?

On Saturday, she again called Louise and learned she was expected late that evening. Velma decided to go downtown to an early movie, then go on from there to the Clark home.

She got on a bus, and sat beside a middle-aged man, who was engrossed in an evening newspaper. Nearly every seat was occupied. She began to wonder if any other passengers were on so peculiar an errand as her own. She began to wonder if she were, after all, doing the right thing. Louise might take the check, but not play fair.

The bus stopped before a modern apartment hotel. It might be convenient to live in such a place, she thought, but she wouldn't make any changes before Tom returned. She would remain at the Y. W. C. A. Possibly, she wouldn't care to remain in Carryville after their next meeting. He might be entangled with that platinum blonde girl in Chicago to such an extent that love between him and herself would be preposterous.

The bus stopped on the corner by the elaborately illuminated Mamoth Theatre Building. Velma glanced through the window at the milling crowd outside. There must be a good picture here. The line from the ticket booth extended nearly a block. She was half inclined to stop here instead of going on to the Main Street Theatre as she had planned.

As she turned her head, her eyes were suddenly arrested by the picture of a man at the top of her neighbor's nemspaper. She leaned nearer him, took a flashing glance at the inscription below the picture.

"Oh, no—not Tom!" she moaned, slumping to her neighbor's shoulder.

She had seen a familiar face pictured on that newspaper page, and read, "Orville a suicide in Chicago."

The kindly middle-aged man, little dreaming his newspaper had been the cause of breaking this lovely girl's heart, assisted her out of the bus and into the corner drug store. After an aspirin, a drink of water, and a whiff of smelling salts, she thought she was able to go home. The kind man, who said he was Sam Maloney and had a daughter about her age, insisted upon accompanying her in a taxi back to the Y.W.

She was in a daze. Tom Orville a suicide! It wouldn't be! But then, the Tom she knew, or thought she knew, could not have been the man who killed a jewelry salesman in a dark alley and robbed him of $10,000. He had acted so strangely when she went with him to his mud-spattered car. And he had soon stopped and roughly ordered her out. And the wallet with the $10,000 that fell beside her as the door slammed and the car shot away! And then he had evaded an explanation, asking to have faith in him.

Tom Orville—gone! As the taxi carried her towards the Y. W. this chain of thought ran on endlessly and always came back to the same thing: Tom Orville gone!

It was difficult to thank Mr. Maloney when he bade her good night before the big bronze doors. How she managed to reach her room she never knew.

All will power seemed to have left her. She only knew that Tom—her Tom—was gone forever. He must have wanted to go—to leave her— he had deliberately cut himself off from her. Oh, she couldn't endure it! There must have been some miserable mystery connected with that girl in Chicago. Now, she never would know what that dark blot on Tom's past had been. Yet—she couldn't believe it had all been dark. No matter how circumstances might prove it, she couldn't believe it.

"Oh, Tom, Tom!" she cried, bursting into a flood of tears as she threw herself at last on her bed. "Oh, darling—how could you?"

It was along toward midnight when Velma became conscious of her clothes. Wearily, she got up, slipped them off, and got into pink silk pajamas which she wished were black. She should be wearing black now, shouldn't she? Oh, there was nothing left without Tom!

Mackenzie's Column:

Opposing Forces Manoeuvring For Strategic Position

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The further we go with this "cold war" between the Bolshevists and the democracies the more apparent it becomes that we are engaged not merely in an ideological conflict but in downright military operations.

Now I don't mean that I think we are on the verge of another global upheaval.

What's happening, however, is that both sides are deliberately manoeuvring for strategic military positions. The Reds seek advantage in order to further their cold war for the spread of Communism, while the democracies are trying to block the Red advance, an advance which borders dangerously on the military.

Grave Danger

Take yesterday's developments, for example. State Secretary Marshall and Defence Secretary Forrestal before the Foreign Affairs Committee urged further military aid to Turkey and Greece. They declared there is grave danger that neither country can remain free unless they get more assistance.

This column has discussed the military significance of Greece and Turkey before, but conditions are changing and it's well to take another look. There are two possible ways in which European Russia might expand its area of domination. One is westward towards the English Channel. The other is southward, perhaps through Iran but also down the Balkan Peninsula through Turkey and into the Middle East, thereby securing the Dardanelles and achieving Russia's old ambition of becoming a Mediterranean power.

Advance Halted

The westward advance is halted along the so-called Stettin-Adriatic line through Central Europe. With the manhandling of Czechoslovakia the Reds have gone as far as they can for the time being in that direction, although they are putting the scares in Finland and Italy. It's the purpose of the Marshall Plan to strengthen the countries of Western Europe so they can continue to hold that vital line.

However, the line in the Balkans is in a more precarious position because it is more difficult for the democracies to defend. Turkey is the chief protector of that zone, but Greece also plays an essential role because it flanks the Dardanelles strait.

So far as the Turks are concerned, they will present a formidable front to any aggressor if they have the weapons.

Still, tough as they are, the Turks would be in a nasty position if the Reds secured control of that Greek flank.

Thus we see the force of the argument that both countries must be provided with the wherewithal to defend themselves.

Retail Prices Of Shoes Likely To Drop 10 P.C.

Toronto March 5 (CP) — Does the price you pay for shoes pinch your pulse?

Breath easy, because yesterday merchants of pedal-extremity gear here said: Retail prices are expected to drop from three to 10 per cent "in the near future." That is if buyer — that's you — resistance continues.

Robert Hedley, Toronto shoe manufacturer, said the big 10 per cent drop will probably come from tanning companies with an over-abundance of raw stock material because of slack buying—you again.

Mr. Hedley for one, plans to reduce his price to retailers by five per cent.

However, a spokesman for another manufacturing firm said he "doubted" any reduction, and that it would be "bad policy" for manufacturers to release such information even if it were true, because of the effect it would have on retailers.

EX-AMBASSADOR WARNS AGAINST RUSSIA

A sombre note was sounded by William Christian Bullitt, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow, when he appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee hearing on aid for China in Washington, D.C. Mr. Bullitt stated flatly that Russia is "in preparation for an attack on the United States" and that the country is in grave danger. He is shown here (right) with representative Charles Eaton of New Jersey, chairman of the committee.

Washington Spotlight:

Larger Duty-Free Purchases By U.S. Travellers Seen in Bill

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 5 (CP)—A growing appreciation of the fact that United States trade with her best customer must be a two-way business has revived interest in tourist travel to Canada and in a bill to permit much larger duty-free purchases by United States travellers in Canada and other foreign countries.

Two instances of this quickened interest this week were:

1. Announcement by Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart (Rep.-Cal.) that he would press for action on his bill to raise to $500 the value of purchases abroad that United States tourists may bring home duty-free.

2. A statement here by Donald Gordon, Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada, that United States moving picture companies, in their own interest, would produce films designed to encourage tourist travel to Canada.

Gearhart's bill would raise the duty-free tourist purchase limit from the present level of $100 where it has remained since 1897. It is widely supported by tourist and other organizations.

Gordon's statement on motion pictures came during a talk here before a gathering of National Business Paper Editors.

Increasing Exports

He was asked what steps Canada was taking to encourage a larger inflow of American dollars to meet the current shortage. He said efforts were being made to increase exports to the United States.

Also, he said, United States moving picture companies, seeing the possibility that the dollar shortage might necessitate curtailment of import of United States films, were voluntarily moving to encourage greater travel from this country.

They would make and show films here describing the attractions of Canada as a vacation-land and encourage Americans to spend their vacation dollars in that country.

Gordon said that on a per capita basis each Canadian spent $220 in the United States, compared to $12 spent in Canada by each American.

The Gearhart bill would permit each United States citizen visiting Canada to bring back purchases up to the value of $500 once in each six months.

The revenue loss to the customs bureau would be comparatively small and would be heavily offset by the direct advantage to the whole United States economy that would arise from distribution of United States dollars in countries acutely short of that currency, Gearhart said.

"The exemption should be revised not only because of the changes in costs and standards of living but because of the necessity of taking measures which will contribute to the creation of dollar exchange in customer countries," said David Bruce, assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Control of Chick Killing Virus Outlined by Dept.

Ottawa, March 8—(CP)— A virus disease fatal to young chicks which broke out in Watford, Ont., late in January drew from the agriculture department today a circular outlining methods by which it can be controlled.

Known as Newcastle Disease despite a time lag in reporting it to authorities. Non-recognition of the virus was responsible for the lapse.

Effective slaughter and disposal of affected birds, thorough cleansing and disinfection of the premises are the methods used to combat the disease, source of which is believed to be uncleaned live poultry crates. A more serious outbreak "is quite capable of wrecking or at least very seriously damaging the poultry industry of Canada," the circular said.

It Listed These Rules:

1. Pay strict attention to quarantine wherever estabilshed.
2. Do not withhold information regarding diseases or other matters which may assist officials to locate the possible foci of the disease.
3. Do not permit visitors on your poultry premises unless they are authorized to make inspections.
4. Don't accept chicks, poultry or hatching eggs unless satisfied the original premises are free from the disease.
5. Do not permit any live poultry crates on your premises unless properly cleansed and disinfected.

Commercial Rents Will be Probed By Committee

Ottawa, March 5— (CP)—Amid gathering indications that the government proposed to modify its scheduled Monday decontrol of commercial rents, the Commons Prime Committee was expected to turn its attention to that question today.

The committee had been given to understand yesterday that a "development" on rentals was imminent, and it had set an 11 a.m. deadline for opening up the matter unless such a development materialized.

Since the committee took that stand, Finance Minister Abbott had said in the Commons he would "probably be able to give an answer shortly" to a request that the Prices Board be allowed to deal with individual rental cases.

The minister made this statement after a cabinet meeting at which commercial rents, and the possible effects of Monday's scheduled decontrol, were discussed. The cabinet, it was known, had before it complaints that decontrol would touch off excessive rental charges.

At yesterday's session the committee considered a C. C. F. motion calling for an immediate inquiry into the probable effects of decontrol on the cost of living.

Action on the motion was deferred in view of the impending development.

Drop Wholesale Price

Other developments before the committee yesterday disclosed moves by bakers to lower the price of bread in Montreal and to keep it up in Toronto.

A Montreal chain store manager — John Parent of Dionne, Ltd. said three bakers serving his company had dropped their wholesale prices this week by a half cent.

When he announced he would reduce the retail price of one of the loaves from 14 to 13 cents, Health Minister Martin, committee chairman, said "Now we're getting somewhere."

Evidence that two Toronto baking firms had objected to lowered retail bread prices was given by John M. Arnold, director of Pickering Farms, Ltd., which operates a retail store in Toronto.

He said he had decided to hold his retail price to 13 cents when representatives of two firms — Christie's and Weston's — had called on him in an attempt to have him boost his price to 14 cents.

He added, though, that they had not cut off his supplies and he was still getting all the bread he needed, even at the lower price.

PREPARE TO MAIL CHEQUES

London, Ont., March 4 (CP)—District income tax offices are preparing to mail about 70,000 cheques representing compulsory saving rebates to western Ontario taxpayers before March 31 officials said today. In cases of arrears the savings will be credited against them.

Amount of cash involved in rebates in western coutnies has not been calculated.

MR. EMPLOYER

Do you still glance at his lapel?

From January, 1946, to November, 1947, 421,146 jobs were found for veterans through the efforts of the National Employment Service and the excellent co-operation of employers.

BUT THERE ARE STILL—

32,300 veterans in universities and—

8,800 more are still taking Vocational Training under the Canadian Vocational Training Plan.

Many more are still in hospital receiving treatment for their war wounds.

These men and women have yet to stake their postwar claims in Canada's civilian employment field. They deserve the same consideration as was given to veterans during the first days of demobilization.

LET'S SEE THEY GET IT!

BOSS SHE-NAZI SEIZED BY U.S.

Although she was presumed dead long ago, Frau Gertrude Scholtz - Klink, head of the women's branch of the Nazi party throughout the war, turned up very much alive. She was seized by U.S. agents near Tuebingen, Germany, in the French zone, on a secret tip. With her, the agents picked up her husband, Colonel August Heissmeyer, former aide to Henrich Himmler. Hubby was carrying a poison vial similar to the one used by Herman Goering to foil the rope in Nuremburg. Frau Scholtz-Klink faces a war crimes trial.

CARRIED FROM FLOOD-SURROUNDED HOME AT LONG BRANCH

Toronto, March 4 — (CP) — Mrs. Fred Wilson, 75, was carried by stretcher from her home at suburban Long Branch today, after being marooned with her husband for the last week by flood waters of the Etobicoke river.

Unexpected cold weather was responsible for the drop in the water level, enabling rescuers to reach the house.

Joseph V. Welch Tells of Drinking Party in Hotel

St. Thomas, March 5—(CP)—Joseph Vernon Welch, 25, charged with the strychnine murder of his wife, Florence, at Aylmer last Aug. 21, testified in his own defence Thursday and told of a drinking spree in a hotel room just prior to the death of his wife.

In one of three statements read in court, Welch told of an unhappy marriage that almost led him to commit suicide.

He said previously he had bought a small amount of strychnine in a St. Thomas drug store with the intention of killing himself. He said he thought his wife must have taken some from the capsule in his coat.

While drinking in the hotel room with Julie Parsons, he said he could not recall having asked her to marry him although he thought she was "naive."

On July 25, they met for the second time in a Toronto hotel room and stayed until 12.35 a.m. until the hotel clerk telephoned to "get that woman out of your room." On this occasion, however, he may have proposed to the girl.

Barely Able to Stand

The following afternoon they visited a cocktail bar and he said Miss Parsons was barely able to stand when they left to go to a hotel where the girl, partly undressed, talked on the telephone for half an hour to a man and used "very endearing terms."

It was then he decided he was making a fool of himself and that he had better go home to his wife.

Julie, however, stayed all night and most of the next day with him at the hotel.

When he returned to his apartment at Aylmer he found his wife sick in bed after collapsing while at work.

Had a Quarrel

The next day, his wife showed him an unopened letter addressed to him with the name of Julie Parsons on the envelope. They quarrelled.

In anger he packed his clothes and left the house but returned 15 minutes later when stricken by remorse. His mother-in-law was there and the marital situation was discussed, agreement being reached they would continue to live together.

A few weeks later, Welch and his wife went to Niagara Falls for two days and it was like "a second honeymoon."

He testified his wife was taken ill twice during the trip and he took her to a doctor on their return.

The witness was questioned about his purchase of the poison in St. Thomas Aug. 20. He admitted signing a fictitious name, saying his reason for doing so that if he committed suicide, no suspicion would fall on his wife.

The next morning she was violently ill and he went for a doctor, who sent him to the drug store for sodium amitol only to be sent back because it was the wrong article. He called an ambulance and his wife died a few minutes later.

The trial is continuing.

FRENCH PATRIOT AT TREASON TRIAL

Paul Colette, French patriot who shot and wounded Pierre Laval, the pro-Nazi ex-premier of France at an anti-Communist meeting at Versailles, France, in August 1914, is shown testifying at the trial of Lieut.-Colonel Bernon, member of the former Vichy government who is charged with collaborating with the German occupation forces. Colette was sentenced to the guillotine but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

New Liberal Leader Will Be Chosen In Ottawa In Aug.

National Convention Called By Prime Minister King

Ottawa, March 6 (CP) — The national convention to select a new Liberal leader will be held in this city Aug. 5, 6 and 7, it was announced today.

The formal convention call, detailing regulation and the qualifications of the delegates, was issued today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as party leader, and J. Gordon Foco, President of the National Liberal Federation.

While the announcement gave no inkling of the site in the capital, Federation officials disclosed that the convention will be held in the Coliseum of Ottawa's exhibition grounds, where the 73-year-old Pripme Minister was chosen as leader 29 years ago in the party's second national convention.

The announcement indicated that in addition to deciding the question of the future leadership the convention also will be asked to consider the party's platform and to discuss the vital matter of the party's organization.

But, while these two questions rank in importance, the spotlight will be held by the historic act of choosing a new leader to succeed Mr. King, who told the Federation's Advisory Council in January that he felt it was time a new party head was selected.

Makes it Clear

In that statement, made at the council's annual meeting, many party adherents felt Mr. King had left the way open for his re-nomination but yesterday he made it even more clear that he plans to quit political life.

He told a group of labor delegates meeting the government:

"It does give me a feeling of deep regret that the time is coming to change the order of one's life. I have felt increasingly since the war that the task has not been any easier. In times like these, younger men are taking over posts in government.

"This is the reason that I felt I should inform the party that the time had come that it should choose another leader."

But, despite Mr. King's clarification of his own stand, the picture still was dark as to his possible successor.

COMMUNIST BAN GIVEN APPROVAL BY LEGISLATURE

Premier Drew Comments That Move Was Long Overdue

Toronto, March 6 (CP) —Ontario Government hopes that the Dominion will use its powers effectively to keep Communists out of Canada and to expel those already here were in the records today.

Premier Drew outlined his position in the legislature yesterday in an address which gave approval to the Dominion action to ban Communists from the country. The Premier added only that the move was long overdue.

He spoke in reply to requests that Ontario take steps to prevent any interference with union organizers in the province.

"In spite of carping criticism from some quarters, the truth is that nowhere in the world today are legitimate interests of organized labor better assured and better protected than they are here in Ontario."

To this reply the Premier added a counter-charge in which he said many displaced persons on arrival in Canada were being intimidated and were subjected to persuasion by Communist officials of certain unions. He implied that he wanted protection for these persons, saying that most of them had come to Canada for the specific purpose of escaping Communism.

Premier Drew charged that not one of the Communists wants real labor security or industrial harmony despite their surface pretence. They are attempting to undermine the free Democratic system he said.

He suggested dedication to the task of aiding European countries in freeing themselves from Communism while making certain that it is stamped out in Canada.

Sends Pay Home Taped to Leg Of Carrier Pigeon

Detroit, March 6 — (AP) — Joe Andanowski sent $20 of his pay home by carrier pigeon yesterday.

Andanowski's wife, Grace, told him at the breakfast table she needed cash for groceries, and the factory worker too was a little short-changed on the morning of pay day.

"But I'll fixe that, honey," he told her. "As soon as I get to work I'll send the money right to you."

Andanowski then left for the plant, first stopping at his pigeon rookery and picking an honest-looking bird to tuck under his overcoat.

When he got his pay, he carefully taped a $20 bill to the leg of the pigeon, and sent it flying home. About 45 minutes later, Mrs. Andanowski reported, the pigeon arrived.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 6 — (CP) — Synopsis: The weather is clear and unseasonably cold over Southern Ontario this morning. In Northern Ontario, temperatures have moderated and are above zero. Relief from Southern Ontario's cold wave is in sight, and milder weather is foreseen for today and Sunday in most sections of Ontario. Snow, possibly changing to rain, is expected to accompany the return of milder weather over Southern Ontario on Sunday.

Outremont Church Destroyed by Fire

Montreal, March 6 (CP)—Fire of unknown origin early today levelled MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church in suburban Outremont. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

Shortly after Montreal firemen answered their first three-alarm fire in more than a year, they were called out a second time for a $5,000 blaze at the Biological Institute of McGill University.

Both fires were reported under control at 8:45 a.m. E.S.T. No one was reported dead or injured.

The church fire brought a general alarm to Outremont firemen as well as a three-alarm call to Montreal firemen.

The church was to have celebrated its 50th anniversary March 14.

BREECHES BUOY USED TO RESCUE 5 CREW MEMBERS

Schooner Goes Aground And Splits at Stern

Nauset on Cape Cod, Mass., March 6. (AP)—Five of nine crew members were rescued today by a Breeches buoy which carried them to this wintry coast across roaring surf after the New Belford Schooner Gape Ann went aground and split at the stern.

Four men including the ship's master were waiting their turn for rescue on the breaking 82-foot vessel, the United States coast guard reported.

The Breeches buoy was rigged on the beach after heavy seas had forced back lifeboats trying to reach the battered schooner.

A coast guard lifeboat station at Chatham reported the ship broke at the stern and "took quite a lot of water".

The wrecked vessel was not far off shore but the coast guard said the men could not try swimming in the huge seas that were running.

A coast guard cutter, the General Greene, was unable to get her lifeboat closer than 200 yards from the fishermen.

Ship Needs Assistance

New York, March 6 (AP)—A Honduran merchant ship radioed early today that it was in distress in the North Atlantic and a Canadian vessel now is standing by ready to render assistance.

The ship is the 3,702-ton Everagra whose captain messaged shortly after midnight that the vessel was "heavily-pressed" by ice and needed immediate assistance. It gave its position as approximately 100 miles east of Halifax.

The coast guard said the Canadian ship St. Stephens had reached the scene but reported that it would await daylight before attempting "any further action."

An R.C.A.F. plane was ready for a take-off from Halifax to fly to the scene.

The exact nature of the distressed ship's plight was not made clear.

Powered Ducks Useless

Motor powered ducks, the amphibious craft used in the war, were also useless.

As the ducks and lifeboats were forced back, coast guardsmen on shore set up the historic escape line of sea to shore rescue.

The buoy line was shot aboard the fisherman and the crew swung one at a time in the rocking canvas seat from the deck to safety on shore.

The coast guard said the rescued were "wet and cold but outside of that all right."

The Cape Ann smashed aground on the ocean side of the Cape between Wellfleet and Chatham.

BELIEVES RUSSIA HAS 72-PASSENGER PLANE

Seattle, March 6 — (AP)—The Boeing Aircraft Company magazine says that Russia apparently has produced a 72-passenger plane copied from interned B-29 Superforts. The new Russian TU-70 passenger plane shows at least 20 items that are "exact duplicates" of B-29 parts, the magazine article states. Boeing designers recognized the parts in a newsreel shown in London recently.

DOGS IN TOWN JAIL

Gosport, Ind., March 6. (AP)—The city fathers announced today that criminals herafter will literally be in the doghouse.

The town has started to corral stray dogs, and—for lack of a better place—they're impounded in the one-cell town jail.

Handcuffed Together Two Gunmen, Who Escaped, Caught 10 Miles Away

Pittsburgh, March 6 —(AP)— Two house robbers sought in a night-long search by police were captured today still handcuffed together some ten miles from the scene where they shot down and wounded two radio patrolmen.

The robbers had made their way overland through the hamlet of McMurray where they hired a taxicab. The driver noting they were handcuffed became suspicious and drove into an open gasoline station where two state policemen were checking cars in a widespread search for the gunmen.

One of the robbers was wounded in the right shoulder. Detectives C. S. Johnson identified the men as John Wilson, about 26, and Edward D. Pfl, who was wounded.

Officers Joseph Chymslinski, 26, and George Kercher, 46 were the victims of the surprise gunfire from the two men they had captured looting a home.

The robbers were shackled together and were being herded in patrol cars when one whipped out a revolver and blazed away.

Chymslinski fell, wounded in the back and abdomen. A shot in the side dropped Kercher. Both were taken to hospital where Chymlinski was said to be in critical condition.

S. Trowbridge, Peterborough Killed Instantly, Five Injured As Car Hits Standing Freight

Lindsay, March 6 (CP)—Sydney Trowbridge, 41, Peterborough was killed and five other Peterborough men were injured, two of them seriously, early today when their automobile ran into the side of a Canadian National Railways freight train at a crossing one mile east of nearby Omemee.

In hospital are Edward Curain and A. Howes, both described as seriously injured. Also hurt but able to return to Peterborough were J. Taylor, J. Ryan and T. Martin.

Police said the train, en route from Peterborough to Lindsay, was stopped at the time of the accident. The men were returning home from a hockey game in Lindsay and the hood of their automobile went under the box car as far as the windshield.

W. Trowbridge, sitting in centre of the front seat, was killed instantly. Howes, the driver, was jammed behind the wheel of the car and had to be cut loose with a hack saw. Curtain also was in the front seat.

Coroner Dr. W. R. Crowe of Lindsay said an inquest will be held.

36 Countries in Agreement On Five-Year Wheat Contract

Ottawa, March 6 (CP)—Tradefected: Minister Howe announced today that agreement has been reached among representatives of 36 countries on the terms of an international wheat agreement which will be opened for signatures at Washington today.

Mr. Howe said the agreement was in the nature of a multi-bulk contract. Operations would extend over five crop years starting Aug. 1, 198.

Prices on specified quantities would be within the following, price range for Canada, one of the three exporting countries affected:

Basis No. 1 northern in storage at Fort William and Port Arthur. 198-49, $2—$1.50; 1949-50 $2—$1.40; 1950-51, $2—$1.30; 1951-52, $2—$1.20; 1952-53, $2—$1 10.

Mr. Howe said equivalent prices were to be fixed on wheat on other locations and other countries.

Canada, the United States and Australia, the three exporting countries, agreed to sell 500,000,000 bushels to the 33 importing countries, if required by them, at the ceiling prices. Canada's share of this would be 230,000,000 bushels.

Jury Convicts Joseph V. Welch Of Manslaughter

St Thomas, March 6. (CP) — Convicted of manslaughter in the poison death last August of his 31-year-old wife, Joseph Vernon Welch, 24, will be sentenced next Tuesday.

At the end of his four-day trial on a murder charge, Welch late yesterday accepted the jury's verdict without the flicker of an eyelid. As the jury filed in, he sat stoically in the prisoner's dock, his hands clenching and unclenching.

The only time he showed any emotion during the trial was when he described in the witness box his short-lived Summer love affair with a 20-year-old Toronto girl, Julie Parsons. He said his wife's discovery of his friendship with the girl led to bitter quarrels and that his own unhappiness drove him to the brink of suicide. As he recounted events of the day immediately before his wife's death, his voice broke and tears streamed down his face.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven, presiding at the Ontario Supreme Court trial, said in his charge that the jury could find Welch guilty of murder, not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter, or not guilty.

"If the evidence does not prove beyond reasonable doubt that Welch meant to kill his wife and if he left—as he says he did—that strychnine on the chest of drawers and if his wife by mistake took that strychnine, that would be manslaughter."

Later His Lordship told the jurors they had brought in what he believed was a "conscientious" verdict and that he accepted it without criticism.

Welch, who married the former Florence Berry overseas while both were serving in the forces, was arrested in Toronto Nov. 20 white awaiting completion of documentation for his re-enlistment in the Canadian Army.

JAPANESE LANTERNS AS GIFT

London, March 6 (CP)—Thanks to Gen. MacArthur C.W.E. Forrest will have real Japanese lanterns on his lawn here next summer. Forrest saw a picture of the General in front of a Tokyo store displaying the lanterns and in a letter asked MacArthur to buy some for him. Two big paper-and-bamboo temple lanterns came as a gift.

POLICE RECOVER CLOTH

Montreal, March 6 (CP)—Police last night recovered 32 bolts of cloth valued at $20,000 stolen two weeks ago, from Holdsworth, Company, Ltd., three men whose names were not divulged by police were arrested in connection with the theft.

German Pilot Claims Hitler Escaped Alive

Munich, Germany, March 6 — (AP) — United States Army officials declined to express an opinion yesterday on a former German pilot's claim that Adolf Hitler escaped alive from Germany.

One high official said the story "sounds fantastic." But official comment was withheld until the pilot and his story have been carefully checked.

Arthur Friedrich Rene Von Angelotie-Mackensen told the story to United States officers in nearby Wolfratshausen Thursday.

The pilot said in a signed statement that Hitler and Eva Braun flew to Denmark in a Junkers-52 transport plane as the war ended. The last he saw of them was when they took off from Denmark by plane toward Spain, Mackensen said.

The German claims to have been an S. S. officer in Hitler's personal bodyguard.

Purge of Czech Army Disclosed

Prague, March 6. (AP)—A purge of Czechoslovakia's army was disclosed today in the Social Democratic newspaper Pravo Lidu.

The newspaper published this paragraph:

"Action committees are not going to intervene in the purge going on in the army. In the case of intervention or doubt, action committees should apply directly to the Ministry of Defence, and at the same time report to the chairman of the defence committee of parliament."

The paragraph was signed "Slansky". This indicated Rudolf Slansky, secretary-general of the Communist Party in Czechoslovakia, was directing the purge.

The Communists took control of the Government Feb. 25. Action committees have been purging political parties, parliament, industry, police and cultural bodies, but the army apparently had been let alone up to now.

Alois Petr, minister of Transportation, said The Netherlands had halted negotiations to sell Czechoslovakia four-engined airplanes. The country plans to establish an airline to South Africa and Asia. Petr said negotiations would be opened with Canada.

DIVISION BELLS PEAL 3 TIMES, GOVT. SUSTAINED

Extension of Commercial Rent Controls Requested

Ottawa, March 6. (CP)— The Commons talked itself into a confusing muddle of ballots yesterday as the division bells shrilled three times over opposition non-confidence motions.

The tests of strength, each ending in victory for government forces, developed as the lengthy throne speech debate waned and sagged and revived again with a spirited opposition demand that the government extend expiring commercial rent controls.

Here, as the debate progressed, is the record of the divisions:

1. The Chamber first voted 107 to 89 to sustain Speaker Gaspard Fauteux in his ruling that a Social Credit sub-amendment to the main portion for adoption of the Throne Speech was out of order because it conflicted with another Progressive Conservative amendment.

2. The Chamber then voted 101 to 35 to defeat the Progressive Conservative amendment, which suggested that the administration had failed to retain the confidence of the people.

3. The third division—108 to 74—came as members again supported Speaker Fauteux in his ruling that the Social Credit amendment, introduced a second time and calling for tax reductions and increased Old Age Pensions, was out of order, this time on the grounds it involved the expenditure of public moneys, which can be proposed only by a minister of the crown.

Marker Deadline Set March 22

Toronto, March 6 (CP)— The deadline for obtaining Ontario vehicle permits and driver's licences has been extended to March 22, it was announced yesterday by Highways Minister Doucett. No further extension will be granted, he added.

C.I.O. Fires Bridges For Supporting Henry Wallace

Washington, March 6 (CP) — Harry Bridges, northern California regional director of the CIO, was fired yesterday because he is supporting Henry Wallace for President.

Allen Haywood, CIO Vice-President and organization director, said that Bridges position on the third-party question left the CIO no alternative but to oust him.

The action was taken after Haywood had personally delivered this ultimatum to the west coast longshoremen's leader; quit campaigning for Henry Wallace and against the Marshall plan, or get out of the CIO.

The CIO is against the third party. CIO President Phillip Murray, named Tim Flynn to succeed Bridges as regional director.

Owen Sound Man Faces Murder Charge Following Knife Slaying

Owen Sound, March 6 —(CP) —Arthur Hooey today was charged with the knife murder of 23-year-old Allan Crowe, stabbed to death in Hooey's home following a scuffle early this morning. Hooey appeared in court and was remanded to next Saturday.

Crowe died in hospital here early today 1½ hours after he allegedly was stabbed in the neck by Hooey at the latter's home. Hooey was arrested at his home by police.

Mrs. Viola Hooey, mother of the accused, told police Allan Crowe came to their home about two a.m. accompanied by George Currie and Earl Crowe. She said they wanted to go through their home into the adjoining house on the north side, the home of William McComb. Arthur Hooey, who was sleeping on a couch near the door, refused to let them. A scuffle followed, in which Allan Crowe was stabbed. Mrs. Hooey said her son went to school with the three youths.

Mrs. Hooey is the housekeeper for John Angus Cameron, owner of the house. Cameron was upstairs at the time. He said that he heard a commotion at the front door and that when he went downstairs to investigate he saw Crowe lying on the sidewalk at the doorstep, bleeding at the neck. He was carried into the Cameron home, police were called and Crowe was taken to hospital.

Crowe, 23-years-old, was unmarried. He is survived by his mother, two half-brothers, Ted Trotter of Toronto and Stephen Trotter in the Canadian army, three brothers, Sidney and Earl of Owen Sound and Colin of Guelph, and a sister, Mrs. Bob Souray of Guelph.

Federal Govt. For Western Germany Another Objective

Decisions to be Reviewed Before Plan Ratified

London, March 6 — (AP)—The United States, Britain and France have agreed upon international control of the Ruhr and close co-operation to enlist western Germany's assets in the Marshall plan.

In conference here the western powers also agreed that Western Germany should have a federal form of government, providing adequate central authority but protecting the rights of the various states.

A communique was issued tonight after the conferences ended.

No agreement was reached upon merger of the French zone with the United States — British zone of occupation, but responsible officials said decisions reached here will lead to that objective.

The three powers decided Germany will be represented in the international control of the Ruhr. No indication was given whether Russia will be invited to participate.

Terms Not Disclosed

The Ruhr agreement was in general terms. The specific recommendations were not disclosed. They will be submitted first to the governments concerned.

The three powers adjourned until next month their talks on the role Germany will play in the economic recovery program.

Most of the decisions reached will be sent back to the capitals of the three countries for review before being put into effect. These are expected to play a major part in the conference of 16 countries on the Marshall plan opening in Paris March 15.

The Benelux countries — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—sat in on most of the discussions, which began on Feb. 23.

Conference sources reported considerable progress but withheld details. They pointed out that any agreements reached would have to be approved in London, Paris and Washington before they could be put into effect.

The conference dealt with proposals for merging the French occupation zone with the co-operating United States and British zones and for various forms of control for the industrial Ruhr valley. It took up also the problem of tying Germany's economy into the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

16 Countries in Project

The 16 European countries in the project are to begin a second conference in Paris March 15.

While big-power representatives have been meeting here on Germany, foreign ministers' deputies of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia have been trying to work out principles for an Austrian peace treaty and agree on what to do with Italy's pre-war colonies.

Informants said their session today will be given over to efforts to break a deadlock on how to give other countries a voice on the Italian colonies, now largely under temporary British administration.

EXPECT 100,000 WILL BE ADMITTED TO THE DOMINION

Resources Minister Announces New Immigration Policy for 1948

Halifax, March 6 (CP)—Resources Minister Glen today announced Canada's 1948 immigration policy which will virtually double the number of displaced persons and Britons permitted to enter the Dominion.

In an interview, Resources Minister, whose portfolio covers administration of Canada's immigration policy, said approximately 100,000 persons will be admitted to the Dominion. Last year 54,687 immigrants came from overseas and 9,440 from the United States.

Mr. Glen said the liner Aquitania is scheduled to make 11 trips to Halifax from England this year and will provide priority bookings for 12,100 British subjects. In addition, the Empress of Canada and the Ascania also will bring priority groups from the United Kingdom.

ASSEMBLY CLERK DIES

Toronto, March 6—(CP) — Dr. J. W. MacNamara, clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, died last night at his home of coronary thrombosis. He was 83.

One of the Dominion's best known churchmen, he had been clerk of the General Assembly since 1925 and as a minister held pastorates at Drayton and Port Colborne in Ontario.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED

Jerusalem, March 6 (AP)— Jews in Haifa killed five persons and damaged three buildings severely by firing three-inch mortar shells at Arabs in the harbor area today, police said.

The police report said the fire ripped into the Arab business district near the entrance to Haifa port.

Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham British High Commissioner, has appealed for the safety of United Nations personnel in Palestine. But the Arab higher committee says they soon may need more protection.

INSPECTORS TO VIEW B.C.I. FACILITIES

Considered a model composite collegiate and vocational school, Belleville Collegiate is to be visited by a group of inspectors who will view the facilities of the school, next Wednesday afternoon.

B.C.I. is considered exceptional in the completeness of its facilities and is thought to be a model. It is proposed to set up similar high schools throughout the province, mainly in the rural areas.

The school offers students extensive options of art and music, vocational and manual training under expert tutors, gymnasia, cafeteria service and other exceptional opportunities not usually found in the secondary schools.

SHEILA JANE HEDGER ESCAPES INJURY

Sheila Jane Hedger, 6, of 8 College Street West, narrowly avoided being seriously injured yesterday afternoon when a car, driven by Mrs. R. Simpson, Donald Street, dragged her along the road.

Sheila was returning home from school, along the roadside on Donald Street with her schoolmates, when Mrs. Simpson attempted to pass the children. In passing, the rear fender of the car caught the girl's clothing and dragged her along for a short distance.

Outside of a minor scratch and a damaged pair of legging, she suffered no apparent injuries.

SOCIAL EVENING ENJOYED BY CLUB

Local employees of the Canada Packers recently formed a social club holding their inaugural meeting at the "Club Cedars" at Cannifton when the staff and employees of the Brighton plants were their guests. Mr. Joseph Slaven was named president of the club and acted as master of ceremonies, ably assisted by Don Downey at the microphone.

Winners of the spot dance were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawrenson. The club also celebrated the birthday of one of the employees, Mr. Robert Keenan who was presented with a gift to mark the occasion.

SCHOOL CHILDREN SELL HOME COOKING TO ASSIST FUND

Local school children are doing their part to assist in the Canadian Aid for Children Fund now being staged to provide food and comforts for needy children in Europe, it was ascertained on the local market this morning.

In a special booth in the corner of the market building, school children in Grade 8 of Queen Alexandra School had set up a home cooking booth and were doing a fairly brisk business in selling cookies, tarts, layer cake and home made candy. Proceeds of the sale will be turned over to the Canadian Aid For Children Fund.

SNOWLOADER BREAKS OFF LIGHT STANDARD

At least this is one light standard which the city will not be able to assess against some motorist who was careless in parking his car.

Friday afternoon the city snowloader was operating in the market square clealing off the area in preparation for Saturday's market when the machine struck the iron light standard at the southeast corner of the city hall breaking the standard off at its base and sending it toppling through a city hall window.

This morning the broken standard base is covered over while a large patch of cardboard covering the broken window served to keep the cold out of the market building.

C. of C. Will Alter City Hall Premises At Cost of $650

Belleville Chamber of Commerce at their weekly luncheon approved a recommendation setting aside the sum of $650 for redecoration and alterations in their new offices in the City Hall.

The work will be started immediately and is aimed to make the offices as attractive as possible not only to members of the Chamber but the public as well. The offices are located in the southwest corner of the ground floor of the City Hall.

The annual report of the Chambers activities for the year 1947 was presented to the directorate at the luncheon meeting, but a financial statement, it was announced, will be presented later. It was not available with the annual report, due to the fact that Chamber ledgers, and other documents are still enclosed in the safe in the former offices which were severely damaged by a recent fire.

It was pointed out that the Chamber, contrary to erroneous rumors, will continue to act as a civic entity here performing the functions required of it, and in addition branching out in its community activities.

It was also pointed out that a number of members of the Chamber have not as yet paid their 1948 dues, and in view of recent unforeseen expenditure, due to fire damage, these will be very acceptable.

Red Fifth Column Well Entrenched In Canada, Group Supports 18 Papers Prof. Kirkconnell Tells Dinner Meeting

Activities of the "Red" fifth column in Canada, together with a warning of the Communist dream of a world union of socialist republics and the lengths to which this party will go to bring about their aims, was the topic of discussion at the annual banquet of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce held in the Hotel Quinte Friday evening.

Speaking before a capacity crowd of Chamber of Commerce members and other guests, Professor Watson Kirkconnell, Hamilton, well-known Canadian linguist and writer, told his audience that the "Red" fifth column was well-entrenched in Canada with 18 Communist newspapers being regularly published.

These newspapers, he said, were carrying on virtually without advertising, which to Canadian newspapermen, meant either little miracles were being worked, or else they had "phony" backing. Communist newspapers in Canada even before the war had a circulation of approximately 100,000 with this stream of world revolutionary propaganda being directed principally against that portion of Canada's population with other than Anglo-Saxon and French Canadian background.

Slave Labor Camps

According to the speaker the Communist doctrine contained two standards of truth. One was the line given to intended victims in which there was wide talk of freedom for the classes. But Communism in action was vastly different as was indicated in the Russian slave labor camps where there was more exploitation in human life than ever in history.

Membership in the Communist party was open to anyone who would accept the rules and take orders only from Moscow.

"A world union of socialist republics means that Canada would be one more state in the Soviet Union, this to be secured not by parliamentary methods," stated Prof. Kirkconnell. "The real plan of action is by general strike and civil war. They must take over by revolution as only in this way can they exterminate the opposition enabling them to set up their own administration."

Information Sent Moscow

The Canadian spy ring report of war time fifth column activities at Ottawa outlined methods of "Red" activities. Reports of secret parliament session found their way to Moscow through Fred Rose, while confidential letters from foreign ambassadors were copied by filing clerks taking orders from Moscow.

Comparing conditions in Russia with those under Canadian democracy Pro. Kirkconnell pointed to the millions of people now in forced labor camps in Russia. In Russia the worker cannot strike and his wages were set by the government. There was drastic punishment for lack of punctuality. Theft of minor items from the state meant a maximum penalty of 25 years in a concentration camp.

A fair symbolization of life under the Communist regime was given by the speaker as the desperate plight of a person buried alive. His unsuccessful fight to free himself would parallel the plight of a people brought under Communist control.

Office in City Hall

President of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Harold Seldon, acted as chairman for the evening's program, and in extending his welcome to the guests referred to activities of the Chamber.

New offices of the Chamber would be established in the city hall but this would not mean the organization would lose its identity as a Chamber of Commerce. He spoke of the work of the various departments in the Chamber and stated the organization was working always for a bigger and better Belleville. Constructive criticism of the Chamber of Commerce was needed to bring this about. In conclusion Mr. Seldon introduced the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Guests at the head table were introduced by Director C. Arthur Bateman who at the same time appealed for generous support to the Canadian Appeal for Children Fund. A form letter would go out to all residents and donations would be accepted at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Annexation Approved

Mayor D. L. Storey spoke briefly announcing that the Ontario Municipal Board had given approval of the city's application for annexation of Thurlow township property immediately to the east of the city. Annexation of the above area would mean a large expenditure for water and sewer installation but this would come under local improvements and would not add to the general tax rate.

The numerous applications for tag days in the city was another topic touched on by the Mayor, he stating that there were at present 38 applications for tag days in Belleville for the current year. He suggested that instead of individual tag days there be a community drive with each of the organizations being given a percentage of the amount raised. He called for a vote of Chamber of Commerce members who showed approximately 50 per cent approval of the suggestion.

In Accord With Move

Introduction of the guest speaker was made by Bruce Lattimer with Charles Lunday as president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce expressing appreciation. In doing so he stated the Junior Chamber was with the Senior Chamber of Commerce in its fight for free enterprise. The Junior Chamber had a really worthwhile program and was doing a good job in the city, he said.

Entertainment included solos by Ethel Smith, Belleville's well-known soprano, while Leo Riggs acted as piano accompanist. Jamieson Bone led in a brief sing song.

Municipal Board Approves City's Annexation Application For Thurlow Twp. Property

Approval has been given by the Ontario Municipal Board to the application of the City of Belleville for the annexation of approximately 250 acres of Thurlow township lying immediately to the east of the city, it was announced Friday evening by Mayor D. L. Storey.

The Board also granted approval to a 10 year fixed assessment for present taxpayers in the annexation area.

The public hearing on the application for annexation was heard at the city hall on Thursday morning with members of the Ontario Municipal Board stating the matter would be taken under consideration and the decision made later.

Former Minister Of Defence Denies Drew's Statement

Ottawa, March 6 — (CP) — Hon. C. G. Power (L — Quebec South) disclosed in the Commons yesterday that he had told the Royal Commission inquiring into Hong Kong in 1942 that he had not thought war with Japan was imminent before it broke out in December, 1941. At that time he was Acting Minister of National Defence.

In making this disclosure, he was answering a statement made in Toronto last Tuesday by Premier Drew of Ontario to the effect that dispatches received in Ottawa left no doubt of the threat of war, and that Mr. Power had placed this interpretation on them.

Mr. Drew quoted Mr. Power as saying to the Royal Commission: "I felt, perhaps without any sound basis except having read these dispatches, that there was a very good chance of war breaking out with Japan."

After reading this in the Commons, Mr. Power said: "Now, in the very next line of my evidence, in reply to a direct question if I thought war was imminent, I said: 'No, war with Japan is not imminent.' "

An opposition member objected to Mr. Power making this disclosure from the still-secret evidence of the Royal Commission. He thought it should all come out at once.

(Formerly of Plainfield)

On Friday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Emma Jane Mabee (Roblin) Comins, widow of Benjamin Frank Comins and one time a resident of the Plainfield district, was held from the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street at Victoria Avenue. The service in the chapel and at the Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. A. Campbell, minister of the Plainfield United Church.

The honorary bearers were Billa Ketcheson, Willard Delyea, Arthur Casey and Blake Sills.

The pall bearers were Wellington Phillips, William Carter, Lee Ketcheson, Earl Sayers, Harry Ketcheson and Roy Sills.

Mrs. Comins, who was in her 89th year, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Falconer, at Scarboro Bluffs, on Tuesday, March 2nd.

Few Features On Slim Market

Result of 20-below zero weather during the night, the local market was slimly attended Saturday morning as the market was almost completely deserted and only a small percentage of the regular attendance at the inside market.

Eggs held firm at 45 cents the dozen for firsts with mediums being quoted at 43 cents and pullets 40 cents the dozen. Fowl was scarce at from 45 to 50 cents the pound. Dairy butter was offered by one or two vendors at 70 cents per lb.

Top grade McIntosh, Spy and Delicious apples brought from $3 to $3.25 per bushel, while combination pack of McIntosh sold at $2.75 and Talman Sweets $2.50 the bushel. Cooking varieties brought $1.75 per bushel and up to $2.

Whitefish sold at 35 cents per lb. and frozen herring at 25 cents or five pounds for $1.

Potatoes sold at $2.75 per bag or at 60 cents per peck. Carrots were ten cents per lb. or about $1 per peck. Pork by the quarter fetched 37 cents for hinds and 34 cents per lb. for fronts. Heads sold at 75 cents.

Creamery Butter Output Lower

Ottawa — (CP) — Creamery butter production in January declined 867,000 pounds from January last year to a total of 8,948,000 pounds, the Bureau of Statistics reported. Dairy butter production in January totalled 3,600,000, while 22,000 pounds of whey butter was made.

Total supply of butter, including stocks on hand at the beginning of the year, amounted to 56,500,000 pounds, a 2,000,000-pound decline from the January, 1947, supply of 58,500,000.

Meanwhile, domestic disappearance of butter during the month was 24,750,000 pounds compared with 26,250,000 and 29,250,000 the previous month — or 1.93 pounds per capita, compared with 2.33 in December and 2.08 pounds the same month last year.

The January make of cheddar cheese fell to slightly less than 1,000,000 pounds, about 750,000 less than in January, 1947. Output of concentrated milk products totalled 13,000,000 pounds, a decline of more than 750,000.

Two Daily Power Interruptions Will Continue Next Week

With voluntary conservation on the part of local electrical users not sufficient to keep the local commission under their allocation of power, until further notice there will be two power interruptions in the city, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, it was announced today by O. H. Scott, local public utilities manager.

The two power interruptions per day will continue next week. There will be no interruptions on Saturday or Sunday.

Power interruption in the morning will be from 7.10 until 7.55, and in the evening from 5.30 until 6.00 o'clock.

The above hours have been arranged so as to cause the least inconvenience and interruptions to industry and business and householders must appreciate that this schedule works out best for all concerned. It was pointed out that if all are to have full working hours and thus full pay envelopes, electrical users must save all power possible.

Earlier this week voluntary conservation had made it possible to cut out the morning interruption, but an increase in the amount of power used made it necessary for a return to the morning cut-off.

Duplessis Will Comment Later On Treasures

Quebec, March 6 —(CP)— A further statement from Premier Duplessis on the Polish treasure question is expected next week following his declaration last night in the legislative assembly that he would comment again "at the proper time."

"We shall see who is telling the truth," he said after Leon Casgrain (L-Riviere-Du-Loup) criticized him for "describing Mr. St. Laurent as a collaborator of Stalin."

Mr. Casgrain referred to the Premier's original statement published Wednesday in L'Action Catholique, Quebec daily newspaper, in which he announced transfer of the treasures, which had been stored in the Hotel Dieu here, to the provincial museum under guard of Provincial Police.

Before Mr. Casgrain raised the matter in the Provincial House occupied with the budget debate, Fernand Choquette (L-Montmagny) said Premier Duplessis' Wednesday statement represented the "last spasms of a dying regime."

"We have heard of provincial autonomy, Communism and the flag which doesn't belong to the government," said Mr. Choquette. "Now the Premier tries to attach himself to the Polish treasures. I say it is too late. Nothing can save this discredited regime."

In the meantime, a reliable authority who could not be identified declared that published excerpts of a letter from Dr. Z. R. Bielski, charge d'affaires at the Polish legation in Ottawa, to Sister St. Henri, Superior of the Hotel Dieu, were "genuine" but that the letter had not been completely reproduced.

Dr. Bielski was reported in the letter to have instructed the Superior of the Hotel Dieu to make the Polish treasures available to him and communicate with his representative, Hon. Elisee Theriault of Quebec, by a stated time.

Mr. Theriault, Quebec legislative councillor, commented that he had been engaged by Dr. Bielski to receive Sister St. Henri's reply. He said he had seen "many documents" and was not certain that he had read the Polish charge d'affaires letter to the Superior.

RAPIST SNEAKS OUT OF 'PEN' AND ATTACKS GIRL

Canon City, Colo., March 6 — (AP) — Police said today a convicted rapist had "sneaked out" of the state penitentiary area here and had raped a 14-year-old girl before being caught. Police said Marcel Cedillo, a houseboy in the the home of a prison clerk, waylaid the girl as she strolled home from a late show.

WOMAN AND SON PERISH IN BROOKLYN FIRE

Evangelist Wyrtzen Attracts Young And Old by Old-Fashioned Religion

"Who created me?" "Why am I here?" "Where am I going?" These are the three questions religion must answer, says Jack Wyrtzen, Youth-for-Christ leader.

Jack Wyrtzen, Director of the "Word of Life Hour," Times Square, New York, the man who outgrew Carnegie Hall and Madison Square Gardens, who taught a million fun-loving bobby-soxers to sing Hallelujah, will be in the city at the Holloway Street United Church next Wednesday, under the auspices of the Belleville Christian Youth Fellowship.

Born in Brooklyn the grandson of a Danish immigrant and son of a glass factory foreman, Jack Wyrtzen was not religious as a child says an article in the American magazine. His parents being Universalists, he went to any Sunday School of his own choosing, but church made very little impression on him. In his early teens he took to drink, smoking and cussing. He shone in athletics, doing the hundred yard dash in 10 seconds flat while in high school. He employed his musical talent on the trombone, and organized his own jazz-band.

Led Busy Life

During the depression when his father lost his job, Jack sold fire insurance in the daytime, led his band at night, and with vigor to spare, joined a cavalry troop of the National Guard, just for the fun of it. He joined the troop band and tooted his trombone from the saddle. A fellow-trooper gave up the wild night life and was converted to Christianity and tried, at first unsuccessfully, to convert him into the Church also.

Wyrtzen subjected his friend to merciless tauntings, but was finally won over by the other's staunch example and earnestness At a revival meeting in Brooklyn, stepping forward, he said "Therefore, if any man be in Jesus Christ he is a new creature," and that moment marked the beginning of a great Youth-for-Christ, now sweeping America.

Jack Wyrtzen looks more like the hard-hitting salesman he once was than an evangelist. Handsome, ruggedly built with wavy hair, he wears tweed suits, striped shirts and loud neckties He has a handshake of iron and a rafter-reaching laugh.

Rapid Speaker

When preaching, he braces himself in the pulpit and drives his words at the congregation with the force and rapidity of a machine gun. His preachings are nothing modern, but sin and salvation, hell and judgment. He disdains and pampering, mollycoddling manner in teaching religion to youth and holds vast audiences spell-bound for four hours with his preachings. He also believes the world is overripe for evangelism.

EDITOR DAVIES' WHIMSICAL BOOK LAUGH PROVOKER

By The Canadian Press

If you think the world can spare you for an evening. "The Diary of Samuel Marchbanks" (Clarke, Irwin) is recommended to take you along the path of quiet chuckles.

You laugh at the peril of being called names, because the author says:

"When Marchbanks, furnace-fried and garden-torn, commits his reflections to his Diary, is that funny? No baboon! No monkey!"

But if you're an independent soul you can go ahead and have a good time.

Who is the author? You won't find out from reading the book except that he has the world's most hostile furnace, his colds are the worst inflicted on man, his garden the most capricious.

But the publishers say what everyone knows: that he is Robertson Davies, 33, editor of the Peterborough, Ont., Examiner, a large man of considerable height, with thick hair and luxuriant beard

He was born in Thamesville, Ont., graduated from Queen's University, went to Oxford, has a passion for the theatre, spent several years with London's Old Vic and, since returning to Canada, has been a leader in Canadian drama

His philosophy and personality are well known through his editorials and weekly column in the Examiner. Widely quoted, he has been described as Canada's most original and humorous writer since Stephen Leacock.

The Diary covers a full year which is time enough for the author to give most matters a going over with comment that is incisive and destructive of many kindly.

Warning: Beware of his most deadpan statements or you'll be kicking yourself two lines on for being so gullible.

"When The Steel Went Through" (Macmillan) is an account of the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway as seen through the eyes of the late P. Turner Bone, one of the engineers who worked on construction of sections of the line on the Prairies and in the Rocky Mountains more than 60 years ago. It includes much information never before published on the exploits of the intrepid band of men who carried out the Confederation pledge to link British Columbia by rail with the rest of Canada.

Sprinkled throughout this modest volume of reminiscenses are the names of scores of men who worked with Bone on the construction gangs or otherwise played a part in putting the steel through. An index containing nearly 300 listings affords quick reference to the names of those men and of the more widely-known figures of the railway-building era.

"They were worthy pioneers, whose names I have endeavored to preserve, so that, though they pass out of sight, they will not be forgotten," Bone said in his preface, unware that death would call him, too, while the manuscript was in the hands of the printers. His narrative, illustrated with photographs of construction camps and pioneer communities, stands both as his own memorial and as a contribution to Canadian history.

Bone's clear, factual prose relates dozens of incidents, both humorous and tragic, that enlivened the long, hard job of laying the steel, but it makes only passing references to the driving of the last spike at Craigellachie, B. C., in 1885.

"Gauntlet to Overlord," Ross Munro's story of the 1st Canadian Army is to be published in French. The new addition of the 130,000-word book by the chief war correspondent of the Canadian Press is expected to appear in France in September or October.

Except for re-arrangement of chapters in chronological order, the French edition will be complete translation of the Macmillan publication, now in its third printing.

Those Interested In Sea Cadet Work Invited to Attend

The annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Navy League of Canada will be held in the ward room of the Quinte Ship R.C.S.C.C. on Monday evening, it has been announced by the chairman A. G. Stackhouse. Program plans for the local sea cadet corps for the coming year, will be discussed while election of officers will be held and reports heard of last year's activities.

The meeting is not only for members of the Navy League, but all citizens interested in sea cadet youth training program are invited to attend and to inspect the headquarters of the local sea cadet corps which was completed last year. Chairman Gib Stackhouse and officers of the Navy League cordially invite all to attend the meeting.

May Ask Congress Compel Surrender Loyalty Records

Washington, March 6 (AP) — The United States Congress may be asked to pass a law forcing Commerce Secretary Harriman to surrender his loyalty records on Dr. Edward U. Condon.

This possibility arose today after the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee ran into Harriman's point-blank refusal to produce the documents which gave Condon a clean bill.

The committee insisted it will have a "showdown" on the matter.

Condon is the 46-year-old Bureau of Standards Director described by an Un-American Activities sub-committee last Monday as "one of the weakest links" in atomic security.

The bureau tests many of the government's most secret scientific developments.

The full Un-American Activities Committee had demanded that Harriman produce the records in which the department's loyalty board found "no reasonable grounds exist for believing that Dr. Condon is disloyal to the government."

But Harriman said it would be against the public interest to turn over the papers. However, "in view of the public interest in this matter" he is asking the Civil Service Commission's Loyalty Review Board to look at the records.

The House Committee had said Condon "knowingly or unknowingly" had associated with suspected Russian spies.

Harriman said the Condon file includes confidential information from other government agencies. It also contains names of people who gave information to government investigators "on the assurance that their action in so doing would not be disclosed."

Consequently, the effectiveness of the government's loyalty program would be "seriously jeopardized" if the records were released.

What Red Cross Does

The roll call of the Canadian Red Cross peacetime services is such as to attract the lasting gratitude of the people of the Dominion and their support of this philanthropic agency working for the welfare af the people. The list of these services is imposing in number, the variety and the supreme importance of everyone of them. They are:

- National Blood Transfusion Service
- Outpost Hospitals and Nursing Stations
- Aid for Sick and Disabled Veterans
- Canadian Junior Red Cross
- Assistance for Crippled Children
- Disaster Relief
- Medical and Dental Service
- Swimming and Water Safety Program
- First Aid Instruction
- Home Nursing Courses
- Nutrition Service
- Sick Room Supply Loan Cupboards
- Canadian Red Cross Corps
- Emergency Nursing Reserve
- Homemakers' Service
- Highway First Aid Posts

Such agencies touch the people very closely and there is no one who is not directly or indirectly helped by these activities of so widespread an organization, which is national in scope and in times of need lends its help to needs anywhere in the world. In this regard the Red Cross is both national and worldwide in its outlook and interest.

At present the campaign for $3,000,000 is being carried on in Canada. This is needed and is the minimum requirement for the peacetime work in 1948.

Weather in Future

It has been predicted that within three years there should be sufficient knowledge of what is called "man-made rain" to be able to turn away from large centres of population storms of rain or snow, through "seeding" the clouds with dry ice grains or small particles of silver iodide to bring the required fall.

This prediction was made by Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric laboratory before the American Meteorological Society, and raises the element of wonder and inspiration in men. It prompts an editorial writer of the New York Times who says "one cannot be a bear on the future of science" to ask a few questions. These are, "who is to determine whether rain or snow is to be diverted from a given city? Who will decide when and where the moisture, liquid or frozen, is to fall? Will the decision be by the political party in power or by a non-partisan commission? It may be we are due for a rearrangement of crops and recreation. Perhaps we can run things by counties. One county would grow strawberries, another clover and a third apples. Perhaps some northern areas will become snow centres from November to April. But if a family decides on a picnic it will no longer be safe to trek off on the spur of the moment. One will have to call up to see if rain is scheduled for the day. We are becoming accustomed to controls and perhaps we can adjust to man-made weather as well as we do to Nature's decisions."

There will evidently be important discoveries lying in the months and years ahead which if it is possible to direct rain and snow to fall where it is deemed necessary. A commission as suggested might avoid clash of interests and wishes from the controlling of moisture-laden clouds.

Whatever science brings to light, it is sure to cause many changes.

Science and invention will no doubt go hand in hand if such results are achieved as forecast.

Diversion of rainstorms and snowstorms by man's inventions and discoveries if possible could not but cause changes. The whole subject seems unique even to an age which has been drawing music out of the air by electronics in the form of radio and television.

Social and Moral Problem

Only by means of a social approach can the illicit causes of venereal disease be prevented, says Dr. Gordon Bates in an article in the current issue of Health, the official magazine of the Health League of Canada.

Dr. Bates, who is general director of the Health League and head of the VD clinic at the Toronto General Hospital, makes the striking statement that clinics are still crowded despite the fact that means of diagnosis and cure are now infinitely more effective than ever before and although popular education concerning the diseases is more widespread. This prompts Dr. Bates to state his conviction that "it is perfectly obvious that mere education as to facts of venereal diseases and the provision of treatment facilities will not control a problem which is social in origin." He suggests social surveys in as many cities as possible and believes that survey case sheets could be used to discover any or all of the factors involved in the existence of venereal disease in a community.

He is convinced however that when all the social factors have been studied there still remains the problem of conduct. Morality must be taught, not as a means of avoiding venereal disease but because only through moral conduct can one enjoy a normal life.

He suggests that the health officer is prone to ignore the fact that there is a phase to the problem other than treatment of the infected — "to dodge the issue on the plea that this phase of the question is somebody else's business — the preacher's for example." Dr. Bates says it is not primarily the business of the preacher to prevent the spread of venereal diseases but it is the duty of the health officer and physician.

Finally he says those who work to control venereal disease must plan to attack by one means or another all of the problems which result in the spread of these sinister maladies.

Drama Festival

The first Secondary Schools' Drama Festival to be held in this city afforded proof that there are young men and women going to high school here and in the region bounded by Ottawa, Peterborough, Cornwall and Belleville who have a decided flair for dramatic work. That some of the plays selected were considered unsuitable or inappropriate should not be allowed to give the Secondary Schools' Drama Festival too black a mark; some of their seniors were criticized for the same weakness at the Regional Festival. The significant features of the Secondary Schools' Festival were that a senior department took pains to help develop the young talent, and that youth responded with a degree of enthusiasm and a display of talent that justify optimism for the future of amateur theatricals in this district.

The Secondary Schools' Drama Festival was an encouraging sign that the recently reawakened interest in the theatre will not soon die out. And while containing that promise, the Festival at the same time gave opportunity for expression to the young men and women who are able to offer the best hope for an active and effective interest in the amateur theatre in this section of Canada in future years. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

Toll of Tension

Health authorities report that one quarter of all deaths occurring after the age of 50 are due to what they call "essential hypertension." In laymen's language, that means simply "high blood pressure without apparent cause."

Concerning this ailment, it has also been established that emotional factors play an important—and often determining —role.

Public health authorities therefore urge Canadians to cultivate sound physical health, which is the most important single element in emotional adjustment.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How many pairs of brothers have served in Congress?

Besides the famous Washburn, Fesenden and Johnson brothers, mentioned in this column recently, there have been many instances of two brothers serving in Congress at the same time.

Max Schwabe of Missouri and his half brother George B. Schwabe of Oklahoma are members of the present Congress.

John Randolph of Roanoke and his half brother Henry St. George Tucker were both members of the House of Representatives in the 14th Congress.

Frederick Landis and his brother Charles Beary Landis both represented Indiana districts in the House from 1903 to 1907.

Ebenezer Rockwood Hoar and his brother George Frisbie Hoar of Massachusetts served together in the House from 1873 to 1875.

From March 22, 1910, to January 4, 1911, Eugene Noble Foss represented a Massachusetts district in the House while his brother George Edmund Foss was a member from Illinois.

From 1803 to 1807, while Thomas Jefferson was President, two of his sons-in-law, Thomas Mann Randolph and John Wayles Eppes represented Virginia districts in the House of Representatives.

Brothers have never served in the U. S. Senate at the same time. Willard Saulsbury of Delaware served in the Senate from 1855 to March 3, 1871: his brother Eli Saulsbury defeated him in the election of 1870 and served in the Senate from March 4, 1871, to March 3, 1889. Willard Saulsbury's son of the same name was U. S. Senator from Delaware from 1913 to 1919.

There have been several instances of brothers, serving in Congress at the same time in the two different branches. For instance, Senator John Hollis Bankhead and Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama, and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Representative John Davis Lodge of Connecticut.

There is one case of a father and son serving in Congress at the same time. Henry Dodge of Wisconsin and his son Augustus Caesar Dodge of Iowa served together as Delegates in the U. S. House of Representatives from March 14, 1841, to March 3, 1846, and as U. S. Senators from June 8, 1848 to February 22, 1855.

The instances of fathers and sons and fathers, sons and grandsons serving in Congress at different times are numerous. A glance through the pages of the "Biographical Dictionary of the American Congress" shows that hundreds of members have been closely related to one another. In 1939 more than 20 members of the House and Senate were the sons of men who served in Congress.

LESS TIME, MORE WORK

For the first 17 weeks following the introduction of the five-day week in Britain in May, 1947, 875,600 tons more coal were produced than in the same period in 1946.

TONSILLECTOMY AND THE VOICE

I've been thinking a lot lately—oh, you just don't understand folks, if you imagine I forget all your troubles while I am in conference on the bowling green. Indeed I don't. I just forget my own. But I keep right on pondering such questions as what can I do for those poor geeks, who ignore the rules and ask for diagnosis or treatment or how can I get the truth over to the greatest number of casual readers without either becoming known as a wild, irresponsible radical or else losing my voice. Of course I interrupt this meditation for brief intervals from time to time while I plan and execute my shot, including a couple of wicks with the magic bowls of good old Charley Hove, God rest his soul, but that takes only a few seconds, and right away I take up your problems again—which explains why my usual response to a remark made by any one on the green is Huh?

It is a little late now, but I have reached the conclusion that it would be well to print at the beginning of an article like this, or maybe at the beginning of most articles in this column, a warning like this:

All readers beware! This article is controversial. The author gives merely his own opinion, belief or theory. He neither cites nor defers to so-called authorities nor does he purport to be one himself. You take it or leave it or damn it, as you wish.

Now, then, if we understand each other, I'll tell you another reason why I abhor the surgical atrocity known as tonsillectomy. Except in rare instances of malignancy (cancer), actinomycosis, tuberculosis, or syphilis of the tonsil, the operation is too radical, and far too dangerous to life. Besides, in my opinion, comparatively simple and safe tonsilotomy (slicing off the obstructing portion of tonsil with the tonsillotome), or X-ray or radium or radon treatment of enlarged tonsils and/or adenoids, give as good or better results than the grave major operation does, in the treatment of enlarged or hypertrophied tonsils and/or adenoid or adenoid vegetations about the nasal orifice of Eustachian tubes—the last being a common cause of dullness of hearing (too often considered mental deficiency) in school children.

For the treatment of infected tonsils, especially when there is reason to believe the tonsils harbor a septic focus which is the cause of some systemic condition such as rheumatiz, my choice would be diathermy (electric coagulation) — of course in the hands of a physician skilled in the technique.

Any one with infected or enlarged tonsils should think twice, and then once again, before submitting to the atrocity, if he or she has a voice or hopes to use the voice professionally.

Any of the conservative methods mentioned is far less likely to alter or impair the speaking or singing voice than tonsillectomy is.

I intimated I will cite no authorities to support my teachings — that is, not unless some physician or specialist chooses to dispute any of my assertions.

Surely it is the duty of physicians, surgeons or specialists who still perpetrate the tonsillectomy atrocity to defend their nineteenth century practice against my aspersions if they think the truths I tell here are aspersions.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Examination Jitters

Your suggestion of quinine and B complex worked wonderfully I started taking a daily ration of B complex a month or more in advance and the quinine about ten days before the exams. I had no fears or worries, such as always made me miserable before, and I was able to study better This is my senior years in college and I'll certainly repeat the treatment for my finals.

(H. G. C.)

Answer — A teaspoonful of syrup or one capsule of B complex three times a day for a month or more, and one grain of quinine three times a day for about ten days before the ordeal.

Tapeworm

Wife thinks she has a tapeworm. How can she find out for sure and how to get rid of it?

(E. M.)

Answer — Only by seeing segments of tapeworm or tapeworm eggs (microscopic) in depecta. Safe and effective treatment requires supervision of physician Send twenty - five cents and stamped self addressed envelope, for booklet Unbidden Guests which tells about tapeworms, round worms, pinworms, trichina, ringworms, household pests, biting insects, etc.

TEST UNDERGROUND FACTORY POSSIBILITIES WITH TNT

Salt Lake City, March 6—(AP) — Explosive charges of TNT ranging up to 320,000 pounds, will be detonated in a series of tests to determine feasibility of underground war factories, United States Army engineers have disclosed. The tests will be made late this year.

MUNICIPAL DIRECTORY

Toronto, March 6 (CP)—The 1948 municipal directory issued by the Ontario Municipal Affairs Department contains everything from names of reeves and mayors to mileage of sewers and water mains. The book lists H. E. McCallum as Mayor of Toronto although he was appointed only 10 days ago.

Eight-Week Wait Before Decision Is Handed Down

Ottawa, March 6 — (CP) — At least an eight-week wait appeared certain today before Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson of the Exchequer Court hands down a decision bearing on the $863,231 income tax case of Albert Sansoucy, Montreal textile merchant.

Mr. Justice Thorson said yesterday it would be the end of April, at least, before he could announce his judgment in a motion by counsel for Mr. Sansoucy to set aside a Crown writ under which it seized the sum and which the revenue department contends Mr. Sansoucy owes in income tax for the years 1942-46.

The Exchequer Court Justice made the statement after listening to 3½ hours of legal argument. Counsel for Mr. Sansoucy, A. W. Seament and M. H. Fyfe, argued that the Exchequer Court had no jurisdiction to issue the writ last month and that, even if it had, the writ itself was 'bad' and should be squashed.

J. A. Prudhome, acting for the Crown, maintained that the court had power to grant such a writ and that the writ itself had contained sufficient evidence as to debt and the "danger" of loss involved if the money were returned to the defendant

The case arose out of police discovery of roughly $1,000,000 in a safety deposit box in a Montreal bank several months ago. The funds now are under seal by the Foreign Exchange Control Board which is contemplating prosecution of Mr. Sansoucy for withholding the $1,000 of it which is in United States funds.

Ceiling of Parliamentary Restaurant Does Strange Things With Spoken Word

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 6 — (CP) — A member of parliament and a reporter were having dinner in the sedate and treacherous Parliamentary restaurant.

The reporter asked the member — off the record — what he thought of the political leadership of his party. The member gave a cold, unflattering appraisal.

Then, his face suddenly dismayed at something he had seen, he raised his voice and launched a complete rebuttal of everything spoken. The reporter, suspicious, turned around and spied the leader sitting two tables away. There was no sign that he had heard the original statement, but the member wasn't taking any chances.

Not beneath that majestic screwball of a ceiling:

It does things with words. It picks conversations up and lays them down, sometimes in the most embarrassing places. It makes the politicians, reporters and high civil servants unusually discreet.

The trouble is that the ceiling has five large circular domes carved into it, like inverted saucers.

Because of their shape, someone sitting at a table immediately beneath one extremity of a dome may have his words heard with surprising clarity by someone sitting at the other extremity, a couple of tables away. Meanwhile the table in between hears nothing.

For reporters, this is a situation not without its possibilities. They secretly cherish dreams of the day the majestic screwball will bear them tidings of a cabinet secret or some other moist tidbit.

But apparently somebody thought of that years ago. The cabinet, usually in a solemn, single-file procession, walks day after day to one of the alcoves in the room and is seated around a large, reserved table of its own. There, they are safe from the traitor domes.

As for Prime Minister Mackenzie King, he doesn't even take a chance. He always eats at home.

Windsor Mayor Asked to Resign As Chairman

London, Ont., March 6 (CP)—Western Ontario's natural gas controversy reached another climax here Friday night when the resignation of Mayor Arthur Reaume of Windsor as chairman of the municipalities negotiating committee was asked for, and promised, at a special conference called by Mayor George Wenige of London.

The session, representing about a dozen districts in the Union Gas Company territory, was called to discuss Windsor's move for a separate agreement on higher intermim rates and also reports that Windsor would seek priorities for industrial use.

Following strong criticism of Mayor Reaume, City Clerk Reg. Cooper of London was asked to phone Mr. Reaume and inform him that a majority of delegates wished him to resign his post. Mr. Cooper reported that Mayor Reaume told him he would resign "at a meeting and when the delegates desire it."

Delegates set the date for the conference at Chatham March 8.

Ontario Fuel Controller A. R. Crozier also held the spotlight with his warning that southwestern Ontario faces a complete gas shutdown both for industrial and domestic use next winter unless artificial gas-producing plants are projected immediately.

He said that municipalities should make arrangements for the building of artificial plants as soon as possible to try and prevent a gas crisis "worse than the last one."

LICENCE PLATES "PEEL"

Victoria, B.C. — (CP) — Government officials are puzzled by peeling paint on 1948 British Columbia auto licence plates. Already 1,000 substitute plates have had to be issued and it is expected there will be more. The paint peels off leaving numbers undecipherable.

Strip-Teaser Gets Dunked By Students

Baton Rouge, La., March 6 — (AP)—For her revealing enterprise in offering university students here a short course in a very liberal art, "Stormy," the strip-tease dancer, got dunked.

"Stormy," whose real name is Stacie Lawrence, came up from New Orleans to present a few bare facts to students at Louisiana State University. She even brought a band along.

Using the visual instruction technique while some of the boys yelled "take it off," "Stormy" got down to a bra and a pair of panties.

At this point a group of muscular young men hustled "Stormy" off and dumped her in a knee-deep pond.

She emerged to cloak herself in a fur coat and comment that "boys will be boys." Finally, "Stormy" took refuge in a campus police sub-station. At this point she was rescued by members of the football squad and the police.

In the ensuing melee the band had its piano smashed and the truck in which it was carried pushed away. When last seen a group of students were merrily shoving it around and singing. Later one wheel was found on the second tier of the football stadium.

Some students said they resented "Stormy's" performance of a strip-tease in the presence of co-eds.

J.H. McClentic Pleads Innocent On Second Charge

Brockville, March 6. (CP)—John Henry McClentic, 27, under remand on a charge of abducting a 14-year-old Brockville girl, pleaded not guilty today on a second charge of having carnal knowledge of the girl during the period of last July 1—Aug. 24.

McClentic had admitted guilt previously on the first count and was remanded today for another week.

McClentic was arrested in Port Hope, Ont., Feb. 25, after being missing for six months. The Brockville girl was located later the same day in Lindsay.

Police said McClentic left the girl a few days previously and made arrangements to go to Port Hope with a 17-year-old girl who was later charged with vagrancy.

Mental Health Clinics in Canada Badly Needed

Ottawa, March 6— (CP)—Canada is in desperate need of mental health clinics as well as a more comprehensive understanding by the public of the magnitude of the mental health problem in the Dominion, Dr. C. G. Stogdill, chief of the health department's mental health division, declared yesterday.

He addressed the closing session of the second Dominion - Provincial Conference of Health Educators and stressed the necessity for mental health clinics of which there were few in Canada. The main drawback was the lack of trained personnel.

"Many provinces have voted money for the establishment of these clinics but have to wait until personnel have been trained," said Dr. Stogdill. "We must develop increased training facilities to meet this demand."

The lack of public understanding of the seriousness of the mental health problem was indicated by Dr. Stogdill in the fact that "although $30,000,000 will be spent this year in the maintenance of mental institutions, less than $30,000 is being spent in research."

The speaker believed the public had little knowledge of the advances made in the treatment of mental sickness and said that 60 per cent of admissions were now being discharged within six months and 78 per cent within a year of admittance. Only a small proportion were returned for further treatment.

Certain mental health "misconceptions" should be eradicated, the mental health expert added. These were that mental illness is a disgrace, that it is hereditary, that it happens suddenly and that "once insane, always insane."

ADMITS SHOOTING MAN IN ARGUMENT OVER ACCIDENT

Joliet, Ill., March 5 — (AP) — William E. Tomlinson, a used car dealer who calls himself "The Wild Irishman," pleaded guilty yesterday to fatally shooting a man during an argument over locked automobile bumpers. Tomlinson, 45, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to two to six years in prison.

BAGS 83-POUND WOLF

Millarville, Alta. — ((CP) — G. (Curly) Sand, a professional trapper, bagged a choice prize recently — a wolf weighing 83 pounds, 34 inches in height. Mr. Sand caught it by poisoning on a ranch northwest of here. It had been raiding cattle in the district since October. Millarville is 25 miles southwest of Calgary.

Barbara Ann Almost Missed Olympic Costume

Toronto, March 6 — (CP) — When Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott won her way to Canada's first Olympic skating crown, she did it in a fur skating costume which brought many compliments. She acknowledged these remarks by proudly explaining that her outfit was a "Canadian original."

Creation of Harvey Springer, Toronto fur designer, the costume is the first all-fur skating garment to be made here.

"When Barbara Ann first asked me to make her a fur costume, we decided it would have to be of either caracul or broadtail, the only fur available which would be sufficiently pliable and thin enough to drape to advantage," explained Mr. Springer.

After shopping for several days in New York for 25 matched fur pelts he wrapped them in a parcel about the size of a loaf of bread. It took him two weeks to get them across the United States border and that meant he had less than two weeks to make them up and fitted.

The delay at the border arose from imposition by Canada of import restrictions. Mr. Springer said the furs were confiscated when they reached the boundary but later they were returned to the Toronto designer after customs men were satisfied the furs already were in transit when the restrictions were applied.

Only one preliminary fitting was possible, so Mr. Springer hasn't seen the completed costume on Miss Scott except in films, where it looks like velvet or other softly draped material rather than fur.

"It almost seemed as though she wasn't meant to have that costume", Mr. Springer said. He told of delays in manufacture and in shipping.

However it did arrive in Ottawa on the morning Barbara Ann flew to Europe, and the young skating queen wore the fairy-tale costume when she gathered so many laurels. It has a tight bodice, long fitted sleeves, a low-cut square neckline and extremely full skirt

Pauline Johnson. The meeting closed with a benediction, after which Mrs. Tummon served delicious refreshments. Thanks was expressed to the hostess and to Mrs. Hammond.

Grenfell Mission on Sub-Arctic Wastes Doing Grand Service Says Dr. G.D. Kilpatrick

"All thy children shall be taught of the Lord, and great shall be the peace of thy children," are the large lettered words on the outside wall of the Grenfell Mission Orphanage at St. Anthony, in Newfoundland.

Rev. George G. D. Kilpatrick, D.D., principal of the United Theological College, in Montreal, was the very interesting and inspiring speaker, last evening, at an open meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in the Assembly Hall of Bridge Street United Church. He told of the Grenfell Mission, which promotes the work of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell on the sub-Arctic wastes of Labrador and Newfoundland; many outstations of which he visited last summer.

"The story," said Dr. Kilpatrick, "is a simple one of a very happy experience: Crossing by boat from Sydney, N.S., we, Mrs. Kilpatrick and I, found St. John's an interesting old town, with weather beaten, unpainted wooden houses,—but there were more pretentious and modern homes on the outskirts, for, during the last war the American Air Force brought quite extensive prosperity to St. John's."

Harbor Land-Locked

Four days in a small steamer brought the visitors to St. Anthony, where there is a deep S-shaped harbor, more or less landlocked, and a modern town,—a far cry from the few huddled shacks known to Sir Wilfred Grenfell in 1893 and 1894. One of his visions had been realized in the Marine Railroad; which is a mechanized, temporary drydock for repairing disabled schooners.

"The mission," continued the speaker, "includes a fine hospital staffed by Dr. Curtis, Dr. Thomas and a number of nurses and orderlies. There is also an orphanage and school where 'all thy children shall be taught of the Lord', and in support of these children a magnificent farm with a herd of find Holstein cattle to supply milk for the hospital and for use in the orphanage.

Horticultural Department

"Also in connection with the farm is a horticultural department with greenhouses where vegetable seedlings are grown and prepared to be shipped to the tiny fishing villages along the coast, where the top soil is very shallow, and tillable ground very scarce. The Grenfell Mission strives to include some project to meet the demands of every phase of life among these people; To show their appreciation there has been placed on a large rock, high on the Fox Farm Hill behind the town, three plaques in memory of Sir Wilfred Grenfell, of Lady Grenfell, and of a friend associated in the work of the mission, but in the words of Sir Christopher Wren—'if you desire his memorial look about you'."

Travelling in the small schooner "The Maravel," Dr. Kilpatrick lived for five weeks with the crew of five men, rough, uncouth, but very fine, and two doctors. They visited several small fishing villages, each composed of not more than five families, illiterate folk, but very hospitable. The stays in port were governed by the number of "cases" and the kind of disorders awaiting the doctor's attention; for he treated everything from dental and eye troubles, to T.B. and a native infection known as "sea pups", caused by the irritation of a garment against a wrist or hand which had been working in the extremely cold salt water during fishing operations.

Too Cold For Swimming

The water is much too cold for swimming, always about 32 or 33 degrees, and with ice floating on its surface. "Dr. Padden extracted teeth at twenty-five cents a pull, and fitted glasses of plus or minus lenses for fifty cents a pair— when the patient had the money to pay—when there was no money the service was free. There is an amazing death rate from T.B. and great need of a sanitarium," Dr. Kilpatrick said.

"Who are these people?" he asked. "They are descendants of British born folk who went to Newfoundland more than 150 years ago. They are a sturdy, independent and unlettered race, with a pronounced accent which makes their speech practically a dialect, with their old English pronunciation. Now, however, the children who attend the Mission School are learning not only to read and write, but also to be farmers, mechanics and carpenters. To these isolated folk the arrival of the Maravel is an event of real importance and immediately they hear a blast from the boat's whistle they leave everything and come out in their small boats to see the doctor, and whoever else is aboard."

Held Religious Services

During the trip Dr. Kilpatrick held some religious service at every stop, for although isolated, these folks are strict in their religious observances, and never think of fishing on a Sunday.

Scenery along the coast consisted of the blues and greens of the icebergs. The land is low, and trees grow only about thirty miles inland on the hillsides. "Bergs," said the speaker, "are sometimes 400 feet high and a half mile long, a large portion submerged. When they become top heavy from erosion beneath the water, which may cause them to turn over without warning, they become a menace to craft near them, but smaller ones are often towed to port and used to 'ice' fish being shipped by steamer."

In the Northern part of the island. Dr. Kilpatrick visited an esquimau village. These people are happy, cheerful, temperamental and musical. They take no thought for the morrow, and make no preparation for it. Their children are attractive and polite. Esquimaux now live in wooden houses, using igloos only when on a sealing trip.

Life Laborious

"Life," continued Dr. Kilpatrick, "in Newfoundland and Labrador is laborious, as well as dangerous. Day begins at five a.m., and ends at eleven p.m., for it is daylight at three in the morning, and only dark for about four hours of the twenty-four. They work hard and die young, largely from malnutrition. They are hospitable, but endure poverty beyond anything Canadians can possibly imagine.

"Dogs are indispensable as a means of winter transportation. They are huskies, with plenty of wolf in their blood, and are very dangerous, especially around children. When not in a team they are securely tethered. These fisher folk are independent and worthwhile people. The Grenfell Mission has wrought its own reward, due to the vision, faith and self-sacrifice of Sir Wilfred Grenfell."

Colored Films Shown

Following this address two colored films were shown. In the second were pictures of the hospital, orphanage and school with Dr. Grenfell among the children, of whom he was extremely fond. One of the scenes showed the memorial plaque on the Fox Farm Hill, which reads "Sir Wilfred Grenfell, 1862-1940."

Dr. Kilpatrick said he hopes if and when an appeal is made in Belleville for the continued support of the Madeline Fralick Cot in St. Anthony Hospital, the response will be generous.

Due to the unavoidable absence of Mrs. A. May, President of the Club, Mrs. J. G. Sparling presided, and introduced the speaker. Mrs. Kinnear expressed appreciation for the inspiring address, and thanks to the trio of ladies who have been instrumental in reviving an interest in the Mission among the members of the Canadian Club.

Excellent Concert Promised In 'Talent on Parade'

Residents of the city and district will have an opportunity to hear the R.C.A.F.'s Central Air Command Band, March 12th when they are booked to take part in the big "Talent on Parade" concert, sponsored by the Y's Men's Club of Belleville.

The concert, to be held in the Collegiate Institute auditorium, is scheduled to begin at 8.15 p.m., and promises two hours and 15 minutes of the very best entertainment. Tickets are on sale at Leslie's Shoe Store, Y.M.C.A., and from any Y's Man. Entire proceeds are for the benefit of the youth of the Bay of Quinte district and Canadian Aid to Children Fund.

Since its beginning in September 1946 the band has played over 200 engagements in towns and R.C.A.F. stations from Sarnia Ontario to Goose Bay in Labrador and travelled more than 22,000 miles by air, rail and bus. It serves units in Central Air Command and seeks to give service to the public by playing concerts where possible, and taking part in parades.

Other features included in "Talent on Parade" are: Ethel Smith, soprano solo; Alec Gordon and Clifford Templer, organ piano duo; R. Bishop, bass solo; That Character, "McQuire," with Frank Hockaday; J. P. Bankier, tenor solo; pupils of Miss Barbara Diment, dance; Dr. A. C. Locke, violin concerto; Miss Leona Riggs and Alec Gordon, piano duo.

Women's Activities

WALLBRIDGE W.M.S.

Wallbridge—There was a good attendance of members and visitors at the W.M.S. meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Ken Yorke on Wednesday afternoon.

The opening exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. Kingston, assisted by Mrs. M. Phillips and Mrs. L. Ketcheson. Reports were given and some business was discussed. Mrs. L. Ketcheson and Mrs. W. Sine were appointed as delegates to attend the Presbyterial meeting in Tabernacle Church on the first day, and Mrs. Chas Fair and Mrs. Jas. Sine as delegates on the second day.

A letter of appreciation from the Shoreys was read. Mr. Elliott sent a "thank you" letter for fruit and card which had been sent to him. Mrs. Clare thanked the ladies for a plant and card which had been sent to her mother during her recent illness.

The study book chapter was given by Mrs. Kingston, being the story of Wm. Carey a shoemaker of England, who was the first British missionary to India. After overcoming many great obstacles he succeeded in translating the new Testament into Bengali, the language of the lower class Hindus. He also translated the Bible into Sanskrit, the language of India and with his helpers had the Bible printed in 42 other dialects of the Indian people. All through his life his motto was attempt great things for God. Expect great things from God." Mrs. Elliott led in prayer.

W.A. MEETING

The W.A. meeting immediately followed in charge of Mrs. L. Ketcheson. The 23rd psalm was repeated in unison.

A short memorial service and a 2 minute silence was held in memory of the late Mrs. Hilton Shorey, who had been a very faithful member when health permitted.

Roll call was answered by thoughts gleaned from reading or radio and some good ones were given: ie "God did not make us perfect but pilgrims after perfection;" Laugh at your own troubles more, and at our neighbors' less;" "Why worry when I can pray."

Mrs. C. W. Neelands thanked the society for a gift. A discussion followed re: a croquinole party which had been postponed and a committee was appointed for final arrangements. Mrs. C. Fair invited the societies to her home for the April meeting. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Yorke for her hospitality and the meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction.

MODERN DIAMOND CUTTING

The new multi-facet process of cutting diamonds is the first improvement in diamond cutting since the 18th century when the round or brilliant cut was devised.

Tussaud's Finds Barbara's Eyes Difficult to Portray in Wax

London, March 6. (CP)—The experts, figuratively speaking, who look at a girl and immediately think of their tape measures, aren't agreed on Barbara Ann Scott's hips—of all things.

One school of thought says that the Ottawa girl, who won the European, world and Olympic figure-skating championships, is 1 1-2 inches out of proportion around the hips and another says that her hips are "very good".

But before any of Canada's gay young blades blow a gasket over the "out of proportion" school let's quote our sources, whose business it is to gauge the "ideal woman" in inches. They say (still figuratively speaking) that Barmara Ann is the "typical North American girl" and add that her educated feet, remarkable personality and dancing eyes bundle her up into a neat package of femininity.

What the Tapes Show

The question of the hips started today, when the Canadian girl, a candidate for a spot in the sports tableau at the world-famed Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum, went to the establishment for measurements. Here's what the tapes showed :

Height (in stocking feet), five feet, three inches; bust, 33 1-2; waist, 23; hips, 34. This appeared OK but just to make sure, a well-known film organization and a few snooty modeling agencies were asked their opinion.

All asked to remain anonymous and the firm studio said that on their figuring British Actress Valcrie Hobson possesses the ideal figure for a woman. Her measurements are bust, 34; waist, 25; hips, 36, and the expert pointed out that the hips should be two inches more than the bust.

The expert added hastily that Barbara Ann's measurements would make her the "typical North American girl" and then went on to praise her personality from eyes to feet.

Modelling agencies queried on the subject were at variance with the film experts.

"Very good indeed", said one agency when given the Canadian girl's measurements.

"Good, but I'd say quite slender for nowadays," said another. "You see," he added, "the new look calls for bigger hips and I'd say Barbara Ann needs more padding around the hips."

"I rather like those measurements," said another. "I'd say she is very good."

Eyes Hard to Portray

On top of all this, Barbara Ann, who will be "unveiled" at Madame Tussaud's in three or four months, is causing a bit of grief to make-up artists. Vera Bland, who looks after the eyes and hair of newcomers to the museum, finds that Barbara Ann has "just about the most difficult pair of eyes and head we've had for many years".

"Barbara Ann has a spontaneous gaiety about her and it'll be difficult to put her in wax", Miss Bland said. "And we are going to have trouble with her eyes—they're very lively."

Jane Jackson, Madame Tussaud's sculptress, is also having difficulty.

"Her head is one of the most difficult to get into wax that I've seen for years. Her expression changes so very much. She's full of gaiety and a most interesting subject."

The Ottawa girl was at the museum for more than an hour and 25 photographs were taken of her.

The museum just isn't sure what the finished product will be like. "We might have her perched on the rink boards as if ready to jump on to the ice or we'll have her standing with her skates in her hand or at her side," said an official.

But there is one thing definite—she will be dressed in blue, her favorite color, and will have a string of pearls around her neck. Barbara Ann insisted on this and will supply the dress.

Meantime, those hips . . .maybe Canadian experts have different opinions.

Wallbridge

Wallbridge — Due to road conditions the Sunday evening church service here was cancelled.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound, Cannifton, were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris.

Mrs. Mack Sine and sons are visiting Mrs. Sine's parents, in Oshawa.

March came in like the proverbial lamb but the lion soon took charge.

61st Anniversary Of Wedding Is Celebrated

In the quiet of their comfortable 5th concession farm home and attended by but only a few close friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Sidney township, early last week celebrated the 61st anniversary of their marriage. The couple were married in Belleville, on March 2nd, back in 1887.

Both natives of Sidney, Mr. and Mrs. Smith have lived all their lives in the township and since their marriage have resided on the same farm. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Smith was Martha Frederick. She is 83 and Mr. Smith, 84 years old.

Although now retired from active farming, Mr. Smith still takes an active interest and the summer finds him in his vegetable garden or clearing brush from fence corners. Both are in fairly good health.

The couple have but one daughter, Mrs. Clifford Murray, who resides at Frankford. There is one grandson.

CROONED TO PICKLES

Bing Crosby used to work in a pickle factory during summer vacations when he was a boy.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

Foxboro.—The March meeting of the W.M.S. was well attended on Thursday afternoon following a dinner in the S.S. rooms.

Mrs. Priest acted as pianist, and after opening quiet music, the Community Friendship Secretary, Mrs. J. W. Daniels, had charge of the meeting. Mrs. A. L. Shorten offered prayer and the 22nd chapter of Proverbs was read by Mrs. Clifford Wilson. Mrs. Daniels then explained the duties of the Community Friendship secretary and told of the pleasure in doing this part of the Lord's work.

The Study Book "No Trespassing" was reviewed by Mrs. Percy Kilpatrick and Mrs. J. G. Sills.

A quiz was conducted by Mrs. Sills. A solo "I'd Rather Have Jesus" was contributed by Mrs. E. Tummon.

Mrs. Priest took charge of the business session. The proceeds of the dinner are to be used to purchase material to make garments for needy children in Europe; and a bale valued at over $75 was packed to be sent for the Relief Fund. The Easter Thank-offering meeting will be in charge of Mrs. E. Tummon and Mrs. P. Kilpatrick. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction in unison.

IRISH INNOVATION

The tea bag was invented by an Irish-American storekeeper who put tea in small silk bags as samples, but they soon became popular as an easy way to make tea.

I didn't expect it so soon

Why it was only yesterday that Bill placed our order. Imagine!, ordering cupboards for your kitchen and having them delivered within 24 hours.

How will he ever get them together?

Bill is handy with tools and wants to install the cupboards himself but this looks like a big job. My! what a lot of storage space I'm going to have and do I ever need it!

Shucks! T'ain't nothing to it

Says Bill and he was just about right—those Readibilt Units just set in place exactly as we had planned. The salesman wasn't fooling when he said they were easily installed.

And then when it was done.

Bill was so proud of himself and I was so proud of my beautiful kitchen —its going to make my work so much easier too. Bill calls it a wifesaver.

Father on the Farm

He Knew His Duty and Attended Funerals

By Kenneth C. Cragg

Father claimed he had never been to a better funeral than Uncle Pete's.

He had attended bigger funerals, all right, with honorary pallbearers, lodge brothers in regalia, and most of the members of the council there paying their respects and renewing acquaintances against the time of the next election. But none was better from the standpoint of weather and the nature of the gathering.

Uncle Pete, who was not anybody's uncle at all, but a slightly daft distant cousin of mother's, died quite suddenly and peacefully one Sunday in church between the first and second hymns. Mother said it was better end than he deserved.

Mother never really liked Uncle Pete, because she felt he was not a credit to her family. Even as he lay cold in his coffin it is doubtful if she quite forgave him for the time the kitchen stove pipes caught fire. It was a hot fire., too, and might have burned the house.

Fire Was No Joke

Apparently mother and Uncle Pete came into the kitchen at the same time to find the pipes ablaze. Mother, quick as a flash, seized a pot of boiling water on the stove and was about to dash the water on the fire and pipes when Uncle Peter shouted: "Don't use hot water."

Mother, in her excitement, ran outside with the hot water, dumped it on the ground and came in with cold water from the rain barrel.

After the fire was out it suddenly dawned on her she'd been made a fool of, and Uncle Pete went to his grave without telling whether he had played a joke on her or actually believed cold water was the only thing for fires. She never felt the same to Uncle Peter after that, and treated him as if he were a cross on her shoulders.

People were great funerals goers up father's way. "The least a person can do is pay his respects to the departed," father would say. He wasn't much of a one for going back from the cemetery for a little snack, believing that it behooved a man to leave the mourners in peace unless he could actually help, like milking the cows or doing other chores.

There were plenty of others who didn't think the same as father and there were even some who followed the dying traditions of the wake, to the extent of drinking the odd bit of liquor to the memory of the departed. Father was not a drinking man. He used to say he took a drink once when he was a boy and didn't like it and the faces he made when downing a draught—about two tablespoons—of whiskey and sugar for a bit of pain in his chest was enough to turn a body away from drink for the rest of his life.

An Old Country Custom

A drinking wake, therefore, was most uncommon, but a bereaved house would never think of turning a body away without having a bite to eat or a sup of tea. A man wouldn't be cold in his coffin before the neighbor women accompanied by their solemn looking men folk, would be off to the stricken house bearing parcels of food.

In the evening when the chores were done, the family would gather in the parlor, a suddenly strange and uncomfortable place, smelling of death and embalming fluid, the chief mourner beside the casket. Neighbors would come in, putting out a sympathetic hand, and passing by the coffin, murmuring how natural he looked.

Father was never comfortable in the presence of death, but he knew his duty and would not only pay his respects to the departed but, at a pinch, and when pressed, sit up with the corpse. He was, at the same time, a much happier person when the custom died out, of sitting a weary night through beside a coffin.

It wasn't that father had any fear of the corpse, so much as that he was a failure at the kind of social grace demanded of a death in the house. He would go to a bereaved home with mother and mother would get a damp look in her eyes and the right words would come to her without effort. Father, on the other hand, would get so all-fired anxious to do the right thing that his feet became awkward and his voice almost completely uncontrolled

He could get past a coffin all right and then he would slip to a seat beside one of the bereaved, presumably to give a few words of comfort. Ten to one his mind would go completely dry and he would find himself croaking about the crops or the weather and then pull himself up short and feel miserable.

His Memorable Moment

In some fifty years father had only one memorable moment while comforting his bereaved friends and acquaintances. A neighbor's wife, zealous in good works and full of rectitude, had died and father, standing unhappily by the coffin murmured correctly that she had been a fine woman.

"Yes." returned father's friend and neighbor, "but I never liked her," and father again pressed his hand in sympathy.

Uncle Pete broke the formula and caused quite a scandal the day grandfather on the Irish side died. Uncle Pete stood looking down in the coffin, his face working with the emotion bottled behind it.

"James, James," he said in a breaking voice, "many a good drunk we have had together on the glorious Twelfth."

Mother who by her own telling, had been shamed frequently during he life, maintained on that occasion that she had never been so shamed in her life before. But it did somehow seem to brighten grandfather's funeral.

It was uncommon for people who had a long distance to drive to start early the day of the funeral and get there for the noon meal. Father wouldn't do that but take a lunch for mother and himself and a bucket of oats for the horse to eat on the way, that is unless the weather was bad.

Actually a funeral provided a means for people who otherwise wouldn't see each other for months at a time to exchange greetings and renew acquaintances. After a funeral there was always a few days' conversational material when mother and father would talk about the people they had seen and how this one and that one looked and how they had changed.

Funeral Eulogies Popular

Father like most people, was also sensitive to what the preacher had said. The funeral oration had to have some referennce to the departed and even known scalawags had to have something nice said about them. Critics in the audience were always quick in picking out a false note and father claimed it was a lucky funeral when the minister hit it right and didn't overdo his picture of the departed person's virtues.

For instance father and mother, and a lot more for that matter, were interested in (what the minister would say about Luther. Lute, as he was called, and his wife had eleven children, but they didn't get along well. Luther was a zealous father, the minister said at the funeral, and everybody thought it was a satisfactory tribute.

If a good crowd turned out for Uncle Pete's funeral it seemed only right and fair because Uncle Pete, in his day, had been a faithful attender at funerals. It was partly due to his sympathy and partly to his liking for any sort of gathering.

Uncle Pete was a friend to every man even if every man was not his friend. The boys played pranks on him at threshings and made fun of him on Saturday nights in the chatty circles of the feed store or the pool room.

Uncle Pete Died Suddenly

But Uncle Pete seldom got put out or angry, and he kept on making his slightly daft jokes and telling how some day he was going to get married. He genuinely liked to be teased about the girls and for this mother had no patience. It started her muttering about there being no fool like an old fool.

The word of Uucle Pete's death came late on a Sunday afternoon. He had gone to church over at Bethel. Mother answered the telephone, listened for a few moments and in a strong soprano voice wailed, "Uncle Pete is dead. Poor soul, he died in the church."

She started to cry and father, reasonably enough asked, "What are you crying about? You didn't like him."

It was not the wise thing for father to say but by the day of the funeral everything was all right again except that one of the distant connections who was almost a stranger sat up among the chief mourners.

Before there could be any feeling it was explained that Uncle Pete always considered her a "chief cousin so she was let remain.

Another cousin spoke for the family when he said, Well, we sure gave poor Pete a real send-off, just what he would have enjoyed. I'm glad they had it in the church."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

Theory of Migration

The disappearance, and later the reappearance of birds at certain seasons has been noted for nearly 3,000 years, but for a long time hibernation was considered to be the reason: in fact this idea persisted among a few people even in the last century. The subject of migration, however, has been under discussion ever since Aristotle, the naturalist of ancient Greece, noted the movements of birds spring and autumn. This was about 350 years before the Christian era.

People found it difficult to believe that very small birds, like Hummingbirds, made long journeys "on their own steam," so fancied that they must ride on the backs of large ones, such as Cranes and Storks. Now, the exact flyway and even the winter residence of each species has been definitely discovered by means of banding.

But why are birds flying north as summer approaches? This is a much deeper question than you may imagine. Although they think alike on most matters, ornithologists are not yet unanimous on this point. The theory of migration remains largely a mystery: we can only guess at its origin. That food, light, climate, and space have much to do with it is agreed. That heredity is now an important factor is known. Just how it all started is the cause for dispute.

The most widely accepted theory is that in very early times birds swarmed over the entire Northern Hemisohere because conditions here were perfect for them, as they still are in the Tropics, where many non-migratory birds live. Then came the ice age, pushing life southward.

But the birds wanted their old home. Therefore, when the ice fields gradually retreated, they attempted to return. Though most of the year it was too cold, each spring they were able to make their way a little farther north, until finally the ice receded sufficiently for hardy species, as Redpolls and Chickadees, to stay all year round, while Warblers, Swallows, and the rest of our summer friends found they could remain long enough to build nests and rear families.

Another theory is that the ancestral home of the birds used to be in the Tropics, but overpopulation obliged them to spread north at breeding time when the climate would allow them. As the ice retreated, more and more land became suitable for summer homes.

There are snags in both these theories, but the first seems by far the more probable.

SHOT PIERCES DOOR AND INJURES WOMAN

Passaic, N.J., March 5 (AP)—A 10-year-old boy fired a 12-gauge shotgun yesterday at a model airplane held by another youngster. He missed the model plane, but the shot pierced a half-inch wooden door and struck and injured Mrs. Grace Stickel, 38, as she sat sewing. The other boy was unhurt.

TWO-STOREY BUILDING GUTTED IN NAPANEE

Napanee, Ont., March 6—(CP)—Fire, believed started by a blow torch being used to thaw out a water pipe, Friday gutted a two-storey building on John Street here.

The building was occupied by Reids Plumbing Shop, the John Wilson real estate office and the upstairs apartment by Mr. Fred Thompson and his daughter Mrs. Beebe.

The Thompson family lost all their belongings and a sum of money. There was also a considerable stock of fixtures and plumbing supplies destroyed.

Two Weekend Road Games Will Make or Break Habs Fast Fading Playoff Hopes

Now that the artist who drew this year's National Hockey League playoff picture is applying the finishing dabs, there appears little chance of a retouching job as all clubs in the circuit swing into action this weekend.

The Montreal Canadiens play in the motor city tonight against the Detroit Red Wings while the New York Rangers move into Maple Leaf Gardens where they clash with the Leafs.

Tomorrow night Canadiens move on to Chicago with Toronto playing in Boston and Detroit in New York.

Now that Detroit, Toronto and New York have nailed down playoff positions the most pessimistic gentry around Montreal refuse to count Canadiens, National Hockey League champions for the past four years, out of the picture. They point out that it can be done, providing the Boston Bruins just about collapse. But after Bruins held Canadiens to a 1-1 deadlock Thursday it's hardly likely that they'll give any ground at this stage of the race.

Meanwhile interest is centred around the games involving Detroit and Toronto. Both clubs have been exchanging the leagueleadership all season and are currently tied for first place.

A double victory for either club this weekend may well decide this year's league winner.

While the teams are battling it out for loop positions plenty of interest will focus on the individual scoring championship which may be settled this weekend.

As matters stand now, two former team - mates are running one, two atop of the N.H.L. scoring heap. Pony-sized Buddy O'Connor, who came to New York this year in a straight sway for Hal Laycoe, Joe Bell and George Robertson from Canadiens, has headed the league ever since he took the honors away from Syl Apps a little over a month ago and doesn't appear ready to relinquish it. Elmer Lach, O'Connor's closest rival, has astounded the experts who proclaimed that he was washed up for good last year when he suffered a concussion and is currently riding along in second place, four points behind O'Connor.

It's ironic in a way that O'Connor finished the season in Lach's position last year playing centre on Montreal's punch line after Elmer was injured.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 6 — (AP) — The curtain lifts today on seven solid months of major league baseball.

Two exhibition games in the west are the first of more than 1,700 scheduled contests involving the 16 major league clubs between now and October.

In the openers, Chicago Cubs meet Chicago White Sox in Los Angeles, and New York Giants tangle with Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

There will be 376 other exhibition games before the major league seasons begin April 19.

Out in Los Angeles, the only thing familiar about the two Chicago teams will be their names. Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs said he planned to use all rookies except second baseman Ray Mack and shortstop Don Johnson. Sox manager Ted Lyons followed suit with rookies named for all but three jobs.

In the Dominican Republic, Brooklyn Dodger manager Leo Durocher says it's too early to determine where he will use Cookie Lavagetto and Arky Vaughan. "First let them get in shape," said the Dodgers' pilot, "they we'll decide." The two veterans worked out yesterday for the first time.

Philadelphia Phils are in the market for pitchers. President Bob Carpenter said today the club "would be willing to consider a trade, but not unless we get a number one pitcher in return."

Fritz Bernardi, a rookie pitcher who wanted $5,000 to sign with the Philadelphia Athletics, has ended his holdout and is en route to camp.

A stiff drill was scheduled for Detroit Tigers today at Lakeland, Fla. Yesterday's workout was cut short by rain.

Manager Bucky Harris declared today at the St. Petersburg, Fla., that New York Yankees are a better ball club than the Boston Red Sox, at least before the season starts. He rated the Yanks stronger than the Sox in the field and in two of the three outfield posts.

St. Louis Browns now have 17 pitchers in camp. Newest arrival is Joe Ostrowski, a lefthander, up from Louisville.

Harry Brecheen, last of the St. Louis Cardinal regulars to come to terms, signed yesterday for what he said was a 'nice increase' over his 1947 figure which was about $15,000.

Smythe Thinks Habs Have Chance To Make Playoffs

(By The Canadian Press)

Conn Smythe, managing director of the Maple Leafs, said in an interview at Toronto yesterday he believes Montreal Canadiens still have a chance to reach the National Hockey League playoffs. The Habitants have only seven games left in the regular schedule, but the word from Smythe is:

"Don't count those Habitants out yet!"

He advanced two reasons for the Montreal troubles this season.

"In the first plice, they hate us so much they put everything into the Toronto games and it usually takes them two or three contests against other clubs to recover. The other reason is that the fans practically demand that recruits from the Montreal Royals be given a chance. Everyone knows that senior amateur players are not good enough for the big league."

Lloyd oJhnson of Edmonton last night became Alberta's 198 senior speed-skating champion, defeating a field of 90 competitors to capture the title.

Clarence Shillington and Tommy Tindal, Hamilton Tigers' players injured in a game in Hamilton Monday night, will be back in action Monday when the Senior A team of the Ontario Hockey Association metts Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the opener of a best-of-seven playoff series, it was announced last night. Shillington suffered a neck injury, Tindal a chest injury.

Four Ottawa district hockey teams are vying for the honor of meeting the Maritime champions in the first round of the Allan Cup playdowns this season. In the district league, Renfrew Lions, Upper Valley League winners, hold a one-game edge in a best-of-three series with Kemptville, the St. Lawrence League title-holders; while in the City League, Hull Volants hold a three-to-one edge over Ottawa Army in a best-of-seven battle.

Clarence Campbell, President of the National Hockey League, said yesterday at Chicago he will make a full report Monday on his investigation of player gambling charges. He said his report will be made public at Lansing, Mich., after he confers with Governor Kim Sigler. Campbell who left by plane for New York, said earlier this week he had received evidence sufficient to warrant expulsion of two players from the league.

cAompact field of eight colts, topped by William G. Hells' Salmagundi, was named yesterday for the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby. The Arcadia, Calif., track winds up its 1948 meeting today.

The Nationa 1 Intercollegiate Basketball tournament at Kansas City opened its door to Negro players yesterday to make sure of representation in the playoffs for an Olympic berth.

Galt Rockets Defeat Barrie To Even Series

(By The Canadian Press)

Those Galt Rockets are still fighting for a place in the Ontario Hockey Association's junior final.

On their own ice at Galt last night the Rockets pounded out a 5-3 victory over the Barrie Flyers, deadlocking their best of five semi-final at two games apiece and forcing a fifth game at Barrie tonight to decide who'll meet Windsor in the junior final.

The senior finalists of course are all settled with Hamilton Tigers ready to ice a full team against the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen Monday in the start of their best of seven playoff. Clarence Shilington and Tommy Tindal, Tiger stalwarts injured earlier will be back to aid the fight against the K-W squad.

One of N.O.H.A. senior finalists were also decided last night when Sault Greyhounds beat Sudbury's Sacred Heart College 5-2 taking the best of five semi-final in three straight games in the other bracket McIntyre Macmen beat North Bay Blackhawks 8-4 leaving North Bay leading the best-of-five semi-final by two games to one. McIntyre will try to tie it up tonight which would force a deciding game at Timmins Monday.

A Rugged Battle

That was a rugged battle at Galt in the night's only O.H.A. playoff. Barrie drew 12 of the 21 penalties as the players forgot every once in a while to use their sticks on the opponents. Wigie Wylie, Galt's centre, was target of two charges by Ray Gariepy, and Pidhirnly of Galt was knocked out by a charge from Mousseau as the final bell rang.

Marchand of Galt scored the only goal of the first period. Gibson made it 2-0 before Long got Barrie's first, then Tkachuk's goal put Galt ahead 3-1 as the second period ended. In the last frame Pidhirnly's goal was followed by two Barrie counters from Barrett and Reid, and Marchand's second goal for Galt was the final counter with six minutes left.

At Sudbury for the second time in a row the Greyhounds spotted Sudbury a two-goal lead and came from behind to win. Husky Hodgson scored two of the Sault goals, Ted Roney, Zep Zago and Bill Zuke getting the others. Sacred Heart's goal getters were Harry Pearce and Johnny Hamilton.

Facing elimination, McIntyre last night used three players who did not see action in their two defeats at North Bay. Two of them, Vic Haneberry and Jack Hepworth, etamed with Alex Stewart on a line that produced five of the Macmen's eight goals. Haneberry scored two, Stewart two, and Hepworth, Baker, Walker and Glaister got the others. North Bay's goal scorers were Ringler, Marcellus, Halpin and Morland.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

All indications point to a packed house at the Memorial Arena tonight when the Trenton RCAF Flyers and the Trenton Hockey Club hook up in the second duel of their Intermediate "A" group finals. The third game of what appears now to be a three-of-five series for the title is slated for Monday night.

• • •

Tonight's game between these teams should be a hockey classic. The squads staged a hectic joust here in their first meeting this week with Flyers, in a desperate eleventh hour spurt, firing home the goal that broke a three-all tie, with but seconds to go. The Trenton team are out to avenge the defeat and tonight should be one for the books.

• • •

Tickets are selling like hotcakes and it was rumored at noon today that a capacity crowd will be on hand when the referee tooties the "Open Fire" whistle. Both teams will be at full strength and the outcome should be another rip-snorting boisterous battle with no quarter asked nor given. Take our advice and be on hand early if you want one of the better seats.

• • •

There will be no definite date set for the second game between the Belleville Merchants and Waterloo, until the latter team comes to some definite arrangement with the Waterloo Arena officials, OMHA secretary Jack L. Christie informed us by telephone last night. It seems that there is so much hockey, and hockey playoffs and playdowns scheduled at this time, that it is practically impossible to make room for extra dates. There is a possibility that the midget teams will have to play part of a double-header, if a separate date cannot be arranged.

• • •

If this is the case, the kids will have to take to the ice at seven p. m. on the night of the date scheduled. The Waterloo squad may have some idea as to when the second game will be played when they arrive here for the first game of the Ontario Midget "B" championship on Tuesday evening. If a definite decision is arrived at before that time, we'll pass it along to you.

• • •

The Waterloo youngsters have not been doing so well in their home town insofar as gate receipts are concerned. There has been too many counter hockey attractions what with senior OHA, junior etc., that the fans haven't been paying much attention to the moppet brigade. However, that fact does not make them any the worse as regards playing ability. They should not be sold short.

• • •

Another starry junior hockey attraction is scheduled for Memorial Arena here on Thursday next when the classy Gananoque juniors, the squad that defeated our junior Rockets in an exhibition tilt a short time ago, clash with the equally starry Lindsay juniors in the third game of their two-of-three series. The squads each have a win to their credit and Belleville was selected as the neutral 3rd game battle ground. Both are top-flight junior teams, and local fans who like speed, action and the type of hockey that the juniors dish out, should not miss the tilt.

• • •

The question often arises as to where the top goal-getters in the N.H.L. score most of their goals—at home or on the road. If the 18 leading goal scorers in the league (15 or more goals) up to and including games of February 25 are any criterion, it would appear that the leading scorers garner the greatest per centage of their goals away from home.

• • •

Out of the top 18 goal-getters, 10 have scored more goals playing away from their home ice. Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings, premier sniper of the circuit, has scored a total of 27 goals, and 17 of these were notched away from Detroit. This means that 63 per cent of Lindsay's total output was made on the road.

• • •

Grant Warwick of Boston Bruins has scored 66.7 per cent of his goals this season away from home. Out of the 21 goals scored this season by the former New York Ranger, 14 were notched on enemy ice.

• • •

Gaye Stewart of Chicago tallied 15 of his 24 goals away from home; Woody Dumart of Boston scored 11 of his 19 goals playing away from the Boston Garden; Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher, both Chicago, have each scored 16 goals—and both players scored 10 of their 16 on the road.

• • •

Detroit's Jim McFadden scored 12 of his 22 goals away from the Detroit Olympia, while Max Bentley, Toronto; Bud Poile, Chicago; and Maurice Richard, Canadiens, all scored an extra goal on the road. Bentley garnered 13 of his 25 goals away from home. Poile sniped 11 of his 21 on a foreign freeze, and Richard notched nine of his 17 markers outside of Montreal.

• • •

There are six players who scored better at home, and two who did equally as well both at home and on the road. The latter players are Buddy O'Connor and Phil Watson, both members of the New York Rangers. O'Connor scored 11 goals in New York and 11 on the road, while "Phiery Phil" tallied nine in Madison Square Garden and nine away.

• • •

Three of the six players who fared better on home ice are members of the Toronto Maple Leafs. It seems as if the spacious ice surface of Maple Leaf Gardens appeals to Ted Kennedy, Syl Apps and Harry Watson.

• • •

Syl Apps is one player who really relishes playing at Maple Leaf Gardens. He scored 72.2 per cent of his goals playing at home, tallying no less than 13 of his 18 goal total at the Gardens. Ted Kennedy has scored 66.7 per cent of his goals at home, notching 14 out of 21 counters in Toronto. The third member of the Leafs to score better at home is Harry Watson, who flashed the red mazda 11 times out of a total 18 on native ice.

• • •

Elmer Lach of Canadiens scored 13 of his 23 goals at the Montreal Forum, Pete Babando of Boston garnered 10 of his 18 in the Hub City and Jim Conacher of Detroit acquired nine of his 17 goals playing before a home crowd.

Gus Lesnevich Knocks Out Fox In First Round

New York, March 6 — (AP) — The new Gus Lesnevich, a so-so boxer turned ring tiger, is the hottest thing around the fight game. Now he can call his own shots.

At the age of 32 when most fighters are looking for the carpet slippers, the durable light-heavyweight king can write his own ticket for the future. He used to be a hit-and-get-away guy. Now he pegs bombs, righthanded.

There are rumors he may go to London to pick up some loose change after his explosive first round knockout of Philadelphia Billy Fox in 1:58 last night in Madison Square Garden. Nothing is definite.

Lesnevich may never again fight as a light-heavy. He had a terrific tussle with the scales yesterday, paring off four ounces to make the 175-pound limit.

The sell-out crowd of 18,453 which paid $149,518 got a big bang out of Gus' power display.

Six straight right hands to Fox' head sent him down for a count of six after a minute of fighting. He barely wobbled to his feet as the champion from Cliffside Park, N. J., tugged at referee Frank Fullam trying to get at him.

Surged Over Opponent

Cagy Gus surged over Fox and draped him across the bottom rope with another terrific right. Fox rolled to the canvas and was counted out for the second time in his life.

Fxo had won his 50 previous fights, except for a kayo by Lesnevich, all by the knockout route.

After a few seconds of slow sparring, Gus staggered Fox with a right to the jaw. The 22-year-old lad backed away and slipped in retreat, falling on all fours. There was no count and he was soon back up there, facing those bombs the champ was pegging.

Thus did durable Gus, who seems to get better with age, score a stunning kayo over the highly-touted challenger. Seldom has he earned an easier dollar.

If the 175-pound king was weakened by the afternoon's weight-making ordeal he certainly did not show it. They had Gus in a side room down at the Boxing Commission, shadow boxing for several minutes in heavy overcoats to melt away four ounces.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Lakeland, Fla., March 6. (AP) —Harry Heilmann, who should know something about hitting because he was one of baseball's greatest hitters, heaved a sigh as he glanced across the Detroit Tigers training field. . ."Wouldn't it be nice to be as young as he is and have his ability?" Harry asked. . . .The "he" in question was John Groth, a 21-year-old outfielder whose hitting has the entire Tiger camp buzzing. . . ."He's quite a prospect," says conservative Wish Egan, head of the scouting system. . . "He'll be better off if he's out in the minors this year, but next year He'll be back to stay a long time", adds Manager Steve O'Neill. . . ."He's going to be one of the really great players," Heilmann concludes.

The Old Camp Ground

Johnny Neun, Cincinnati manager, is a lot more talkative now than he was a year ago as a "freshman". . ."last year I had to experiment", says John. "Now I know who the players are, I can do a lot more concentrated teaching".

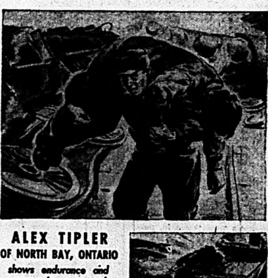
Brakeman is hero in head-on train crash

WINS DOW AWARD

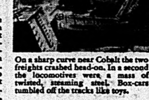


ALEX TIPLER
OF NORTH BAY, ONTARIO
shows endurance and courage in rescue work

Alex Tipler was riding in the caboose of the freight train when it happened. The terrific impact of the collision, with the accompanying scream of steel smashing against steel, sounded like an explosion in the pre-dawn quiet. The brakeman was thrown onto the floor . . . and for an instant he lay, dazed and semi-conscious.

In a few seconds, however, he was up . . . and, plowing his way along the icy stretch beside the train, he reached the twisted wreck of the locomotives. Extricating a fellow brakeman from the debris, he carried him back the full length of the train to the caboose. Then once again he returned to the engines . . . and, in spite of a badly bruised back, helped to get the young firemen out of the wreckage and back to the caboose. Then, his back giving him great pain, Tipler stumbled for two miles through deep snow in the sub-zero dawn to a small village. Here he was able to get a message through to the railroad headquarters about the accident.

The courage and unselfishness of this young brakeman merits great praise. We are proud to pay tribute to Alex Tipler of North Bay, Ontario, through the presentation of The Dow Award.



On a sharp curve near Cobalt the two freights crashed head-on. In a second the locomotives were a mass of twisted, steaming steel. Box-cars tumbled off the tracks like toys.

Having already done more than his share, Alex Tipler nevertheless did not quit. Walking two miles in the sub-zero temperature, he summoned more aid and sent word of the smash-up to railway headquarters.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

Dogs and the Solunar Tables

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author And Creator of Solunar Tables

There are several misconceptions in the minds of a great many people concerning the Solunar Tables. A lot of folks think of them only in terms of catching fish. Well, that's true, of course, and they can be of tremendous aid to you in your fishing. But don't think that just because the fishing season is over, the Solunar Tables are of little or no value until next fishing season rolls around. They are every bit as useful when you are planning your hunting trips. Birds and animals are active and feeding during Solunar Periods, just as fish are. But the matter doesn't stop there, either.

It isn't necessary for you to travel out into the wilds before you can have fun with the Solunar Tables. Right in your own home there are a great many things that are hooked up quite closely with the Solunar Periods. Take your dog, for instance. His reactions are just as clean-cut and as natural as are those of the wild creatures, and he responds to the promptings of a Solunar Period as completely as does a bass in a lake or a game bird in its natural habitat.

• • •

Of course, the behavior of a dog particularly a house dog, is influenced a great deal by your behavior. If you stay in the house most of the time, so does he. Thus, his response to Solunar Periods is altered or modified by conditions over which he has no control but which he has come to accept. Nevertheless, the reactions are there, just as surely as they were with his wild ancestors many, many years ago. You've seen him turn 'round and 'round in a tight little ball before he settles himself for a nap on the living room rug. That is a heritage from his forebears who settled themselves thus in the leaves and grass before going to sleep. Your dog probably never really had to make a comfortable bed for himself but he still goes through the motions by instinct, just as he buries a bone or takes a roll now and then in some malodorous carrion.

Even after countless generations of association with humans, he still responds to the daily cycle of Solunar Periods. Just by way of curiosity, keep track of his movements from time to time and see for yourself how his unconscious reactions tally up with the schedule of activity and rest periods.

• • •

While you are reading or loafing in your easy chair, your dog probably will loaf with you. In other words, he will lie down, relax, and take things easy. Often you will find him sound asleep at your feet. All right, watch how he relaxes during the Solunar Periods. To be sure, he will lie down, sometimes closing his eyes, but rarely will you find him asleep at these times. Even though his eyes are shut, you will note that he is keen and alert, wide awake and ready to be up and doing at your slightest movement. Between Solunar Periods he will go to sleep so soundly that it is possible for you to walk quietly out of the room without waking him.

We have had a succession of five dogs since we first began to check dog behavior against the Solunar Periods and all five of them have reacted indentically to the cycle of activity and rest periods. Two of our dogs — Barney, a little wirehaired fox terrier, and Bill, a big English setter — were with us when we lived on the outskirts of town, and they were allowed free run of the neighborhood. Each night, before we turned in, Barney and, later Bill, were let out for a run. A few times each month these dogs would fail to show up in time to go to bed. Most evenings they would be back at the door in five or ten minutes, scratching to get in, but once in a while they would go on extended midnight jaunts. Barney, despite scoldings, continued to do this until he died. Then we discovered the reason and arranged matters so that Bill's midnight excursions were placed under control.

• • •

By keeping track of the Solunar Tables and checking them against Bill's movement, we found that the times that he chose for his nocturnal ramblings were during full moon and dark of the moon. The major Solunar Periods at these two times of the month come around noon and midnight. Thus, instead of turning Bill loose while there was a major Solunar Period in progress, was fastened his collar to a chain which was arranged to slide on a wire between the house and the garage. When the major periods progressed until they did not arrive until around two A.M., Bill once more was allowed his freedom and we didn't bother to put him on his leash again until the next series of midnight Solunar Periods arrived. That put an end to Bill's midnight jaunts.

Another thing—if you wish to teach your dog new commands, you will find that he is more alert and interested during Solunar Periods than at other times. Make the lessons short; keep them on a play basis as much as possible, with rewards of choice tidbits for prompt obedience, and you will be surprised how quickly he learns to do what you want.

Flyers-Trenton To Play Three-Of-Five Series

The Trenton RCAF Flyers - Trenton Hockey Club Intermediate "A" group finals, will be a three-of-five games series, instead of two-of-three as formerly announced. President George Panter, of the OHA has informed the managements of both teams.

President Panter, however, stipulated that the games must be played every other night and it is understood that this arrangement has been carried out if the series warrants it.

Flyers will meet Trenton here on Monday night in the third game of the series, and again on Wednesday and Friday, if a group winner is not decided beforehand.

Sports Shorts from Britain

London, March 6 (CP)—Darts, pastime so popular with Britain's beer drinkers, isn't always in good favor with the man who runs the pub.

"The trouble is that these games are taken too seriously by the players," said one publican who wrote a letter to the Daily Mirror. "When a match is actually in progress other customers not interested in darts cannot just ignore it.

"Dart players nowadays require silence for proper concentration, so conversation must be subdued and the wireless turned off. Even the noise of the cash registers is frowned on."

Non-playing "regulars" who may have favorite positions in the bar sometimes find their time-honored claims usurped by visiting teams who "have little patience for such trifles."

What with one thing and another the writer said, he was sorry he ever started a darts club, "and I am willing to bet most publicans feel the same way as I do."

Tom Blower, 34-year-old veteran English and Irish Channel swimmer, is at it again. He wants to swim the English Channel both ways.

"I have never swum myself to exhaustion," he said, "and I want to see how far I can go."

Such a feat has never been achieved in low-temperature waters like the English Channel, where the tides are not entirely predictable.

Half of his task—the England-France stretch—has been successfully tackled only four times in 73 years of Channel swimming, and Ted Temme is the only man who has swum the Channel both ways—on separate occasions, of course.

Last year, Blower made the hitherto unaccomplished crossing of the Irish Channel. His 1937 Cap Gris Nez-Dover swim (13 hours 29 minutes) is the third fastest recorded of 25 successful Channel attempt.

D. E. Morgan, headmaster of Wolverton Grammar School, Buckinghamshire, kicked up a shindy when four of his boys refused to play for the school because they were playing for other teams.

He called them "disloyal" and said they would be banned from all school, house and practice games for the rest of their school life.

Morgan said the boys' school-leaving character reports would refer to their "disloyalty to the school."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Detroit—Johnny Greco, 148 1-2 Montreal, outpointed Danny Boy Williams, 150 1-2, Detroit (10).

Augusta, Me. — Jean Richards, 126, Montreal, knocked out Irish Tommy Moore, 128, Boston (6).

DOWNED WITH EASE

Portland, Ore., March 6 —(AP) —Big Jack Kramer downed Bobby Riggs with ease here last night 6-2, 6-2, in their transcontinental professional tennis tour. The victory put Kramer ahead in matches, 27 to 16.

In a preliminary, Dinny Pails of Australia defeated Pancho Segura, 7-5, 7-5, to take a 21-13 match lead.

CONDITION IMPROVED

Toronto, March 6 —(CP)—Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, attractive, 23-year-old Sudbury-born waitress, shot through the head in a downtown restaurant Monday, rallied yesterday to talk with detectives. Police refused to disclose statements made by the girl. Authorities at the downtown hospital, where Mrs. Meredith is fighting for her life, reported her condition slightly improved and doctors now give her a 50-50 chance for recovery.

Finney, Washington correspondent for the Minneapolis Star and Tribune and the Des Moines Register and Tribune, has been awarded the Raymond Clapper Award for outstanding reporting for the United States capitol, it was announced last night. Finney was given the award for a series of stories disclosing moves to impose "a form of peacetime censorship on government acts and utterances."

PUPPIES DIE AS AS RESULT OF FIRE

Toronto, March 6 -- —(CP)— Humane Society kennel attendants have just lost a battle. Three four-day-old puppies rescued from a smoke-filled outhouse died in spite of their efforts to keep them alive. The pups' mother was killed in the fire.

Trappers Defeat Rovers to Win Northern Title

Bancroft—By virtue of their convincing 9-2 win over their village rivals, the Rovers, the high-flying Bancroft Trappers after going through the entire schedule without a defeat, maintained that record in play-off competition to handily take the Northern Hockey League championship in two straight games. The Trappers had pulled down the first decision by a 6-3 score.

In this, the return engagement, the youthful Trappers were held well in check for two periods, in fact it was one of the closest hard-fought battles seen on Bancroft ice for two periods. A very rugged first period found the Trappers on top by a 2-9 margin. Kavanagh and Foster were the goal-getters. The second period had its tense moments as Severin sank the first one for the Rovers while N. Brough retaliated to again maintain that two goal lead at the second intermission.

As the third frame opened the cautious Rovers, facing defeat, sent wave after wave of attackers on McGhee but the act back-fired as the Trappers broke out in a scoring rush to sink 6 goals behind the bewildered O'Shaughnessy while the Rovers came back for a single tally, this by Delyea. Goal-getters for the winners in this period were Jack Maxwell and Crawford with two each while Kavanagh and N. Brough flicked the red light for one each.

The game was fast but rugged and produced some fine hockey. Tempers flared on both sides but no serious damage was done. The boys were held in check by Referee Follis and Linesman Foster. During league and play-off competition the champion Trappers managed by Ed Alexander ran up a string of eleven straight victories without a defeat. They scored some 102 goals and had 27 scored against them which gave goaler McGhee a 2.63 goals against average.

Lineups:

Rovers—T. O'Shaughnessy, goal defence, Watson and Conlin; forwards, Maxwell, Moxam and Fox; subs, Stringer, McAlpine, Vance, Severin, Delyea, J. O'Shaughnessy.

Trappers—Goal, McGhee; defence, Flagler and E. Carpenter; forwards, N. Brough, B. Brough and Kavanagh; subs, A dams, Walton, Whyte, J. Maxwell, Crawford.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By WILFRED GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 6 (CP) — The enthusiasm of London, Ont., sport fans for teams of the University of Western Ontario, notably their senior football and basketball squads, knows no bounds sometimes—which may explain why some of them have made the blanket claim that the college's cage crew should represent Canada in that sport at the summer Olympics.

Arguing on their behalf, Harry (London Free Press) Elsen contends that the record of Johnny Metras' basketeers entitles them to this honor—a point which will be fiercely debated by those who follow the game in British Columbia and Windsor, two places noted for the top-notch quality of their basketball teams.

However, Harry is resigned to the fact that the Mustangs won't be chosen to go to London as a unit, for the Canadian Basketball Association has plans of its own as to who will comprise the Dominion's cage squad. The London, Ont., scribe has learned from "a source close to the scene" that the C.B.A. plans to hold a tournament late in May from which it will base its selection of a team.

According to Harry four teams will participate in the tournament, Mustangs and the University of British Columbia and two other clubs named by the C.B.A. He has no complaint about this but he takes issue of what he says in the C.B.A.'s plan to select an all-star aggregation composed of members of the two top teams, rather than the winning club.

"The workings of amateur sport groups are stranger than the gibberish of a hottentot," says Harry. "And the C.B.A. is apparently no exception."

But, asks Harry, why go to all the trouble of holding a tournament? Then he adds: "Being a Mustang rooter....we would naturally like to see the western wonder boys display their razzle-dazzle cagery in ole Lun'on. Not only can the Purples fly their wares better than most, if not all, quintets in Canada but what is equally important—at least to the Canadian Olympic Committee — their amateur status is as untarnished as the brow of a babe.

"The same cannot be said, we believe, about a team likely to be chosen by the C.B.A. In Ontario, Assumption Grads appear to be the logical C.B.A. nominees. But the Grads have in their line-up Hank Biassatti, and one or two others, who play professional baseball. This, of course, puts the Grads in the black books of the Olympic Committee. But the chances are that the C.B.A. will get around it some way...."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A squeeze card in bridge is not fooling. It is relentless. It forces a player to give up a card in some other suit. There is no avoiding it. No getting away from it.

A squeeze card is a 13er. A 13er means the 13th card in a suit. It means the only card left in a suit after the other 12 cards in that suit have been played. It means no other player has a card in that suit.

Thus, when a squeeze card is led, no other player can follow suit. Each must play some card of some other suit. Therefore, each of the other players must decide what card to throw away.

The victim of a squeeze play is trying to keep control of two suits. When the squeezer leads the squeeze card, the squeezee is forced to unguard one of the two suits he is protecting.

Thus, a squeeze card is a 13er that is led to force a squeezee out of a winner. Or out of protection of a winner in some other suit. All when the squeezee is trying to protect two suits.

The last three cards in each hand of a deal are shown here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ None
♦ K
♣ A J

WEST	EAST
♠ None	♠ None
♥ None	♥ None
♦ A	♦ Q J
♣ K Q	♣ 10

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ 2
♦ None
♣ 3 2

South has a 13er heart and two clubs. West has control of the diamonds with the ace. He also has control of one club trick with the combination of king and queen in that suit. It looks as if he should be able to take a trick with something.

The 13er heart is led from south. This becomes the squeeze card. West, the squeezee, is forced to play before north. He must let go of one of his three cards. Either a club face or diamond ace.

If diamond ace is coughed up, north sluffs club jack. North gets the last two tricks with club ace and king of diamonds. Instead of diamond ace, should west throw club queen or king? In that case, north lets go of diamond king and takes two club tricks.

The squeeze is a play where something gives way.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 6 (AP) — How realistic can movies get? Producer Bryan Foy seems to have the answer; he is making a picture as close to actuality as anything yet tried.

Hollywood's camera eye has been getting more acute and searching in the last year, particularly since the rise of the semi-documentary film. Pictures are getting less glamor-ridden and more realistic. Foy, eagle-lion boss and member of the famed theatrical company, is going whole hog—He will shoot a Colorado prison break almost exactly as it happened. Here's how the project came about:

Here's How

Last year Foy met Roy Best, head man of the Colorado State Penitentiary. "I'd like to shoot a picture at your prison sometime," said Foy, who knew of the area's scenic beauty. "Okay," said Best.

On the night of Dec. 30, 12 long term convicts broke out of a cell block and used in "Little Siberia" clubbed two guards and kept four as hostages. Using guns they made themselves, the prisoners escaped and spread out over the Colorado countryside. Within 61 hours, a 300-man posse had captured 10 escapers, killed two.

On the day after the break, Foy called Best. "This is the day," he said. "How about it?" The warden agreed and the studio boss dispatched writer-director Crame Wilbur to round up the story. Wilbur has finished the script, and next Tuesday a film crew will fly to the prison to start shooting the picture.

Actor-Prisoners

Foy, just back from the prison, told me that nearly all of the picture will be shot in its actual locale—the prison cell block and mess halls and the homes, offices and farms of Canon City. Many of the convicts will portray themselves, as will Warden Best and Governor William Lee Knous of Colorado. The prisoners will be paid regular actor's wages and Foy said several have had acting experience.

Hollywood actors will substitute for convicts who can't act or don't want to be in the picture, but Foy is striving for unfamiliar faces.

The story will be filmed almost exactly as it happened Foy claims. There will be at least this one deviation: One of the escapers will die by falling from the Royal Groge Bridge. I guess Foy is permitted one Hollywood touch.

WOMAN ASSESSOR NAMED

Niagara Falls, March 6 —(CP) — Nearby Chippawa has appointed its first woman assessor, Laura McCoy, a retired business woman. She will assess 1,200 pieces of land and take a census of citizens and dogs by Sept. 30.

Committee Hears Bakeries Owned By Flour Company

Ottawa, March 6 —(CP) — Further evidence of control of bakeries by flour milling companies was given to the Commons Price Committee yesterday as it continued chasing down the causes of bread-price rises.

The committee heard that Consolidated Bakeries of Canada, operating bread plants in 11 Ontario and Quebec centres, is controlled by the Ogilvie Flour Milling Company through interlocking directorates and through Glenora Securities, an Ogilvie holding company.

Earlier in its bread inquiry, the committee had heard that Glenora Securities recently acquired a number of bakeries in Quebec Province.

Albert Earwaker of Toronto, president of Consolidated and an Ogilvie director, gave the committee the information on the Ogilvie - Consolidated tie-up, but he said it did not force his company to deal exclusively with the milling concern.

Mr. Earwaker said Consolidated was free to buy flour on the market from any firm at any time. However, it bought most of its requirements from Ogilvie, which made bread to the bakery company's specifications.

Adventure in Love

By Kathryn Bemis Wilson

CHAPTER 25.

She staggered into the bathroom. Suddenly, in the midst of splashing cold water on her aching forehead, she thought of Louise. She ought to be told about Tom.

She called the Clark residence and, strangely enough at this hour of night, Louise answered the phone. But she was a different Louise now. She sounded jittery, fairly out of her mind.

"Yes, I know what you're calling about!" she snapped. "I couldn't sleep. As for my part in this regrettable affair, I'm sorry. But you won't be bothered with me any longer. I'm leaving for New York in the morning—I'll probably run over to Paris. I hope I'll be away a long time—forever!"

"But Louise, the—the funeral—"

"Take a trip to Chicago to honor that fellow! I should say not!"

Velma was shocked into anger. She blazed, "After the way you claimed love to Tom, how can you refuse to see him—for the—the last time?"

"Just a minute! You think—I should go to Tom's—funeral?"

"Yes, of course you should!" sobbed out the stricken Velma. "We—we both should."

Louise began laughing. She laughed so hard it was like a sharp knife in Velma's ears. "Stop it, stop it, Louise!" she cried. "Stop being hysterical!"

"Oh, that's simply too good! I'm not hysterical. You'll discover why I'm laughing, soon enough. I would like you to know—I've been wise to it all along. You're pretty lucky you hadn't the ten thousand to give me, because then the laugh would have been on you. Good-bye! If I never see Carryville again, it will be—swelligant!"

Velma slowly hung up. She was completely baffled. She hoped never again to see Louise Clark. she hoped she would make her threat to remain away from Carryville. It wasn't fair that she had come between Tom and herself, and now could laugh over her victory.

There was no sleep for Velma after this. She must reach Chicago. Immediately!

She called the airport and was informed that a plane was leaving for Chicago in exactly half an hour. She made reservations. She would be on that plane!

She dashed to her small clothes closet, snatched out a suitcase, and began tossing lingerie into it. She had no definite plans as to what she would do upon reaching Chicago. She only had a wild impulse to get on a swift plane that went there the quickest possible way.

It was daybreak when she reached the airport in a taxi, which had seemed, with its speedometer registering forty-five, to be merely crawling. Her wrist watch showed that she still had ten minutes to get her tickets. Thank heaven, she had not lost that plane!

She threw a bill at the taxicab driver. She ran wildly into the station's nearly deserted waiting room. A siren blew for the landing of a plane as she stood visibly trembling before the ticket window.

It meant nothing at all to her when the ticket agent remarked affably, "The plane from Chicago's just coming in."

"Yes, but I want the plane to Chicago," she said, slightly exasperated at this young fellow who tried to make pleasantries so early in the morning. "I'm Miss Wilkins —I phoned for reservations."

"Oh, I remeber, Miss Wilkins." He wheeled about to find her tickets.

Passengers from the Chicago plane began coming through the station. Velma allowed her bloodshot eyes to stray over them indifferently. They looked, too gay, too happy to have anything in common with her. She glanced down at the black crepe frock she was wearing under her mink coat, pulled her black hat down farther on her head. It was fortunate that she had had a few somber clothes for this emergency.

"Here you are, Miss Wilkins," sai the ticket agent, holding out her tickets.

He spoke to a young woman nearly bereft of reason. She stood staring at some one as though turned to stone. She was staring at the suddenly illuminated countenance of the red-headed young man who was swiftly approaching her.

An instant more, and he had grasped her by the arm.

"Velma, darling, you came to meet me? How did you know I'd be on this plane?"

"Tom!' Tom!" she sobbed out. "You're—why, it's really you!'

en She swayed and would have fallen had he not tightened his hold upon her. He led her into the restaurant, put her into a chair, sat very near her, her hand held tightly in his. He ordered strong coffee.

"Tom," she said at last," I thought you'd—you'd committed suicide. It was in the paper—your picture—"

"No, darling. That was my twin brother, Terry. We looked so much alike that many of our best friends couldn't tell us apart. Didn't you read the article? Poor Terry—lost his desire to live, I suppose. I've been afraid of this for a long while. I went to Denver that time because of a tip I'd had that he was there—but I couldn't find him. After you told me about seeing him in the Club Bertrand I rushed there only to be—too late." His voice was husky, his gray eyes misty.

She sat upright. The clouds she had been plowing through for so long were clearing away.

Now—I understand!" she ejaculated." Tom—I'm so sorry about your brother. If only I'd stopped to read that newspaper article. I gave one glance at the picture, saw the name Orville—and thinking it was you, I —I nearly collapsed."

"That was perfectly natural, darling. I didn't tell you about Terry because, somehow, I couldn't have you thinking my brother was involved in a crime. I loved Terry—I tried desperately to find him—but it was no use. He got into bad company and left home several years ago. But he had nothing to do with that alley murder. The real murderer has been arrested—the caught him when he tried to sell some of the jewels he'd stolen from the dead man. Terry apparently was coming through the alley at the time of the murder and picked up the wallet. I gave it to the police long ago."

"Then why—"

"Why did Terry take his own life? We'll never know that, dear. Perhaps he was worried for fear he and Lilly Drey, the girl you saw with him in the Bertrand bar, would be implicated in something or other. Anyway, Terry—is gone."

"I'm so sorry, dear. Louise must have known you had a twin brother—I'm certain of that now."

"Yes, she did know about him. How she discovered it, I don't know. But she spoke to me about him."

"Tom, dear—I never wanted to tell you I believed you guilty." Then she told him how Louise had compelled her to write him, on threat of reporting to the police that she had seen him running from the alley at the time of the murder.

"My poor darling," he said gently. "But now that everything has been explained—and you didn't lose faith in me—I'm thankful. I came back to tell you the whole story. To-morrow, I'm leaving again for the west. I must go home to see my parents—they'll need me for a fewdays."

She looked into his dear haggard face, seeing there all that she had ever desired.

"Tom, darling," she declared stoutly," I'm going with you! Will you—will you take me?"

"Take you?" he asked, gathering her face into his unsteady hands. "Yes, dear—I'll take you—and never let you go."

Her arms went gropingly around his neck. He tilted back her childishly lovely golden head and reverently pressed his lips to hers.

No one in the restaurant especially noticed before anything can happen at dawn. Only Velma knew that the divine mystery of his heart was speaking to her, and that this was the fulfillment of her adventure in love. And the gods looked down and smiled at this kiss of consecration, as sweet as early morning dew on the innocent blush of a rose.

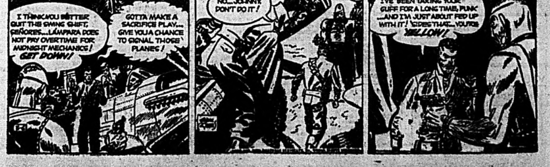
ISN'T IT AWFUL — THE NEWS FROM EUROPE?
I DIDN'T HEAR ANYTHING
WHY, THE RADIO JUST SAID THAT THE BULGARIANS, THE YUGO-SLAVS, THE ROMANIANS AND ALL THOSE BALKAN STATES—
DON'T FORGET THE SLUBBO-JUGS
—ARE ALL MIXED UP IN THAT AWFUL "COLD WAR" AND
3-6-48
IT'S PROBABLY WHAT USED TO BE CALLED "TROUBLE IN THE BALKANS"
EVERYTHING REMINDS YOU OF SOMETHING THAT USED TO BE CALLED SOMETHING ELSE

JOHNNY HAZARD — By Frank Robbins



I THINK YOU BETTER QUIT THE SWING SHIFT, SEÑORES...LÁMPARA DOES NOT PAY OVERTIME FOR MIDNIGHT MECHANICS! GET DOWN!
GOTTA MAKE A SACRIFICE PLAY... GIVE YOU A CHANCE TO SIGNAL THOSE PLANES!
NO...JOHNNY, DON'T DO IT!
I'VE BEEN TAKING YOUR GUFF FOR A LONG TIME, PUNK ...AND I'M JUST ABOUT FED UP WITH IT! 'SIDES THAT...YOU'RE YELLOW!

Aussie Planes To Drop Food To Needy Ones

Sydney, Australia, March 6 — (CP) — Royal Australian Air Force planes Friday began dropping food to Queensland country towns and villages cut off by floodwaters and a railroad strike now in its 32nd day.

The planes are carrying 5,000 pounds of food each and are equipped with parachutes to drop it. Small towns along the Queensland coast are without bread and essential foodstuffs for the first time in the memory of its inhabitants. Famine conditions caused by the strike are intensified by floods cutting off the possibility of relief trains.

The railroad strike for higher wages, began Feb. 2 at Ipswich workshops near Brisbane and quickly spread throughout the state. Last week, Labor Premier Edward Hanlon took an unprecedented step by declaring a state of emergency giving the government unlimited powers but so far it has served only to bring other unionists into the strike.

Waterside workers joined the railroaders in sympathy and demanded an end to the premier's "fascist" methods.

Today, 3,000 unionists marched on the Queensland Parliament House where the government is discussing the strike. The strikers marched when they heard that the premier's terms for settlement were flatly rejected by the unions disputes committee.

Hanlon got tough with the strikers after he declared that the high command of the communist party in Australia had invaded the state from the south to take over the dispute.

In Sydney, unrest over rising prices was shown today when the new Housewives Association, sponsored by the communist party staged one of the biggest demonstrations seen in years when they marched in protest to the commissioner's office in the centre of the city.

30 Arabs Killed In Four-Hour Battle With Jews

Jerusalem, March 6 — (AP)— Hagana said that 30 Arabs were killed in a four-hour battle with Jews Friday on the Plains of Sharon. The battle erupted when Arabs attacked a Jewish settlement at Magdiel on the Tel Aviv-Haifa highway, said a communique of the Jewish militia issued in Tel Aviv.

It was learned in Jerusalem that Fawzi Bey Al Kaukji, commander of Arab volunteer armies, set up headquarters in a hotel at Nablus, in northern Palestine.

Dr. Isaac Halevy Herzog, Palestine's chief rabbi, urged the United Nations Security Council to carry out the terms of the General Assembly's decision on partition of the Holy Land. He asked the council in a statement made public here to "realize the momentous moral issue involved — . . . whether mankind shall fulfill the inner summons of its conscience or shall succumb to political expediency.

Arab sources in Tel Aviv say Arab commando forces are concentrated in towns of the Sharon Plain, ready to strike when the order is given. Some believe the plain will be a major battleground of Arabs and Jews.

Arab leaders left Jerusalem at dawn to meet with Kaukji, who moved his army headquarters company from Damascus to Palestine yesterday.

Fawzi Bey and his headquarters company rode into Palestine during the night. They joined Arab concentrations surrounding Tubas, in the mountains north of Nablus. Fawzi Bey reported to his Damascus headquarters that his "invasion" was completed without incident.

Truman Returns To Party Crisis Over Leadership

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 6 (CP) — President Truman has returned to a Democratic party crisis hot as the Caribbean sun in which he has basked for the last 10 days.

He is flying in from Key West to a capital buzzing over clamors of Democratic leaders for someone other than Truman to lead them in the 1948 presidential race.

At the moment it would seem that the party is split wide open and the situation may grow worse instead of better.

Just as the Community party is reaping the benefits of internal dissension in European countries Republican party stands to win an easy victory because of Democratic party quarrels.

It was bad enough when Henry Wallace turned against his former Democratic colleagues and launched his third party to contest next November's elections.

That was followed by the revolt of Democratic leaders in the south against the president's civil rights program.

Southern Congress men and state leaders are openly demanding that Truman either refrain from seeking nomination or reverse his stand on the civil rights measure.

Now there is a fresh revolt in New England where three former Democratic governors have come out for General Douglas MacArthur for president.

If Truman should remove himself as a potential candidate in resentment over the current opposition within the party, Democrats would find themselves possibly in a worse spot than republicans in the matter of a candidate.

The revolt against Truman has developed so swiftly that there has been little time to think of alternatives.

LAKE ONTARIO LEVELS LOWER

Ottawa, March 5 (CP)—Water levels of Lake Ontario during February, as reported today by the Federal hydrographic and map service:

Lake Ontario at Kingston —1 inch lower than January, 1948; 3-4 of an inch —higher than February, 1947; 17 inches lower than the highest February since 1860; 41 1-2 inches higher than the lowest February since 1860; and 10 1-2 —inches higher than the February average.

Custody Battle Returns to Courts

Kitchener, March 6 (CP) — Waged almost continually over the last six years, the legal battle for the custody of seven-year-old Terry McKee returns to the courts next week.

An appeal against a judgment handed down last October by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court, awarding Mary T. McKee, Michigan Airlines executive, full custody of the child, will re-open at Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

The appeal is instigated by Mrs. Evelyn McKee, divorced wife of Mr. McKee and mother of the boy who has been living since Christmas, 1946, on a farm purchased by Mr. McKee near Linwood, 23 miles from Kitchener, where the father spent much of his early boyhood in that district. The father now divides his time between his New York office and Linwood.

Child Reunited With His Father Through R. C.

Kingston, March 6 — (CP) — Jimmy Jordan, five-year-old English-born son of H. R. Jordan of Kingston, thanks to the Red Cross was Friday reunited with his father after an ocean crossing and a planned meeting which misfired in Montreal.

Jimmy, whose mother remained in England, landed in Halifax this week and the Red Cross put him on a train for Montreal where it had been arranged for a meeting with his father.

When the father did not meet the child the Red Cross again went to work. They learned he had an aunt, Mrs. Edith King, here, they arranged for Mrs. N. G. Simmons, local Red Cross secretary to meet Jimmy and take him to his aunt's house.

On learning the details, Mr. Jordan returned from Montreal, and today was busy explaining Canadian life to Jimmy.

$692 Million Air Estimates Of U.K. Approved

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 6 (CP) — The House of Commons Thursday approved estimates of £173,000,000 ($692,000,000) for the Royal Air Force after members on both sides of the House had urged establishment of an empire force, equipped as a unit with factories and bases spread across the world.

Max Aitken, Conservative member for Holborn and son of Lord Beaverbrook, said the proposal for an empire force should be made to the Dominions and suggested that the R.C.A.F. had "tended to unite with American rather than Britain."

"I do not accept for a moment that this merger is going on," retorted Geoffrey de Freitas, Under-Secretary for Air.

Flt. Lt. J. E. Haire, Labor, Wycombe, said the R.C.A.F. had largely desintegrated and that Canada would welcome restoration of the Comonwealth Air Training Plan which existed during the war. Under this plan, thousands of airmen were trained in Canada.

Aitken, a former Group Captain in the R.A.F. who now commands an auxiliary air force squadron, claimed that in its present state the R.A.F. had not many more than 100 bombers ready for an operational flight. He said the fighter force was not strong enough to repel a strong airborne attack.

Arthur Henderson, Secretary for Air who opened the debate, said the R.A.F. was in a period of transition and a balanced force was being built up, "able to fulfill both its defensive and offensive roles."

Expenditure on current production "must necessarily be restricted when we are still exploring the fields opened up by the discoveries of war-guided missiles, gas turbine and jet propulsion, to mention only the most obvious examples."

Old U.S. Warship Scuttled by Navy

Pearl Harbor, March 6 (AP)— The battleship Pennsylvania, survivor of the Pearl Harbor debacle and two atomic blasts, was scuttled near Kwajalein Feb. 10, the United States Navy announced.

"Damage received at Okinawa was mainly responsible for the Pennsylvania's unseaworthiness and not damage inflicted during the atomic bomb tests" at Bikini in July, 1946, the navy said.

Two other warships, termed victims of "progressive deterioration," also were scuttled last month. They were the destroyer Trippe sunk Feb. 3 and the attack transport Banner, sunk Feb. 18.

The navy said the Pennsylvania could not have remained afloat much longer in Kwajalein lagoon. She was towed there after the Bikini atom tests. She was considered a possible menace to shipping if she sank in the lagoon, as did the Prinz Eugen. Both were guinea pigs of the Bikini tests.

Policy Left in Trust Subject to Duties

Toronto, March 5. (CP)—Proceeds of a $50,000 life insurance policy left in trust under a will does not constitute an annuity, and beneficiaries are liable for succession duties, the Ontario Supreme Court ruled here yesterday. The court dismissed appeal of trustees under the will of Arthur William Carr, Toronto, against assessment of upwards of $7,000 in duties levied by the Ontario government.

FOUR YOUTHS ARRESTED

Toronto, March 5 (CP)—Twenty minutes after a $300, smash-and-grab, jewelry store robbery at suburban Long Branch today, four youths were arrested by Long Branch police and charged with breaking and entering.

Police identified the men as Phillip Shytta, 20, Montreal; Vincent Nicolle, 19, New Glasgow, N.S.; Lionel J. Crooks, 22, Lakeview, Ont.; and D. Bryan, 34, Hamilton.

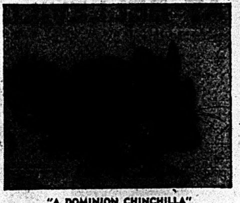
THE RAISING OF PEDIGREED SOUTH AMERICAN
"CHINCHILLAS"



"A DOMINION CHINCHILLA"

A new fur industry in Canada is providing an opportunity for many persons to establish themselves in their own business.

This industry is now under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture.

"Chinchilla," the world's finest and most expensive fur is now being raised in captivity, thus re-opening the once tremendous market enjoyed before the Chinchilla became extinct in the Andes Mountains of South America.

Chinchillas are clean, odorless and easy to raise. They may be raised in your home as a profitable, enjoyable hobby that can eventually build into a full time business.

NEW LIBERAL

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent already has declared that he will run as a leadership candidate, providing there is no objection on religious or racial grounds, and is conceded the best chance thus far of winning the approval of the convention.

Plan for Delegates

With an election year in the offing — the government's mandate lasts until mid-1950 — it was noted by many that Mr. King criticized organization in his January address to the advisory council and indicated he did not feel the party was adequately prepared to fight an election should one be called.

Today's announcement said representation at the convention would be on the following basis:

1. All Liberal members of the Senate and the Commons, and where any constituency is not now represented in parliament by any adherent of the Liberal Party, the Liberal candidate defeated in the last Dominion election, or if a new Liberal candidate has been nominated on or before June 30, such new candidate.
2. Leaders of the Liberal party in the nine provinces.
3. Presidents of the National Liberal Federation of Canada, the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada and the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.
4. Presidents of the nine provincial associations, presidents and two other officers of each of the provincial organizations of Liberal Women and young Liberals; and the president and two other officers of each of the University Liberal Clubs in Canada.
5. Three delegates from each Dominion constituency who will be elected at a local convention to be called for that purpose.
6. Liberal members of each provincial assembly and the Liberal candidates defeated at the last provincial assembly election in each province or new candidates nominated, acting jointly, shall have the right to select from among themselves a number of delegates equal to one-fourth of the total number of representatives in each provincial assembly.

King Will Preside

It is suggested, too, that Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said by many to have leadership ambitions, Reconstruction Minister Howe, Justice Minister Ilsley and Premier Garson of Manitoba may stand.

Finance Minister Abbott and Health Minister Martin, two younger members of the Federal Cabinet, are believed to have a bend towards the succession but may decide to let the older men contest this convention.

The convention dates — will coincide with the 29th anniversary of Mr. King's selection as party leader on Aug. 7, 1919, in a three-man fight for the mantle of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who died that year.

It is believed Mr. King hopes to preside over the convention that will choose his successor and he is expected to make one clear-cut statement — before the convention opens — turning definitely aside any suggestion that he be re-nominated.

While the leadership question will lead the convention agenda, the issue of party organization also is expected to spark convention debates.

COMMUNIST BAN

Will Table Report

The legislature was told by Reform Institutions Minister Dunbar that the report on the Burwash reformatory riots would be tabled in the House.

The information was in reply to a question by J. B. Salsberg (LPP-St. Andrew), and was coupled with a denial by Mr. Dunbar of a reputed statement that the report would not be tabled.

Eleven bills from the opposition benches — three from the C.C.F., seven from the Labor Progressive group and one from Alex Parent (Ind-Essex North) supported by the Labor Progressives — were given first reading in the House.

Three government measures dealing with reform institutions, the Industrial Farms Act, and the Hotel Act, were given second reading.

The C.C.F. bills would include milk, bread and fuel as public utilities under the Public Utilities Act; require pre-marital blood tests, and provide compulsory test for venereal disease among pregnant women along with the requirement that every doctor, superintendent of a hospital and those in charge of institutions report all names and addresses of those infected by V.D.

All were introduced by William Robertson (CCF-Wentworth).

The other bills would implement free milk for school children, 75-cent hourly working minimum wage, 40-hour week, extension of the municipal franchise to all persons who now may vote in provincial elections, reduction of minimum voting age to 18, and vote in all municipalities before cocktail bar licences may be issued.

DIVISION BELLS

Conservatives Split

This third division was significant in that it produced an unexpected split in the ranks of the Progressive Conservative opposition, with 12 members of that party voting with the government to support the speaker. A lone Liberal — James Sinclair (Vancouver-North)— voted with the opposition against the speaker.

The side debate on rentals was touched off by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, who earlier had lost out in an attempt to have the House adjourn its regular business to discuss the government's plans to lift the commercial ceilings Monday.

Urging the government to extend the controls, he expressed disappointment at Finance Minister Abbott's statement at the House opening that the government would rely on the "just and reasonable" clause of the Prices Board regulations to hold down commercial rents once the ceilings were removed.

There still was time, he held, for the government to take action which would prevent small merchants from going out of business.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, suggested the Prices Board should continue to receive complaints from Merchants who felt their rental increases were unjust. If controls were to be continued on commercial building, the government should protect the small business man.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) predicting "great hardship" for the smaller merchants, urged the government to allow appeals to a judge where there was an unjust increase in rental or an unjust eviction.

Wants all Controls Lifted

John T. Hackett (PC-Stanstead) dissented, saying he did not believe in "dallying with sin" and pressed the government to abandon all controls over rentals and let the provinces, who have jurisdiction over this field in normal circumstances, take the appropriate action.

John Probe (CCF-Regina City) called on Mr. Abbott to go on the radio and announce that commercial rent controls will continue.

George Neon (Ind. PC-Argenteuil) spoke on Communism, asserting that the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, though tragic, would serve a useful purpose if it was taken as a warning by peace-loving nations. Communism never could take hold in a country where the people went to church, received adequate wages and were properly housed.

Liquori Lacombe (Ind-Laval-Two Moutains) dealt with the Polish treasures and claimed the Quebec Government had acted properly in impounding them at Quebec.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer), moving the Social Credit amendment before it was ruled out of order, said that any who voted against it would be charged with closing their eyes to the plight of the aged, the disabled and others who were caught fast in the swirl of high living costs.

T. J. Beentley (CCF-Swift Current) criticized the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties and said they were dictated to by the same commercial interests. It was clear that business had a voice in government while labor and farm organizations lacked any influence in the affairs of the nation.

Anson C. McKim, O.B.E., whose appointment as vice-president in charge of traffic, Trans-Canada Air Lines, has been announced by Gordon R. McGregor, O.B.E., D.F.C., president of the airlines. Mr. McKim was formerly vice-president of administration.

Four Injured, None Seriously, In Train Wreck

Thamesville, Ont., March 6 — (CP)— Four persons were injured, none severely, last night when a crack Canadian National Railways passenger train knifed into a freight train near the station of this Kent county community of 900 population about 15 miles northeast of Chatham.

Railway men here said the flyer, carrying weekend travellers from Toronto to Detroit, was running 40 minutes late when it apparently hit an open switch and lurched at between 40 and 60 miles an hour into the rear of four empty boxcars attached to the freight engine.

The three rear cars of the Windsor-bound freight absorbed the impact but were smashed to kindling. The passenger locomotive tore for 200 feet through the freight train but halted before it reached the freight engine.

Albert Staley of Windsor, engineer of the passenger train, suffered hand cuts and shock and brakeman Bud Hayes of London, Ont., had minor cuts, bruises and a shaking up. Ina Williamson, a schoolteacher returning from Toronto to her Windsor home for the weekend, suffered a forehead gash and a shaking up and another woman passenger, not immediately identified, was cut by flying glass. Staley and Miss Williamson were taken to Chatham General Hospital.

Conductor of the passenger train was Claude Collins of London. A London crew had charge of the freight train, with H. Burgess as conductor and R. N. Smith and D. Funell as brakemen.

A wrecking train from London reached the scene early today and started to clear the westbound track. The eastbound track was reported open to traffic.

TEMPERATURE VARIES 64 DEGREES

White River, March 6 (CP) — A 64-degree temperature range was recorded yesterday in this Algoma district community, reputedly one of the coldest spots in Ontario. The temperature rose from a morning low of 35 degrees below zero to an afternoon high of 29 above.

Key Delegates Cause Meeting To be Postponed

Brussels, March 5 (AP)—A five-power conference on a proposed western European union to resist Communism skipped today's meeting because of the absetnce of two key delegates.

An official communique, issued at the Belgian foreign ministry, said resumption of the conference has been postponed till tomorrow because two delegates carrying instructions from their governments have not yet arrived.

The two, Gladwyn Jebb, second British delegate, and M. Chauvel, General Secretary of the French Foreign Ministry, were held up by fog in the North Sea.

The five neighboring countries previously had intended to take some conference sources had presime conference sources had predicted a general understanding by Sunday.

Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg presented the draft yesterday in the first session of their talks with Great Britain and France, held at the invitation of the two big powers. A communique said it showed "great similarity of views."

Diplomatic circles said last night one outcome probably will be a five-power treaty of mutual defence for at least 50 years. The Anglo-French Dunkerque pact is such a treaty.

MORE MONEY FOR WAR AGAINST CANCER

Washington, March 5 — (AP)— More money for attacking cancer through "clinical research on the human animal" was announced today by the American Cancer Society. Test tube and laboratory-animal research also will receive additional grants this year, but the Society said new emphasis is being placed on supporting clinical trial of laboratory findings.

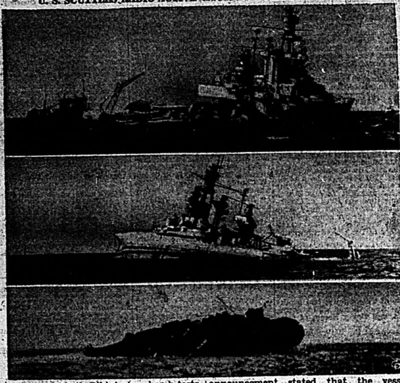
FINLAND YIELDS TO DEMAND FOR NEGOTIATIONS

U. S. SCUTTLES RADIO-ACTIVE ATOM BOMB TARGET SHIPS



Survivor of both Bikini atom bomb tests, the U. S. battleship Pennsylvania (top) is towed out from Kwajalein for scuttling. Centre, the once-proud monarch of the fleet begins to settle two hours after the sea cocks were opened and the ship abandoned. Bottom, the battlewagon flips on its side and slides beneath the waves. The navy announcement stated that the vessel, which had been under study at Kwajalein since the tests, and two other target ships were scuttled because they were unseaworthy and their value as scrap would not be worth the cost of decontamination of radioactivity.

Aid to Europe Must Extend To "Fields of Defence" Says Gen. De Gaulle at Meeting

Compiegne, France, March 8—(AP)—Gen. De Gaulle declared yesterday that American aid to Europe must extend to "the fields of defence" as well as the economic support provided in the Marshall Plan.

He made the statement in a speech here calling upon France to lead an organization of Western European countries in joining with the United States to oppose Communism and the spread of Soviet influence.

De Gaulle told a meeting of his Rassemblement Du Peuple Francaise that such an organization might have the support of 250,000,000 men.

"It is necessary that the efforts of the old Europe and those of America be joined to put our poor world back on its feet," he said.

"This means without any doubt that the United States lend us large and prolonged help in the economic field. They took the initiative and I hail with no embarrassment their clear-sighted generosity.

"But it is clear that their support should spread at the same time to the fields of defence in as precise and explicit a manner as the Marshall plan does on credits and imports."

For the first time De Gaulle said categorically that the German people must have their place in a "free states of Europe."

France, Britain, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg are drawing up a plan for unity in a five-power meeting in Brussels. France, Britain and the United States agreed at a London conference which ended Saturday on a federalized form of government for western Germany and international control of the Ruhr.

As for the political situation in his own country, De Gaulle urged elections to end "a system which can only be one of chronic feebleness and permanent crisis." He said he was ready to take over direction of France as soon as conditions afford the necessary responsibility. De Gaulle's political power was demonstrated last September when his R. P. F. party scored heavily in country-wide municipal elections.

He said France is menaced from abroad by the expansion of a vast empire, whose "masters aim at world domination." He identified the empire as Russia "with her vast resources, docile, patient and proud people of 180,000,000, all manipulated by an absolute dictatorship."

At home, he added, France is menaced by "separatists at the service of these foreigners, who profit by confusion in the country and the irritation of all to hinder all activity, aggravate all crises, envenom all wounds and prepare their dictatorship."

STEAMSHIP FIRM SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH C.L.S.U.

Rival Union Says Contract is Illegal

Montreal, March 8 — (CP)—In a move to "fight communism in the sphere in which we are able to do so," Canada Steamship Lines have signed an agreement with J. A. (Pat) Sullivan's Canadian Lake Seamen's Union covering 2,600 unlicensed seamen on board nine passenger and 51 cargo vessels of the company for the 1948 season.

The C. S. L. and the C. L. S. U., which Sullivan formed after leaving the presidency of the Canadian Seamen's Union on the grounds that it was dominated by communists, announced the main terms of the agreement last night.

The contract grants exclusive bargaining rights to Sullivan's union, maintenance of membership, seniority of employment, $5.25 subsistance allowance a day, two weeks paid holidays for eight months of navigation, eight statutory holidays and all expenses for seamen called to travel while in service.

The wage increases granted the C. L. S. U. will be announced later this week after the union has concluded agreements with other companies.

Claims Contract Illegal

The rival Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.) issued a statement under the name of President Harry Davis charging that the C. L. S. U. contract was illegal and worthless because the C. S. U. claims that it is the only bargaining agent on C. S. L. vessels.

Davis said that the agreement was "not worth the paper it is written on," because the National Labor Relations Board "has ruled that the C. S. U. is the only legal bargaining agent for the seamen employed on C. S. L. vessels."

Sullivan's statement announcing the terms of the agreement said that the wage increase will mean the highest wages paid on Great Lakes vessels.

He concluded that the signing of the contract was a victory "for all seamen who do not want to take orders from Moscow and who are interested in making a greater Canada rather than sabotage the country for the benefit of outsiders."

Man Injured When CNR Train Derailed

Aubrey, Que., March 8—(CP)—One railway employee was injured slightly here Sunday afternoon when 40 Canadian National Railways freight cars were derailed.

The cars were heavily loaded with merchandise, bound for Chicago, and unofficial reports said that damage was heavy.

Provincial Police said all freight cars but two, the engine and the tender, were derailed when a rail gave way under the weight of the train.

Aubrey is about 15 miles southeast of Valleyfield.

Govt. Suggests Conference Be Held In Moscow

Treaty of Co-operation Is Sought by Stalin

Helsinki, March 8 (AP)— Finland's cabinet decided today to begin negotiations with Soviet Russia, a member of the government reported.

Finland is suggesting that the talks be held in Moscow. No decision was announced on the make-up of the delegation that will go to the Russian capital to carry on negotiations for the treaty of co-operation sought by Prime Minister Stalin.

The cabinet member who made available this information said he could not disclose whether Finland is advising Stalin she is ready to negotiate toward a military pact as well as a friendship agreement.

This reserve likely was due to the desire not to reveal the contents of President Juho Paasikivi's letter to Stalin before the Russian leader receives it.

The cabinet met with Paasikivi for 90 minutes today.

In approving the negotiations, the cabinet and president followed the guidance of Finland's six parliamentary groups. The majority of these favored conferring with the Russians.

One reason was that the proposal originated with Prime Minister Stalin and had become a matter of prestige. Another was that the Finns felt it is necessary at least to meet the Russians to get a more detailed idea of what they have in mind.

An official statement was expected later in the day.

When Prime Minister Stalin suggested the talks in a letter dated Feb. 22 and delivered just 14 days ago, he said Russia would agree to meet either in Helsinki or Moscow.

Stalin's proposal for a mutual assistance pact like those Russia now has with Hungary and Romania has caused much concern. Most Finns oppose any far-reaching military alliance with the U.S.S.R.

The Popular Front, including Communists and Radical Socialists, was the only bloc to support a full military alignment with the Soviet Union. They have 51 of the 200 parliamentary seats.

Any treaty that is concluded must be ratified by parliament.

Yesterday, strong-arm men broke up a mass meeting protesting the proposed treaty.

Four or five men, described by authorities as Communists, suddenly appeared and pushed the speaker aside. They grabbed the microphone and announced that the meeting was organized by Fascists.

The meeting was called by Ernesti Hentumen, who leads an Independent Party which carries little weight in Finnish politics.

Mysterious Lights Fail to Reappear

Owen Sound, March 8 —(CP) —Mysterious lights seen for three successive evenings last week far out over Lake Huron failed to reappear during the weekend despite the close vigil of watchers at nearby Southampton.

Reports of the lights raised hopes of Thomas Martin of St. Thomas that they might be flares sent up by his son Ivan and his plane passenger Dr. C. W. Murray of Flint, Mich., missing from Flint airport since Feb. 19.

Civic Employees Union to Accept Offered Increase

Hamilton, March 8 — (CP) — Henry Roberts, union secretary, said today that members of the Hamilton Civic Employees Union, local 5, (C.C.L.), decided to accept a $200 across-the-board increase offered by the Board of Control — but "with a protest."

He said most groups of civic employees were "far from happy" at the $200 offer, when they had asked for $400, and votes were scheduled by other unions and associations this week.

According to Reg. Swanborough, president of the Hamilton Fire Fighters Association, there was "strong resentment" at the $200 offer and firemen were scheduled to vote today and tomorrow on whether to accept or reject the offer.

"Accept or strike" will be the subject of an early-in-the-week vote to be taken by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers, local 700, with about 100 employees in civic services.

Plane Feared Missing Contacts Honolulu Base

Spokane, March 3 —(AP)—The Spokane air force base said today that a B-29 plane feared missing on a flight to Hawaii had contacted its Honolulu base and was proceeding without trouble.

Spokane base authorities said they had been notified by the McChord Field flight service at Tacoma, Wash., that the plane was continuing its flight without mishap.

Probably communications trouble prevented it from establishing radio contact on schedule earlier the said.

The plane had been unreported since 1:34 a.m.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 8 (CP)—Synopsis: A storm which moved eastward through northern Michigan and across Lake Huron on Sunday is now centred near Montreal and is still moving eastward. The storm brought light falls of snow which changed to rain in southwestern Ontario. Snowfalls were heavier in northern and eastern sections of the province and snow is still falling in the Ottawa Valley and over much of the Maritimes. Cloudy weather with scattered snowflurries is expected for most of Ontario today and Tuesday. Temperatures will be a little lower in most sections of the province tonight, with not much change in terperatures Tuesday.

CANADA'S FAIRY PRINCESS FLIES IN OUT OF STORM

Barbara Ann Scott Arrives at Dorval

Montreal, March 8 (CP)—Canada's fairy princess flew in out of a snow storm today—and like all storybook princesses she didn't show a trace of fatigue.

Beaming with happiness after a long and weather-delayed flight across the Atlantic, Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, arrived at Montreal's Dorval Airport at 5.05 a.m.

"It's wonderful to be back," she told two dozen photographers, and newspaper men who met the plane of the 19-year-old girl who this year won the Olympic, world and European skating championships.

Barbara Ann's arrival was five hours late—her Trans Canada Air Lines plane was diverted to Sydney, N.S., last night after it had left Gander, Nfld., on route to Montreal.

In the Cape Breton coal town, the wheat-blonde, Ottawa girl made new conquests among the 8,000 miners, steelworkers and farmers who turned out to greet her.

Her first action was to shake hands with a brawny miner who reached across the aircraft ramp and said: "Come, give us a hand, Babs."

When she arrived here from Sydney, princess Babs was as fresh and vivacious as ever.

Very Smooth Trip

"It was a very smooth trip but it was a little late," was her only comment. She wore a dark blue suit and a white blouse and as she made her entrance from the plane was given a bouquet of roses by the Montreal and Lachine Kinsmen's Club.

Miss Scott will appear at a Kinsmen's show April 23 and 24 at the Montreal Forum.

Looking as pretty and charming as when she won the highest skating honors in the world, she said ruefully that she hadn't had time to buy new clothes in Europe.

She told reporters who asked her if she intended to accept Hollywood offers that she still wants to be an amateur.

She still hasn't decided what university she will attend to take a domestic science course. Originally, she said she might go to the University of Western Ontario.

Asked if she had discussed cooking with Princess Elizabeth at her recent audience at Buckingham Palace, Barbara Ann said no.

"But I noticed a cook book among her wedding presents," Miss Scott smiled.

Bakers' Assoc. Official Charges Grocery Chain Selling Bread at Loss

Ottawa, March 8 —(CP)— C. M. Ruttan of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Bakers' Association, told the Commons Price Committee today the organization had accused the A. and P. grocery chain of selling bread at a loss.

Mr. Ruttan said he had made this charge to the A. and P. general manager at a meeting in Toronto in January, claiming that the firm was using bread as a "loss leader."

In testimony before the committee last week, George Bird of Toronto, purchasing agent of the A. and P. grocery chain, had said the association in January tried to get the chain to increase the price of its 10-cent bread.

He declared Mr. Ruttan was the intermediary in this attempt.

Mr. Ruttan said today he had not discussed a specific price with the company but he had told the general manager the association felt the company was selling bread at a loss.

Mr. Ruttan told the committee that members of the association still consider 10-cent bread is a loss leader and feel justified in protesting against it.

At the start of today's session, Health Minister Martin, committee chairman read a telegram from J. D. Parent, manager of the chain grocery firm of Dionne, Ltd., in Montreal, declaring that firm was reducing generally the retail price of its bread from 14 to 13 cents a loaf.

Mr. Parent said this action was being taken as the result of a one-half cent reduction in the cost of bread to the company and because of a request made by committee members when he was a witness last week.

Chairman Martin also announced that it was hoped to complete the preesnt initial stage of the committee's bread inquiry by Wednesday evening.

It was expected the investigators then would turn to butter.

Hit by 700-Pound Ice Block, Four Almost Unhurt

Kirkland Lake, March 8 — (CP)— Police scratched their heads in wonderment today as they tried to figure out why two mothers and their 2 small children are alive and almost unhurt after being hit by a 700-pound block of ice.

Horrified spectators rushed over to a ditch yesterday to remove the block of ice from 6-year-old Nicole Stacey. It had fallen off a roof, glanced off Mrs. W. D. MacPherson, hit and demolished the baby carriage she was pushing, and then hit Mrs. Roy Stacey, knocking Nicole from her perambulator into a ditch.

When passers-by quakingly pulled the ice from Nicole, the only damage they could find to the child was a bruised wrist. Six-months-old Linda MacPherson was just lucky — her forehead was bruised. The mothers also were only bruised.

First Articles of Pact Drafted For Five West European Powers

Brussels, March 8 — (AP) — First articles of a pact intended to bind five Western European powers in a union to resist the further spread of communism were drafted here today.

The conferees, representing Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, referred the drafts to an editorial committee for polishing before tomorrow's session.

Reports circulated that the pact may be ready for signing this week. Conference circles said foreign minister Bidault and Foreign Secretary Bevin were ready to come here at any time to sign.

The delegates held three separate meetings today.

Delegates agreed Saturday, conferences sources said, on the basic political, legal and military principles for a 50-year treaty. Some were in their home capitals yesterday to consult their governments.

A Dutch foreign ministry official said last night in The Hague that military provisions would be very general, leaving an opening for all possibilities. He said endorsement of the pact might be put off till after the Marshall plan meeting.

TWO CONSTABLES BADLY BEATEN UP ON INDIAN RESERVE

Riot Takes Place When Officers Attempt to Arrest Two for Drunkenness

Caughnawaga, Que., March 8 — (CP) — All was quiet on the Caughnawaga Indian Reserve today as Royal Canadian Mounted Police prepared to press an investigation into a riot which Saturday night sent two constables to hospital, badly beaten up.

Inspector J. R. Lemieux said: "When the injured constables are on their feet we will make an investigation. Largely it is a matter of identification and the injured men are about the only persons who can identify those Indians involved in the fracas."

It will be a day or two before the injured constables, R. Morin and J. Dupras, are up and about. At present they are in hospital in Lachine, not far from this reservation centre on the fringe of greater Montreal.

The riot grew out of an attempt by the two constables to arrest two Indians for drunkenness. Before extra police arrived both R.C.M.P. men had been cut and bruised about the head in a melee in which the Indians used sticks and stones.

When special reinforcements of police arrived in answer to a riot call they found that the trouble makers had dispersed though the village was in a turmoil.

The incident occurred in front of a restaurant when the Mounties noted two Indians under the influence of liquor. They stepped forward to arrest the pair when they found themselves suddenly surrounded by a mob of about 100 villagers.

Sticks and stones were used to attack the constables who managed to enter the restaurant with their prisoners.

Fighting their way out of the restaurant with their fists the constables managed to make their way to the R.C.M.P. office in the village and there telephoned for aid. Both were bleeding and bruised.

Found Dead Hanging In Prescott Lock-Up

Brockville, March 8 —(CP)— Crown authorities said today an investigation is proceeding into the death of Lawrence G. Ewart, 331; found dead Sunday in the police lock-up at Prescott, where he had been taken Saturday night following a disturbance at the Prescott arena.

Ewart, a laborer, was found hanging from a rope made of a sweater and a scarf, by Constable George Fox when he arrived with the man's breakfast. Physicians estimated he had been dead for two hours.

21 SEAMEN PULLED ALONG BREECHES BUOY TO SAFETY

Spent Sleepless Night Aboard Vessel Grounded on Sand Bar

Morehead City, N. C., March 8 — (AP) — Coast Guardsmen today pulled 21 crew members along a breeches buoy to safety from the stranded motorship Norfolk.

The red-eyed seamen had spent a sleepless night aboard the stricken vessel. All rescued men were reported in good condition.

One other member of the crew was rescued yesterday before efforts were halted due to darkness and heavy seas. The crew member, an electrician, was swept from a rescue line and dashed under the keel of a coast guard boat. He was pulled aboard and taken to hospital with head injuries.

Two Coast Guardsmen, also were injured in the rescue-operations.

The rest of the crew elected to spend the night on the silent fog shrouded ship buffeted by the waves.

Whipped by a 60-mile gale and shipping water, the Norfolk sought safe harbor here from the storm. The Coast Guard attempted late yesterday morning to put a pilot aboard, but the small boat took a terrific beating and one Coast Guardsman was hurt in the unsuccessful effort.

The vessel then apparently attempted to make the harbor without a pilot through the narrow inlet and hit the bar where she stuck fast.

First word that the Norfolk was in difficulty was a radio message yesterday from Capt. T. E. Brown reporting she was "shipping heavy seas" and in "danger of losing hatches." She then was 45 miles south southwest Cape Lookout.

One Coast Guard boat nearly swamped during the rescue work yesterday, but got safely to shore.

FINED $25,000 FOR EVASION INCOME TAX

Toronto, March 8 — (CP) — Charles Crompton Jones, paper dealer and sole proprietor of Jones Brothers Co., was fined $25,000 and costs after conviction of 11 charges under the Excess Profits Tax Act and the Income Tax Act for evasion.

14 YEARS FOR WOUNDING

Hamilton, March 8 — (CP) — Frank Bluske, 30, of this city, was sentenced to 14 years concurrent on each count of wounding and assault, and concurrent with any other sentence. Earlier in the week, a general sessions jury found Bluske guilty of wounding Norman Smith and assaulting Percy Smith at a card game on the night of March 9, 1947.

Large Number of French Immigrants Reported Coming to Canada in 1948

Quebec, March 8 —(CP)— Le Soleil, in a newspage story, said today it had learned from a reliable source that 5,000 French immigrants, all from Normandy, would come to Canada within the next few months in an immigration plan sponsored by the Quebec government.

The story was not immediately confirmed by provincial authorities.

Ottawa — (CP) — A labor department official said today the department had accepted a proposal to bring French immigrants to Canada and added that the details were now being worked out.

Commenting on a Quebec news story which said 5,000 French immigrants would come here within the next few months, the official said no definite number had been set or could be set until a canvass had showed how many actually were wanted.

He said the plan would be carried out by the Federal government and, "if everything goes well," there was no reason why the movement should not be under way within the next few months. The chief obstacle, as usual, was the lack of shipping. There would be no air migration as in the case of the immigrants brought in by the Ontario government.

The official said the proposal had emerged from the government's interdepartmental committee on immigration. The Quebec government had been consulted and had agreed.

The majority of the newcomers would probably be settled in Quebec. The others would go with French-speaking employers elsewhere.

The official mentioned farm work as the chief industry for their absorption.

LARGE EGG CONTAINS ANOTHER EGG

An unpretentious Biddy, with smuggling tendencies, has been uncovered down Kingston way.

Owned by a Mrs. Lena Revell, of that city, the mild-mannered hen deposited in the family nest an egg which its owner said "was as big as my fist."

The shell was soft. On opening the breakfast dish, Mrs. Revell, who thought the egg was one of the double-yolk variety, found another egg, perfectly formed and of medium size, floating in the white mass.

Life Underwriters Entertain Ladies At Social Evening

It was ladies' night for members of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association, and the men of "par" and "non-par", of mortality tables and of long-term endowments played host to their partners in the life underwriting business. Checking their rate books and brief cases at the door of the Kiwanis Centre, the Life Underwriters let their hair down for an evening of fun and frolic.

Mr. Ferdinand de Haerne, C.L.U., Hon. President of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada and the Montreal Manager of LaSauvegarde Life Assurance Co., provided one of the highlights of the evening in his address, "Mr. and Mrs. Underwriter—a Partnership." Mr. de Haerne stressed the happy results when Mr. Underwriter takes his wife into business with him. He urged. Mrs. Underwriter to study the business to obtain a genuine understanding of the underwriters' problems, and be a real partner to her husband.

Mr. James Anton introduced the speaker, and the thanks of the Association were voiced by Mr. Allan Simmie. President Frank Creeggan was chairman of the meeting and seated the guests at the banquet table. Mr. William Oliver introduced the various couples to the other guests, and Mr. Vern Weir pronounced a "grace." Following the meal the guests were formally welcomed by the president.

Toast to Ladies

A toast was proposed to the ladies by Mr. P. C. McGuire, C.L.U. who compared the marriage contract to that of a Life Insurance policy, when courtship days took the place of a short term policy, which might be converted to a long term plan with mutual benefits to both parties. Favors were distributed to the ladies by the Association in token of appreciation for their support. Mrs. Gilbert Stackhouse responded and expressed gratitude for the evening's entertainment.

A motion was passed that a letter of regret be sent to Mrs. Creeggan, for her inability to be present at this function, and to wish —for her a speedy recovery.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sexsmith, of Napanee, rendered solos and a duet. Mr. Leo Riggs was the accompanist, and delighted his listeners with a rendition of "Polonaise." A spirited session of "Rally" presented the only competitive note to the happy social event, and the ladies proved their superiority, taking home the major spoils.

Auld Lang Syne brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Oil Sales Supervisor Assumes New Duties

Mr. Ralph Warren, former mayor of Picton, who succeeds Lloyd Hicks as district supervisor for the Supertest Petroleum Corporation Ltd., has assumed his new duties here. Mr. Hicks who has been appointed sales supervisor for the Ottawa district, left with Mrs. Hicks for Ottawa today.

Mr. Warren, a native of Prince Edward, has been six years with the company, was in charge of the Picton service station of the company and also spent two years "on the road."

Civic minded, the new sales supervisor for Supertest spent ten years in municipal work in his native town and was later elevated to the position of mayor, which he held for a year. He is a former president of the Picton Home and School Association, and a member of the Prince Edward County Hospital Board, and the United Church Board.

A natural yachtsman, Mr. Warren took a keen interest in the activities of the Prince Edward Yacht Club and was commodore of that organization from 1941 to 1946. He should be a valuable asset to the Belleville Rotary Regatta Committee.

Alfred Gillen Ex-Postmaster Passes Away

Alfred Gillen, retired postmaster, died early Sunday morning at his home, 115 Dundas Street east, after a brief illness.

The late Mr. Gillen was born in this city and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gillen, his father being a hardware merchant here many years ago. All his life was passed here and he was one of this city's favorite sons.

In June 1882 Alfred Gillen entered the Belleville post office as a junior clerk. The office was then located on the north side of Bridge Street east, almost opposite the present office. By his pleasing personality, genial manner and constant courtesy he won steady advancement in the service and in 1897 he became assistant postmaster, which position he filled until December 15th., 1911 when he was promoted to the responsible position of postmaster in succession to the late D. R. Leavens. Two years later, May 24th., 1913, mail delivery by carriers was introduced in this city.

In Postal Service 48 Years

Alfred Gillen discharged his duties in a highly capable manner; he was well liked by his staff and was highly regarded by the officials of the Post Office Department. On Dec. 6th., 1930 Mr. Gillen retired after forty-eight years of faithful service, during nineteen years of which he served as postmaster.

Alfred Gillen loved the city of his birth and in his early days he enjoyed sailing on the waters of the Bay of Quinte and the lakes; he also was an ardent lawn bowler and gave his support to other healthful sports.

Interest in City

In the Old Boys' Re-Unions of years ago he took a prominent part and aided greatly in making them the great successes they were. In the advancement of the city he took much interest and aided all worthy undertakings for the betterment of Belleville.

Mr. Gillen was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and for some years filled the office of Chairman of the Board of Trustees. He was a member of the Sons of Scotland; a life member of the Belleville Club and also a life member of the Cemetery Board.

Alfred Gillen will be much missed by many old friends, who will long remember their pleasant associations with him.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Theda Foster; one daughter, Mrs. Edward I. Wood, Ottawa, and one son, Mr. Mitchell Gillen of Blythe, California.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Four Municipalities Want to Annex Certain Property

Toronto, March 8 (CP)—Petitions from four Ontario municipalities asking confirmation of Municipal Board permission to annex adjoining land have been placed before the Provincial Legislature.

St. Catharines wishes to add certain parts of the Township of Grantham, Peterborough would annex areas of North Monaghan Township. Chatham wants to include parts of Raleigh and Dover Townships in the city, and the town of Simcoe asks permission to take in certain parts of Woodhouse Township.

Twenty other private bills are before the Legislature, to come up at the present session.

Niagara Falls wants confirmation of an agreement with the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Company for a bus system to replace the present street car setup.

The Township of Dover wishes to sell the telephone system to the Bell Telephone Company and to distribute the proceeds among subscribers. Niagara Falls General Hospital Trust asks permission to change the name to Greater Niagara General Hospital Trust, and Hamilton Orphan Asylum asks that the name be changed to the Aged Women's Home of Hamilton.

Three bills came from Ottawa. Ottawa Ladies College wants to be known as a Non-denominational Institution of Learning. The Association For Advancement of Learning would change its name to Carleton College, and the City of Ottawa asks validation of an agreement with the Ottawa Electric Railway Company and amendment of the City of Ottawa Act as changed in 1946.

The Canadian Lakehead Exhibition asks that Fort William and Port Arthur be given the power to grant or loan money in aid of the exhibition up to $35,000.

BLOWS OPEN SAFE

Toronto, March 8 — (CP) — Safecrackers blew open a vault in the east-end Danforth Wallboard Co., Ltd., office last night and escaped with a $1,000 Victory Bond, a quantity of stocks and cheques, and a small amount of cash. Windows in the rear of the building were shattered by the blast.

Blood Grouping Industrial Workers Begins Soon

Starting first with industrial employees, the St. John Ambulance Association in the near future will commence a blood grouping campaign in the city, it has been announced by J. R. Potter, Ottawa field organizer of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

Industrial employees in the city will be blood grouped first, the eventual aim being to blood group the entire population as an extension of the organization's first-aid measures.

In charge of the blood grouping here will be Mrs. R. J. McLuskie, divisional superintendent of the St. John Ambulance Brigade and other officers including Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Mrs. O. Waldorf; Mrs. F. Burley and Mrs. W. Watson, all of whom have been fully trained in the work. Other assistants will also aid in the work.

Approved by Medical Group

Blood grouping by the St. John Ambulance Brigade has the full support of the local medical officers who appreciate that the program is a great asset to hospitals as well as a worthwhile community service. The actual blood grouping is done in industrial plants or at some other central spot. The typing is painless and takes but a very few minutes.

Mr. Potter was in the city last week making arrangements in connection with the extension of the blood typing service of his organization to this city.

He particularly stressed the value of the work in that in case of accident or other emergency, blood typing obviates the necessity of sending a number of persons to be typed in order that the accident victim may be given a blood transfusion. Blood typing means that each man and woman in the industry or other organization is supplied with a card showing that person's blood type, while the classification of every employee in the plant is noted in a report to the executive.

Cuts Time Loss

This service cuts considerably the loss of time in sending workers to be typed in case of an accident to a worker and at the same time speeds up the service to the patients as it can be determined almost immediately which volunteers have the proper type of blood for the patients.

As an illustration of the amount of time which can be lost when blood types are not known, Mr. Potter quoted one instance where 72 men had to be typed before one was qualified. By the time the right blood was secured the patient had died.

He stressed the fact that there were four main types of blood. These types could not be used indiscriminately. The percentage of these groupings in Canada is O type, 46 percent; A, 41 percent; B, 10 percent, AB three percent. The right type of blood will sustain life, while the wrong type if given in transfusion, might prove fatal.

Blood typing is done free by the St. John Ambulance Association and commences soon after the formal request is made. Typing will probably start this week in the various industrial plants in Belleville.

Police Blotter

A woman pedestrian on Foster Avenue narrowly escaped injury Frdiay when she was attacked by a dog as she passed along the street, police were informed. The woman told police she had been saved from injury as he attacked only because she had been wearing a heavy coat. Police ascertained the owner of the dog and advised that it be kept on leash.

Reports of a suspicious character lurking in the Bleecker Ave., district were received by police at an early hour Sat., morning. However, no suspicious character was seen by police officers who checked in the vicinity minutes later.

Two Main Reasons Church Will be Sold

London, Ont., March 8 —(CP) —The 80-year-old Presbyterian Church building at nearby Nairn is to be sold, and veteran elder Roy Stewart said today that two main reasons are smaller families and more bachelors.

The church has been closed since last year with the dozen remaining families joining Ailsa Craig congregation.

London presbytery has asked for tenders for the historic building.

Marmora

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Mormora—Sunday, March 7th, was of special significance to Mr. and Mrs. James Vilneff of Victoria Avenue, Marmora, when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversity. They were married on March 7th 1898 at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Phillip Woodcock at Tweed by Rev. J. C. Wilson, resident Methodist minister of Tweed at that time.

Mr. Vilneff who was christened James Esely was born seventy-three years ago on the Snow Road in the township of Elzevir, near what is now known as Actinolite. He is a son of the late James Sheppard Vilneff (who was a shantyman and river driver for the Rathbun Company at the time) and Mary Jane Lindsay. Mr. Vilneff first attended school at Denbigh where his parents had removed and then continued his education at the Victoria School in Belmont township when his family moved there. He has recollections of his first teacher at Victoria Scshool (formerly Holcombe School house). She was a Miss Holcombe He finished his education at old Havelock School. When residing at Stanwood he met his wife, Fanny Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodcock of Tweed.

Six Years Younger

Mrs. Vilneff who is six years younger than her husband received all her schooling in Tweed Public Schoolu. The attendants at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Vilneff were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Woodcock, sister and brother-in-law —of the groom. The weather on that day was very springlike with all the snow gone. The Vilneffs following their marriage lived in Tweed for about seven years during which time three of their daughters were born namely Agnes, Jessie and Elsie. Jessie who married Edward Taylor, passed away eighteen years ago, Agnes is now Mrs. Byron Emmons of Kingston and Elsie who is Mrs. Ralph Taylor, lives in Oshawa.

23 Years in Marmora

From Tweed Mr. and Mrs. Vilneff moved to Madoc Junction, thence to Thurlow township and settled in Marmora twenty-three years ago. Mr. Vilneff put in many years of his life on various farms in Ceneral Ontraio. Later he worked on the C.P.R. section at Tweed, the C.N.R. section at Marmora, and also was employed by the Peace Company of Marmora and the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company. His favorite pastime when in good health was angling. Mrs. Vilneff enjoys quilting and is very fond of reading Mr. and Mrs. Vilneff are members of the Marmora Free Methodist Church. Relatives visiting over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Taylor and son Douglas, and Mrs. Gerald Goulding and daughter Linda of Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Martin and sons James and Russell and a grandson and granddaughter, Peterborough; Miss Jean Taylor, nurse in training at Civic Hospital, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor and daughter Sharon, Newmarket; Mrs. Simon Vilneff and family, Marmora township, and Mrs. John Cooper, Madoc.

Tenants Honor Ideal Landlord

North Tarrytown, N. Y., March 8 (AP) — Stephen Chambers, manager of a 254-family apartment development was honored by his tenants yesterday as the "ideal landlord."

He and his wife were honor guests at a reception and tea in the apartment auditorium, attended by 300 residents.

Chambers was hailed as a landlord who overcame wartime shortages and post-war difficulties to provide courteous, efficient maintenance, plenty of heat, bus service to trains, free golf and tennis facilities and many other advantages.

Holy Land Crisis Being Tackled By Big Powers

New York, March 8. (AP)—The United States prepared to press for a new Palestine conciliation effort today as the Big Powers tackled the Holy Land crisis.

Exact nature of the United States plan was not disclosed. A member of the American delegation said, however, they would insist that the consultations be confined to "peaceful measures" of settlement.

Representatives of the United States, Russia, France and China will meet. Britain refused to take part in the consultations, which were ordered last Friday in a Security Council resolution. The Big Powers were asked to make recommendations by March 15 on what to do about carrying out the partition of Palestine.

As the delegates assembled for the opening talks, the Chief United States delegate Warren R. Austin, was reported ready to urge one more effort toward conciliation of Jewish-Arab differences as the first step.

It appeared that he would have the backing of France and China. An American spokesman insisted the Council's refusal to approve conciliation did not prohibit the Big Powers from going ahead anyway.

One of the first questions to come up today is the question of how secret the Big Power talks are to be. Several correspondents sent telegrams to the delegates over the weekend demanding that arrangements be made to keep the press informed.

U.N. officials had announced earlier that they considered the consultations to be outside U.N. jurisdiction. All U.N. secretariat personnel were instructed to stay away from the meetings.

A spokesman for the American delegation said the United States felt an U.N. Press officer should be invited to attend the sessions and give the press an account of the proceedings.

Mother Requests Home for Family

Pawtucket, R. I., March 8 — (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Grimes, 34, mother of eight, walked into police headquarters with four of her children last night and announced she had come to stay until someone provides a home for her family.

She told police Lieut. Patrick Welsh she was tired of living "from pillar to post" since she was evicted from her apartment last December, tired of "living on the charity of friends and relatives," and fed up with landlords who "shut the door in my face when I tell them I have eight children."

Mrs. Grimes, who expects her ninth child in September, said her husband is a bleachery employee. Her four other children are with relatives and friends.

The pretty mother and her four youngest, aged 1½ to 8, slept in two beds at headquarters.

Allan's Mills

Allan's Mills.—Miss Jean Lain, Reg.N., Belleville, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Lain.

Mrs. Sam Laundry spent a few days with friends in Campbellford, recently.

Friends and neighbors in this vicinity were shocked to learn of the sudden death of the late Percy Wood, who suffered a heart attack and passed away on Tuesday night. The late Mr. Wood had resided in this vicinity for some time.

A very successful auction sale was held on the farm of Mr. Geo. Eastwood on Wednesday. Cows went as high as $161 each.

Mr. Wm. Burkitt met with a painful accident on Tuesday when he cut his foot with an axe.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Robart, of North Canton, Ohio, have purchased the Eagle Eye Summer resort at Healey Falls.

SHOT IN BACK

Vienna, March 8 — (AP) — United States Army authorities said an American soldier was shot in the back last night after refusing to obey a Russian order to get off the sidewalk and into the gutter in front of a Russian headquarters hotel in the International district of Vienna.

His name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Union Organizer Advised to Stay On Job in North

Kirkland Lake, March 8 (CP)—Reid Robinson, eastern vice president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, (C.I.O.) told a closed meeting of union members last night that he had been instructed by John Clark, International President, to remain in Canada and carry on union-organizing duties.

The vice president said that Harlow Wildman, union organizer, who has been advised by the Federal Immigration Department that his permit to remain in Canada would not be renewed, has applied for an extension, but as yet has not received a reply.

The meeting passed a resolution urging the Dominion government "to refrain from any discriminatory action that may prejudice the interests of gold miners and our union" in the midst of a current organizing campaign. The resolution added that "it is vitally important that our leadership be allowed to remain here."

In Timmins yesterday afternoon Mr. Robinson told reporters his passport was "under discussion" at Ottawa but declined to elaborate. At a closed union meeting he told approximately 150 miners "of the attempts to smash the union by mining operators getting the government to refuse union officials border-crossing rights."

BROUGHT WILD BUFFALO

Water buffalo running wild in Australia's northern territory are descendants of a herd brought from Timor Island in the East Indies more than 100 years ago to provide food for a military post.

Melrose

Melrose — Mrs. Russell Macfarlane returned home on Tuesday last from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. Masters and family, Welland, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley entertained Mr. and Mrs. L. McLaren and Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren for supper on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Arthur English opened her home for the Melrose W. I. meeting on Thursday last when a large crowd was in attendance.

The play sponsored by the Melrose United Church Y. P. U. — 'Uncle Josh Perkins', given in the church hall on Friday evening was well attended and the players are to be congratulated on their fine performance.

Owing to road and lane conditions the Sunday church service was cancelled.

Mr. A. W. McLaren is slowly recovering from his recent illness under the care of Dr. McVicker, of Deseronto.

Road Superintendent, Lorne Lazier, returned on Thursday from the Good Roads Convention in Toronto. He was accompanied by the Tyendinaga Township Reeve, Mr. Bartley Walsh, who was also in attendance at the convention.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Wednesday evening. A number of their friends gathered at their home and spent the evening with them.

The Farm Forum held their meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McMechan.

Mr. Chas. Sansom is leaving to visit his father who is ill in Western Canada.

Mrs. Jack McLaren recently entertained her sister and nephew from Buffalo and brother, Gordon, of Hillier.

Husband Held After Shooting In Night Club

Detroit, March 8 (AP) —Suburban police arrested Homer Caldwell today several hours after his 26-year-old wife was shot to death in a crowded nightclub.

The victim, red-haired Mrs. Lulu Caldwell, died in hospital Sunday night shortly after an assailant calmly fired three shots into her heart as she watched a floor show.

Her estranged husband, a 27-year-old steel worker, was arrested as he entered his rooming house this morning. He was held for questioning with no charge placed against him.

Mrs. Caldwell was shot in the chest. Claude Carbeille, 22, who was nearby, was wounded in the arm and leg.

Police said witnesses quoted the killer as saying before he fled:

"She's my wife and they got what was coming to them."

U.N. Commission Detachment Shelled In Macedonia, Report

Athens, March 8 (Reuters) — Press reports from Salonika today said a detachment from the United Nations Balkan Commission was shelled in Macedonia near the frontier.

No damage was done, the reports added.

The Athens New Agency quoted unconfirmed reports from Salonika that guerrillas mined the railroad line between Salonika and Kiklis "in an attempt on the life of Maj.-Gen. James Van Fleet head of the military section of the American aid mission to Greece."

Van Fleet, Brig. Steele, deputy head of the British mission in Greece, and Gen. Yantzis, Greek chief of staff, were expected back in Athens today from a tour of northern Greece.

$50,000 APPEAL

Toronto, March 8 — (CP) — The Ontario Association of the Deaf announced today a $50,000 appeal for funds April 5 - 17 to provide totally-deaf Canadian students with opportunities to obtain a higher education.

The money will be held in trust with its interest providing scholarships.

Rivalry For Power Prevents Return To Economic Order

Vatican City, March 8 (AP)—Pope Pius said yesterday that mad rivalry for power prevents the world's return to economic order.

Goods, he told a national conference on foreign trade, "have become the object of political speculation," so has "man himself, lowered in so many cases to the status of an article for exploitation.

"We watch unhappily the action of a policy which is only a race for power and hegemony."

His address, as often happens when he speaks on Sunday, was not released for publication until today.

The Pope said disorder in "the field of economic exchange" is due partly to differences of opinion, partly to deeper causes.

"Some propose a return to a world economy such as there was in the last century," he said. "Others sustain a regional union ...of single economies."

Three Suspects Questioned In $4,000 Robbery

Toronto, March 8 —(CP)— Loot with an estimated value of $4,000 in cash, bonds, cheques and jewelry was stolen last night by a gang of safecrackers who blew open the safe of the Danforth Wall Board Co., Limited, on Dawes Road in East Toronto.

Police said the safecracking was performed by an experienced gang and that they believe it to be the same one which broke into a number of east-end offices and stores during the last few weeks.

A number of windows were shattered but the office furniture was undamaged. Fingerprints were found on the blown safe. Later three suspects were questioned but none was held.

ALIEN COMMUNISTS BAILED

New York, March 8 — (AP) — Four men awaiting deportation proceedings on charges of being alien communists gained their release Saturday on bail and immediately broke their nearly week-long fast.

1948 Immigration

Canada looks for 100,000 new citizens this year who will migrate to the Dominion, was the announcement of Resources Minister Glenn. Last year 54,687 were admitted. A large number of Britons have priority bookings for Canada.

There has been noted the keen interest of late in immigration by other members of the Commonwealth, by Australia and South Africa.

These new lands have an appeal today in the mid-twentieth century as they did in other years to many thousands now domiciled citizens of Canada who came from Britain years ago or are the descendants of immigrants from Britain and Northwestern Europe.

Coming of immigrants during the past year has been marked. It has been linked up with the arrival of the families of Canadian ex-servicemen and their wives who have added appreciably to the number of homes and families in the Dominion.

There is much interest in immigration at this time as there has been in years past. Canada has gained greatly by the coming of new citizens who have the typical democratic spirit and fit in well with the tempo of life in the New World.

The year 1948 will be a year during which Canadians will hear much of the arrivals of her new citizens.

Over 500 Chambers

Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade federated in the Canadian Chamber of Commerce have passed the five hundred mark for the first time in the history of the national movement, it has been revealed by D. L. Morrell, executive secretary of the Canadian Chamber. Referring to the rapid increase in the number of these bodies, he said, "With the attainment of five hundred affiliates, we have reached a milestone in this movement of organized business for community service." In his western tour he found Boards and Chambers not only active in their own communities but also taking a greater interest in national problems than at any other time in their history. They are standing up and being counted on in national affairs.

The five-hundredth member organization is the Eastend, Saskatchewan Board of Trade — which is particularly appropriate, he remarked, since "it is in many ways typical of the majority of groups in the national convention. Some seventy-five per cent of the members of the federation are in communities of less than 5,000 population and thirty-five per cent in towns of 1,000 or less. Eastend has 617 people, but its Board of Trade will have an equal voice with all other member boards — no matter what the size of the community — in determining the policy of the National Chamber."

Eastend was named because it was at one time the eastern end of the R.C.M.P. Horseback Patrol from Fort Walsh west of what is now the Alberta border. Most of its citizens engage in farming, ranching and coal mining and the Board of Trade is the leading service organization for civic betterment in the community.

The interest in the change-over from an active wartime economy to peacetime has been increasingly evident in the growth of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce these last three years. The national federation has grown from 150 Boards and Chambers in 1945 to its present number. Local committees have been established to study national affairs in some 140 of these organizations. Through its field service department, which maintains a constant liaison with the member organizations in developing their progress, the Canadian Chamber receives a great volume of requests for information and advice in studying community and national affairs. Reports of the Chamber's field service men, who travel through the country assisting the local bodies with their special problems, reflect the same growing interest.

The Canadian Chamber was founded in 1925 at Winnipeg and this national government has come to represent the country-wide voice of business, small and large, as organized at the 'grass rots' of community level. "It is potentially the greatest economic force for good and is assuming the responsibilities which accompany its growing strength," said Mr. Morrell.

Swimming and Water Safety

Last year nearly 1,000 instructors were qualified and more than 16,000 citizens received instructions in swimming and water safety, one of the many programs of the Canadian Red Cross.

The potentiality for good in so great an undertaking is clear to all. What it will mean in the saving of life in the swimming season when so many untrained persons, young and old, take to the many waters of this country, can be estimated. That the movement has already saved lives and that it will save more and more lives as the good work of training proceeds, is realized.

The young take to water with alacrity in the warm weather and the opportunity is given for training so that water may not have the terrible toll it usually has. Those who come under the influence of this instruction are taught the proper things to do in case of emergency in the water, are taught to swim and are taught to be able to protect themselves and others in the water.

This is just one of the activities of the Red Cross whose work is supported by the generous donations of the people of Canada. At present the national campaign is in progress to raise funds for this and numerous other activities of this tireless work of mercy.

Life Awakens

Spring on the farm means something more than the mere disappearance of snow and the greening of the grass. It means literally new life, in the form of young calves, colts, lambs, chickens, ducklings, and goslings.

It is a callous person indeed who cannot take joy out of new-born animals, watching them — and sometimes assisting them — take sustenance from their mothers. And, in seeing them wobble about on spindly legs until they gain strength and fill out.

Anyone who cannot take delight in the gamboling of a lamb; in the innocent eyes of a calf; or in the frolicking of a colt, is to be pitied. Because he or she must be immune to the wonders of nature.

It is not all a pleasure to farmers. They often have to stay awake nights to act as midwife at the birth of lambs, calves or colts. Sometimes, when a ewe dies, it is necessary to attach her lamb to a foster-mother—over the objection of either sheep or lamb, or both.

Anyone who has ever helped wean calves, to get them to drink out of a pail; knows how peaky they can be. And, how strong they can bunt in protest against such an unnatural course of events, says Windsor Star.

Sugar and Calories

While costs of most commodities continue to rise, refined sugar remains the cheapest of all staple foodstuffs available to Canadian consumers, says The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph. A survey just completed at Chatham, Ont., shows the cost of sugar to the householder to be five cents per 1,000 calories — a full 50 per cent below the cost of bread which places second on the list of low-priced energy foods. Third from the standpoint of economy are potatoes at nine and a half cents per 1,000 calories.

Winter cabbage costs the consumer no less than $1.18 per 1,000 calories, while ham costs 84½ cents. Costs of other staple food products per 1,000 calories follows: Rib roast beef 79½ cents, back bacon 32 cents, cheese 25 cents, butter 21 cents, milk 20 cents, rice 11 cents and white beans 10 cents.

While Canada's overall food price index on November 30, 1974, was reported to be 178.7 (with 1939 at 100), retail price of sugar remains at 147.7.

Only fools speed past schools, is a wise comment of Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

When in front of candy shops
With displays of lollypops,
Chocolate bars and chocolate drops,
and a pair—
Nine and seven of different gender—
Would you fight or make this tender:
"Unconditional surrender!"
Then and there?

Would you heed that precious pair,
Watery-mouthed, and fail to care?
Would you play the tightwad there,
Hard of heart,
Or accept the terms they render:
"Unconditional surrender!"
And step in and be a spender
At the start.

If there eyes began to shine
At the sight of such a line
Of a merchandise so fine,
Passing by,
Would you answer them discreetly,
Putting off their pleadings neatly,
Or surrender there completely,
As did I?

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McFee have returned home after a pleasant trip to Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parrott and son spent the weekend with Mr. Parrott's mother in Napanee.

Mr. W. R. Greatrix of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town with his sister, Mrs. James Harold.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke of Toledo, Ohio, are visiting the latter's father, Mr. John Thompson, Charlotte Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aikins entertained the members of the W. W. Club at their home on Benjamin Street, Friday evening.

Mr. Thomas Givins, highly respected citizen and well-known florist, is observing today the 83rd anniversary of his birth. He came with his parents to Canada seventy-seven years ago and settled in Belleville. Many friends will be pleased to extend congratulations.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 8TH., 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Miller have left for the west after visiting Mrs. C. Johnson, Pinnacle Street.

Mr. Fred Wilson has purchased Miss S. Templeton's house on Great St. James' St.

Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice President of the C.N.R. and Mrs. Robb spent the weekend here with friends.

Large eggs of record breaking dimensions are often heard of, but Mr. T. E. Ketcheson, East Bridge Street, showed us today an egg that breaks the record in the opposite way. It was the smallest egg we have ever seen and was laid by a mature hen. The dimensions are 2 1-2 inches in circumference and 5-8 of an inch in diameter.

Miss A. Peacock of Port Hope, is visiting the Misses Chatterton, North Front Street.

The hay scales on the market have been repaired and are now in first class condition.

An endeavor is being made to construct a bridge from Huff's Island across the marsh to the Ameliasburg shore. Messrs. Nightingale and Huff of the island have the matter in hand. It is said that if this bridge is constructed, the residents on the high shore will build a bridge from there to the main land, thus giving a direct route to the city for a large number of people. Several Belleville merchants have subscribed from $10.00 to $100.00 towards building the bridge from Huff's Island.

Dr. Newton of Deseronto was in town today.

Mrs. John Post has returned to the city from Owen Sound and has taken up residence on Everett Street.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How does a commonwealth differ from a State?

Virginia, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Kentucky are officially styled Commonwealths instead of States, but the terms are synonymous in this sense and the four Commonwealths are States in the eyes of the Federal Constitution and their legal status is the same as that of the members of the American Union styled States.

"State" is derived from Latin "status," which is from the verb "stare," to stand, and literally means condition or manner of existing. English "status" and "estate" and French "etat" are from the same root. A body of people occupying a definite territory and organized under a sovereign government came to be called a state in the 16th century.

"Commonwealth" is a combination of "common" and "wealth" and in the 15th century signified "general welfare" or "public good." "Commonweal," general well being, meant about the same.

In the 16th century "commonwealth" came to mean a body politic or a state, especially one in which the whole people had a voice and interest. At first "commonwealth" denoted a republican state. Shakespeare frequently applied "commonwealth" and "commonweal" in this sense to the realm of England.

Thus "state" and "commonwealth" originally had about the same meaning, but "commonwealth" connoted more of self-government than "state" did. Every commonwealth was a state, but a state might be an absolute monarchy, while a commonwealth would be governed by its people. The republican government of England under Oliver Cromwell, especially between 1649 and 1653, was called "The Commonwealth." "The American Commonwealth" (1888), is the title of James Bryce's classic treatise on the United States. In 1901 the federated states of Australia became officially The Commonwealth of Australia. Since the Imperial Conference of 1924 and the Statute of Westminster in 1931 Great Britain and her dominions have been called the British Commonwealth of Nations rather than the Britsih Empire because each major unit in the "Imperial federation" is self-governing.

Virginia was designated a Commonwealth in the constitution adopted June 29, 1776, six days before the Declaration of Independence was adopted. In the same year the Province of Massachusetts Bay became the State of Massachusetts Bay, but the constitution of 1780 declared that "The people . . . form, themselves into a free, sovereign and independent body politic, or state, by the name of The Commonwealth of Massachusetts," which is still its official name.

When part of western Virginia formed a government of its own and entered the Union in 1792 it followed the example of the Mother Commonwealth and styled itself "The Commonwealth of Kentucky."

William Penn, the Quaker founder of Pennsylvania, referred to his colony as a commonwealth, probably to emphasize that it was designed for the common weal or public good. In the first constitution of Pennsylvania (1776) "state" and "commonwealth" are used interchangeably. "Commonwealth" does not occur in the great seal of Pennsylvania, but "The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" was adopted as the name and has remained so.

REEVE DIES SUDDENLY

Peterborough, March 8 —(CP) —Thomas Gilbert McIlmoyle, 64, reeve of nearby Smith township, died following a heart attack here Saturday night while watering cattle.

Mr. McIlmoyle was elected warden of Peterborough county in 1946 and served for ten years on city council.

Bracken Blames Liberal Govt. For High Prices

Kingston, March 8 (CP)—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, told a weekend convention of the Progressive Conservative Student Federation he considered the Federal Liberal administration the "chief culprit" in Canada's rising cost of living.

Addressing 150 young men and women representing students from most of Canada's universities and colleges, he said the government's monetary policies "have expanded credit faster than goods have been produced, with no other result than that prices have risen."

He added:

"They (the Liberals) have done nothing to meet this condition. they have a commission now trying to find the scapegoat. They have run the nation into the greatest trade crisis in history."

Canada last year had bought twice as much from the United States as it sold to that country. Efforts to correct the situation had been "a tragedy of errors."

He said he felt the government should take responsibility for the health of the national economy but this should not mean "the government owning everything, running everything."

A resolution urging that Canada take part in "an immediate showdown" with Russia was among the 17 passed by the convention and sent on to party officials for possible inclusion into party policy.

"Whereas the U.S.S.R. by its unilateral actions has shown no desire for peace and by pursuing its imperialistic aims has endangered our society, be it resolved that Canada join the western community of nations in demanding an immediate showdown, peaceful if possible, with the U.S.S.R. on the question of curtailment of Russian expansion," the resolution said.

De Valera Arrives In U.S. For First Visit in 18 Years

New York, March 8 — (AP)— American-born Eamon De Valera arrived by plane today for his first visit to the United States in 18 years — in plenty of time to take part in St. Patrick's Day celebrations. The former Eire Prime Minister plans a tour of United States cities until about April 6.

De Valera, who flew in from Shannon airport where 3,000 well wishers saw him off, was met before dawn by an official party at LaGuardia Field.

He said he believed Eire "will co-operate with other countries as far as feasible with its present national situation."

Answering a reporter's question, he said "everybody knows" the Irish people's opposition to communism.

De Valera, who was replaced as prime minister by John Costello after last month's elections, said "I have a job on my hands to beat the opposition."

Told that there had been a report that he was offered the post of superintendent of a large school system in New England, De Valera said "I have heard nothing about it. But I am not open now to engagements."

De Valera said he came to the United States "in response to an invitation from the United Irish Societies of San Francisco to participate in their St. Patrick's Day celebration."

De Valera was accompanied by Frank Aiken, minister for finance of Eire in the De Valera government, and Liam MacGowan, features editor of the Irish Press, Dublin, an organ supporting the Fianna Fail party, of which De Valera is leader.

Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the mayor's official reception committee, headed a group of officials and notables who met De Valera at the airport.

Tomorrow night, Francis Cardinal Spellman will give a dinner for De Valera at the Cardinal's residence.

PRELIMINARY REPORT ON EXAMINATION JITTERS

I recommended a simple treatment to prevent stage fright and examination jitters, the details of which (as I wrote it—I'd rather not hear what was printed) are:

1. Begin two weeks or so before the ordeal taking two grains of quinine twice a day and continue this till the examination or the performance is over.

2. Boop your daily intake of vitamin B complex—futile to consult Webster about this — the term is employed in certain low circle to signify increase, raise, triple or quadruple.

I expressed the hope that students who might try out the treatment would report their experience after mid-year examinations.

Maybe it is a little early, but I have received a report from a college student, who took a two-grain quinine capsule after breakfast and after dinner daily for a period of 16 days before the examination and B-complex capsules with lunch daily for the same period. The student discontinued the quinine the morning of the first exam. resumed it the next day for two days, then stopped it again for the day of the second exam, and the same for the third exam, after which no more quinine. The student continued the B complex for several weeks—is still taking it, in fact, as a "tonic which restores enfeebled function and promotes vigor and a sense of well being" (quoted from an article of mine—and to tell the truth, quoted by me in that article from I don't remember now what good authority.)

Now, kids, if the druggist can't or will not supply two-grain quinine capsules, tablets or pills, don't quarrel with him about it. Accept the one-grain kind (provided, of course, the price per dozen is adjusted) and take two of them instead of one two-grain capsules, tablet or pill. As for the vitamin B complex, it matters little which make or brand just so long as the total value of the thiamine (B1) in your daily intake is equivalent to 8 milligrams (mentioned on the label) — and never mind the quantities of the other factors in the complex.

This student noticed one possible untoward effect of the quinine—slight headache about an hour after downing the quinine, more marked when out in the bright sun or in a close, warm room. However, the headache usually lasted only 15 minutes or so and became less noticeable after the first ten days. I don't know whether the quinine may have accounted for the headache, but in view of its spontaneous cessation I doubt it.

As to the results, concludes the student's report, they were "all that could be hoped for or asked for. Although I don't scare easily I can truly say I've never felt quite so calm before exams—and yet clear-headed — in all my school life. Neither did this calming effect drive away the impetus to study. Instead, it made it easier to do more thoroughly, because at no time did I substitute worry for study."

Most of the reports from readers in recent years have had to do with stage fright and similar horrors.

With this student's excellent report—the student carefully describes precisely what form and quantity of quinine and what preparation and quantity of B complex he or she used, and that is what make the report excellent—I am starting a new file and I hope scores of other students will send in their reports when or if they try this prophylaxis against examination jitters.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Forlorn Quest

I started reading your column with pure scepticism. Now I read it with warm appreciation and enjoyment. It is amusing to mention your name to young doctors! They know right away whom one is talking about! (P. C. T.)

Answer—By any chance if a young doctor ever seems to share my peculiar notions, that is, a doctor in good standing with ten years or more experience in general practice, do tell me about him. Every little while some older colleague tells me how heartily he agrees with my teachings about this and that—but how do I know he is not nutty too? From what you say I infer that young doctors read my column pretty regularly. Now aren't there any at all who, after ten years in private practice, agree with most of my teachings? Come on, kids, it can do no harm to tell me where I'm wrong—my medical friends do— for, remember, anything any one says to me or tells me in a letter is confidential and I never reveal the identity of a correspondent without his or her written consent.

Yoghourt

Is it all right to substitute yoghourt for milk in the diet of a 15 months old baby? Since he began taking solid foods it has been increasingly difficult to get him to take milk, but he does like yoghourt. (Mrs. R. F.)

Answer—Yes.

Fuel and Power Industries Hit All-Time Targets

By ROBERT BROWN

London, March 8. (Reuters) — While Britain's industrial shock troops, the coal miners, struggle to restore production from the country's mines to something like pre-war figures, other fuel and power industries have hit targets far ahead of their 1929 achievements.

Government statistics show that the most remarkable progress has been made by electricity undertakings, which boosted a 1939 output of 27,733,000,000 units to an all-time record of 42,742,000,000 units in 1946.

Most of this electricity was generated by steam plant.

This expansion in production of electric power has done much to oil the wheels for the expanded industries which fill a vital role in the battle for Britain's future prosperity. The amount of electricity used by British industry in 1946 showed an increase of more than 50 per cent compared with 1949.

Significant increases in production of other forms of power—gas, oil and gasoline—have also been achieved, the statistics disclose.

Total gas available, for instance, increased from 352,072,000,000 cubic feet in 1939 to 470,114,000,000 cubic feet in 1946.

But Britain's real industrial backbone has always been and remains, its coal mines. For that reason the achievement of the miners last year, when they almost hit their 200,000,000-ton target attracted more attention. This year, the government hopes that coal production will be appreciably nearer pre-war level—which was never less than 222,240,000 tons a year between 1935 and 1939.

Information compiled by government statistical experts shows that production in other basic industries has not changed sensationally compared with pre-war. Iron ore production in 1946 reached 12,173,000 tons—less than the 1939 figure but more than that of 1938. The wartime peak, reached in 1942, was 19,906,000 tons.

Total production of steel ingots and castings showed little change between 1939 and 1946, when it totalled 12,695,000 tons.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

IT'S TIME TO CHECK OVERHEAD

This is the season when melting snow and rain uncover many roof troubles. So now is the time when home-owners should 'trouble-check' their roof.

If you need a new roof, remember, one of the most satisfactory roofing materials ever developed is the Johns-Manville Asphalt Shingle. It's fire-resistant — durable — attractive and economical. And, equally important, J-M Asphalt Shingles harmonize perfectly with the architecture and surroundings of any home.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Ontario Intelligencer will be pleased to receive news items regarding Belleville citizens who have guests or are visiting friends elsewhere. Kindly phone 99 or mail information to this office.

Alderman Jack Allin spent the weekend in Bowmanville, visiting his mother, who is ill.

Mr. Allan Hales returned home yesterday after being a patient in Belleville General Hospital, following a recent operation.

Master Douglas Kingsman, Trent Road, is convalescing in Belleville General Hospital following a recent appendectomy.

Mrs. Frank Creeggan, who underwent a third major operation in the Private Patients' Pavilion of the Toronto General Hospital, during the weekend, is making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

WEDDINGS

SULLIVAN—YOUNG

Toronto—Rev. James W. Finlay officiated at the recent marriage, in Carlton Street United Church, of Oral Kathleen Young, daughter of Mr. Russell Young, of Buffalo, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Young, to James Carman Sullivan, son of Mrs. Sullivan, of Belleville, and the late Mr. James W. Sullivan.

Wedding music was supplied by Mr. Raymond Player.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Frank Burroughs, of Toronto, was charmingly gowned in orchid satin and nylon, with a headdress of matching feathers and a short veil. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Miss Palma Player, of Toronto, was the bride's only attendant, wearing a gown of yellow taffeta and a halo headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Clayton Hannah, of Toronto, was the groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will reside in Belleville.

Carmel

Carmel— Mrs. Russell Stapley spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brintnell.

The Farm Radio Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Pitman and will meet next at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dier.

The Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John K. Homan.

Mrs. J. B. Patterson has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams in Belleville.

Mrs. Wm. Watson and Stanley, have returned to Coe Hill, after spending the weekend at their home.

Miss Luella Homan of Peterborough Normal School is doing practice teaching in Queen Victoria School in Belleville.

Regret to report, Mrs. John Reynolds is on the sick list. It is hoped she will make a speedy recovery.

Mr. Carl Thompson was a delegate at the Milk Producers' Convention in Toronto, recently.

A.Y.P.A. Local Council Meets

At the first 1948 meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Deaneries Local Council of the Anglican Young People's Association held in Christ Church, Belleville, Friday, March 5, it was decided to obtain the 16mm color film taken of the World Ecumenical Youth Movement Conference held in Oslo, Norway last year. Rev. Wm. Robinson, rector of St. James Church, Tweed, a delegate to the conference will speak. The rally is to be held in St. Thomas' Church, Belleville. Detailed planning of this rally is in the hands of a committee headed by Marian Morton of St. Thomas'.

It was also decided that, if enough members of the council wish to view the color film taken of the Dominion Conference held in Rothsay, N.B. last June and the slides taken at the Provincial Conference held in Sudbury, that Margaret Keller, Program Convener, would obtain the two from Toronto and, along with the Promotion and Extension Convener Vera Flindall take them to the branches wishing to see them. It was also suggested that Ed Waterhouse, Council delegate to the Dominion Conference, accompany them and give a report on the doings at Rothsay.

Carl Fisher of Tweed was appointed to make preliminary arrangements for the annual picnic. It is to be held in Tweed on July 7. No definite decision was reached regarding the Drama Festival other than that it will be held in the fall.

Congregational Meeting

WESLEY UNITED CHURCH
(Trent Road)

The annual congregational meeting of Wesley United Church, Trent Road, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, with a good attendance. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. A. C. McCallum, who also presided. Mr. Harry Rutter, treasurer for a past fifteen years, submitted the financial statement which showed a substantial balance carried to this year.

Givings to missions were slightly better than last year. The Women's Association report, as given the treasurer by Mrs. Charles Wilson, gave evidence of faithful and diligent effort. The actual receipts reached almost $500. The ladies were highly commended for their splendid report. The Bayside Women's Missionary Society reached their missionary allotment. The Session reported an addition of twelve members to the Communion Roll. The membership now stands at forty-four.

Officers

The election of officers for the ensuing year were as follows: Session— Messrs. Frank Reid, Donald Gunn, Harry Rutter and Fred Denyes; Board of Stewards: Messrs. Walter Denyes, Floyd Wood and Harry Christopher. Mr. John Stewart was re-elected secretary and Mr. Harry continues as treasurer for another year. Expressions of warm appreciation were extended to Mr. McCallum and Mrs. Mooney for their leadership. Mr. McCallum thanked the officials and the choir for their devotion to duty which contributed largely to the success of the year. Plans are under way for the redecoration of the church in the near future.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed and thanks were extended to the hostesses for their kind hospitality.

Evening Auxiliary Of Bridge Street Church Will Assist

A drive for good used clothing for Europe is being conducted by Bridge Street United Church and the members of the Evening Auxiliary were urged by the president to have their bundles ready for this week.

An appeal was made for toys for a next Christmas bale for an Indian Mission. These are to be brought in at the May meeting as the bales have to be packed and sent on their way at an early date.

Plans were made for our share in the joint meeting of the W. M. S. groups on April 6th.

Mrs. G. E. Currie then took charge of the program and conducted the Worship Service during which Miss Grills read an article on Christian Stewardship. Decisiveness is an essential quality of a Christian, Jesus placed decisiveness high in His estimation. The world of today is in need of decisive Christians. There are many people who have leisure but no time for God's work. Christian Stewardship is the planning of time, money and energy for the carrying out of God's will.

The chapter of the study book for this month was The Bible in the Language of the North American Indians. Mrs. Clifford Holmes gave an interesting account of the work of John Elliott among the Massachusetts Indians. The task of writing a Bible in the Indian language seemed at first hopeless. Finding an Indian who spoke English, he studied with him until he was able to write a grammar. Then he went on to translate the Bible. Elliott's Bible in the English language was the first in America.

Mrs. C. Calnan also gave an interesting account of the long and tedious task of the Rev. Stephen Riggs, Dr. Williamson and Joseph Grenfell, a fur trader. Three winters were spent in compiling a dictionary in the Dacotah language, containing more than 10,000 words. The first copy of the Dacotah Bible was published and delivered to the Rev. Stephen Riggs in 1880.

Girl Guides Will Assist in Easter Seal Drive

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children are holding their annual Easter Seal Drive, and the Girl Guides throughout the province of Ontario have been given permission by their Provincial Commissioner, Mrs. Gordon Conant to assist in this drive. Their contribution to this worthy cause will take the form of a "Donut Week". The Belleville Commissioner, Mrs. John Watson, has informed us that Co. 2 and Co. 7 Girl Guides are well organized and during the coming week the Guides will make a complete canvass of the City of Belleville, calling at every house on every street and they hope to have the co-operation of every householder. The Guides are very happy to have the opportunity of giving their time and efforts to help the crippled children of Ontario and every cent received will go toward this work.

On behalf of the crippled children we ask for your help and support for "Donut Week."

Royal Couple Enjoy Home Life In Kensington

London, March 8 (Reuters) — After three months of marriage, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have settled down to a marital routine not unlike that of any other working couple.

They have been unable to entertain lavishly or even give a house-warming party because their official London residence, Clarence House, built in 1825, will not be ready for them until next winter.

A nursery floor is being fixed up in Clarence House — a Buckingham official said today:

"It would be foolish for the repair men working on the place now to be recalled to do that job at a later date. It might as well be included in the establishment."

The public duties of Princess Elizabeth, who has not had many official appointments since her wedding, will be gradually increased as summer approaches. She is booked as far ahead as the end of June.

The daily program of the Royal couple goes something like this:

They have breakfast together in the Kensington Palace flat which they borrowed from the Earl and Countess of Athlone, who are in South Africa. He kisses her goodbye at 9 o'clock and drives away in his Austin to his Admiralty job.

She then is driven to her Buckingham Palace office to supervise personally her small household staff and cope with her correspondence, which has increased from 30 to 50 letters a day since her marriage.

ADMITS SLAYING PARENTS

Eminence, Mo., March 3—(AP)—Betty Jane Kroeger, 17, was charged with murder today after signing a statement that she killed her father and mother last week. The bodies were discovered Saturday night.

Women's Activities

ST. PAUL'S YOUNG MARRIED CLUB

Stirling—The young adults group of St. Paul's Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chambers last Wednesday evening. A variety of games and contests were enjoyed by any who did not go sleigh-riding. There were thirty-six members present.

Following a short business meeting lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bell's group. Mrs. Walter Elliott expressed thanks to the host and hostess for hospitality, and to those who planned the entertainment. The meeting closed with prayer.

PINE GROVE W.I.

It was grandmother's day at Pine Grove W.I., meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Coulter.

With Mrs. Coulter presiding, the meeting opened with the Institute Ode followed by Community singing of "old favorites" of the grandmothers.

Mrs. Coulter graciously welcomed the large number of guests.

Roll call was answered by each person telling the maiden name of their grandmothers.

Mrs. Fred Campbell reported that her committee had packed and mailed a box to Europe.

A motion by Mrs. F. Heasman, seconded by Mrs. F. Campbell, was carried, authorizing the secretary to send a cheque for $50 to The Canadian Appeal for Children Fund.

A quilting and pot-luck dinner was planned for March 4, at the home of Mrs. B. Searles, Oak Lake, and a box social is to be held in Marsh Hill School, under Pine Grove auspices in March.

The collection totalled $3.40

The grandmothers were conveners for the following program: readings, "An Old Dream", Mrs. B. Searles; "I'm Tired of Grandma", Mrs. A. Tanner; "The Modern Grandmother," Mrs. Bartindale; "Just Sort of", Mrs. F. Finkle; "Dorothy Dix", Mrs. F. Finkle; "My Grandmother", Mrs. B. Mitts; "Memories of Grandmother', Mrs. L. Finkle. A quiz, "Conveniences our Grandmothers Missed" was conducted by Mrs. W. Rogers.

Mrs. Rogers also gave an interesting review on a book recently read by her.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

A special lunch in honor of the grandmothers was served and featured a large cake decorated with the words "For Grandmothers" and Mrs. Vanderwater proposed a toast to the grandmothers present.

ANGLICAN WOMAN'S AUX.

Roslin.—The March meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. Sills with thirteen members present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. H. Sills, vice-president, had charge of the meeting.

The Scripture lesson was read by Miss A. Wilson from the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel Several letters of thanks were read for flowers received by shut-in members. The Diocesan Board letter from Kingston told of a recent invitation from St. Thomas' Church, in Belleville, to hold Diocesan Annual W.A. meeting there in the Spring.

Mrs. Beazer, leader for the evening, gave a number of thoughts on activities, and read an article on "Courage". Mrs. P. Clare gave a reading on "What the W.A. Prayer Means to Me", taken from the Living Message magazine. Rev. Mr. Beazer contributed a much appreciated solo. "Pitching Horseshoes" was read by Mrs. Wm. Bates, and Mr. Beazer closed the meeting with the benediction, after which delicious refreshments were served.

ALLAN MILLS W.I.

Allan's Mills.—On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. W. J. Barlow opened her home to members of the W.I. with 20 members attending. The meting was opened in the usual manner with Mrs. F. Cosby in the chair.

The roll call was answered with "My first school and school teacher".

Ten dollars was granted to the appeal for children's fund and $5 was donated to the needy children of Britain.

The members presented Mrs. Isaac Brown with a gift before leaving to make her home in St. Catharines. Mrs. G. Williams, convener for Historical Research, was in charge of the program.

Mrs. G. Meiklejohn gave a paper on a Canadian National Anthem "The Maple Leaf", "O, Canada" and others.

Mrs. Berton Bateman presented "Current Events".

Mrs. G. Williams gave a splendid address on all makes of China dishes.

A contest was conducted by Mrs. Arthur Reid and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred McKeown on March 31st., when a film on health will be shown.

ROSLIN W.A.

Roslin.—The W.A. of the Roslin United Church met at the home of Mrs. Charles Chapman on Tuesday afternoon, with an attendance of nine adults, and three children. In the absence of the president, Mrs. S. Colden had charge of the meeting.

It was decided to enlarge the program to include Missions, and to set aside one month for missionary reading and a donation. Mrs. F. Howes read the 92nd Psalm, and a reading "Victory or Defeat" was given by Mrs. Carman Bailey. Mrs. H. Chisholm gave an interesting talk on "Hymns and Their Authors", who went 'singing on their way'. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and the hostess served afternoon tea.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

Marmora.—The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Donald McInroy. There was a good attendance of members and the President, Mrs. W. D. Lavender, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with prayer by the rector, and Mrs. D. McInroy gave the monthly statement of the General Fund. There was little general business for the meeting. It was decided to hold the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Burridge. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. J. M. Brownlie, after which refreshments were served.

V.O.N. NOTES

Dr. R. C. Burr, of Kingston, will be the guest speaker at the annual V.O.N. dinner meeting to be held in Tabernacle Church Assembly Room Friday evening of this week. Dr. Burr will speak on some phases of the subject, "The Prevention of Cancer." Dinner will be served at seven o'clock and tickets may be obtained from nurses or board members.

The deadline for the local poster contest is March 10th, and contestants should make sure that someone will be at the Kiwanis Centre at the time they present their posters. In order to be sure that none is omitted posters should be handed to a nurse for safety until the time of judging.

The V.O.N. is at the service of the public, provided a doctor is in attendance, to whom the nurses may turn for instruction.

BAG 92 WOLVES IN SOO DISTRICT

Sault Ste. Marie, March 8 — (CP)— Trappers in this district bagged 92 wolves in the last four months. Charles Cook, district game overseer, reported approval of 92 applications for bounties.

Rev. G.S. Buckingham Conducts Services At Emmanuel Church

Rev. George S. Buckingham, of Ottawa, at the services in Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church on Sunday referred in the morning to the Great Soul, Mahatma Gandhi, as the Abraham Lincoln of India, winning peace and freedom for that county by prayer and fasting, and greater in death than in life. Mr. Buckingham read Gandhi's own words, "Why I believe in God and prayer."

At the Sunday School, Mr. Buckingham pleaded with the girls and boys, to write an Easter prayer each, quoting a wartime prayer for peace written by an eleven-year-old Jewess of Ottawa, Josephine Stein "Dear Lord, our God, kindly grant us liberty and peace for the sake of the loved ones over there, soldiers, sailors, nurses, doctors, and make us good and kind forever."

In the evening he answered the question :"Does God hear and answer prayer?" by reference to St. John XI: 4-45: "Father I thank Thee, that Thou has heard me. . .Lazarus, come forth. . . Loose him and let him go," and by reference to the rescue of the Royal Welsh Male Quartet, when they sang "Abide With Me" as the Lusitania was torpedoed in the Irish Sea.

Only 350 Overseas Wives Abandoned by Canadian Servicemen

London, March 8 (CP) — More than 47,000 Canadians married during service overseas, but only 350 wives willing to join their husbands in Canada are "stranded" on this side of the Atlantic.

An official of the Canadian Department of Veterans' Affairs said the figures showed most Canadian servicemen were prepared to maintain their marriage obligations.

No records are maintained of wives who have refused to join their husbands in Canada, but their number has been estimated at 600. A few war brides have been to Canada and returned after leaving their husbands, but their number is unknown

Some 2,500 abandoned or illegitimate children of Canadian servicemen remain in the United Kingdom. None of the allied governments, including Canada, has accepted responsibility for illegitimate children abroad. Their care, if their mothers cannot maintain them, falls on local authorities.

In cases of need a Canadian committee has made disbursements for their assistance from money donated by the British War Victims' Fund organized by the Toronto Evening Telegram during the war.

This fund had a surplus when hostilities ended and some $72,000 has been paid into the Canadian Overseas Children's Fund which is under the direction of a committee headed by Col. Alan Chambers of Nanaimo, B.C., Department of Veterans' Affairs overseas representative.

The committee has considered 1,200 appeals where it was proved the child had a Canadian father.

After thorough investigation grants may be made for maintenance, clothing, sickness, orthopedic appliances and fares to Canada when the father is willing to accept the child.

"There have been cases when mothers have taken their children to the DVA offices and wanted to leave them with us, saying they were a Canadian responsibility," an official said.

"But we have explained there is no government duty to care for the children and their cases have been investigated by the agencies to see if they warranted a grant from the children's fund. That is all we can do."

The married woman who complains her Canadian husband has deserted her now can hope to have a maintenance order applied against him in four provinces — British Columbia, Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Provincial legislation is necessary before this procedure can be applied and five provinces still have to take action.

Offering Plates Presented To Tabernacle Ch.

A very large congregation attended divine worship in Tabernacle United Church yesterday, when a ceremony of dedication was an inspiring feature of the Sunday morning service, prior to the reception of seventy new members, Mrs. F. B. Jarrell presented six brass offering plates for dedication "to the glory of God and the service of Tabernacle United Church, in loving memory of my dear husband, Captain Frederick B. Jarrell, who was laid to rest in God's care two years ago today. May they be a living memory of him, who loved this church, and may our tithes collected therein help to extend God's Kingdom."

Rev. F. R. Harback, on behalf of the Tabernacle congregation, received the plates and dedicated them; Mrs. Jarrell being the first to place an offering upon one of them. Following the presentation of the offering Captain J. A. Buchanan sang "Crossing the Bar" most acceptably. This solo was at the request of Mr. John Jarrell of Ridgetown, Ont, a son of Capt. Jarrell and the basket of flowers on the table with the plates was sent by Mr. John Jarrell and Mrs. Jarrell for this service.

The minister's sermon was based on the theme "The Cross as Creative Suffering" and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was dispensed following the reception of new members.

The evening service was in charge of the Y.P.U., with Miss Olive Thompson conducting, and was followed by a Fireside Hour in the ladies' parlor, when Mr. Don Williams was the guest speaker.

New Carburetor Makes Alcohol Useful as Fuel

Omaha, March 8 — (AP)—A new carburetor makes it possible to drive your automobile entirely on ethyl alcohol, the drinking kind of alcohol, instead of gasoline.

The carburetor, shown today to the National Farm Chemurgic Conference, has been used successfully in a tractor engine and it could be put in passenger automobiles, said R.E. Davis, distillery research engineer.

Alcohol is not cheap enough now to compete with gasoline as a fuel in the United States. But the carburetor is one of the new developments under way against a day of gasoline shortage or cheaper alcohol prices.

The carburetor has a double chamber, one atop the other. Vapors from the lower chamber enter the upper one to supply a richer mixture of alcohol to the cylinders.

The design returns 10 per cent of the engine exhaust into the intake system, to supply enough heat to vaporize the alcohol. To help starting in cold weather, always a problem with alcohol fuel, there is a "fuelizer." Some of the alcohol is ignited by a spark plug and this preheats the alcohol-air mixture before it enters the combustion chamber, Davis explained. This still needs improvement for greater efficiency.

The new carburetion system has been under test for nearly two years by Davis and Prof. A. J. Meyer, director of the Aeronautical Research Laboratory, University of Kentucky.

In 500 hours of tests, mostly at full load and open throttle, the converted tractor engine has performed well, Davis said. There has been no evidence of carbon deposits in the combustion chamber, oil dilution, or abnormal wear from using the alcohol fuel.

Power output and performance of the engine were equal to gasoline operation. Ethyl alcohol has a higher anti-knock rating than gasoline.

By turning a valve the tractor operator can run either on alcohol or gasoline. Only one chamber of the carburetor is used with gasoline as the fuel.

The consumption rate of alcohol is slightly higher per hour of operation than with gasoline, Davis said. But due to its high octane rating, and adaptability to compression engines, more of the energy in the alcohol is turned to heat and useful work.

New President Of Western U. Is Installed

London, Ont., March 8 (CP) — Pomp and pageantry honored the 70th birthday of the University of Western Ontario yesterday.

Dr. George Edward Hall was installed as Western's new president, while five honorary degrees were conferred and a silver mace, gift of the University of London, England, was officially received.

The Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, Anglican Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of all Canada: James S. Bell, London City Treasurer; Dr. David Hughes Parry, Vice-Chancellor of the University of London; Mrs. Jessie A. M. Gilmore, Western's first woman graduate, and Dr. H. E. MacMahon, former Western graduate, now Professor of Pathology and Bacteriology at Tufts Medical School, Boston Mass. all received degrees of Doctor of Laws, except Dr. MacMahon who was given a Doctor of Science degree.

In his inaugural address, President Hall said:

"In accepting this responsibility, I accept also the challenges which are inherent in the position.

"It is my firm conviction that universities must recognize three major responsibilities—1, to teach in the most adequate manner possible, 2, to advance knowledge through research and investigation; 3, to develop men and women.

Installed by Chancellor

"Our universities should be available for those who are capable of taking advantage of higher education, for those who give evidence of being competent to think, for those who are potential leaders—and for all those, lack of funds should not be permitted to determine their future."

He was installed by Chancellor Arthur R. Ford.

Dr. Hall said universities face two major problems. One is whether to become "retreats" for scholars or institutes for teaching the sciences along highly-technical lines. The other is whether to admit only the most brilliant students who can absorb a high standard of education or a large number for whom standards must be lower. Each side has its merits.

Education's two main aims were to prepare the individuals for earning a better living and to develop the mind, body and spirit.

"In an age in which science has had great influence, we are producing many superb technicians but too few educated men, too few indeed who are competent to give leadership in a world torn by frustration, by prejudice, by distrust, by ignorance, by all of those phases of human thought and behavior which are the antithesis of loyalty, compassion, humility, judgment, knowledge.

Kiwanis Musical Festival Closes

Toronto, March 8 (CP)—Winners of scholarships and cash prizes totalling more than $5,000 were announced Saturday night at the close of the two-week Kiwanis Music Festival.

In the evening's vocal finals, the 53-voice Ladies' Philharmonic Choir of New Liskeard, Ont., won the female voice chorus class and was awarded the Grand Choral Trophy as well as a special $100 prize. After travelling nearly 400 miles to participate, the choir earlier won the ladies' double trio class and the girl's chorus group for singers 21 years and under.

Scholarship winners included:

Carolyn Gundy, Kingston, pianist, $100 and Keith Calder, Thorold, singer, $50.

In the day's closing competitions, Miss Gundy won second and third place in violin classes for competitors 18 and under and 21 and under repsectively.

Wilfred Manning, Jr., Woodstock, was first in two saxophone solo classes for players 15 and under and Donald Hyder of London, Ont., took a second prize. Mr. Hyder also placed second in the open class with Howard Greenly, Woodstock, third.

Notre Dame Choral Club of Waterdown, Ont., won the award for chorus aged 17 and under. Preston High School was second in this class and first in the competition for mixed voices under 21. Port Colborne came third in the mixed choir and second in the girl's chorus under 21.

Ronald Pettit, Guelph, was best baritone, 20 and under with A. Wiltshire, Oshawa, second. R. W. E. Higgins, Niagara Falls, Ont., tied for third in the open baritone group.

Police Searching Ruins of Factory For Missing Men

Waltham, Mass., March 8 — (AP) — Police and fire officials searched the ruins of a plastics factory today for two men missing and believed killed in a Saturday night explosion that took two other lives and injured 29, five critically.

The bodies of two workmen, charred so badly they could not be identified immediately, were removed from the wreckage of the Interlake Chemical Corporation's two-storey cement and stucco plant.

Police said a check of hospitals and families of all persons employed at the plant showed the missing and possibly dead were:

William Brushingham, 52; Louis Scalzi, 23; Nicholas Raimondi, 22; and Albert L. Quinan, 48.

The explosion was heard for 10 miles and left the plant a seared mass of girders and heavy machinery piled eight feet deep.

Fire Chief B. A. Neal said most of the survivors apparently were blown clear of the building and that some were shot 50 feet in the air and 75 to 100 feet away from the building.

Neal said that the blast occurred during a change in shifts at the suburban Boston factory. It was followed by a roaring fire which immediately enveloped the building. Neal estimated damage at "about $150,000."

One of the injured, Raymond Baker, 25, said through burned lips:

"I still don't know what happened. There was no warning, like a rumbling or anything like that. Just a terrific noise. The side of the office blew out. I found myself on the floor and crawled outside."

Mrs. Ruth Melanson, a nurse who aided in getting the injured to hospitals, said: "From the appearance of the injured, some of them must have been blown right through the building. When I got there men were scattered all over the place."

Toronto-Detroit Leadership Continues While Montreal Canadiens Playoff Hopes Fade

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Five hard-fought weekend games leave Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs still deadlocked today for the National Hockey League championship, and Detroit has six games left to Toronto's five before the schedule closes March 21.

The weekend struggles also just about ended Montreal Canadiens' hopes of making the Stanley Cup playoffs. With only five games left, Canadiens are seven points behind Boston Bruins who hold the fourth position and last playoff spot. Norm Dussault, the rookie winger who has been a tower of strength for Canadiens in recent games, suffered a possible brain concussion at Chicago last night, after a terrific check from Bill Gadsby of the Hawks.

The Wings on Saturday were held to a 2-2 tie by the Canadiens at Detroit, while Leafs were edging New York Rangers 2-1 at Toronto. On Sunday, Leafs suffered a 3-1 defeat at Boston, Wings took another 2-2 tie at New York and Canadiens were beaten 9-3 at Chicago.

At Chicago Sunday the Hawks rolled up their biggest score of the year in the victory over Canadiens. Dussault's injury came near the end of the first period. Gadsby hit Dussault with a terrific check at the Chicago blueline and Dussault lay motionless on the ice for several minutes while fruitless attempts were made to revive him.

Dussault finally was taken off on a stretcher and at hospital was believed suffering brain concussion. X-ray plates today will show how badly he was hurt.

Gaye Stewart Flying

Gaye Stewart scored two of the Chicago goals, the others divided among Roy Conacher, Red Hamill, Bud Poile, Bill Mosienko, Gus Bodnar, Ralph Nattrass and Doug Bentley. Montreal scorers were Elmer Lach, Murph Chamberlain and Maurice Richard. Each team drew six penalties including one major to Jack Stewart of Chicago in the heavy going.

The Wings and the entire crowd at Madison Square Garden last night figured it was a Detroit win until Tony Leswick scored with 20 seconds left to give Rangers the tie. Leswick had scored also in the first period, matching the opening goal by Ted Lindsay of Detroit. Don Morrison got Detroit's second goal early in the final frame.

At Boston Sunday the Bruins gained a 3-0 lead before the second period ended, Grant Warwick scoring in the first frame and Milt Schmidt and Don Gallinger in the second. The Leafs, who had seen Frankie Brimsek stop several dangerous shots, finally broke Brimsek's shut-out with Joe Klukay's brainy goal in the third period.

Klukay Scores Goal

Brimsek had just stopped a hot one from Garth Boesch and was looking for the puck in a tangle of players when Klukay got to it, a couple of inches outside the goal line, and neatly shoved it in.

Gus Mortson of Toronto and Fern Flaman of Boston drew majors for fighting in the last minute, one of several skirmishes during the game.

Saturday the Leafs beat Rangers on Howie Meeker's third period goal after Syl Apps had tied it up in the same frame, matching Tony Leswick's goal for New York in the middle period. Leswick was serving a penalty for slashing when Apps got the tying goal. Meeker turned in one of his finest games and deserved the game-winning counter.

The other Sautrday game for a change had the Canadiens on foreign ice, and they were ahead 2-0 at Detroit before the Wings managed to tie the score. Murph Chamberlain and Doug Harvey scored for Montreal in the first period, Ted Lindsay got one back in the second and Gord Howe cashed the tying goal with only about five minutes left in the third.

Only Top Athletes Will be Taken To The Games

Toronto, March 8. (CP)—You will have to be good to gain a place on Canada's Summer Olympic team.

That, to put it curtly, is the gist of decisions reached here Saturday at a five-hour meeting of executives and representatives of amateur sports-governing bodies connected with the Canadian Olympic Association.

The committee adopted a stiff set of standards to govern choices for Canadian track and field and weight-lifting competitors. Swimming marks to be set at a later date, are expected to be equally as tough.

No standards were set for other sports like cycling, canoeing, rowing, wrestling, boxing, basketball and fencing because exact qualifying points are impossible to establish for these. They are either strictly competitive or depend greatly on weather and course conditions.

However, the committee left no doubt that to qualify, any athlete must show promise of making a creditable showing for Canada in the Summer games at London.

Executive Changes

Looking over the list of standards, Prof. Norman Hart of University of Western Ontario, secretary of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Canada would be likely to place from 5th to 7th with a team meeting or at least approaching the qualification marks.

Other business carried out by the meeting included executive changes, setting of trial and final competition dates and review of finances.

Dr. A. S. Lamb of Montreal, resigned as track and field committee representative but was chosen honorary president. Thus continuation of his "valuable advice" on Olympic matters will be continued in an official capacity.

F. N. A. Rowell, now of Vancouver, replaced Dr. Lamb. Mr. Rowell by moving from Toronto gave up his position as Central Ontario executive, a position which goes to James Worrall of Toronto.

Zone Trials Set

Kenneth Farmer of Montreal, a member of Canada's 1936 Olympic hockey team, was appointed assistant treasurer and will accompany the team to London. Treasurer Robert Kerr of Hamilton said he would be unable to go.

The Canadian Olympic finals are scheduled for Montreal July 9-10. Zone trials are as follows.

Maritime-Quebec, Montreal, June 19; Northern and Southern Ontario, London, June 19; Northwestern Ontario-Manitoba-Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, June 19; British Columbia-Alberta, June 23, Vancouver.

Dominion wrestling-trials will be held in Toronto, May 28-29, and boxing trials in Montreal, May 27-28. Weight-lifting will also be held in Montreal on an unspecified date.

Between 125 and 130 members will compromise the Canadian team, about 100 of them actual competitors and the remainder official coaches, chaperons and managers.

As for finances, officials said the Olympic backing is still far short of that necessary to outfit and send the team to London. They said the number of members might have to be reduced if lack of finances make it necessary.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

In another ding-dong razzle-dazzle display of hockey, the Trenton Flyers took a stranglehold on their three-of-five Intermediate "A" group playoff series with the Trenton Hockey Club here Saturday night, barely nudging the Trenton crew by a 4-3 score after sixty-minutes of furious ice-lane battling.

• • •

The Flyers, in one of the hardest checking displays of the season, grabbed their second straight win, and installed themselves favorites to cop the third and deciding game at Memorial Arena tonight when a desperate backs-to-the-wall Trenton team, must register a win to remain in the running. Defeat means elimination.

• • •

Saturday night's game was a repetition of the first clash between the squads. The evenly matched teams battled scorelessly for 21 minutes. Then it happened. Whatever it was, no one seems to be able to figure out, but five goals were fired home in six minutes in the second period with the sixth marker of the session coming at the 11-minute mark. Then the boys put on the clam-act again and it wasn't until 14 minutes of the third period had flitted by before the last goal of the game was registered.

• • •

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way through, with the margin of victory going to Flyers because of their better finish around the opposing nets. Trenton had several chances to pull the game out of the fire, but they gummed them up by failing to follow up advantages when in front of the Flyer goal. However tonight may be a different story. It will be another slam-bang action-filled thriller, with a desperate Trenton squad going all out in an effort to pull the series out of the fire, and a determined Flyer crew battling for a three-straight series of victories.

• • •

Tomorrow night the Belleville Merchants tee off in the finals series for the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget "B" championship. The youngsters, who have been playing superlative hockey in their drive for the title, and are yet undefeated in playdown games will face the acid test when they tangle with the Western Ontario champions from Waterloo.

• • •

The kids under coach Cy Barriage, had a strenuous workout over the weekend and the entire team travelled at top speed in various phases of training for a full hour. They appeared to be in tip-top shape and no casualties have been reported.

• • •

Sports fandom of this city should get solidly behind this team of gallant puckchasers. The only organized squad left to carry the hockey banner of Belleville in search of a provincial title, the Merchants kidlets are a fighting courageous band of puckists who never quit trying until the last whistle has blown, regardless of victory or defeat. And they are highly confident than when the battle smoke of the Ontario finals has cleared, they will be the proud bearers of the first Ontario hockey championships to come to Belleville in many a year.

• • •

And there is another reason why the Memorial Arena should be packed tomorrow night. The Merchants management, a group of public-spirited and sports minded citizens deserve a lot of credit for their interest, financial and otherwise in a group of enthusiastic youngsters, who two or three months ago, had not played together. Now a championship is within their grasp.

• • •

It takes money to operate a hockey team. And the Belleville squad has a long hard trip ahead of it, one that calls for an overnight stay, when the second game of the titular series is played in Waterloo. It means a round trip of nearly 400 miles, hotel accommodation, meals, etc. And in these days of rocketing prices, you can't get things like that for peanuts.

• • •

Furthermore, if the series develops a third game, it will mean additional expense inasmuch as the game will be played on neutral ice, quite possibly, Toronto. And that means more coin of the realm must be forthcoming. A packed arena tomorrow night will go a long way in providing much-needed finance for the team.

• • •

In any event, the hockey public here should not be enticed to the game through appeals of this kind. It is sufficient that the city has a smart, little hockey squad, which is doing its best to bring a title here, and which is a distinct credit to its native city, its management, and to itself.

• • •

Tomorrow night's game should be a thriller. Waterloo, the home of many hockey stars, will be represented by tough little squad which knows plenty of hockey answers. They must be good, for any team that reaches a provincial final series has what it takes. They won't be pushovers for our beardless buckaroos, and by the same token, the Merchants will let the starry visitors know they've been in a hockey battle before the final whistle blows.

• • •

Stirling's starry little crew of Midget "C" puckchasers hung another scalp on their already crowded playdown belts on Saturday. Playing in Whitby against the tough Ajax squad Ross Hermiston's kidlet crew came through with a sparkling 5-2 victory to cop the round 15-5. They defeated the Ajaxers in Stirling by a 10-3 score in the first game, scoring nine goals in the third period to grab a commanding lead.

• • •

The Stirling kids now enter the provincial semi-finals, meeting the classy Sundridge team in a goals-to-count series dates to be announced later. Its a long jaunt way up thar, the distance being some 250 miles.

• • •

'Twas a rough battle in Whitby according to reports of the game. Two Ajax players took exception to the referee's decision on one occasion, and proceeded to rough the official. Unfortunately for them, Secretary Jack Christie, of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association was a spectator at the game, and saw the proceedings Ajax it is presumed will hear more about the affair.

• • •

The Stirling team has established an enviable record this season going through their schedule and five playdown rounds without a defeat. They have scored 56 goals and the opposition has fired but twelve behind the Stirling goalie. And maybe part of the secret of their success is their clean play. Only six penalties have been registered against the team all season, further evidence that hockey players who stay on the ice, can win games.

• • •

A lady? fan, who apparently had been imbibing a little too freely before, and perhaps during the Flyers-Trenton battle on Saturday night, did not agree with some of Referee St. Louis' decisions. And just to show her appreciation of the official, she promptly heaved a gin bottle, from which the spirits frumenti had been judiciously removed, a little at a time, in the general direction of the referee. She was all right for line, but should have added fifteen on her range calculations. The juglet splintered in pieces on the ice, and time was called to clear up the fragments.'

• • •

But that was not enough. She again lined her sights on the official, and extracting her compact from her purse, gave a reasonable facsimile of President Truman heaving out the first ball at the American League opener in Washington. Again she missed. The compact spouted powder, and received a small dent after its contact with the ice, but was otherwise undamaged. If the lady cares to call at the Arena box office, she will receive her property. The compact, that is, not the gin bottle.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Galt 12-4, Move into Finals

(By The Canadian Press)

It took all five games of the series to decide it but Barrie Flyers finally won the nod Saturday to meet Windsor Spitfires in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final playoffs. Barrie handed Galt Rockets a 12-4 pasting to win the best-of-five quarter finals 3-2, and tonight move into Windsor for the first tilt of the best-of-seven finals.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior finalists are still undecided as one semi-final series goes into the deciding match tonight. Last Saturday McIntyre Macmen walloped North Bay Hawks 9-5 to even their best-of-five semi-finals at two games apiece and force tonight's deciding encounter. The winner will go up against Sault senior Greyhounds, winners of the second semi-final series, for the league crown.

The Flyers completely outplayed the Rockets for the first two frames with Barrie leading 5-0 at the end of the first and 10-1 at the end of the second. In the final session Galt outscored Barrie 3-2, as play was more on even terms.

Shifty Paul Meger, with three goals and two assists, led the Barrie snipers while Stan Long scored twice and Bruno Favero, Jerry Reid, Bill Barrett, Rusty Aiken, Ray Gariepy, Gil St. Pierre and Sam McNabney each counted once.

Robertson Scores Two

Robbie Robertson scored two goals —for Galt in less than one minute in the third frame while the Flyers were shorthanded. Harry Pidhirny scored one in the second and Harry Marchant one in the third to complete the Rocket scoring list.

Chalking up an impressive 7-2 lead by the end of the second period, McIntyre coasted through the third as North Bay rapped in three to the Macmen's two.

The nine McIntyre tallies were divided among eight players. Ted Lister scored two while the others were split among Doug Glaister, Bummer Doran, Vic Baneberry, Ralph Orlando, Dusty Baker and Alex Stewart. North Bay marksmen were Maisonneuve with two, Ringler, Bonany and Marcellus with one apiece. The two teams meet in the deciding match at Timmins tonight.

Besides the junior O.H.A. and the senior N.O.H.A. tilts scheduled for tonight, Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen hook up at Hamilton in the first game of their best-of-seven finals for the senior A O.H.A. title.

Cleveland Barons In First Place American Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons clinched first place in the American Hockey League's western circuit over the weekend and with only two games left to finish out the season, the Barons will attempt to add to their undefeated string which now stands at 21.

On Saturday, the Clevelanders dumped Providence 8-3 to establish a new record for consecutive games won without a loss, 20. Then yesterday they edged the second-place Pittsburgh Hornets 4-2. Cleveland lead Hornets by seven points.

Meanwhile, Providence, who clinched first place in the eastern circuit last week, came back from their drubbing Saturday to tie Indianapolis 8-8 last night. In Pittsburgh's other contest, the Hornets shut out Indianapolis 2-0 on Saturday.

Buffalo Bisons came off with two weekend victories, whipping Washington 8-3 Sunday after drubbing Hershey 6-2 the night before.

New Haven Ramblers, runners-up in the East, split two weekend games, edging St. Louis 3-2 yesterday after dropping an 3-3 decision to St. Louis Saturday.

Quebec, March 8—(CP)—More important at the moment to Fernando Gagnon, Canadian bantamweight and featherweight champion, than the ringing of the cash register in his hash-house here is arrangements for a rematch with Montreal's Hubert Gagnier, deposed featherweight king — a grudge battle in the making.

Seemingly, some people — including Gagnier himself and his father — weren't convinced Gagnon's quick kayo of the Montrealer here last Monday was no fluke. So the curly-haired Quebec boy, who added the featherweight title to his bantam crown, wants to prove he can do it again.

That there were doubting Thomases must have surprised Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll who dismissed result of the title-affair in four lines, only two of which are reproduced here: "No one was surprised by the outcome . . . Gagnon was known to be a fair belter and Gagnier to have a china chin."

Roland (Quebec L'Evenement - Journal) Sabourin, noting that "Some of his colleagues" in the metropolis had gone overboard for versions of the fight given by Gagnier and his father on their return to Montreal, says:

"Personally, we thing the Gagniers should have kept silent . . . and accepted their defeat like gentlemen, for their blabbering could do nothing else but blacken the name of the sport."

Out on a Limb

Turning to hockey, Sabourin goes out on a limb for Quebec Citadels to take their semi-final junior series with Montreal's powerful Royals in three straight games. It's a tall order, but Roly adds he's backing a team that does not know the meaning of the word quit — as they showed in their series against Montreal Canadiens, 1947 provincial champions, when they came from behind to win three straight games after dropping the first two contests.

What's This?

Back to the ring game, Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson says reports of Montreal "amateur boxers fighting professionally under assumed names throughout the province" will be probed at Tuesday's meeting of the Athletic Commission.

Flyers Edge Trenton 4-3 For Second Straight Victory In Ding-Dong Group Finals Tilt

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Scoring all four goals in a brief but smashing second-period offensive drive, the Trenton RCAF Flyers nudged the Trenton Hockey Club before 1,600 fans 4-3 in Memorial Arena Saturday night to register their second straight victory in the three-of-five intermediate "A" group finals.

Flyers defeated the town team by a similar score last Tuesday and after Saturday night's battle are reigning slight favorites to take the series in three straight, with heavier odds that they take the series. The third game will be played here tonight starting at 8.30, and should be a repetition of the razzle-dazzle type of hockey that has featured the series thus far. Fourth and fifth games of the series, if necessary will be played on Wednesday and Friday nights of this week, unless arrangements are made to play the deciding tilt on Saturday.

Photostatic Copy

The game was practically a photostatic ice copy of the ding-dong battle that featured the first tilt. The evenly matched teams battled at top speed through a scoreless first period, then like a bolt from the blue, struck savagely for goals in the first part of the second heat, went back into their checking shells with both goalies having narrow escapes, and ranged scoreless up and down the ice until the desperate goal-hungry Trenton squad fired home the last goal of the game late in the third period.

It was just like that. Like a bolt from the blue a minute after the second period got underway, the nets of both goals began to rattle from the impact of hard-driven pucks. Six goals were fired home in eleven minutes, five of them coming in the first six minutes of the period. Flyers scored all four of their goals in three minutes and five seconds of play, after Schmidt of Trenton fired home the first goal of the game at 1.25 of the period.

Flyers sandwiched their four swift markers between Beale's goal and Trenton's second tally from the stick of Beale which was flung home at the eleven minute mark.

Had Edge in Play

Flyers perhaps had an edge in territorial play and their slim margin of victory, outside of Bridgman's fine work in the Trenton nets, was earned through a more or less marked lapse at times of the Trenton forwards to follow up their offensive advantages behind the Flyers blue-lines.

They had several chances in this respect despite the fine defensive efforts of the Flyer blueline stalwarts, and the consistent backchecking of the airmen front lines, but they couldn't hit the goal jackpot when they did go in with Robertson, Flyer goalie playing at top form.

The game was a hard-checking affair from start to finish, and was cleanly fought with only seven penalties dished out by Referee Speedy St. Louis. These were all minor affairs, and some could have been called either way.

Sustained Speed

It was fast, hard hockey, with both teams going all out for the victory. Play surged rink-length from goal to goal in all three periods, and the fans thrilled to the sustained speed that was climaxed late in the third period when the desperate Trenton team in an eleventh-hour bid for the tying goal, yanked Bridgman from the nets and sent out a sixth forward. They buzzed around the Flyer goal, but the air crew successfully held off their attacks until the bell ended the game.

Edwards spark-plugged the Flyer bid for goals in that hectic scoring six minutes in the second period. The diminutive forward, after Ault fired home the tying goal following Schmidt's opener for Trenton, slipped a neat pass to Mid Middleton, who made no mistake, fired home the same player's pass a minute later and laid the puck neatly on Cowick's stick for his third scoring point and the Flyer's fourth goal of the game.

Five minutes later Trenton's Beale swerved his way down centre ice on a breakaway sailed in close on Robertson and hit the rigging for the second goal to make the score 4-2.

Score Shorthanded

The battle raged scorelessly for fourteen minutes of the third period when four of the seven penalties were handed out. Both teams were shorthanded at one time, but Trenton fired home their third goal with Middleton in the cooler. Watson grabbed the puck from a goal-mouth scramble and put his mates within striking distance with five minutes to go. The town team went all out from there on, even yanking their goalie, but couldn't penetrate the Flyer defence.

Ault, Middleton, Edwards, Miller and Brackenbury, with Robertson looked the best for Flyers with Sargent skating miles and passing up what might have been goals through his yen to pass the puck. Beale with 2 goals, Schmidt Cy Johnson, Watson and the Bastedos looked the best for Trenton, with Bridgman doing a man's job in the nets.

An indication of the equality of the teams is seen in the fact that both squads had thirty-one shots on goal, according to Bill Green, the local hockey man-of-figures.

Playoff Battle Shaping Up

(By The Associated Press)

A playoff battle shaped up today in the United States Hockey League's northern division.

Minneapolis failed to improve its lead over the weekend, dropping two games, and is in front by only four points. Kansas City stepped into second place, one point ahead of Omaha, and St. Paul moved up to one point behind Omaha. So all three are within striking distance of a playoff spot.

A goal by Jack Miller gave Kansas City a 4-3 decision over Fort Worth last night.

Meanwhile, St. Paul chopped Minneapolis off twice, 4-2 and 2-1, to get back in the race.

Houston bowed to Dallas, 7-1, Saturday, but retaliated last night, beating the Texans 7-2 to hold a slim lead in the southern division.

Tulsa defeated Fort Worth Saturday 6-4 helping to keep the Rangers in the southern loop's second place.

There are no games tonight. Dallas will square off against the Huskies at Houston again Tuesday, while Tulsa plays at St. Paul and Kansas City at Omaha.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 8 — (AP) — Earl York, 21-year-old rookie 1st sacker of Chicago Cubs, is off to an impressive start in his bid for a major league berth.

York, a southpaw, has clubbed a homer in each of the Cubs' first two exhibition games against Chicago White Sox. The Cubs took both games by a one-run margin.

Al Jurisich, Homer Spraggins and Charley Schanz will pitch for the Philadelphia Phillies tomorrow when they play their farm hands.

The youngsters from the Phils' farms have been poking fun at the regular Phils ever since they arrived in camp so manager Ben Chapman decided to give them the opportunity to make good their boasts.

Boston Braves were told today by the Brooklyn Dodger secretary, Harold Parrott, that Eddie Stanky made this comment after being traded to Boston: "The Dodgers will not win the pennant without me." Boston gave up Ray Sanders, Bema Rowell and cash for the second bassmen, currently bedridden with pneumonia.

Manager Buck Harris of New York Yankees has intimated that he will retain six outfielders for the championship season.

Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich are set in centre and right field, respectively, with Charley Keller slated for left. The other three are rookies Cliff Mapes and Ed Stewart, and Johnny Lindell, star of the recent world series.

Manager Zach Taylor of St. Louis Browns was far from pleased with the showing of his pitchers yesterday. Pittsburgh Pirates, in gaining a 12-11 victory from the Browns, combed Brownie hurlers for 18 hits.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Tampa, Fla., March 8. (AP)— Impressions after a week in the baseball training camps:

Most optimistic manager—Billy Southworth of Boston Braves. About the only thing talkative Billy won't say is that he's sure to win the pennant.

Most uncommunicative is Joe McCarthy of Boston Red Sox. Never did say much and this year he says even less.

Most enthusiastic squad —the Phillies. It's hard to tell whether the "regulars" or the "farmhands" squad has more spirit. Manager Ben Chapman seems to lean toward the farmhands.

Least enthusiastics—Philadelphia Athletics. But maybe we hit them on a bad day.

Most determined — Detroit Tigers, especially the players who took pay cuts after last season.

Guy who is having the most fun— Bob Carpenter, Phillies president. And he'd be happier if a sore arm didn't keep him from a workout with the team.

Hardest-luck guy — Tom Swope, Cincinnati baseball writer, who took a day off to go fishing, got caught in the rain, took refuge on a porch and tried to pet a strange dog. That was when Tom got the only bite of the day.

Shorts and Shells

Harold Daugherty, who's getting a trial in the Detroit infield, was a freshman halfback on the 1945 Ohio State football team. He didn't play baseball in college but took it up in the army.

Jewel Ens, Syracuse manager, worked three years developing Hank Sauer into the guy whose hitting has the Reds' Camp excited. "One year he hit only .214 but I never gave up on him," Ens explains. "I knew a big, strong fellow like him should be better. He's developed into a good fielder, too."

Quote, Unquote

Billy Southworth: "I fear the Cardinals more than the Dodgers. The reason is that they're strong in every position and probably have the best-season pitching staff in the league."

League Leaders

(By The Canadian Press)

Standing — Detroit won 29, lost 14, drew 11, and Toronto, won 28, lost 14 drew 13, points 69.

Points — O'Connor, New York 54.

Goals — Lindsay, Detroit 31.

Assists — D. Bentley, Chicago 32.

Penalties — Barilko, Toronto 147 minutes.

Shutouts — Lumley, Detroit 6.

Plymouth VALUE- BUILT BY CANADIAN CRAFTSMEN

The department of the engine plant where Plymouth engines are given their initial "run" before being Dynamometer-tested for brake horsepower and general operating efficiency.

Plant No. 2—the Chrysler Corporation engine plant at Windsor, Ontario.

PLYMOUTHS are built in Canada by Chrysler! In huge, modern plants, skilled Canadian craftsmen and powerful machines work miracles of production. If you could walk down the long production lines, you'd see the extreme care that goes into every Plymouth. Every operation is a fine example of precision manufacturing. There is no lost motion and nowhere is precision sacrificed for speed. Rigid engineering standards and specifications are strictly adhered to. Skilled technicians constantly check production to assure unvarying quality. The specially designed instruments and gauges used for checking are marvels of ingenuity and accuracy. On the long assembly line the big Plymouths rapidly take form until, after complete assembly and a final thorough inspection, they roll out of the busy plant, gleaming and handsome—fine Canadian-built Plymouths, ready to give top performance, greater safety and increased economy to their owners.

LOOK AT THESE PLYMOUTH FEATURES
• Safety-Rim Wheels with Super Cushion tires for blowout protection • All-steel Safety Body • Body Guard Bumpers • Hotchkiss Drive to cushion starting and stopping • Front-end Sway Eliminator • Safety Hydraulic Brakes • Floating-Power Engine Mountings to smother vibration.

Plymouth PRECISION MANUFACTURING MEANS Top Performance for you

In this modern plant, skilled craftsmen build the extra values you get in Plymouth. Superfinished crankshaft and camshaft journals —heat-resisting exhaust valve seat inserts—lightweight aluminum pistons — full-pressure lubrication and full length water jackets are only a few of the Engineering advancements that make Plymouth a long-lasting, economical car to own and operate.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In a squeeze play, the squeeze card is a 13er in some suit. The victim, therefore, has no cards in that suit. He must play to that trick with a card from some other suit. Point one.

Point two. The squeezee is trying to keep control of two suits. When the 13er is led, the squeezee must be on the spot. A card he is forced to play must give up control in one of his two suites.

This tells you of two of the acts to expect at the end of a deal where a squeeze is in operation. You must now be ready to understand another act in your study of a squeeze play.

The squeezer must be prepared to enter his opposite hand. After the squeeze has had its effect, the squeezer must be able to enter the hand opposite the squeeze card.

If you are the squeezer you must have an entry to partner's hand. Such an entry to partner's hand must not be used up until after you have taken the trick with your squeeze card.

The three remaining cards in each hand of a deal are here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ K 10 3

♣ None

WEST
♠ A
♥ Q J
♦ None
♣ None

EAST
♠ None
♥ 9
♦ Q J
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ Q
♥ 2
♦ None
♣ 2

The first ten tricks have been played and taken by declarer who is in south. South is now in the lead. He leads his 13er (final) club.

This becomes the squeeze card and west is the squeezee. West is desperately trying to protect both spades and hearts. But he must play to the squeeze card. Which card will it be?

Spade ace? If so, south makes the spade queen for the next trick. And heart king is good. Should west have chucked heart jack? If so, north has two heart tricks.

However, the squeeze would have been futile unless south had a heart to enter north. Or unless north has a higher heart for entry.

Without a door to partner's hand, your plot to squeeze is poorly planned.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 8—(AP)—This will be a big year for John Wayne, both as producer and star.

The actor is slated to play a heavy role (his first?) as the sadistic Ralls in "Wake of the Red Witch" at Republic. He is preparing two of his own productions there: "Eagles in Exile." A story of Napoleon's Henchmen in the United States, and "The Alamo," about the famous Texas Fort.

John also will do "Three Godfathers" for John Ford at M.G.M. It's the story of three outlaws who discover a woman in childbirth on the desert. Their dilemma: whether to continue fleeing or help the woman and risk capture. The title tips off their decision.

Singing Paradise

Glorida Grahame's first version of singing "Paradise" in "The Long Denial" was too warm for the Johnson office. It had to be refilmed with less explosive lyrics. That's what I've been telling you—this Grahame gal is hot stuff. . . .

Eddie Cantor tells me his biography is progressing well at Warners, despite contrary reports. He expects it to be filmed in the fall.

Big Plans

Eve Arden has big plans for her own producing company. She says she'd also like to direct pictures, although not those starring herself. No Orson Welles, She. . . .

Robert Montgomery is just about to close a deal that will put him on the air as a news commentator. Bob has more background than most actors for commenting on the news, having taken an active part in national and diplomatic affairs. . . .

Orson Welles' "Macbeth" is reported being held back for an autumn release.

It's not the type of film people will go for during hot summer weather," says a rebublic source. . . .

Sweating it ut

Frederic March is sweating out the arrival of the "Christopher Columbus" script from England. He is finishing 'The Judge's Wife' and is slated to sail for London April 14. But he won't leave until he has read and approved the script . . .

Greer Garson denies she has been seeing Richard Ney. It's all over now, sez she . . . Jean Hersholt is still turning down film offers. He's too busy with the Academy, relief fund and his air show. Dr. Christian's European trip this summer will mark his first air absence in 11 years.

Hedy Lamarr is showing her temperament on the "Let's Give a Little" set.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

New York, March 6 (CP)—J. B. Priestley's "The Linden Tree", a quiet little character study of a university professor who resists the efforts of the authorities and of most of his family to make him retire, came to Broadway this week.

Boris Karloff, familiar to moviegoers as a monster in one form or another, doffs these sinister roles to appear at the Music Box Theatre as the mild but stubborn history professor who is determined to go on teaching in a drab little English university town.

Karloff, who began his stage career in Kamloops, B.C., and later played in Prince Albert, Sask., acts with sincerity and conviction the part of Prof. Linden. One of the best things in the play is the bit part of Una O'Connor as a sharp-tongued servant with some observations on life as pertinent as those of the professor.

Canadians in "Macbeth"

Three Canadian-born actors will be seen in "Macbeth" which has opened a North American tour at London, Ont., next Thursday with Flora Robson and Michael Redgrave in the lead roles. Thomas Palmer, who plays Caithness, was born in Toronto and educated at Ottawa, where he made his first amateur and professional appearances. The first was with the Little Theatre as King Perivale in A. A. Milne's "The Ivory Door" in 1926 and the second with the Oscar O'Shea Stock Company in "Disraeli" in 1932. Paul Mann, cast as Menteith, is also Toronto-born but has spent most of his acting career in New York. Blair Cutting, who plays an old man, was born in Peterborough, Ont. His first acting appearance was in a Toronto production of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" in 1933. That was an amateur show and three years later he made his professional debut in the same city, playing the male lead in a ballet based on "Romeo and Juliet."

Maurice Chevalier is back in town again, proving once more that he is a superb showman. He held an audience with a program consisting merely of 11 songs and numbers. Judging by the demand for encores he is as popular as ever even though the routine is little changed from his last visit about a year ago. Chevalier and his straw hat are making a four-week stand at the John Golden Theatre.

Camera Develops Photograph In 60 Seconds

Toronto, March 8 (CP)— You can't miss a trick with this new camera—in fact 60 seconds after you click the shutter, you've got a finished photograph.

Its inventor, Dr. Edwin H. Land, of Cambridge, Mass., demonstrated the wonder pic-box for the Royal Canadian Institute here Saturday.

Using it, a photographer—amateur or professional—can dispense with a darkroom and compare the finished picture with the subject matter before leaving the scene.

Its secret lies in a film which is two to four times faster than conventional types and the use of smaller lens settings. The camera does not carry tanks. Similar to ordinary roll-film cameras, it contains a section holding a roll of special print paper as well as the film.

AT THE BELLE — Van Johnson and June Allyson, two of Hollywood's most popular stars, are cast together in "High Barbaree," M.G.M. attraction at the Belle Theatre. Unfolding a stirring new drama by the authors of the memorable "Mutiny on the Bounty," the picture also features Claude Jarman, Jr., last seen in "The Yearling," Thomas Mitchell and Marilyn Maxwell.

AT THE McCARTHY — The artist catches visually the story of Walter Wanger's "The Lost Moment," by putting Robert Cummings in Susan Hayward's eye view. The romantic suspense drama in a Universal-International release, coming to the McCarthy Theatre tomorrow!

AT THE CAPITOL — Hugh Beaumont, as a detective, kneels over the body of Jane Randolph, a girl who knew to much about her boy-friend gangster, in a scene from the powerful film, "Railroaded," having its first Belleville showing and opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program, "The Lost Horizon," starring Ronald Colman.

West Huntingdon Qualifies For Rural Loop Final

Stirling (Special)—On Friday evening a fast and very interesting game was played here in the local arena when West Huntingdon assured themselves of a place in the Central Hastings Rural Hockey League finals by defeating Corbyville to the score of 5-3.

The winners took the lead in the first period on a counter by Harold Thompson after five minutes of play.

Earl Gray scored for Corbyville in the first of the second period to tie the game up. R. Sills made a fine play to put the winners back in the lead again by a 2-1 score at the end of the second period.

L. Sills scored in the first four minutes of the third period and it looked like a sure game for the winners until Carl Sheffield and "Doc" Empson each scored at 12 and 14 minutes of the third period.

At the seventeen minute mark it looked like a tie game until B. McMullen scored to break the tie at the eighteen minute mark. At 19 minutes of the third period, Charles Wright took the rubber from a pass at the face off and shot it through a maze of players to tangle it up in the net bringing the score to 5-3.

With one minute left to play Corbyville took their goalie off and put on another forward player but it was to no avail when the bell rang to end the game.

Both goal tenders turned away a lot of rubber during the game and they had very little chance against the ones that got past them. A few penalties were served during the game for a few minor offences.

Next Tuesday night West Huntingdon will fight it out with Bethel-Zion Combines in the first game of the league playoffs.

Corbyville—Goal, Don Bates; defence, B. Bleekman, Carl Thompson; centre, C. Sheffield; left wing, H. Hart; right wing, Douglas Martin; subs, O. Glass, D. Eves, H. Ketcheson, "Doc" Empson, Earl Gray.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Buddy O'Connor's individual scoring leadership faced a real threat over the weekend as three Chicago Players and Elmer Lach of Montreal, made a great bid to overhaul the slight New York Ranger pivotman who went scoreless in his two weekend games. Bud Poile, Chicago's biggest point-getter climbed up into second place, a point behind O'Connor by picking up four points at Canadiens' expense last night. Gaye Stewart moved up into the charmed circle by virtue of the five points he garnered up against Montreal. Elmer Lach kept abreast of the leaders with a goal and an assist.

Latta

Latta—The Orangemen's dance on Friday evening was a great success. Progressive euchre was played with prizes going to Mrs. R. Sullivan and Mr. Sherman Parks. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served, then more dancing, the Plainfield orchestra composed of Messrs. Jack Gow at the piano, Harry McWilliams, traps; Clayton Hall, violin and Ralph Wilder, banjo, furnishing the music.

The hockey club is holding a dance in the near future.

Mrs. Garfield Hall and baby daughter are spending some time with Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ray.

Mr. Willie Hall of Belleville is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall.

The Junior Farmers Executive met at the home of Mrs. W. Elliott on Monday evening. Some Institute women were also present to arrange for a banquet. Those present were Mrs. Ralph Wilder, Mrs. Charles Beatty, Mrs. Stanley Hazard.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Denyes spent Sunday supper hour and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Treverton.

Misses Verna Carleton of Oshawa and Eileen Carleton of Shannonville spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Carleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilder and David Stanley Wilder spent the supper hour and evening with Mr. and Mrs. N. Wilder on Sunday.

Mr. Charles Beatty has returned home from near London. Also Mr. Vernon Emerson. They have been employed with the Hydro for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Weeks and family spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mrs. Wilbert Elliott and family.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Benedict of Cannifton spent the tea hour on Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Beatty.

Mrs. Fred Sills is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. McCall, of Wooler.

Mr. Norman Hall Jr., and Barbara called on Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall Sunday afternoon at Foxboro.

Mr. Robert Coulter is visiting his sister, Mrs. Donald Hall and family.

Presentation

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cannon (nee Margery Creeper) were presented with a tri-light floor lamp, a table and tray on Wednesday evening in the hall. Owing to blocked roads many who would have been there were unable to go. Music was furnished by Mr. Archie Meeks and Mr. Kenneth Kleinsteuber. Mr. Stewart Goodfellow read the address and Rev. A. C. Campbell was chairman.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was eating her grapefruit diet this morning, saying to pop. I'm having the bridge game here this afternoon, William, and all 4 of us are on a reducing diet.

You'll have to be careful to deal very small hands, pop said, and ma said, I'll have to serve some refreshmint. The ideal thing would be watercress sanwitches on brown bread cut to wafer thinness, but that's exactly what Sally Jordin served, last week, and she gives herself sutch airs on being the originating instigator of everything, I'd rather die than give her the sattisfaction of thinking I was delibritly copying her. And yet I cant imagine anything elts so attractively non fattening, ma said.

How about patty of butterfly livers spread very litely between 2 small squares of cellofane? pop said, and ma said, Now William this is serious.

Oh, why didn't you say so? pop said. Well then, why dont you just serve small soft boiled eggs? he said, and ma said, But for land sakes an egg contains more nourishment to the square intch than any other known object. Eggs are notorious for their callories, she said.

You didn't let me finish, pop said. I was about to suggest serving them without spoons, he said, and ma said, Oh, if it was anybody but Sally Jordin I'd just serve thin watercress santwitches and be done with it.

Why dont you go her one better and meerly serve watercress stuck on toothpicks? pop said, and ma said, William, you've hit on the very thing.

The dooce I have, pop said, and ma said, Well, at least indirectly. I'll serve watercress on just one thin slice of brown bread, and that'll be a spread and not a sanwitch. Sally Jordin's face will be green with envy, she said.

Just give her hand a little push and her face will be green with watercress, pop said.

And he folded up his paper and left for his office.

'Escape-Proof' Jail Fails to Hold Cripple

Oklahoma City, March 8 (AP) Jailer Guy Mitchell of Oklahoma city's modern, "escape-proof" jail is discouraged.

A one-armed prisoner, 56 years old, crippled with arthritis and rehumatism and on crutches, escaped yesterday.

The prisoner stepped on an elevator and disappeared while Mitchell was taking a group of prisoners to police court.

WANNA STETHOSCOPE?

Montreal — (CP) — Montreal polic edepartment has everything from artificial limbs to ice picks, snow shovels and live turtles — all unclaimed articles, most of them left in street-cars. Horse harness, stethoscopes, typewriters, bicycles and other lost articles net the city about $2,000 at yearly auctions.
